Mr. Kisby went on to say that Canada spends larger percentage of the gross national product on health care than any other country in the world And he added that better health will only be possible when Canadians have changed their liefestyles.

"I want to make clear to the smokers I see here this evening that Participaction is not against smoking. We're not for it either — but we realize that for some of you, coughing is the only exercise you get," he said.

Basing itself on the model of YMCA community involvement and volunteer leadership. Participaction now is reaching a larger number of people than ever through advertising provided free by the media.

"I'm glad to see that in this city your proper name is the Belleville Family YMCA," he said "Planning programs that incorporate the whole family will do a lot for this country.

YMCA Programs Involve 10 Per Cent of City

"Attendance figures in the Belleville Family YMCA annual report show that over 10 percent of the city is involved with 'Y' programs," noted Ald. Wally Dever at the annual dinner-meeting of the 'Y' at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel Thursday.

"If we could only have nine other organizations who each could do as well, then our problems, expecially with young people, would be solved," he added.

The optimistic tone of Mr. Dever's speech, as he brought greetings from city council, was echoed throughout the evening by others, such as Dr. S.D. Horne, president of the YMCA.

"I see the 'Y' as a valid and vital part of the community," said Dr. Horne in his opening remarks.

Later, he drew attention to the reduction of the organization's capital debt to less than $40,000 which he hopes will have been paid off by the end of this year.

"The decrease is a milestone because this debt has been a millstone," he said. "I'd like to pay tribute to Judge J.C. Anderson and Ald. Ben Corke, who are responsible for the reduction."

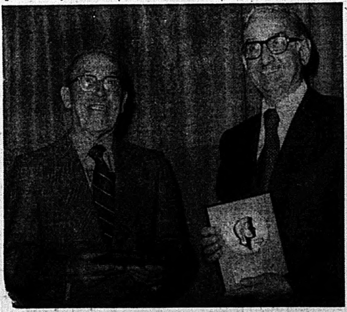
Honor was also bestowed upon two men who have been associated with the Belleville 'Y' for many years. Dr. Horne presented life memberships and plaques to Louis Marakas and Vern Weir, to mark the high esteen in which they are held by the YMCA staff, board of directors and members.

Mr. Maraskas has been a member since he was eight years old and Mr. Vern has also been active as a 'Y' member and, since 1925, of the Y's Men's Club. Both men are presently member of the advisory board.

Harry Collins, president of the Y's Men's Club, presented Dr. Horne with $500 towards removal of the capital debt.

"There's $10 there for every year we've been around," said Mr. Collins, in reference to the club's 50th anniversary this year.

Bringing greetings from the National Council of YMCA's of Canada was Rix Rogers, general secretary.



YMCA Boosters Honored

Two veteran YMCA supporters were honored Thursday night at the 'Y's annual meeting. Vern Weir and Louis Maraskas examine the plaques presented to them by Dr. S. D. Horne in commemoration of their years of service to the YMCA. They also received life memberships as tokens of esteem from the board and staff of the YMCA.

Bonspiel Champs

Jean Sisler (right) skipped her rink to a 30 point finish in the second annual Pape's Womens Bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club Thursday. Members of the championship rink are Marg Dowin, vice, (next to Sisler) Lynn Brearley, second and (far left) Orlene Lott, lead. Robert Pape was on hand to make the presentations.

Buchans Running Men's Curling Show

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Ken Buchan and cousin Bruce Buchan took on the respective roles of the victor and the spoiler during the fourth round Thursday of the Ontario men's curling championship.

Ken Buchan's London Ivanhoe rink came up the victor after defeating Doug Palmer's St. Catharines crew 12-6. The win gave Buchan sole possession of top spot in the four-day, round-robin event scheduled to end Saturday.

Bruce Buchan and his Toronto East York crew were the spoilers, upsetting previously-undefeated Ron Manning of Toronto Lambton 7-4 to force a four-way tie for second place.

After fourth-round play, Ken Buchan's rink boasts a 4-0 won-lost record. Manning, Bill Dixon of Brampton, Harry Adams of Ottawa Lansdowne and Alex Scott of Kingston Cataraqui all have 3-1 records. Palmer, Jim Currie of Pickering Annandale, Bill Martyniuk of Toronto High Park and Bruce Buchan each have 1-3 marks. Defending champion Paul Savage of Toronto Avonlea is winless.

Savage won the title in 1970, 1973 and 1974.

Today's fifth draw:

St. Catharines vs. Brampton; East York vs. Pickering; Ottawa vs. London; Lambton vs. Kingston, and High Park vs. Avonlea.

Today's sixth draw:

East York vs. High Park; London vs. Kingston; St. Catharines vs. Pickering; Ottawa vs. Avonlea, and Lambton vs. Brampton.

In other fourth-round play, Ottawa defeated High Park 11-6, Kingston edged Pickering 6-5 and Brampton dumped Avonlea 9-4.

Third-round action saw London beat High Park 7-5, Lambton edge Avonlea 7-6, Ottawa defeat Pickering 12-5, Kingston down St. Catharines 8-5 and Brampton dump East York 11-6.

The winner of the Ontario final will advance to the Canadian championship in Fredericton, March 3-8.

The two Buchans caught the fancy of the capacity crowd at the Preston Arena Thursday night—Ken, because of his lead-taking win, and Bruce, because of his first win, which turned out to be a major upset.

"I'd never seen him curl before this," the 34-year-old Ken said of his younger first cousin. "But we have been keeping in touch over the years."

"It's about time we got one!" said the 29-year-old Bruce after his win. "I felt for sure that we'd finish the tournament with at least a 50-per-cent average, but we were getting a little worried," after losses in the opening three rounds.

When asked about his upset victory, Bruce said that Manning's rink "seemed to have a little trouble with the draws."

"They were just a little off," he said. "They weren't clicking, just like us in the first three games."

"There's still a lot of tough rinks out there and every game coming up is going to get tougher," he said. "The guy that's got nothing to lose is the one we're going to have trouble with."

Two draws were to be played toay, with three scheduled for Saturday, the expected final day of the tournament. If playoffs are required, they will be played Sunday.

Miller Seven Strokes Off Oosterhuis Pace

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Johnny Miller declined Thursday to take refuge in the handy excuse of ill health and shrugged off a one-over-par 73.

"Just one of those days. One of those rounds. Everybody has 'em—even me, believe it or not."

But Miller, who went over par for only the third time this season, sitll had his sights set on his fourth victory in five starts in the Andy Williams-San Diego open golf tournament.

"I'm not out of it by any means," said the young man who has been the sensation of the pro golf tour for the last 14 months.

Miller, fighting what he called a mild case of flu, was seven strokes out of the lead after Thursday's first round.

The lead belonged to Peter Oosterhuis, a 26-year-old English import playing his first full season on the American tour.

Oosterhuis, playing in cloudy, cold and windy weather reminiscent of his homeland, had a six-under-par 66, a one-stroke advantage over John Schroeder, Artie McNickle and Mark Hayes, tied at 67.

Two other Commonwealth players—Bruce Crampton of Australia and John Lister of New Zealand—were in a group at 68 that also included Lou Graham, Phil Rodgers, Ray Floyd and Bobby Wadkins.

George Knudson of Toronto was five strokes off the pace at 71.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing.

Oosterhuis started poorly bthursday, three-putting for a bogey on his first hole. But he finished with a rush, stroking a four-iron three feet from the cup for a birdie on his 16th hole, then hit a three-wood shot to within 10 feet and made the putt for an eagle three. He birdied two other par-fives, dropped one 25-foot putt and threw a mid-iron shot only six feet from the cup for still another birdie.

Tennis Action Improves

TORONTO (CP) — Phil Dent, Cliff Drysdale, Cliff Richey and Mark Cox combined Thursday to make up for some of the three previous days of uneventful tennis action in a World Championship Tennis tournament.

Dent of Australia outlasted South African Drysdale 6-7, 7-5, 7-6 and Richey of the United States beat Cox of Great Britain 7-5, 4-6, 7-6 in two of the best matches yet in this $64,000 tournament.

In fact, many of the players who saw the two-hour Dent-Dyrsdale contest said it was the best one yet on the WCT pro tour this season.

The first and final set went to tie-breakers. The two players were so evenly matched that the final-set tie-breaker went to a 6-6 count before Drysdale dumped the ball into the net.

Dent called it "one hell of a game."

The crowd had plenty of action when the Richey-Cox cliffhanger followed immediatly after Dent's victory.

But with only a short rest, Dent turned into a loser when he teamed with fellow Aussie John Alexander in doubles play. The No. 2 seeded pair was upset 6-3, 7-6 by brothers Vijay and Anaan Amritraj of India.

Dent will face top-seeded Marty Riessen of the U.S. in the singles quarter-finals. Riessen advanced Thursday with a 6-1, 4-6, 6-2 win over Milan Holecek of West Germany.

Also advancing to the final eight was Paul Gerken with a 6-2, 6-3 win over fellow American Mike Estep.

Other second-round doubles play saw top seeds Dick Stockton and Eric Van Dillen of the U.S. beat Riessen and Tom Gorman of the U.S. 7-6, 7-6.

Women Demand Equal Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Wimbledon officials indicated Thursday they are willing to discuss equal prize money with the Women's Tennis Association.

The WTA, led by Billie Jean King, voted overwhelmingly last Thursday to bypass Wimbledon this year if tournament organizers declined to at least discuss a compromise.

Jerry Diamond, executive director of the WTA, said the cable received Thursday indicated that prize money for 1975 would not be altered but that officials were willing to talk of possible future adjustments.

Diamond said he and Mrs. King immediately responded by requesting a Feb. 26 meeting and made plans to fly to London on Feb. 25.

Prize money for the women at the All-England tennis championships equals about 70 per cent of that for the men.

The over-all purse is $261,300, with $24,000 to the men's champion and $16,800 to the women's titlist.

DAVIDSON CALLED UP

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League said Thursday they are recalling goaltender John Davidson from their Denver Spurs farm club of the Central Hockey League, where he has spent the last two weeks. Davidson, 21, performed in [illegible] games with Denver and posted a 3.86 goals-against average.

Blue Signs Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles Finley and pitcher Vida Blue agreed on a contract in old-fashioned negotiations Thursday, cancelling their scheduled afternoon trip to the arbitration table.

And the owner of the American League baseball club learned he was a winner in baseball's first arbitration case of 1975.

Pitcher Ken Holtzman asked for $112,000 in a hearing here Wednesday, but arbitrator John Hogan chose Finley's figure of $93,000, the same total Holtzman received in 1974 through an arbitration victory.

Finley had the morning off to talk with Blue and his lawyer because the case of Joe Rudi was called off when the left fielder agreed to terms Wednesday night.

Gene Tenace, another of the 13 A's who originally filed to go through baseball's year-old arbitration system, also signed Wednesday night.

There were other dropouts around the major leagues, including pitcher Pat Dobson of New York Yankees, outfielders Cesar Geronimo and George Foster of Cincinnatti Reds and pitcher Don Carrithers of Montreal Expos.

RYAN SIGNS

ANAHEIM (AP) — Strikeout king Nolan Ryan, who pitched the third no-hitter of his career and won 22 games in 1974, came to terms Thursday with California Angels, agreeing to a two-year contract calling for an estimated $125,000 a year. A club spokesman said Ryan becomes the only current Angel with a two-year contract.

Sabres Stop Guns, Beat Bruins

By THE CANAIAN PRESS

As Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr go, so go Boston Bruins. Esposito and Orr didn't do much Thursday night and the Bruins went down to a 3-1 defeat at the hands of Buffalo Sabres.

Esposito, the National Hockey League's leading scorer with 52 goals and 53 points, didn't even get a shot at Sabres goalie Gary Bromley.

Orr picked up an assist on Boston's only goal and reached the 100-point mark for the sixth consecutive season, but the superstar defenceman, who has 33 goals, managed just two shots on the Buffalo net.

"When Esposito and Orr don't get shots, you know we're in trouble," said coach on Cherry.

The second-place Bruins trail Buffalo by nine points in the Adams Division race.

"It will be very hard to catch Buffalo now," Cherry admitted.

In other NHL games, Philadelphia Flyers ended a three-game skid by beating Chicago Black Hawks 4-1 and Kansas City Scouts defeated Washington Capitals 5-1.

Rene Robert, Rick Dudley and Rick Martin got the Buffalo goals as the Sabres scored once early in each period. Bromley blanked the Bruins for almost 57 minutes but Boston's Bobby Schmautz scored when the Sabres had two men in the penalty box.

"We tried to keep the puck in their end," said Don Luce who shadowed Esposito most of the game. "You have to keep on Esposito and Orr. You can't let Esposito get going."

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith wasn't buying Cherry's virtual concession of first place to the Sabres.

"There's still a long way to go," he warned. "The Bruins aren't dead yet. They'll be heard from. But it was a big win for our kids because it shows they can win an important game when they have to.

"We did nothing special to stop Esposito except the people on the ice paid special attention and whenever Esposito got the puck someone would be near him and make him give it up."

Rick MacLeish, recently moved to Philadelphia's top line to add some scoring punch, scored the Flyers' go-ahead goal, his 20th of the season, and set up two other scores as the defending Stanley Cup champions increased their Patrick Division lead to nine points over New York Rangers.

"Can I figure out Rick MacLeish?" wondered Flyers coach Fred Shero. "I haven't been able to find a way yet. I guess when you're 23 years old and have scored as many goals as he has, you figure things come easy. The thing that really frustrates me is that he could do so much more. You wonder what you have to do. I guess it was a little shock to him to move to a different line."

Wilf Paiement scored two attack.

Kansas City leads Washington 3-0 in the season series between the two expansion clubs. The victory was the Scouts' 13th of the year while the Capitals have won only five.

Lafleur Out Indefinitely

MONREAL (CP) — Right winger Guy Lafleur, Montreal Canadiens' top scorer this season with 96 points, will be lost to the team for an indefinite period because of a fractured left index finger, a spokesman for the National Hockey League club said Thursday.

GUY LAFLEUR

X-rays showed Lafleur had suffered "a fracture of the base of the left index finger," the spokesman said, adding that the hand was placed in a cast and that there was no estimate of the time Lafleur would be lost to the team.

Lafleur collected his 96th point Wednesday night to equal a team mark held jointly by wingers Dickie Moore and Frank Mahovlich. Lafleur received an assist on the Canadiens' first goal on their way to a 2-2 tie with the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

He appeared well on his way to his first 50-goal, 100-point season, having counted 44 goals and 52 assists, only nine points off the current league leader, Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins.

But at 5:22 of the third period, Darryl Sittler slashed Lafleur across the left hand with his stick and, although referee Art Skov did not give the Toronto player a penalty on the play, Lafleur was forced out of the game.

The spokesman said it is hoped the full plaster cast can be removed and a smaller one placed on the injured finger to permit Lafleur to return in about a week.

Meanwhile, the Canadiens will recall one player from Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League. The player was to be named after the Voyageurs game Thursday night.

Petes Nip Canadians

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough Petes made a first-period goal stand up for a 1-0 win Thursday over Kingston Canadians in the only Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A game scheduled.

Play resumes tonight with the Petes in London to face the Knights, Kitchener Rangers playing host to the Canadians, Sudbury Wolves tangling with the '67s in Ottawa and Oshawa Generals and Toronto Marlboros meeting in Brantford.

The win moved the Petes back into second place, one point ahead of the idle Hamilton Fincups.

Defenceman Pete Scamurra's slap-shot goal from outside the Kingston blueline was all the Petes needed for the win. The game, the lowest scoring this season in the series, was a goaltender's battle between Jim Weaver of the Canadians and the Petes' Greg Millen.

The Peterborough rookie kicked out 29 shots to pick up his second shutout this season and drop his league-leading goals-against average to 3.53. Weaver faced 25 shots.

Each team took four penalties, including one major each.

Nordiques Pull Farther Out

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Quebec Nordiques started out on their current nine-game road trip two weeks ago, coach Jean-Guy Gendron said he wasn't concerned about his club staying in first place in the World Hockey Association's Canadian ivision.

The Nordiques coach said he'd just be happy to stay in contention for a playoff spot, and if second-place Toronto Toros managed to regain the division lead, he wasn't going to worry about.

J. C. TREMBLAY

But after eight games on the road, the Nordiques are still leading the Toros. They increased the margin over the idle Toros to six points Thursday night with a 5-3 victory over the Roadrunners at Phoenix.

In the only other WHA game Thursday, San Diego Mariners defeated Baltimore Blades 6-1.

J.C. Tremblay scored the tie-breaking goal, Serge Bernier got his 41st of the season and Michel Parizeau had a goal and three assists for the Nordiques who have a 5-3 record on the current road tour. Jeannot Gilbert and Marc Tardif also scored for Quebec.

Gene Peacosh scored two goals as San Diego climbed past idle Minnesota into third place in the West Division. It was the fifth straight home loss for the struggling Blades and their 10th in 11 games since the team was moved from Michigan to Maryland.

Rick Sentes, Andre Lacroix, Wayne Rivers and Ted Scharf also scored for the Mariners while Alton White was Baltimore's lone scorer.

"The way we are playing now I definitely like our chances of making the playoffs," said San Diego coach Harry Howell. "Another reason we are on the move is because Andre Lacroix is playing super hockey again."

Lacroix has picked up a goal or an assist in 16 straight games, equalling the WHA record.

Forsees Dream at the Wire

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Foresees Dream battled with five other rivals in the stretch Thursday before winning the featured $3,000 Ford Pace at Windsor Raceway.

Driver Randy Fulmer brought the five-year-old gelding between horses in the stretch to nip Frisco Duke by a neck with Apparition Hal another neck further back in the tight three-horse photo finish.

Foresees Dream covered the mile in 2:08 and paid $9.30, $4.20 and $4.40.

The daily double of Nor Leas Pride in the first and Might Boom in the second returned $73.80.

The fourth-race triactor of Relhom Howard, Senga Dale and Georgia Gene paid $116 with P D Abbott, Golden Fame and Tod combining in the seventh for a $745.60 triactor.

Mighty McSilk and Foresees Delight produced a ninth-race exactor of $42.30 with the combination of Prince Abbott and Bud Reed returning a $55.80 exactor payoff in the 10th.

The crowd of 4,146 wagered $400,008.

Expos Plan To Move Camp

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Montreal Expos plan to move the team's spring training camp from Daytona Beach to West Palm Beachin 1976, says John McHale, president of the National League baseball team.

But officials of Atlanta Braves—already using the sprawling West Palm Beach area—objected Thursday to sharing it with the Expos.

Braves' general manager Eddie Robinson told city officials the two teams would cause congestion and confusion.

But McHale and Robinson agreed to meet privately to try to reach an agreement before March 17 deadline imposed by the city commission. McHale told city officials that he would spend up to $250,000 for improvements in the area.

He gave no reason why he wants to move his team from Daytona Beach, where it will train this spring.

Robinson said he would agree to a proposed five-year least that would permit both clubs to use the area if the city named the Braves as the prime tenant.

Wings Edge Maroons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Roger Moy's goal at 11:39 of the final peroid broke a 4-4 tie and gave Detroit Junior Wings a 5-4 victory over Chatham Maroons in one of two Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League games Thursday night.

In the other contest, Windsor Spitfires, who already had clinched first place in league standings, downed second-place Welland Sabres 7-2.

Play resumes tonight with the Spitfires in Guelph to meet the Biltmores, Welland playing host to Chatham Maroons and Niagara Falls Flyers, entertaining the Junior Wings.

At Detroit, the two clubs entered the final period tied 4-4 after the Wings had taken a 3-0 first-period lead.

Paul Reed scored twice for the Wings with Greg Morrow and Jerry Sawchuk getting the others.

Rick Stickney, John Flynn, John Bellio and Doug Simpson replied for Chatham.

Each club managed 33 shots on goal.

In Windsor, John Tavella scored three goals, the last one his 50th of the season, to pace the Spitfires. He now trails league-leading scorer Mark Dumesnil of Niagara Falls by three points. Windsor has two games to play while the Flyers have three left.

Peter Palbiski had both goals for Welland, outshot 41-22.

Ice chips are still flying.

Baseball is just around the corner but has yet to appear on the scene.

And would you believe the Canadian Football League (CFL) which, it seems, hasn't ceased to gain a good share of the ink on the sports pages every week since last Nov. 24 and the Grey Cup Game has things planned for the 1975 campaign.

Tub thumpers for the CFL, buoyed by continuing happenings in each of the loop's cities, have managed to keep their product in front of readers of sports news with a regularity which has done them proud.

In 1975, the league will kick off its regular season with the earliest ever openers when four teams see acton on July 23.

Getting things off and booting in the east will be Grey Cup champion Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats ,while in the west, Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders hook up. Als are at Hamilton and Stampeders invade Riders' Taylor Field.

The regular season concludes Nov. 2 with Montreal at Ottawa and Winnipeg visiting Calgary.

After that, it's playoff time and unlike last season when both east and west conferences played on Sunday dates, the semi-final and final games in each section will be played on different days this time around. The exact schedule for playoffs has yet to be confirmed.

There'll be more on that when the CFL holds its annual meeting in Toronto, next week.

It's leather-popping time for all the teams long before those July 23 openers. Training camps are no picnics and then there's a pre-season schedule of 18 games beginning July 1 with Ottawa at Edmonton.

So it won't be all that long before you long-suffering Toronto Argonaut fans get a look at what new coach Russ Jackson can accomplish. Do you realize you haven't celebrated a Cup victory since Dec. 1, 1952?

SLICES — Winnipeg Jets Bobby Hull, with a minimum of fanfare, closed in on that much-discussed 50 goals in 50 games production not long ago.

The trumpets blared for weeks while Boston Bruins' Phil Esposito flirted with the possibility of equalling the mark established by Montreal Canadien star Maurice (Rocket) Richard, during the 1944-45 campaign.

Esposito didn't make it.

Perhaps the lack of publicity will work in Hull's favor. But he only has one more game (Jets at home to Houston Aeros, tonight) to accomplish the task. And he needs three goals, not an impossible feat for a man with the goal-scoring ability he has demonstrated over the years.

Man that was a short week, wasn't it?

After reporting here, Wednesday that George Ferguson would not be rejoining the Leafs for about a week, there he was the same night, playing an active role in the unpredictable Toronto club's 2-2 draw with Montreal.

Don't mind being wrong on that one. It's good to see the guy back in harness.

Whether in Canada or New Zealand, Pete Landers is some fastball pitcher. Performing with Oshawa Tony's on a New Zealand tour, Landers blanked the Otago team 2-0, Thursday, on a no-hitter. He struck out 16.

In their first game of the tour, Tony's lost 4-1 to Southland. Losing pitcher was Paul Wannamaker.

The Markham Royals picked a bad time for their first win of the season at the Memorial Arena, at least as far as the Belleville Bobcats were concerned.

With Thursday night's 7-5 victory the Royals now hold a 2-0 lead in games in the first round of the Metro Junior B playoffs. Markham can end it all for the Cats tonight in an 8:15 contest in Markham.

Despite playing one of their stronger games of late, and an outstanding performance by Steve Keech who netted three goals, the Cats couldn't contain the strong Markham club.

Even with his hat trick Keech must be one of the more disappointed Cats, with a minute remaining in regulation time and the Belleville squad down by one Keech was sent in all alone on Markham goalie Doug Cardy. Even with a good feint Cardy was up to the task, making a good stop on the local forward.

Coach Bob Boyle of the Cats felt his club played a "fair" game and blamed the erratic passing on the line up changes as the home team went with three new lines again.

"Stupid penalties is what killed us," added Boyle. Markham scored all three of their first period goals while the Cats were sitting out "stupid" penalties.

Markham opened the scoring with only a minute and 33 seconds gone in the opening frame, on a beautiful three way passing play with Bob Young finishing up with the goal. Cats' Wally Dainard was serving an elbowing penalty at the time.

Steve Keech tied the game up on a goal that had fans calling for a replay. After splitting the Royals' defence, he was tripped and during the process of falling managed to get a shot away that went between Cardy's pads.

Robbie Foster put the Cats in the lead for the first time in the series and the last time in the game, with his shot to the top corner. Markham then scored two quick goals to give them a 3-2 lead going into the second period.

Local fans had their first opportunity to see goalie Dan Porteous in his home away from home debut and as Boyle put it: "He played a hell of a game, he didn't have a chance on any of the goals."

Bill Purcell, Markham coach was still not satisfied with his defences' showing but acknowledged his forwards sparkling showing.

One thing Purcell noticed was the apparent lack of discipline on the part of some of the Bobcats. One incident cited was when Belleville defenceman Dave Taylor took a high stick from Stelio Zupanicho. When Taylor tried to pursue the matter Zupancich "did as he was supposed to" and covered up.

Taylor was assessed a 10 minute aggressor penalty nullifying the five minute high sticking charge to the Royals winger.

The Cats were forced to sit off a total of 37 minutes in penalties including a 10 minute misconduct to Dainard while the Royals served only 22 minutes.

Each team scored a pair of goals in the second period with Porteous having his busiest time, facing 11 shots most of which were from point blank range.

Defenceman Rick Langstaff back on the blue line for the locals, came up with a strong game despite his recent lay-off with a shoulder injury.

At the midway point of the final period, Doug Todd, showing a great burst of speed, got behind the Belleville defence and walked in on Porteous for the winning goal. Just 19 seconds before that Keech had again tied the game with his third goal for Belleville.

The final Markham goal came as Porteous was lifted in favor of an extra attacker. Pat Morrison put the puck into the empty net.

The winner of the tote bag, presented by John Gossan of Labatts, was Andy Ricketts, A steady performer for the Cats for the month of January.

The Brown family of RR5, Belleville, were the winners of the blue Line draw for $200.

Locals Do Well

Karate may not have the drawing power of a Metro Junior B hockey playoff game but instructor Kenzo Dozono isn't too worried about that.

Dozono is in the process of forming his own team and for the first time in the clubs history has plans for entering competitions.

On February 2, three members of the clubs advanced class made the journey to Quebec City for the Quebec Championships.

Ron Harris, Maureen MacKinnon and Ron Guay took part in the event, which attracted approximately 250 competitors from eastern Canada and the Northern United States.

MacKinnon, a grade 11 student at Belleville Collegiate placed first in the women's form division (Kata) with Guay picking up a 3rd place medal.

Both Rons have brown belts and are in their third year of Karate. MacKinnon is in her second year of instruction but already has her blue belt.

No Chance

Belleville Bobcat goalie, Dan Porteous, had no chance on this goal by Markham Royal's Gary Dillon. Dillon and Tom McLeod broke in on Porteous and Neil Turner in the second period. McLeod pulled Turner to his side and then flipped the puck across to Dillon. Turner sprawled, but couldn't reach the pass in time to block it. With Porteous and Turner both going the wrong way, the Markham marksman had the wide open net to shoot at. The Royals won the contest 7-5 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five Metro Junior B series.

Sisler Rink Wins Pape's Bonspiel

Jean Sisler put together a pair of victories and the highest points total of the day to edge Lorna Bennett, the defending champion, and win the Pape's Bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club, Thursday.

Sisler compiled a two game total point score of 30 points to earn the title. Bennett's rink came second, just two points back at 28.

Rinks were given a point for each end won in the two ten end matches. If they won their first game they were given five extra points and if they won their first and then won their second they received ten extra points.

In all, the Sisler rink won 15 of a possible 20 ends and received 15 bonus points. The championship foursome are Sisler, skip, Marg Dowin, vice, Lynn Brearley, second and Orlene Lott, lead.

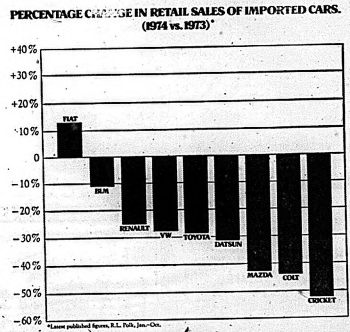
Members of the Bennett rink are Marion Aikins, vice, Sylvia Grills second, and Jean MacLean, lead.

Third place went to the Wyn Maund rink with 25 points. Bonnie Wormald was vice, Nina Gault was second and Gwen Brain was lead.

Anne Acton skipped the fourth place rink. They came up with two wins and totalled 23 points. Included in the victories were three six points ends. Acton's vice was Marie Bell, Betty Drake was second and Shirley Coe was lead.

Hettie Dyble skipped the one game high rink. Betty Caswell was lead, Marg Callahan was second and Renie Damrell was lead. They had 16 points.

The one game high runner-up went to Jessie Baber's rink. They compiled 15 points. The rink consisted of Inez Heeney at vice, Carole Laundry at second and Edna Glithero at lead.



There must be a reason.

In a year when new car sales were down 4.3%*, how do you explain Fiat dealers across Canada having the best year in their history?

How do you make sense out of the fact that while the entire import industry was down 26%, Fiat sales were up over 13%?

The explanation is not really that difficult.

Many Canadians have simply given up on big, expensive, gas-guzzling, inefficient cars. The idea of the car as a status symbol has heard its death rattle.

What Canadians have started looking for instead is practical, intelligent, sensible transportation. And that's just what we offer.

By looking above, however, you'll notice that Canadians haven't turned to everyone's small car.

You see, people don't want to give up everything for practicality. And we don't force them to.

We've found ways of offering people the advantages of big cars without the disadvantages of small ones.

Our cars don't make you feel cramped or claustrophobic. They have good acceleration. Their handling is nothing short of extraordinary.

Our cars are economical. But they're by no means Spartan. Instead of loading them down with gadgetry, we've given them things that make them perform better. Things you don't find in cars costing hundreds, even thousands of dollars more. Front-wheel drive which actually eliminates the need for snow tires. All-independent suspension for better handling and surer cornering. Power-assisted front-disc brakes.

Little by little, we're starting to see other manufacturers emulate our kind of car. A few are coming out next year. Some in 1978. But for now, if you want all of what we've got, your Fiat dealer is the only game in town. And the figures show it.

Alberta Swimmers Say Judges Biased

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A synchronized swimming duet gave Alberta its first Canada Winter Games gold medal Thursday, and then accused "some eastern judges" of bias against teams from the West.

Leslie Ringrose, 17, and Karen Heath, 18, of Edmonton won with an average of 82.4 points, almost three points ahead of silver medallists Mary-Jane Ling, 22, and Maureen Garner, 14, of Hamilton, who scored 79.6

British Columbia's Barbara Jean Arnold and Janet McCusker, both 16 and from Vancouver, captured the bronze with 79.4 points, well ahead of fourth-place Lyna and Lyne Carrier, 13-year-old twins from Quebec City, who had 72 points.

Miss Ringrose said after the event she and her partner suspected "there would be some bias against us because there were so many eastern judges."

But one judge they singled out for criticism was Betty McMichael of British Columbia who awarded them 77 points for their performance.

"The B.C. judge came into the dressing room later, and sort of apologized and tried to explain why she had given us such a low mark," Miss Ringrose said.

The second day of competition produced eight gold medals—three to B.C., two to Manitoba and one each to Quebec, Alberta and Ontario.

Quebec won its gold, second of the Games, when fencers Gerald Hubert, 24, of Montreal, Don Charest, 23, of Quebec City, and Andre Ledu, 25, of Valleyfield edge Ontario 5-4 in the deciding round of the men's foils. Quebec wound up with an 8-0 record, Ontario finished 7-1 to win the silver medal and Saskatchewan was 6-2 to win the bronze.

The individual gold in the foils went to Gerald Wall, 22, of Ottawa, who finished in a tie with Hubert at 23 wins each but won the playoff. Hubert took the silver and Charest the bronze.

The bronze medal winners from Saskatchewan were Brian Mafuta, 21, Allan Thomson, 21, and Brennan Gerfinsky, 20, all of Saskatoon.

The result was something of a disappointment to Hubert who said during the competition he wouldn't be satisfied unless Quebec won all three individual medals as well as the gold.

British Columbia captured two gold medals in speedskating and one in cross-country skiing Thursday and Manitoba picked up its two in speedskating.

The victory in synchronized swimming put Alberta into a first-place tie with Ontario in this competition which ends tonight with the team event. Each province has 22 points, followed by Quebec with 21.

The sellout crowd of 600 got into the controversy over judging as they booed Fernande Dionne of Quebec twice when her marks were posted for the Quebec and Saskatchewan duets.

They thought her marks were too high for the Carrier twins when she gave them 80 although they had slipped out of synchronization twice. And they were unhappy with the low 58 given to Jami Eistetter, 14, and Heidi Fisher, 13, of Regina, who finished eighth among the nine pairs.

Lyne Carrier had won the gold medal in the solo competition Wednesday and she and her sister would have won another medal in the duet if they had not got into difficulty during their performance.

The Alberta victory was also something of a personal triumph for Miss Heath. She had been suffering from asthma attacks prior to the event and was treated in hospital after having difficulty in practice Thursday.

Manitoba teen-agers continued to dominate the women's speedskating while a British Columbia skater proved to be the class of the men's competition.

But although Saskatchewan had only one silver medal and two bronzes, it remained on top in the combined men's and women's points race with 80. Ontario, with one gold, one silver and one bronze, was second with 73 points and Manitoba was third with 72.

Barbara Johnston, 15, of Winnipeg won her second gold medal, capturing the 500-metre race with clubmates Pat Durnin, 15, and Shawna Hicks, 13, second and third. Miss Johnston had won the 800 on Wednesday.

Miss Durnin, who had been disqualified in the 800 for missing a crossover, Wednesday, came back to win the 1,000 metres with Kathy Vogt, another 15-year-old Winnipeg teammate, second, and Patrise Hoch of Kitchener, Ont., third. Miss Vogt had won the 400.

With the women's mass-start 1,500 metres still to come, the Winnipeg contingent had captured 10 of the 12 medals so far awarded in women's speedskating.

Deep snow at Westcastle, in the mountains of southwestern Alberta, forced postponement of the Alpine skiing for the second straight day Thursday. Two feet of snow fell Tuesday and Wednesday and officials cleared everyone from the slopes to allow workmen to set charges to remove the danger of avalanches.

The driver of a snowplow suffered minor injuries when his machine was struck by an avalanche that blocked the main road into the ski resort.

Slalom events were rescheduled for today with the giant slaloms to be staged Saturday and the dual slalom competition Sunday.

The one ski event that went off as planned was the women's 10-kilometre cross-country at Castle Junction in the same area. It was won by Anita Pettersen, 23, of McBride, B.C., in 40:43.32. Second was Connie Servold, 14, of Innisfail, Alta., in 40:48.84, and third was Ida Parkes of Inuvik, the first Northwest Territories medal-winner, in 41:13.24.

Two provinces—British Columbia and Quebec—remained deadlocked with 4-0 records in the badminton team round-robin. B.C. is represented by Maureen and Ron Chen of Richmond, Blake Kennedy and Ray Stevenson of Vancouver, Brenda Lewis and Greg Paul of Nelson and Lyn Polson and Diane Sluggett of Victoria. The Quebec team has Linda Lajeunesse, Johanne Falardeau, Claire Piche, Jean-Claude Cloutier, Roger Cauchon, Helene Bilodeau, Bernard Laflamme and Gaetan Jean, all from the Quebec City area.

Ontario Rink Leads Women

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Bandaids are in short supply after six rounds of the gruelling Canada Winter Games curling competition, but Kim Clark's Sioux Lookout, Ont., women's rink isn't complaining.

Clark's steady foursome boasted a perfect 6-0 record Thursday as the 24 rinks reached the midway points in the competion which ends Saturday.

In the men's division, Terry Hall of Chilliwack, B.C., knocked Dale Duguid of Winnipeg from the ranks of the undefeated, creating a bottleneck at the top of the group. Hall, Duguid and Dave Cruickshank of Red Deer, Alta., each ended Thursday with five winds and a loss.

Bill Merklinger's Charlottetown, P.E.I. rink and Scott Grafton of Montreal were tied for second with four wins and two losses while Dave Bates of Toronto, Gord Fraser of Dartmouth, N.S., and Robin Hill of Moose Jaw, Sask., each had three winds and three defeats.

Dan Brooks of Hay River, N.W.T., was fourth with two wins in six games while Dan Crayford of Dawson City, Yukon, and Don Pennell of Saint John, N.B., had one win and five losses apiece. Joseph Butler's St. John's, Nfld., rink was winless in six starts.

Hall came back from a 9-5 deficit in the final end to score four and force an extra end against Duguid. The Manitoba skip was narrow on a takeout attempt with his final stone.

"We just kept piling stones in there in the 10th end and they just kept on missing," Hall said. "We couldn't really believe it but it sure felt good."

Anne Merklinger of Summerside, P.E.I., Joan Phillips of Calgary and Patti Vandekerkove's Winnipeg rink were tied for second in the women's division with four wins and two losses each

Five rinks shared third spot. Sandra Lusby of Amherst, N.S., Lois Henderson of Yellowknife, N.W.T., Colleen Williamson of Maple Ridge, B.C., Barb Scheirich of Saskatoon and Carol Voth of Whitehorse, Yukon, had three wins and three defeats.

Karen Sheppard's Bell Island, Nfld., rink had two wins and four losses and Ruth Germain of Dolbeau, Que., a win and five defeats. Gail Parker of Bathurst, N.B., was winless in six games.

Both lost three times Wednesday but came back Thursday and even her record.

The daily three-game schedule is particuly tiring to the women. The ice at the Lethbridge Curling Club is heavier than at Coaldale and Fort Macleod so more sweeping has led to blisters.

But Clark's rink of lead Myrna Michiell, second Lori Christensen and third Lori White was 5-1 in district playoffs and 5-0 at the Ontario Winter Games, quite an achievement considering that Michiell had never thrown a stone before joining the rink two months ago.

Consistent hitting kept them undefeated Thursday afternoon against Alberta. Whenever Phillips got doing, someone would come through with a tough shot to keep Ontario out of trouble.

Clark didn't waste any time learning the ice. She drew to the four-foot twice in the opening end and jumped into a 4-0 lead. Three times Phillips started to build big ends but on each occasion White came up with doubles.

"It's tiring, curling this much, but it's just the same for everybody," Clark said. "We've been curling well and just hope we can keep it up."

First Medal Winners

Wrestlers Welcome in Cardston

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP) — Hundreds of people from this Southern Alberta town that calls itself Canada's "Temple City" gave wrestlers competing in the Canada Winter Games Thursday one of the warmest receptions seen since the games began Tuesday night.

More than 700 people crowded the gymnasium for brief opening ceremonies and hundreds more watched various stages of the day-long wrestling competition which trimmed the bulky field of competitors to a handful in each of 10 weight divisions.

A member of the Cardston coordinating committee for the Games said wrestling has a unique status in the town, which is best known as the site of the Canadian temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Cardston High School has the only school wrestling club in the region, and one of the Alberta team members is from the club.

David Lowry, 17, of Cardston was eliminated from competition in the 154-pound weight class, but the standing-room-only crowd still gave him a standing ovation each time he wrestled.

Unlike most communities, Cardston residents follow amateur wrestling closely. One merchant, who said he had closed his store so he could watch Lowry compete, compared the town's interest to that found in most towns for professional football or hockey.

Lowry was Alberta bantam champion in 1973 and Alberta high school, junior and junior Olympic champion in 1974.

British Columbia and Ontario each had 10 wrestlers in the second day of wrestling today, while Quebec had nine and Alberta and Nova Scotia qualified eight each. Saskatchewan and Manitoba each had seven wrestlers continuing.

Newfoundland had six wrestlers still in contention while Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick had four each, the Yukon two and the northwest Territories one.

Eight Ontario wrestlers breezed through four matches without a loss Thursday, while five B.C. wrestlers went undefeated. Four Quebec grapplers won all their matches.

Most of the other qualifiers lost fewer than five "bad points" in their matches.

BRULE — Les and Joan (Waters) are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, Jennifer Lynn, at Grace Hospital, Ottawa on January 16th, 1975.

IN MEMORIAM

CARR — In loving memory of our dear Dad and Grandpa, William Carr, who passed away February 14, 1967.

Gone dear father, gone to rest,
Away from sorrow and pain.
May you rest in peace dear father,
Until we meet again.

—Sadly missed and never forgotten by daughter Barbara, son-in-law Carl and children.

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear father Bruce Young who passed away Feb. 14, 1974.

Our family circle has been broken,
A link gone from our chain,
But though we're parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again.
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day we know not when,
We shall meet in a better land,
Never to part again.

—Ever remembered by Karl, Joanne, Sherry and Shawn and Shelley.

WHITE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Hazel White who passed away February 14, 1973.

Tonight the stars are gleaming,
On a lonely silent grave,
Where sleeps in dreamless slumber,
The one we loved but could not save.
In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away.
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back,
To suffer that again.

—Sadly remembered by daughters and sons, Lena, Shirley, Carol, Charles, Fred and families.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for being so good to me while in hospital. For flowers, cards, gifts and calls in hospital and at home. Special thanks to 6th floor, Emergency and all the other departments and special thanks to Dr. Hosein. With many thanks.
Mrs. Louise Morgan,
RR. 4, Stirling, Ont.

We would like to thank our family, relatives, and friends, who attended the party in honor of our 45th wedding anniversary, and all those who participated in the money tree. Also for the many cards received. Thank you.
Fred and Blanche Garrison.

Presley Plans Tour

MEMPHIS (AP) — Singer Elvis Presley plans a 12-day tour prior to a previously-announced benefit performance May 5. Aides to the entertainer said Presley will open the tour at Macon, Ga., April 24. The itinerary also will include engagements at Atlanta, Ga., Tampa and Lakeland, Fla. It will conclude in Jackson, Miss., where Presley announced earlier he would perform to benefit victims of a recent tornado that hit McComb, Miss.

Fiddled Away

LONDON (CP) — A street violin-player in London's Kensington district had this card pinned to his coat: "I didn't live within my income. Now I am trying to live without it."

Glass-Conscious

LONDON (CP) — A brewery spokesman, somewhat patronizing, suggests that a new canned beer probably will go down well in London's racially-mixed Brixton area because "I've found black lads like drinking out of cans." But Tony Waller, a West Indian pub-keeper, says, for the record, that "They drink out of cans and bottles because they know a lot of pubs don't wash the glasses properly."

Modernization Needed

The Nova Scotia steel-making industry got its start when a small iron works was set up with a capitalization of $4,000 nearly 150 years ago in Sydney. This is a view of the Sydney Steel Corp. plant where a major modernization is needed. In background beyond the loading dock, is the heart of the steel mill — the blast furnaces (left) and the open hearth. (CP Photo)

Nova Scotia's Steel Industry

What Thirsty Irishman Harmed Juniper-eating Insect Saved

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The Nova Scotia steel industry has had its setbacks through a 150-year history.

A thirsty Irishman was one of them.

One of the first iron foundries in Nova Scotia foundered when the Irishman and his crew got into a celebrating mood one night in 1829 and left the furnace to take care of itself.

It did—forever.

In the morning, all that was left was a mass of solid metal.

Twenty years later, an insect with an appetite for juniper trees may have led directly to the development of the province's steel industry.

The bug consumed so much juniper that shipbuilding yards had to look elsewhere to make ships' "knees," traditionally shaped from wood.

Two blacksmiths started turning out iron knees and these proved so popular that an iron works was established with capitalization of $4,000.

The Nova Scotia steel industry, now centred mainly in this Cape Breton city of 33,000, traces its beginnings to that early foundry.

It has been mainly boom-and-bust since then and is doing some of both right now.

The Sydney Steel Corp. (Sysco) plant, the province's biggest single industry, is enjoying good sales but desperately needs modernization.

Sysco was formed in 1967 by the Nova Scotia government after Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. (Dosco), once a household word in Nova Scotia where it made steel, mined coal and built ships, announced it was getting out of Sydney.

Reporting losses of more than $3.5 million in the first six months of that year, Dosco said it would close the mill the following April. The mill, its tall stacks pumping grey and pink smoke into the sky for 67 years, was economically "hopeless."

The provincial corporation and its steelworkers, who quickly dubbed themselves "Sysco Kids," made the plant profitable in 1968, producing one million tons for the first time in the mill's history.

But the turn-around exacted a heavy toll from the old mill and its rehabilitation is being weighed against the possibility of a new steel industry at nearby Gabarus Bay.

The Nova Scotia industry traces its origins to the quiet countryside of the Annapolis Valley, 250 miles from Sydney.

The Annapolis Mining Co. was formed in 1825 to turn out pots and kettles from furnaces fuelled by charcoal. Faced with keen competition from England and burdened with inexperienced staff, it was closed for many years. Its last fling was in the 1870s, 30 years before the first steel was poured here.

Ironworks were established in 1850 in the Londonderry area of central Nova Scotia and by the 1870s Londonderry pig iron and bars were known in many parts of Canada. But ore deposits in the nearby Cobequid Mountains petered out and the operation was abandoned.

Cape Breton's Black Friday Was Met by Prompt Action

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The night crew at the creaking old steel mill was about half-way through its shift when two neatly-dressed men walked into an office nearly 300 miles away.

Sweating steelworkers poured white-hot metal from ladles as big as bulldozer buckets and squat little diesel locomotives hauled cars filled with scrap iron as the two men opened their briefcases in the Halifax office of the premier of Nova Scotia.

Rumors were nothing new to the steel plant on the shore of Sydney Harbor but that night they were flying like sparks from an open-hearth furnace.

There would be major lay-offs at the mill, went one piece of scuttlebutt.

They'll cut production, went another.

But no steelworker, nor the premier of Nova Scotia, was expecting the formal declaration by Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. (Dosco) that the Sydney steel mill, 68 years old and a hopeless liability in Dosco's books, would be closed within a few months.

G. I. Smith, who had only recently succeeded Robert L. Stanfield as provincial premier, expressed the shock and anger that swept across the Cape Breton steel and coal belt as the news spread.

"Corporate irresponsibility," the Progressive Conservative premier said of Dosco's decision.

Dosco was fast shrinking from the industrial behemoth that once employed more Maritimers than any other company and had so many employees that whole baseball, softball and hockey leagues operated under the company's banner.

Its iron mines deep under Bay were closing, one coal mine after another was being abandoned, a power plant was up for sale, a subsidiary mining company was only a memory following two tragic underground accidents and Dosco ships, once common in Maritime waters, were disappearing.

But the steel plant was considered by most Cape Bretoners as so crucial to the area's economy that abandonment was unthinkable.

However, the two Dosco executives who called on Mr. Smith in Halifax that night, Oct. 13, 1967—promptly dubbed Black Friday by Cape Bretoners—told him the operation was costing the company up to $500,000 a month.

Dr. Malcolm MacDonnell, president of St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, N.S., which has close ties with Cape Breton, wrote to Prime Minister Pearson that closure of the 3,200-man mill would mean the depopulation of the industrial Sydney-Glace Bay area.

The plant was not to close.

Mr. Smith formed a special cabinet committee that met day and night for more than 40 days before emerging with a plan to save the mill.

A provincial government company, Sydney Steel Corp. (Sysco), was formed to take over the mill.

The former owners volunteered to stay on the site to help Sysco personnel during a transition period but within days of the formal takeover date the last Dosco personnel disappeared.

"We're on our own," said R. B. Cameron, a hard-driving industrialist from Nova Scotia's Pictou County who was recruited by the government as Sysco president.

Mr. Cameron decided that while the long-term future of the mill clearly required a major rehabilitation program, in the short term, he wanted to see "what the old girl can do."

She did quite well.

Mr. Cameron sent his salesmen into new territory, selling rails to railroads as far away as Korea, while the plant started setting production records and turning profits.

The 1969 performance was good enough to justify the first bonus in the memory of veteran steelmakers here. But the mill began to show signs of wear.

Losses started to mount until by late 1974 they had reached $130 million while a $100-million rehabilitation program had been started.

Much work has been done and a new rail mill is turning out a product that is in great demand, but complete modernization of Henry Whitney's old mill would cost $500 million.

One-time Fishing Cove May Become Steel Town

GABARUS, N.S. (CP) — When John Hardy was born in 1895, Gull Cove was a thriving fishing village. As a boy, he used to watch a fleet of 19 whale boats, their sails rigged to twin spars, leave for the fishing ground.

The boats would come back to the village of 100 fisherfolk with good catches every night when the weather was good.

But the Gull Cove fishermen had a problem. Their harbor was unprotected and when the storms blew in from the Atlantic and buffeted Gabarus Bay their whale boats were at the mercy of the sea.

"So they started leaving Gull Cove," Mr. Hardy recalled. "I left myself after 25 years—that was 1920. A few hung on for maybe a year or two but then they all pulled up."

Gull Cove, by 1975, has vanished without a trace.

The four-mile road from the village of Gabarus has grown in and even four-wheel-drive vehicles cannot get through.

There's not even a fence post left. Most of the buildings were torn down and the rest caved in after years of abandonment.

Residents of Gabarus and other nearby villages refer to Gull Cove and Sugar Loaf Lakes and Ram's Head as the "back land."

Although there remain many unanswered questions, the "back land" may make a comeback.

The unused land stretching back from the Atlantic has been selected as a potential site for a proposed basic steel plant, with the deep, ice-free water of nearby Gabarus Bay being one of its chief assets.

The proposed 2,000-man mill would cost $1 billion and take eight years to build.

Blast furnaces, open-hearth furnaces, coke ovens and miles of railway lines would stretch out toward Gull Cove and Gabarus would no longer be a village of 200—and where the night life consists of bingo and card games.

"It would make quite a change," said Mrs. Dan A. MacDonald who owns the village grocery store.

"Most people would like it to happen, I guess. It would be good for Cape Breton and if it's good for Cape Breton then Cape Bretoners are for it. It would interfere with life as we know it, but this is 1975. You can't stop things."

Hard at Work

Rehearsals are well under way for what may be the Belleville Theatre Guild's most ambitious production. The Knight of the Burning Pestle, which plays at the Pinnacle Playhouse Mar. 5-8 and 12-15. For this production, the Guild has enlisted the services of professional director Daniel Walsh shown putting the cast through their paces. That's Maurice Sykes armed with the sword.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men have been indicted in a theatre franchise scheme in which entertainers Glenn Ford, Debbie Reynolds and the late Agnes Moorehead became unwittingly involved.

The indictments, disclosed in United States District Court, involved what authorities said was the bilking of investors of "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

A federal grand jury returned the 24-count conspiracy and fraud indictment against Joseph Kossef, 51, of Culver City, Joseph Warshauer, 51, of Glendale, and against two companies, United General Theatres Inc. and Franchise Marketing Service Inc.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jonathan Rapore said the defendants are accused of promoting and selling "minitheatre" franchises throughout the country and causing investors to be obligated to pay more than $5.4 million.

In addition, he said, there were site and lease obligations for the theatres of more than $16 million.

Rapore said the defendants, in order to promote the scheme, persuaded Ford, Miss Reynolds and Miss Moorehead to be members of a "motion picture advisory committee."

He said the committee was to insure family type films would be shown in the theatres but that the defendants were largely ignoring any recommendations from the entertainers.

The indictments also allege the defendants falsely implied the three stars were substantial stockholders in United General Theaters by prominently displaying their names and pictures in advertising.

An unspecified number of investors were persuaded to put up from $10,000 to $75,000 each, the indictment stated.

The "minitheatres" were to use good quality 16mm prints of recent films which had good box-office potential.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Stage and screen star Ann Sothern has filed a negligence suit against the Thunderbird Motor Hotel here, claiming a heavy pole that fell and hit her during a 1973 performance at the hotel ended her career.

The suit did not specify the damages sought.

Miss Sothern said she has not been able to perform since she was injured Aug. 15, 1973, when a post used to hold up scenery in the play, Everybody Loves Opal fell and hit her in the back.

Despite the injury, Miss Sothern said she finished her performance before an audience of 500 before being taken to the emergency room of a local hospital. She said also that even though she suffered pain in her back and legs, she finished the play's run.

Miss Sothern said she did not realize the extent of her injuries until she saw a doctor in California.

Since the accident, she has been lecturing and teaching.

OTTAWA (CP) — A new system to collect tax from foreign performers on their Canadian income will not apply to performances booked by Feb. 1, Revenue Minister Ron Basford said Tuesday.

He said he gave that assurance to a group of theatre managers and booking agents mainly from Toronto and New York, at a private meeting Tuesday morning. A possible compromise on how the 15-per-cent withholding tax should be collected also was discussed.

It was possible a modification would be made to new rules which require that the withholding tax on gross income be paid before the performer leaves Canada.

Theatre owners and booking agents said some performers and theatres would be hurt badly by this procedure.

Applying the 15-per-cent tax immediately would deprive some performers of ready cash needed to make their tours, they argued.

British, French and especially American performers would be affected primarily by the new procedure. Canadians performing in the United States have to pay a 30-per-cent withholding tax.

TORONTO (CP) — Princess Margaret and Paul Martin, Canada's high commissioner to Great Britain, will view the April 2 opening performance of the National Ballet of Canada's engagement in London, England, a spokesman for the company said Tuesday.

Mary Jolliffe said the performance at The Coliseum will consist of three ballets—Don Juan, Flower Festival in Genzano and Kettentanz—with Rudolf Nureyev dancing as a guest artist in the first two.

The ballet company now is performing in Toronto and will give four performances in Ottawa on March 7, 8 and 9. It will tour The Netherlands after its 10-day stay in London, Miss Jolliffe said.

LONDON (AP) — Actor Richard Burton's romance with Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia was reported "in danger" today.

British newspapers said the princess came to London alone after a quarrel with the Welsh actor in the south of France over a new girl in his life, black American model Jean Bell.

News reports said the row erupted at a party in the village of Cagnes, near Nice, held by movie director Terence Young. Miss Bell was one of the guests.

Burton 49, is working on a movei called Jackpot in the area.

The 38-year-old princess, estranged from her British banker husband Neil Balfour, would not discuss her current feelings for Burton, former husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor.

At the start of their four-month-old friendship, Burton told reporters here that he and the princess planned to marry as soon as possible.

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr said Friday he and his wife of nearly 10 years are about to break up, and then he embarked for the United States with his new American girl-friend.

The 34-year-old former Beatle said he "won't be going back" to his wife, whom he married Feb. 11, 1965. The couple has three children.

Accompanying Starr on the flight to Los Angeles was American model Nancy Andrews, 24.

Augustyn Returns to Stage After Nine-month Absence

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Augustyn, principal dancer of the National Ballet, returned to the O'Keefe Centre stage Wednesday after nearly 18 months to dance with Karen Kain in a program of contemporary ballets.

Kept out for nine months by an injured knee, the Hamilton-born gymnast has been dancing on tour during the current National Ballet, but Wednesday was his first appearance here.

He and Miss Kain, who became celebrities after winning first prize in the Moscow International Ballet competition's duet section in 1973, also will dance this season in Giselle and in The Sleeping Beauty.

The National Ballet dancing its regular spring season here this year without a guest star, gave its own talent a showcase in the three one-act ballets performed Wednesday—Gerald Arpino's Kettentanz, originally presented by the New York City Centre Joffrey Ballet; Norman Vesak's Whispers of Darkness, premiered last fall in Quebec City, and Inventions.

The latter, created by Constantin Patsalas of the National Ballet corps, is the first work by one of the company's dancers to move out of ballet workshop sessions onto the main stage.

Kettentanz is a series of 10 dances to music of Johann Strauss, Sr., and a contemporary, Johann Mayer—mostly polkas, gallops, and step dances.

Veronica Tennant, perhaps the leading lady among the National's principal dancers—though the company carefully avoids labelling as stars any of its dancers—led Whispers of Augustyn and Miss Kain.

It was the only work of the evening to have a set other than a painted and lighted backdrop—a galaxy of bent steel tubing surrounding a sun-like splash of light.

Patsalas' Inventions, danced to percussive music by Miloslav Kabelac, was an exercise in sensuous, modern ballet, heightened by splashes of vivid red and blue lights.

TO TOUR RUSSIA

The City Centre Joffrey Ballet will make a four-week tour of Russia sponsored by the U.S. state department.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Saturday, Feb. 15

Aries (March 21-April 19) This is one of those days when you'll have too many irons in the fire. None will be ready to your satisfaction.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You're very easily angered today, not so much by the immediate event but by rebuffs you recall from the past.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Don't be bashful about telling friends you can't afford to do certain things if it's true. Forget about keeping up with the Joneses.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Make an extra effort today to appreciate the other guy's point of view, or you're going to find yourself without allies.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Your attitude is such today that you tend to make things much harder for yourself than they really are. This will show up in your work.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unfortunately you cannot depend upon others today to bail you out of your problems. Don't emberrass yourself by asking.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It will seem like the only two choices available to you are bad and worse. That's why you're likely to do nothing productive at all.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you're a well-organized person, capable of giving full attention to your tasks. Not so today. Be careful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is a reminder that you're still far too impulsive in the financial department. If you must spend, do it wisely.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things aren't all that cool yet domestically. Don't rehash volatile issues unless you're spoiling for a fracas.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep a very light foot on your gas pedal if you've driving. Also remind those you may be riding with to do the same.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Your expenses will run higher than they should for frivolous actvities this weekend, unless you put a limit on what you'll spend.

APPEARS IN THE CRUCIBLE

Gale Garnett' another leading member of Stratford's Touring Company, will appear in Arthur Miller's The Crucible which joins the Avon Theatre repertory in mid-July.

In an overbidder's heaven suits always break, finesse always work and no reasonable contract is ever set.

The only trouble with this heaven is that the overbidders won't be able to find opponents. No one wants to defend unsuccessfully every time the opponents bid a game or slam.

North did not approve of South's opening bid and told him so in no uncertain terms.

South felt his opening bid was sound and wanted to know why North had to go all the way to six with only three trumps to support his partner.

In that overbidders heaven they would have bid a grand slam, the queen of clubs would move quietly from the East to the West hand and the grand slam would make.

Now to settle the North-South argument. South's opening bid was correct in any normal bidding system. Furthermore, North's bidding was sound indeed and the little slam was a good bid.

All good bids don't make. This one went down because a spade was opened and the club finesse lost.

In other words this was the sort of slam that you can't afford not to bid, since it will make well over half the time.

A — Bid seven spades. Your partner has now shown second round club control and clearly wants you to bid seven with good spades. You have good spades. Oblige him!

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding six clubs your partner has jumped to six spades over your five hearts. What do you do now?

Bad Habits Cause Constipation

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 18, has been bothered with constipation most of his life. He has been to the doctor who can find no reason for it. He drinks juices and takes laxatives.—Mrs. E.D.C.

Constipation in young people is often due to faulty habits at stool or in eating. Also, constipation is sometimes a matter of a person's improper notion of just what it is. Some folks think they are constipated if there is not a daily movement. Not so. A relative of mine had one movement a week and he lived to a ripe age with no difficulties.

Body build can be a factor. all, lean individuals may have sluggish movements.

If there is true constipation, an x-ray of the colon might show abnormality of size or a partial obstruction.

The bowel is stimulated to act by stool accumulation in the lower portions, and if the urge is not heeded, the reflex mechanism can be thrown out of kilter along with the rhythmic movement of the intestinal walls.

To maintain proper bowel rhythm, meals should be taken regularly (teenagers note) and at least three a day. The type of food is important. There should be sufficient bulk in the diet—as from fruits and vegetables.

Water is necessary to keep the bowel content moist. Juices are fine, but have no bulk, although prune juice is a pleasant, helpful laxative. Whole prunes, apples, bananas, as well as celery and lettuce and other vegetables are excellent bulk producers.

Timing is important. A glass of cold water on arising can stimulate the intestines into initiating a bowel movement, thus beginning a regular daily timetable.

Movement may be initiated by bland laxatives such as milk of magnesia, a cascara preparation, or mineral oil. Every other day is often enough and the laxatives should be discontinued when regularity is achieved.

Perhaps a commercial bulk-producing preparation can be prescribed by your son's doctor. In severe cases movement is hastened by insertion of a glycerin suppository.

Harsh laxatives, such as certain salts, tend to irritate the bowel and add to the problem. If a movement is provoked this way, it can empty the colon for two, even three days, leading to a false impression of constipation.

But be sure your son's isn't on this kind of a program.

Even at 18, your son could benefit from instruction in proper bowel habits. You are right to be concerned. If he doesn't correct this, he may have the problem the rest of his life.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor put me on fluid pills to prevent my legs and feet from swelling so badly. That was about two years ago.

He told me to drink plenty of juices, especially orange juice to prevent my body from becoming too low on potassium. What are the side effects of not having enough potassium in your system?—Mrs. L.H.

Low blood potassium levels (hypokalemia) cause muscle weakness, constipation and a drop in blood pressure, particularly when standing.

In your case, the low potassium levels may have resulted from the diuretic drugs used to reduce fluid retention in your legs and feet. Such drugs can cause a loss of potassium through the urine.

Citrus juices are a good source of potassium.

If the diuretic is correcting he fluid retention, then the juices should restore the potassium being eliminated and your balance should stabilize.

Debert Relics Date Back 10,000 Years

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Artifacts discovered on the grounds of the Canadian Forces base at nearby Debert in northern Nova Scotia have revealed one of the oldest habitations in Canada.

Brian Preston, curator of history at the Nova Scotia Museum, said the artifacts date back 10,000 to 11,000 years and were believed to have been produced by a group of 30 to 40 people who settled in the area for about 50 years.

Although the artifacts, unearthed by construction at the military camp, were recognized as far back as 1948, nothing was done about them until the 1960s.

The 3,000 to 4.000 articles, believed to be older than any others discovered in Canada, included stone scrapers, drills and hammers.

It is believed they are the legacy of Asians who came to North America by way of the Bering Strait 10,000 to 20,000 years ago. They were stone-age hunters who depended on the caribou.

Some traces of charcoal were located but no wood or bone pieces were found because the soil in the area was too acidic to preserve them.

One similar artifact has been found at Blomidon, N.S., 60 miles west of Truro.

Studies of the artifacts in Ottawa indicate the environment was quite different then. Thile the Ice Age had receded, the climate was much colder with permanent ice caps still on the high hills in the area.

There was little forest and most of the area was covered with harsh tundra vegetation.

Introduce Hovercraft

SOUTHAMPTON (CP) — A British hovercraft will be introduced on the world's highest lake in South America. But first it must be carried 500 miles over the Andes mountains. The hovercraft is for service this summer on Lake Titicaca, operating at an altitude of 12,500 feet, the lake's height above sea level. The craft's main task will be to take holidaymakers on day trips.

CP News Roundup

Session Concludes

TORONTO (CP) — Three bills received third and final reading on the last day of the fourth session of the 29th legislature Thursday.

Acts to amend the Mining Tax Act, The Condominium Act and The Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act now await royal assent.

At present, mining tax is payable at the rate of 15 per cent of the total profit of a mine where the profit exceeds $50,000 in a taxation year.

The new tax structure exempts mine profit of $100,000 or less from taxes. Mine profit from $100,000 to $1 million will be taxed at a rate of 15 per cent; profit from $1 million to $10 million at 20 per cent; and each additional $10 million profit carries an additional tax of five per cent.

Laing Dead

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator Arthur Laing, who spent more than 25 years involved in Canadian politics, died Thursday in hospital of stomach cancer at the age of 79.

Weak Beer Sold

TORONTO (CP) — A new, low-alcohol-content beer is being sold at the same price as regular beer because it costs as much to produce, Sidney Handleman, minister of consumer and commercial relations, said Thursday.

Seaway Responsible

TORONTO (CP) — Transportation Minister John Rhodes says it is he responsibility of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority to replace a bridge at Port Robinson, Ont., and he is not going to offer to bail out the authority by offering provincial funds to replace it.

Will Fly Food

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) —Pat and Terry Leonard, organizers of a $23,000 food fund, say that Air Canada today confirmed it will airlift 50 tons of Bangladesh-bound food to London, England.

Prodding Fatal

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Crown and defence lawyers will present submissions today to the judge and jury in the trial of David Haight, 37, who told the jury Thursday how he shot his wife last Oct. 29.

Haight, the main witness Thursday, testified that "I was trying to prod her from around the corner of the bar."

Volunteers Needed

TORONTO (CP) — A research project designed to find ways of preventing heart attacks needs about 40,000 more volunteers, says project director Dr. Alick Little of Toronto.

Inquiry Delayed

TORONTO (CP) — Transportation Minister John Rhodes backtracked Thursday on earlier suggestions that a provincial inquiry into the dump truck industry would begin work immediately after it became known the appointed commissioner was on holiday in Florida.

Probe Silver Plate

OTTAWA (CP) — An investigation has been started into potential lead poisoning from silver-plated dishes, the consumer affairs department said Thursday.

Talks End

OTTAWA (CP) — Treasury board officials and negotiators for federal blue-collar workers ended contract talks Thursday night without any progress reported, and a union spokesman said he is not optimistic that a settlement is near.

Service Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has appealed to farm equipment companies to improve their after-sales service and to standardize fittings on different makes of equipment.

Reserve Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada reserved decision Thursday on an appeal aimed at striking down a 1972 land law enacted by Prince Edward Island.

Loyalist Language Laboratory

Cora Munn (left), co-ordinator of Loyalist's modern language program, and Herb Young, college president, pose with the two men responsible for the installation of the college's new language laboratory — Baron McCormick, sales representative of General Distributors Ltd. which built the complex, and Georges Amyot, executive secretary for the Advisory Council on Franco-Ontarian Affairs for the ministry of colleges and universities, which suppled the grant for the construction and equipping of the complex.

Denies Men Cross U.S. Border

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Chief Albert Shennan of the Niagara regional police denied Thursday that his officers chase suspects across the border into the United States.

"I would not tolerate that kind of conduct," he said in answer of a published statement attributed to a "high-ranking officer" of his department at Niagara Falls, that "it was not uncommon" for members of the force to chase suspects into the U.S. and bring them back for questioning.

Canada's Farmers Want Stable Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — Faced with gloomy net income prospects for 1975 despite gross incomes that are expected to reach record highs for the second consecutive year, Canada's more than 300,000 farmers want some kind of income protection.

This was one of the main topics of the four-day annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, which ended Thursday. The CFA is the country's strongest farm pressure group, representing at least 90 per cent of the farmers, and its recommendations generally are listened to carefully by the various levels of government.

One of the resolutions approved at the meeting was that farmers are entitled by law to "net income and conditions of work at least equal to those conditions and incomes in society as a whole."

Statistics Canada reported Wednesday that preliminary figures show gross farm income totalled $8.43 billion in 1974, up 25 per cent over 1973's record $6.73 billion.

But at the annual agriculture outlook conference here last month, it was forecast that despite the sizeable jump in gross incomes, soaring operating costs would leave farmers with only a 1.5-per-cent increase in net incomes. This was not enough to keep pace with inflation that hit 12 per cent. Farm income predictions for this year are even grimmer.

The CFA's main concern is that without income stability, farmers will have no incentive to maintain high production. Some form of income stabilization program, with the farmers and Ottawa contributing to a central fund for use in poor years, was necessary.

The federal government already has moved to implement stabilization legislation covering a wide range of agricultural commodities, but this still is in the early stages of parliamentary consideration.

Charles Munro, a hog and dairy farmer from Embro, Ont., who was re-elected president of the CFA, sees farmer security as the key to continued production, vital if Canada is to remain a major food supplier in an increasingly-hungry world.

"Farmers' security is the key to food security," he told the delegates from all provinces.

"This was the message at our world farmers conference in Austria last spring. It is a message that must not be ignored."

Davis Puts Limit On Election Ads

TORONTO (CP) — In a surprise move Thursday, Premier William Davis announced limits to the amount political parties might spend on advertising in a provincial election campaign.

Spending ceilings of an allowable 50 cents a voter would mean each party might spend up to an estimated $2.5 million on advertising. An official of the chief electoral office estimated about five million voters would be eligible in the next provincial election.

Half that amount, according to a bill introduced in the legislature, might be spent by a party on a province-wide campaign and the remainder on campaigns within ridings.

It was the only "significant and substantive" departure from recommendations on election financing handed down last November by a three-man commission, headed by Dalton Camp, the premier said.

The commission had said there would be "great difficulties" with the reporting and enforcement of ceilings, but Commissioner Farquhar Oliver, a former Ontario Liberal Leader, in a dissenting opinion suggested their adoption.

Farm Laborers Will Receive Minimum Wage

TORONTO (CP) — Agricultural workers in Ontario will be entitled to at least a minimum wage, vacation pay and paid public holidays under amendments to the Employment Standards Act effective May 1, Labor Minister John MacBeth said Thursday.

Workers engaged in the harvesting of fruit, field vegetables and tobacco will earn the equivalent of a minimum wage of $2.40 an hour, he said.

Workers must be employed for more than three months to be covered by vacation pay provisions.

Reporter Hears MP Say Davis Blames Himself

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — A Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament says Premier William Davis told a closed meeting of MPs last week that some of the problems being experience by the Ontario Conservatives are his fault.

Dr. C. Gus Mitges, member for Grey-Simcoe, described the meeting, which took place in Ottawa, at a gathering Wednesday of the provincial Grey-Bruce Progressive Conservative Riding Association in nearby Tara.

Unaware that a Sun-Times reporter was present, Dr. Mitges, chairman of the 25-member Ontario federal caucus, said the MPs met with Premier Davis to confront him with complaints raised by riding constituents during the July federal election campaign.

"Some people said the premier has lost his humility and his contact with the people," Dr. Mitges told the Tara meeting. He said other complaints raised were that the Davis government has alienated farmers, councillors and reeves.

"The premier agreed with a lot of the complaints and did admit some faults were his own," Dr. Mitges said.

But Mr. Davis came back with some suggestions of ways to regain lost ground, the federal member said.

Dr. Mitges told the meeting party members should bring out positive things accomplished by the Conservative government in Ontario.

He also said provincial bye-lection losses by the Conservatives in Carleton and Stormont were the result of poor organization.

The MPs told the premier they were available to help organize campaigns, Dr. Mitges said.

When asked to explain his comments after the meeting, Dr. Mitges said: "I didn't know there was a reporter here or I wouldn't have said those things. . . .

"Those things I said were confidential. They weren't even included in the minutes of the meeting because it was feared the information might be leaked."

Canadians Face Lower Standards

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians face a lower standard of living brought about by "a materialistic romp of the last 30 years," a national conference on consumer issues was told Thursday.

"It's happening now to some extent," M. J. O'Grady, president of the Consumers Association of Canada, said in referring to the prospects for living standards in a slowed-down economy. "People are going to defer spending decisions this year, but I don't see a bread-line-type of inflation emerging."

Mr. O'Grady, in the opening speech to the one-day session called by the Conference Board in Canada, said consumers will have to learn to be temperate.

"The great issue will be how to become temperate, or at last, slightly less intemperate after years of aclimatizing ourselves to a lifestyle of gluttons."

About 250 delegates attended the seminar sponsored by the board, a private, non-profit organization of about 500 business and government organizations concerned with research and analysis of economic problems.

Food Price Increase May Be Short Term

TORONTO (CP) — Beryl Plumptre, chairman of the Food Prices Review Board, said Thursday there is reason to be optimistic that food prices in Canada won't continue to rise over the long run.

"The short term prospect is for continuing high rates of food price increases," she told a seminar on consumer problems sponsored by the Conference Board in Canada.

"The longer term is unclear, but there is room for optimism."

She said lowering the inflation rate and good harvests could bring an immediate drop in food prices.

"If we have positive results in both these respects, then the present rate of increase in food prices can be expected to modrate significantly as the year goes on."

She said recent figures on the consumer price index that showed the lowest increase in food prices since October, 1973 were encouraging "but should not be regarded as a trend."

Mrs. Plumptre said there were "some glimmerings of hope" that the fight against inflation is being won.

World prices for industrial commodities had declined substantially from 1974 peaks. Canadian industry selling prices in many sectors were rising less rapidly than in the first half of 1974.

Aimed At Energy

LONDON (CP) — A publicity campaign has been launched by the British government, aimed at reducing the country's energy bill by &700 million ($16.1 million) a year. It will cost &1.5 million and include television commercials which will explain the importance of energy savings and urge companies to appoint "energy managers" to get the most out of fuel. The idea is to secure a permanent change in the attitudes of the British to the use of energy and their habits of using it.

Educational TV Expanding Across Entire Province

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Educational Communications Authority (OECA) hopes to cover the entira province with educational television outlets by the 1980s.

Elwy Yost, producer of OECA programs Saturday Night at the Movies and Magic Shadows, told Belleville Kiwanians recently "our ultimate dream is to blanket Ontario entirely.".

A former OECA superintendent of regional liaison, he related at present the authority has but one ultra-high frequency station on Channel 19 in Toronto.

Portions of each day's programming are put on videotape and sent to several cable TV companies in the province for public viewing between 6-11 p.m. each evening.

"We tape five hours of our best stuff each day ... and ship these out," outlined Mr. Yost.

OECA programs are available in Belleville via cable channel five.

The Toronto development was Phase One in the OECA dream. Phase Two, to be in operation late this year, will see five additional transmitters in Kitchener, London, Chatham, Windsor and Ottawa, reaching 1.8 million additional people over the 3.5 million already served in the Toronto area.

All well and good, but how about Belleville? Mr. Yost announced a Phase Three plan to place a transmitter in Sudbury in 1976 and full service to Belleville by 1978. This requires Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) and federal cabinet approval.

"I hope by 1980, we'll be in the northern part of the province," commented Mr. Yost, a University of Toronto graduate and former high school teacher.

"We have a profound dream for the years beyond 1980," he added. "Money permitting, we'll start building up initiating stations."

Actor Stresses Theatre Value

OTTAWA. (CP) — A world-travelling English actor born partly of Spanish parentage who now is becoming a Canadian says touring theatre productions can make this country more aware of its various parts.

Edward Atienza, star of last summer's Shakespeare Festival production of King John and the coming summer's Shaw Festival production of Caesar and Cleopatra, is just completing a three-week engagement here in John Coulter's Riel, and then will be off on tour again.

He's to appear next in an Illinois University production of Goethe's Faust, and will fly to England for a combined holiday-business trip before coming back to begin rehearsals as Col. Pickering in Pygmalion in the Shaw Festival at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Touring has been a big part of Atienza's professional career, across the U.S., throughout Britain and Europe, including Poland and Russia, in the Middle and Far East, to New Zealand and twice to Australia, once last year with the Shakespeare Festival.

As to Canadian theatre, Atienza said it is still growing vigorously. The Canada Council's touring office, subsidizing travel for performing arts groups, is contributing to this.

"There should be more touring in a country as vast as this," he said. "The regional theatres are all going great guns, but the national consciousness of the theatre is only benefited by more touring.

"If we had more touring, it would knit the country together in knowing what is going on, all over the place."

The CBC's English and French television networks recently reached agreement with the Canadian Football League for rights to games coverage. The contract, unique in Canadian football, will give CBC prime telecast rights for the next three seasons. Laurent Picard, president of CBC signs on behalf of the network, with Jake Gaudaur, commissioner of the CFL, signing on behalf of the league.

Video Cassettes Keep People Home

WINNIPEG (CP) — A new Winnipeg company hopes it has provided an alternative to high-cost entertainment in clubs and cocktail lounges.

R. E. Kirk, president of Videma Ltd., says video cassette programs geared to specific audiences has attracted tremendous interest, particularly from hotel owners.

The company's program for such places as beverage rooms and cocktail lounges consists of a color television projector and a 1,200-square-inch screen.

"At the push of a button, not only live off-the-air broadcasting such as hockey and football games are available, but also prerecorded programming tailored to the particular needs of the establishment."

Mr. Kirk said some of the taped programs such as television shows and feature films are available even before the local movie house has them.

Meeting Place

Donald Henderson is the popular host of Meeting Place, a series of hour-long programs of Canadians at worship seen every Sunday morning at 11 a.m. on CBC-TV. Services originate from various churches and synagogues in Canada — from Cornerbrook to Vancouver. An innovation this year is the brief summary of church and religious news delivered by Henderson at the end of each program.

France and Germany Battle Over Rival TV Systems

PARIS (AP — All the hands-Valery; good evening, Helmut" camaraderie of French-German relations in 1975 cannot hide a conflict between the two countries.

"It's never discussed when President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and Chancellor Helmut Schmidt get together, said a Frenchman who is directly concerned. "It would be in bad taste, you know, when the official line is that everything is roses. There's tremendous money involved, of course, and no one will give an inch because they think they can get the lion's share."

The war is over the sale of France's and Germany's rival color television systems, SECAM and PAL, to parts of Europe and most of the developing world. The United States is absent from the battle because its system, NTSC, although developed first, is considered inferior.

Since there is minmum difference between SECAM and PAL—both produce lifelike color—the fight to sell the systems, sets and equipment has become political.

When French Premier Jacques Chirac went to Iran in December for talks with the Shah, high on the order of business was reported to be a discussion of SECAM's merits. The Shah tilted to the French system and the decision made banner headlines in French newspapers.

Oil Price Is Issue

Alberta Election Called for March 26

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed called a provincial general election Friday for March 26 looking for as large a renewed mandate as possible to support his Progressive Conservative government's energy policies.

Mr. Lougheed said he is looking for a new mandate before April's federal-provincial conference on oil prices at which Alberta "could well stand alone" in its desire to increase the wellhead price of oil.

His announcement came one week after the government introduced a $2.4 billion budget which cut personal income tax by 28 per cent. The budget died on the order paper as the election call dissolved the legislature.

Following a talk with Prime Minister Trudeau in Calgary Tuesday, Mr. Lougheed said he "got the impression the federal government isn't all that sure Albertans are solidly behind their government on energy issues."

The Conservatives hope for 50 seats in the 75-seat legislature, Mr. Lougheed said They now hold 49, Social Credit has 24, the New Democratic Party has one and there is one Independent member.

Social Credit Leader Werner Schmidt said he had expected the election for March or June and added his party is prepared to do battle.

The Conservatives have nominated candidates in all 75 ridings but the Social Credit party has only nominated 22, the NDP 24 and the Liberals 10.

Bob Clark, Social Credit house leader, said the government's call for a new mandate is "utter balderdash."

Mr. Clark said the election was called for March—the first winter campaign in 35 years and only the third in provincial history—because the government feared widespread labor unrest later this year.

"We'll do much better than many people think," Mr. Clark said.

On the key energy issue, Mr Clark said his party "supports the position that the government of Alberta, whoever it is, must control the development of our resources."

He said he was disappointed "the premier couldn't resist the election call until after we'd approved the reduction in personal income tax, until we'd approved the assistance for senior citizens in the budget."

Albertans, he said, must decide whether they want a legislature where there is only one voice or a variety of points of view put forward.

NDP Leader Grant Notley said it would be a "Syncrude election" and his party would attack the government's priorities for investing in the financially troubled Syncrude Canada Ltd. oil sands consortium along with the federal government, instead of using its money to help farmers or improve education.

Alberta purchased a 10-percent share of Syncrude when one of the partners in the $2-billion project, Atlantic Richfield Canada Ltd., pulled out because of escalating costs.

Liberal Leader Nick Taylor said he was surprised Mr. Lougheed termed the election "essentially a vote of confidence" in what the Conservatives had done so far.

Mr Taylor said it was "frightening to think that a premier in Confederation would ask for a blank cheque in his negotiations with the other nine provinces"

P. G. Wodehouse Dies

REMSENBERG, N.Y. (AP) — Humorist P.G. Wodehouse, smilingly at work on what would have been his 97th book, said "cheerio" to his wife of 62 years and then died at nearby Southampton Hospital after she went home Friday night. He had entered the hospital Tuesday for treatment of a skin rash. He was 93.

Julian Huxley Dead

LONDON (AP) — Sir Julian Huxley, distinguished British biologist and author, died Friday night at his London home at the age of 87. Sir Julian was the older brother of novelist Aldous Huxley, who died in 1963, and was a grandson of the Victorian biologist Thomas Huxley, a champion of Darwinism.

Ceilings Will End

TORONTO (CP) — Ceilings on school board spending likely will be removed within five years, Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell said Friday.

Land Speculation Curb Seen Adding to Housing Shortage

OTTAWA (CP) — Measures the government says will curb land speculators were labelled counter-productive by Conservative MPs Friday as the Commons droned through its 13th day of debate on the omnibus income tax bill.

Flora MacDonald and Sinclair Stevens, the Conservative housing and finance critics, said all the measures will do is drive small developers out of business, aggravating an already serious housing shortage.

A section of the 287-page bill would forbid deduction for income tax purposes of real estate tax and interest charges on undeveloped property held by developers. However, the charges could be saved up and deducted when the land is developed or sold.

Mr. Stevens (York-Simcoe) said big developers will not be hurt by the provisions because "they have sufficient other resources and sufficient write-offs to offset for many years whatever will be the tax implications of this clause."

Miss MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands) said the result would depress the housing industry further because small developers "make up about 90 per cent of the industry."

That argument received some support from Liberal Norm Cafik (Ontario) who said the provisions "will have a tendency to drive out those small developers who do not have the liquidity to be able to go through the long haul and stay in the business of building houses."

Mr. Cafik joined with the Conservative critics in saying local bylaws, which involve time-consuming approval of development proposals, are more to blame than land speculation for delays in the provision of serviced land.

Mr. Stevens, disputing comments by New Democrat John Gilbert, said "it is the bureaucracy that the NDP caucus and the Trudeau Liberal caucus love so much that is the main impediment to the development of serviced land in this country."

Passage of the measures, combined with administrative delays, would add 'between $1,500 and $2,000 to the cost of land before a house can be built on it."

Mr. Gilbert (Toronto Broadview) argued that the proposed measures are necessary because large developers, whom he said control most of the land in large urban areas, "can get away with not paying taxes because of large loopholes in existing tax laws."

He said Markborough Properties Ltd., developing large land tracts near Metropolitan Toronto, made $12.1 million in net earnings between 1966 and 1970 but "did not pay one cent in income tax to the federal and provincial governments . . ."

The clause was one of several that was put over for a later vote. Committee study by the Commons is to resume Monday with the bill expected to get final approval within two days.

Until the bill passes, personal income tax cuts it contains cannot be passed on to taxpayers.

Food Price Increases Slowing Down in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The increase in the cost of food is slowing down in the United States, but government economists say another round of bad weather could send grocery prices soaring again by the end of the year.

"Favorable weather and the expectation of large harvests could bring about a substantial slowing in food price increases by mid-year and possibly some declines late in the year," the agriculture department said Friday.

But "another year of poor growing conditions and disappointing harvests could result in even further food price increases."

The department said consumers spent a record $164.6 billion for food last year, up 14.6 per cent from 1973.

Most of the 1974 food-cost increase came because crop-related products were much more expensive. In 1973, higher prices of animal products, mainly meat, led the way.

Meanwhile, retail food prices are rising at a slower pace than the department forecast two months ago. Those now are expected to rise two to three per cent in the first quarter and perhaps another three per cent in the second, the department said.

Last December, the department said prices probably would go up three to four per cent in each of the first two quarters this year, an annual rate of 15 per cent.

Larry Summers of the department's economic research service said the new forecast represents an annual increase of 10 to 12 per cent. For all of 1974, retail food prices rose an average of 14.5 per cent from 1973, with most of the gain in the early part of the year.

Cabinet to Hear Bay Bridge Issue

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Site of the new traffic link across the Bay of Quinte may be a dominating topic for area local governments at the meeting of Ontario cabinet ministers in Belleville next week, indicates Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

"There is no doubt about it. The location of the Bay Bridge, I think, is the topic of the day in this Quinte area," said the mayor Friday night as she checked out the final draft of Belleville's official brief to the two-day meeting of resources ministers opening Monday.

Aid for industrial growth and housing also may emerge as a major regional issue, the mayor believed.

The Belleville brief, to be presented by Mayor Jeffrey, will be the first submission as the session airing Eastern Ontario local problems and proposals gets underway at the Four Seasons Hotel

The city's suggestions will be only one of about 90 briefs and letters from municipalities and local organizations to be discussed with the cabinet team, headed by Resources Development Secretary Allan Grossman.

Full details of Belleville's brief will not be known until the meeting. But the mayor, at a city council meeting last month outlined a number of issues Belleville intends emphasizing.

Among the seven topics selected for the city's submission is construction of the new Highway 14 route across the Bay of Quinte, between Prince Edward County and the Belleville-area mainland. Site of the new structure, to replace the aged Bay Bridge between the city and Rossmore, has become a developing local controversy since the project was first announced last August by Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes.

Mayor Jeffrey said the city will submit that preliminary study to select a site — which has been quoted as needing about 18 months — be accelerated. The brief will also reaffirm Belleville's stand on the project's location — that it should be "at or near" the present site.

"We're making a very simple statement on this," said the mayor, "because we feel the study will indicate the position where the bridge should be and that that planning study will also support our position on it."

Local issues aside, a probable main topic that will be emphasized to the ministers will be the need for government assistance to help Eastern Ontario municipalities open up industrial and residential sites, providing workers with housing at a "reasonable price."

The seven topics selected for the city's brief were distilled from about 30 likely recommendations discussed by city council. The selected issues "express the priorities" of council.

The recommendations include:

— Transportation: Consideration by the province of a transportation corridor for Eastern Ontario.

— Roads: Further provincial subsidies for municipal roads construction and upkeep.

— Green space development: Creation of a supervisory parks agency for the Quinte district similar to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

— Local elections: Polling times should be changed to 9 a.m.-7 p.m. from the present 11 a.m.-8 p.m.

Mayor Jeffrey said she's enthusiastic about the contact the conference will provide between senior government and local representatives and organizations in Eastern Ontario.

"I know as the head of a municipality it is very difficult for me to meet with the minister who makes the decision after I've met with the civil servant under the minister," she said. "So to be able to meet those cabinet ministers at one time is a real success story."

The cabinet team, earlier announced, accompanying Mr. Grossman consists of William Stewart, agriculture and food; Leo Bernier, natural resources; Jack McNie, minister without portfolio; Claude Bennett, industry and tourism; Dennis Timbrell, energy; William Newman, environment; John Rhodes, transportation, and John MacBeth, labor.

The Law On Ice

The law went on ice Friday as city police — including Constable Daryl Wagar — tried out driving conditions on solid ice on Bay of Quinte. The trial run tested the area which will be used by Quinte Auto Sports Club Sunday in driving trials in which all area motorists are invited to test skills Sunday.

Sunday Rally Planned on Bay

Quinte Auto Sports Club Sponsors Driving Test

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

There could be some warm competition along the frigid winterbound Belleville Bay of Quinte shoreline Sunday.

City-area motorists are being offered the opportunity to test their driving skills on one of the most treacherous surfaces conceivably — clear, solid ice.

The challenge is a venture of the Quinte Auto Sports Club, a group of automobile enthusiasts first founded in the area in 1969.

In co-operation with the city's police department, what the club proposes Sunday afternoon is this:

Motorists may test their skills behind the wheel by driving an ice pad cleared on the Bay immediately south of Belleville General Hospital.

Rubber obstacle pylons have been up along the course to simulate street driving patterns — including turns and stops.

To stimulate interest, says club president Derek Payne, a prize will be given the motorist who successfully completes the course in the safest, shortest time — in other words without hitting any obstacles.

Parks board employees cleared snow from an area 300 feet long by 50 feet wide to create the driving pad.

It provides what Mr. Payne describes as among the "most treacherous" of driving surfaces.

The challenge will also show drivers what happens when motoring on ice under conditions that call for the utmost control, said Insp. Ralph Blatchford of the city police.

"It's an excellent opportunity for people to see what their car will do on ice — and what their own reactions are," said the inspector.

The club suggested the venture to the police department some time ago, but it was deferred because of warmer-than-usual winter weather.

Friday, Sgt. Bob Hall, police safety officer with the department's community services branch, laid out the patterns of the pylons while police vehicles tested the pad.

Sgt. Hall estimated the ice then was at least two feet thick.

Registrations start at noon with the first test around 1 p.m. There is a $2 registration fee to cover insurance costs, said Mr. Payne.

Picton PUC Office Getting Pay Raise

PICTON — The office and management staff of the Picton public utilities commission will receive a salary increase of about nine per cent says PUC chairman Chris Lockyer.

He stated this week the agreement affects only the non-union employees of the PUC. Other staff members belong to CUPE (Canadian Union of Public Employees).

The office manager, office personnel, the electrical foreman and the water foreman are among those receiving the raise.

Union employees have a two-year contract that will be open for negotiation in November, 1975. The Picton PUC has seven union members in the water works department and four in the electrical department.

No new benefits are included with the increase to be received by management.

Town Seeking Sign At Wooler Interchange

PICTON — The town of Picton has requested new signing at the Wooler Road Interchange to direct eastbound traffic here but permission is needed from Northumberland County for routing of traffic over the county road.

Transport minister John Rhodes this week told the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce: "This is fine with us" but emphasized the need for approval from Northumberland.

Mr. Rhodes observed Prince Edward County also would like to advertise its services through use of signs on the 41.

"As a service to motorists, however, we have made it a policy not to allow signs of this type on our freeways unless the service is available within three miles of an interchange," he said.

The transport minister suggested the area should be promoted instead through optimum use of the Ontario government tourist booths located in the service centres on the 41. Each should be provided with as much literature as possible on Prince Edward County.

He added his ministry is involved "in an ongoing program" to consolidate highway signs using symbols wherever possible, and making more signs bilingual.

PROCLAMATION

Ontario Heart Foundation Week

This is "Heart Foundation Week". During the week of February 16th to 23rd, 1975, the Belleville Chapter of the Ontario Heart Foundation will launch an appeal for funds.

The rate of progress towards the elimination of heart attacks and strokes depends on the funds available to underwrite the qualified and dedicated people who undertake this work in our university hospitals. In Ontario, your Heart Foundation has been asked to support over a million and a quarter dollars in grant-in-aid and fellowships.

Therefore, by the virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Belleville, I do hereby proclaim the week of February 16th to 23rd, 1976, as —

"ONTARIO HEART FOUNDATION WEEK"

February 15, 1975

ROBIN JEFFREY,
MAYOR.

Official Warns of Early Use of Field Fertilizer

Many farmers, anxious to be out in the fields again, begin to spread nitrogen on their winter wheat about this time. But C. K Stevenson, soils and fertilizers specialist at the Ridgetown College of Agricultural Technology, warns against applying the fertilizer too early.

"Because the ground is frozen, the nitrogen just sits on the soil surface until it is washed into low spots or drainage ditches by rain or melted snow. In the spring, the farmer frequently finds there is too little nitrogen on his field's high spots and too much on the low ground."

To get the most benefit from nitrogen on winter wheat, spread it from mid-March to mid-April. Applied during the mornings when fields are still hard, it can be absorbed into partially thawed ground during warm afternoons. "This way, there is less chance of rain washing the nitrogen away before it moves into the soil," Mr. Stevenson says.

Although premature nitrogen application is wasteful, it does not pay to delay application until after mid-April either. Between then and mid-May, winter wheat starts to grow but the ground is usually too wet for field work. If the nitrogen is not on winter wheat by mid-April, it usually cannot be applied until after growth has begun, by which time the opportunity for it to be of most benefit has passed.

Foal Loss Controllable

Many horsemen think abortion among mares is frequently caused by physical injury, but according to Dr. J. N. Henry, veterinary pathologist with the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food Guelph veterinary services laboratory, this is not true.

"It is unusual for a horse to abort because of injury," he says, "and it only happens when it is obvious the mare is badly hurt. Usually, unborn foals are too well protected by fluid to be injured by anything short of a serious accident."

Most abortions are caused by infectious agents, such as equine viral rhinopneumonitis and certain bacteria, or such factors as twinning, hormonal deficiencies, and congenital defects.

Secure Pool Site Before Finances

By MARG HAYLOCK

Staff Reporter

PICTON — Cart-before-the-horse-of-the-year award should go to the Prince Edward County swimming pool committee for a backwards presentation of its project.

The pool, scheduled for completion in June, 1975, was mentioned to Prince Edward County council in December, 1974, as members of the steering committee outlined their plans for a dream come true.

Location of the pool was to be at the county fairgrounds in Picton and a flyer was distributed stating that the community facility would be installed there.

At the January ,1975, session of Prince Edward County council, newly elected warden Clifford Walker voiced support for the project and asked what better site for it than on county-owned property.

It was all systems go until the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society held on January 31, 1975.

Members of the fairboard opposed location of a pool on the fairgrounds and decided to forward their opinions to county council.

Suddenly, the swimming pool committee was a project without a fully approved location.

Pool Week scheduled for February was postponed after a meeting of the service clubs and organizations behind the pool fund drive.

The pool committee continues an energetic fund drive but no other location for the pool has been announced as an acceptable alternative should the fairgrounds definitely become off-limits.

If community residents are expected to offer financial support to the pool these donors are entitled to know where the pool will be built.

In its enthusiasm to make the pool a reality in '75, the project organizers should not charge straight through other groups without a "by your leave".

Why didn't the pool committee wait until after the Prince Edward Agricultural Society had met and expressed its opinion before sending out flyers advertising the fairgrounds as the pool site? Why not seek public opinion on a location as well as public financial support?

The fairgrounds already is headquarters for the County Centre, The Prince Edward Curling Club, lighted softball diamonds, a race track used for training purposes and, of course, the three-day Prince Edward County fall held each September.

This property's potential has been gradually developed through the years, and additional facilities at this point could make the fairgrounds a patchwork of incompatible activities.

The Prince Edward community swimming pool's supporters deserve a great deal of credit for the enthusiasm they have displayed and for the work they have accomplished toward realization of a much-discussed project.

It does not seem sound business, however, to focus primarily on a fund drive until a suitable location is found.

Surely, step one is a place to put the pool, not collection of funds for a pool that has no where to be installed.

4-H Leaders

The Hastings County 4-H Leaders Association held their annual meeting in Madoc this week. A new executive took office consisting of, left to right, Kirk Carleton, RR2, Frankford, vice-president, Marilyn Harry, RR5, Trenton, secretary; Neal Reavie, Flinton, past-president and Everett Barrons, RR1, Madoc, president. It was announced that a new system of one-day lessons for projects would come into effect over the next two years.

Smoking in Council Remains Hot Topic

By AL ZABAS

Staff Reporter

After the smoke had cleared this week, town council still had not okayed a move by councillor Robert Wannamaker to ban cigarette smoking in chambers.

He promised he would bring the matter up again when he originally asked for the ban several weeks ago. He did this week and was shot down stumped on a technicality in the town's procedural bylaw.

Picture it: With determination Mr. Wannamaker pulls out papers from his jacket pocket. In return, as if duelling, Mayor Robert Patrick pulls out a raft of papers from his desk. Both men slap them down and the mayor passes judgement: No sir, you can't introduce your motion again, the bylaw prohibits it.

Mr. Wannamaker is adamant: We'll have the bylaw changed. The mayor suggests a notice of motion be tabled for consideration at the next council meeting. It was done.

The duel was heated. More fire and smoke was seen in council chambers over the ban-smoking drive by Mr. Wannamaker, and supported by councillor George Greer, than during any other portion of the 2½ hours.

It just goes to show you, as the saying goes.

No longer are we smokers going to be allowed to be the sole victims of our stupidity, our disregard for our health, our habit of dropping ashes and lit butts on carpeted floors. We are now accountable to the non-smokers. (I smoke, by the way.)

Now, various health authorities indicate those who do not smoke, but must bear the blue clouds from burning tobacco, can suffer the damage we so willingly (or unwillingly, as may be the case) inflict upon ourselves.

The debate over whether the councillor could bring his motion to the floor again after the previous defeat in a tied vote was unusual. One councillor left the chamber 'for the bathroom,' registering disgust with Wannamaker's stand. Another called the mayor to call for order. Very unbecoming behaviour for councillors, even though it may be understandable.

Could this councillor be caught up in the movement currently afoot to give non-smokers their rights to not be subjected to the habit of smokers.

To be equitable to both sides is difficult in this situation. But perhaps there is a solution.

An area could be set aside solely for smokers. Perhaps councillors who smoke can sit on one side of the chamber and non-smokers on the other. Perhaps fans could be used to draw the smoke away, or a partition of clear plastic erected.

Or, if that is not possible, smokers could do as a friend of mine once did. He bought a length of rubber hose. One end he reserved for his mouth. The other end he placed outside a window. When he lit up, he'd blow the fumes into the hose and thus, out the window. An interesting solution?

Gardening Column

Grow 240 Plants On Table Top

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

If you're considering getting into the art of indoor light gardening you'll probably find your biggest problem is in making the plunge. Perhaps I can overcome your trepidations by telling you that if you do jump in, you'll find the opening up of a whole new world, a micro gardening universe with enjoyments and experiences that just can't be matched in the world of outdoor gardening.

Or perhaps I entice you by telling you that you need nothing more than a table top in the corner of the basement with a double-tubed, fluorescent fixture, chain suspended from the rafters. And with that set-up you can grow your choice of: 240 annual bedding plants, 128 geraniums or tomato plants in 3 inch pots, or 72 tuberous begonias in four inch pots. Or anything else you might like to grow in fibre containers or three or four inch pots.

And if you wish to build a simple four-tiered growing set-up in your basement such as we'll describe below, you can quadruple your production — all in an area that occupies a floor space of four feet long and two feet wide. Not that you have to confine your light gardening activities to the basement, or to the growing of annuals and vegetables.

In fact, one of the joys of indoor light gardening is the flexibility of its application. You can grow anywhere near a power source, where you have two parallel surfaces, from one to three feet apart, with one to support your plant material and the other to hold your fluorescent fixture. Such as: a coffee table with a shelf, a room divider, a bookcase, a cupboard or closet, a wide north window, even a discarded aquarium, or wherever else your imagination leads you. Or you can purchase a 3 or 4 tier commercial unit complete with frame, fixtures and shelves. And with any of these set-ups, you can glorify a room with a garden of African Violets, Begonias, or any of a wide variety of flowering or foliage plants.

But now, back to the basement and the four-tiered garden. First, have a four by eight sheet of ¾ inch plywood cut into four two by four foot rectangles. Edge these with one by two's and your growing shelves are ready.

Now, prepare to nail four two by four's upright between the rafters and the floor to form a free standing frame about 4' 2" long and 2' 2" wide. But before you nail them in place, lay them flat and screw angle brackets at two foot intervals, top to bottom, securing them to the surfaces that will face along the length of your frame. These brackets will hold your shelves. And the top three shelves will hold fluorescent fixtures attached by "S" hooks, chains and cup hooks. Attach the top fixture to the rafters and your elementary unit is complete, except for electrical power and plants.

One last tip, if your free standing two by four frame is standing too freely, a little cross bracing top and bottom and a few shingle shims or halves of wooden clothes pegs wedged between the bottom of the two by four and the floor will do wonders in firming it up.

And that is your basic set-up which you can supplement or improvise on any way you wish. Such as adding poultry timers so your lights go on or off automatically. Or galvanized trays to fit your wooden shelves to make watering easier. The only thing I'd suggest you not improvise on is the wiring. Call an electrician and have it done properly.

Picton Residents Polled:

Where Should the New Community Pool Go?

By MARG HAYLOCK

Staff Reporter

PICTON —A Fund drive for a community swimming pool is underway in Prince Edward County but final location of the half Olympic-size pool remains undecided.

An informal poll among county residents this week shows diversity of opinion regarding the best site for the $120,000 pool. The pool committee favors installation of the pool at the Prince Edward County fairgrounds in Picton.

Picton real estate agent Albert Piroth sayd the town's old Regent Theatre, closed about a year ago, would be "ideal in all respects" to house the pool.

"It's centrally located and there is parking available on Mary Street (behind the theatre).

Mr. Piroth says he has toured the building with an engineer who supported his views.

He notes a pre-fab pool could be installed without disturbing the main structure of the theatre or its existing tenants.

Philip Dodds, a director of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society says the pool should not be located at the county fairgrounds as this location is "too residential".

"It is already overpopulated as a recreation centre," he comments.

Mr. Dodds says the pool is eligible for grants as long as it is located on municipally-owned property, not necessarily county-owned land.

"I think it's a laugh — all the objections to certain sites," he adds.

Mr. Dodds says he feels the possibility of location of the pool at the Angus LeHeup Delhi Athletic Field should be investigated more thoroughly.

Picton merchant Jesse Mason is enthusiastic about the pool project but feels choice of location is "the basic thing" organizers of the fund drive must decide.

"I would suggest it at Benson Park. It's very central with plenty of room," says Mr. Mason, discussing the best pool site.

Picton tax accountant Ted Rose says as a newcomer to Prince Edward he cannot readily suggest possible pool sites but he definitely feels a pool should not be built at the fairgrounds.

"It's shrinking away now," comments Mr. Rose.

"It would be a shame if other facilities there were lost when there are other acreas available in town for a pool."

Linda Cooper, a secretary-receptionist, says she favors a pool on the vacant property owned by the Public Utilities Commission at Queen and Elizabeth Streets.

"It's central," she observes.

Picton photogrpaher Lloyd Thompson says the fairgrounds is not a suitable location for a pool because of the potential vandalism there.

He suggests Benson Park because it is a central location and supervision can be closer.

"The fairgrounds is out of the way for many," he adds.

Apple Pie Bomb

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A pink box was sitting in the corner of a window in a building in San Francisco's financial district. Someone decided it might be a bomb. Police sealed off the street and an army bomb disposal squad eyed the box, measured it, listened to it with a stethoscope, tugged at it and declared it of no interest. Definitely no bomb. Reporters moved in, cautiously opened the side of the little pink box and found an apple pie.

Dr. McLeod's Project

Former United Church Moderator Very Rev. Bruce McLeod's plans for a year in Costa Rica, giving practical effect to his own urging of Canadians to assist the underdeveloped countries of the Third World, evokes admiration and perhaps a little envy.

When we think of Costa Rica and Central America in general we think of bananas, but that is something of a disdainful connotation summed up in the title "banana republic."

There is more to Costa Rica than that, including coffee, sugar, cocoa, beef, cotton, fish and hemp, as well as the forestry industry and mining and a growing diversification of other small industries.

We recall reading that the wife of the country's president is a Canadian beauty from Ottawa who met her lawyer husband while they were both studying at McGill University, and that she is active in helping the small farmers of her adopted land. Indeed Costa Rica is one of the more affluent lands in that part of the so-called Third World.

However, as we also learn from the report of Dr. McLeod's plans — he leaves with his wife and family at the end of June — there are 10,000 abandoned children in the country. He will work in a mostly Canadian-funded project to create a village for the youngsters — an initiative resembling closely the SOS-Kinderdorf homes established by Hermann Gmeiner of Austria in various parts of the world.

Dr. McLeod may also owe some of the inspiration for his undertaking to Cardinal Leger who left a position of eminence in the Roman Catholic church in Montreal, to work in Africa. There is much of the same spirit of service and laboring with the hands in what [illegible] is planning in Central America.

'Cultural' Handouts

The Canada Council is a very liberal institution — liberal that is with the taxpayers' money, and catholic in its concern that every little "cultural" enterprise — however obscure or bizarre — should have its day.

Remember the group in Vancouver that got a grant some years ago to demolish a piano with axes.

The latest crop does rather better, putting money into more positive channels. Such as the $4,000 to Roderick Malay of Montreal, to study the psychological effects of the increase of grey high-rise structures in the urban environment. This has been a subject of discussion in recent years, little of it pointing to high-rise as a desirable mode of living for adults, and least of all for children. Mr. Malay's finding will be of interest in this context. Let's hope they are made available to the general public, for it is one thing to hear of the Council's beneficence to these people and groups, another to learn of the fruits of their labors courtesy of the public purse.

Here's one that is harmless enough but will strike many as being of questionable value — the kind of information in fact which anyone might just as well uncover by writing to newspapers and enlisting citizens' aid. It is the $5,000 granted Kevin Gillis of Chesterville, Ont., to study the role of the harmonica in the social culture of each region in Canada.

As they say these days, it's "mind-blowing," a scattering of John Citizen dollars when they might be used to much better purpose. It's the kind of thing that gives rise to questioning of Canada Council motives, and whether or not its members are really aware of the stark realities of the world outside Ottawa. Say on some of our Indian reservations, or in those parts of the world where people are starving. But then that is another story.

Sen. Muriel Fergusson Speaks Up Too

Former Civil Servant May Give Pensioners More Clout

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — In Parliament, with the Commons and Senate alike, and out of Parliament, too, things may be starting to move not only to help pensioners, but to help them help themselves.

Active in the Senate is former Speaker Muriel McQueen Fergusson, preaching the gospel that if the two million Canadians now over 65 years of age could only get together, they would form a powerful bloc of votes with political clout enough to influence legislation.

Busy in the Commons, among other parliamentarians, are Victoria Conservative MPs Allan McKinnon and Donald Munro, pleading for some social justice for old age pensioners through fair and reasonable tax concessions.

At work just beyond the fringe of Parliament, in the midtown Ottawa office of the Senior Citizens Council, is its new president Walter J. Turnbull, the long-time chief secretary — in those days a sort of combined executive assistant and deputy minister — to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Walter Turnbull's credentials for dealing with the federal government are even more impressive than those of a former Prime Ministerial Man-Friday, for in his long years with the federal establishment he was also Deputy Postmaster General.

So he knows all the ins and the outs, the ifs and the buts, and the ducking and dodging of government and its bureaucracy.

And he is putting this unique inside knowledge to work on an idea.

It is his plan — and he is working on it through the National Pensioners and Senior Citizens Association — that this organization, gathering membership strength and political power, meet the federal cabinet.

"Just like," he says, "The Canadian Chamber of Commerce does, or the Canadian Labor Congress, the National Council of Women, or the Canadian Manufacturers' Association."

But how, when right now the representatives of the pensioners can't even get 10 uninterrupted minutes, he laments, with Health Minister Marc Lalonde? . .

"We've got to get organized," he says, "and as a recognized and influential national organization, meet the Cabinet and submit our proposals.

"I know senior citizens are the last people who can afford membership dues.

"So I am proposing that as a national organization we ask the government to add, say $3 a year to each pension cheque, to finance our association.

"The $3 could be deducted at the source — we'd never miss it that way — and the lump sum paid the organization so we could hire lawyers and other professionals to safeguard our rights and prevent the ripoff of inflation.

"We'll need the help of every pensioner — and it won't cost them personally a cent — and we all would benefit."

That way, he says, pensioners, nationally organized, could be an influential force.

"The way it is now," he says, "fragmented, we get nowhere.

"If a group does manage to get in to see, say Marc Lalonde, I know from my years in the federal establishment, how it works.

"The Minister, after five minutes, looks at his watch with contrived nervousness, and his executive assistant, by pre-arrangement, knocks and tiptoes in to remind him he's due at a cabinet meeting, or the Prime Minister wants to see him, or he's got to rush if he's to catch that plane.

"It's all a put-on — or more correctly, put-off — and it's the end of the interview."

But no minister — not even the full cabinet — dares do that to the Canadian Labor Congress or the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

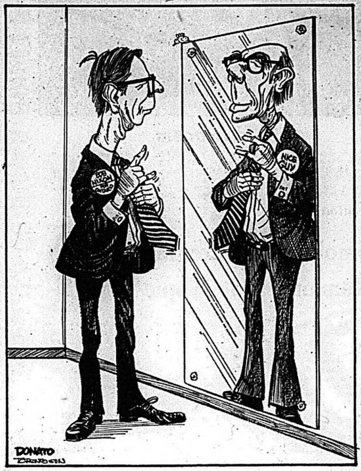
"And they wouldn't dare do it with us if we were properly organized and met the Cabinet, like any other national group, as a strong Canada-wide association," says Walter Turnbull.

First objective — after national organization of course — believes MacKenzie King's former "right hand man," is to put pensioners out front, instead of behind, inflation.

"As it is," he says, "we're always catching up, months too late. Pension adjustments must be made in advance in carefully calculated anticipation of the continuing cost of inflation."

He is at work with the National Pensioners and Senior Citizens Association on his proposition for a "real, properly financed and powerful organization" busy both on and off Parliament Hill.

Those interested — "and I need, we all need, all the help that realistic organization can give us," he says — should drop him a line. The address: Walter Turnbull, president, Senior Citizens Council, 71 Bank Street, Ottawa.



Liberals Oil the Party Machine

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Although the Liberals are holding back on their party platform until an election is actually announced organizationally they are getting their machine in high gear.

An Oakville business man, Bob Blake, a personal friend of Bob Nixon and unsuccessful candidate in the 1971 election, is campaign co-ordinator for the next election and he already has an active organization at work.

Blake himself is from reports taking a very pragmatic view of the election.

He expects to have $5 million to spend but is in no hurry to start passing it out.

So far there are few Liberal candidates actually nominated and in the field.

This is intentional.

Word went out to riding associations some time ago to be ready to put their candidates in the field but not to be in any hurry to actually nominate them.

The central organization doesn't want the image of its individual candidates fading before the campaign has even started.

At this stage it appears that the Liberal campaign will be the best organized that the party has run in years.

Mr. Blake has been making practical assessments and preparing his troops accordingly.

As he anticipates it, Premier Davis won't be giving much notice of the election.

He foresees only the 37 days notice required by law.

And on the basis of this he looks forward to a short, hard campaign.

He talks in terms of spending two weeks getting the final organizational details in shape and then a hard-hitting three week crusade throughout the province.

The main issue in the campaign, according to present plans, would be Premier Davis himself.

And the big attack would be centred on southwestern and Northern Ontario.

The party has tended to dismiss eastern Ontario as being too rich a stamping ground for the Conservatives.

However there undoubtedly has been some rethinking of this since the Carleton East by-election win and more effort than had been planned could be put into certain eastern ridings.

Is the Western World Getting Its Just Deserts from Arabs?

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

TORONTO — You might say the huge increases in oil prices which began in late 1973 are sweet vengeance on the West from socities we frankly held in contempt.

The oil price increases take place through OPEC (Organization Petroleum Exporting Countries) dominated by Arab oil states, but founded by the former oil minister of a Latin American one.

Suddenly the Arabs are moving in with our billions to buy out Western banks, aircraft companies, steel mills, real estate.

And though OPEC has been around since 1960, ignored by most in the West, downgraded by the international diplomats as an unreal power group in the Arab world, it now is the world agency which more than any other, is affecting our lives.

Whether we like it or not, and most of us do not, Islam has made a new conquest in the "Christian West." The religion whose founder said must be, "contemplative and not create miracles," has created one in the economic sense for modern Arab cultures.

In a way, we deserve to suffer and to pay, so arrogant was our view of Islamic society, the same one which preserved the scholarship of Greece and Rome when Western Europe was barbaric and unlettered, then passed it on to us.

And in our own time, we preferred to ignore the changes in Islamic societies, the rise of its managerial class though trained in the West, the sophisticated differences between countries from backward and religiously severe Saudi-Arabia to the elite business and banking communities of urbane Beirut, capital of Lebanon.

OPEC was founded not by Arabs, but by a whispy and still-active Venezuelan nationalist Juan Pablo Perez Alfonso. He lives in quiet retirement on a hidden hillside home in Caracas. He still recalls the James Bond-style secrecy with which OPEC was founded in 1960 for fear of being found out by "oil company spies!" when he was Venezuela's Hydrocarbons minister.

And today we in Canada take cognizance of Venezuela as our fellow oil-producing democracy across the Caribbean and which has seen two visits in fewer than two years from worried Energy Minister Donald Macdonald.

Where the Arabs remind us of one of the world's great cultures which we in the West had ignored, Venezuela reminds us of individual countries in the so-called Third World we have also ignored, in spite of the fact they have had developmental problems like our own.

These high-level observations aren't going to reduce the price at the pump you pay for oil, a price which could be hiked even higher if the OPEC member countries decide jointly to increase it at the wellhead.

But the oil crisis has done more than our many wars since the end of the really big one in 1945 to open our eyes to fellow mankind.

OPEC's member states are mainly in the Persian Gulf region but not entirely. Among the Arab oil producers in the 11-nation body, we also find Venezuela and Ecuador in Latin America, Nigeria in Africa (the world's seventh largest oil producer), Indonesia in Asia.

Now the grim side in these intellectual observations about OPEC is that it is a cartel, pure and simple, over which sovereign but non-member states like Canada have no control. We can't move out the gunboats to stop price hikes.

Often we cannot bargain over them, since the Arab oil bureaucrats and bernoosed oil ministers of the Persian Gulf kingdoms meet privately in Vienna (their favorite venue) to hike prices, make joint decisions about the early nationalization of U.S, British and European-owned oil industries in their desert domains.

The OPEC nation members insist they are now obtaining realistic prices for the commodity which lubricates the industrialized West and whose price increases since the 1950s had moved hardly at all.

The next jolt in the Third World's move to cartels will be OPEC-type meetings of the underdeveloped nations producing other commodities we need like bauxit, sugar, copper, the list could be very long.

In March, 1974, the world's bauxite producers, such distant nations as Jamaica, Guyana and the neo-Marxist Republic of Guinea, met in Kingston, Jamaica to thrash out an OPEC-style organization for fixing bauxite prices.

But so far OPEC alternates haven't made it like OPEC itself because their commodities can be substituted for others or even re-cycled.

With petroleum, neither of these prospects is possible. In fact a further dramatic irony in the energy crisis is that we are paying out so much to the Arab sheiks, there isn't enough easn left in our financial system either through borrowings or taxes, to finish the many nuclear power plants in the U.S., Canada and Western Europe.

Nuclear power was supposed to be our substitute when the oil ran out. We didn't really care what happened to the oil-producing nations when that happened, only that we would be covered by our own nuclear power.

Well, we won't be. Oil is here to stay, certainly until the end of this century. We must learn to love the Arabs more. Anyone for Arabic?

Cost of Living in the Seventies As Viewed by Belleville Doctor

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Thank you for your editorial comment regarding 'Modest Claim' (by doctors) in tonight's Intelligencer.

The Quinte doctors have noted the approval of most newspaper of their restraint in accepting a 4 per cent annual increase in fees for 1975. Your comparison with the Cabinet Ministers voluntary pay reduction of 5 per cent was, however, inappropriate.

The historical facts are these: In February 1974, after prolonged negotiations, the Government in the last hours of a two-day annual conference, offered a 7.75 per cent increase for 1974 and 4 per cent for 1975, as a take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum. The doctors are not a union) and the delegates were not prepared for this brutal type of negotiation. Reluctantly they accepted it.

Over the past year, as all consumers know, inflation has been outrageous. Again dealing with a sophisticated government, re-negotiation of 1975's 4 per cent was half-promised from November 1974 till six days before the OMA annual meeting when the Government again flatly said "No negotiation". This time the doctors had six days to discuss the situation with their branch and district societies. The consensus was that an agreement, though neither legal, signed nor binding, should be honored by a responsible profession. And so the OMA voted.

Health Minister Miller was reported to have threatened to 'opt the doctors back in' (to the OHIP plan) collectively, if individually the doctors opted out of the plan in sufficient numbers as a result of this agreement.

Notwithstanding such threats, your doctor like many others is facing increasing costs and decreasing value of his present fixed income. Practice expenses alone have increased over the period 1974-5 to have completely eaten up the 7.75 per cent increase. Personal expenses for doctors like everyone else have increased with the inflationary spiral. . Patients should remember that doctors agreed not to raise their fees at all in 1973, which makes a three-year over-all increase of about 3½ per cent a year. Any housewife will know that costs have vastly exceeded this.

Many say that with the astronomical figures often quoted of doctors' fees, they can well afford to take up the slack. But a few simple facts should be stated here before this easy conclusion is reached:

Frequently the gross incomes quoted are just that. Office expenses amount to as much as 30 per cent of these gross figures.

Net taxable income figures are quoted more recently. The statistics given leave out all doctors whose incomes are less than $20,00 0per year gross (internes, residents, new graduates and retiring doctors) — about one quarter of Ontario's 12,000 physicians Selection like this makes any statistic inflated.

Your doctor must provide his own retirement pension.

Every holiday is non-earning time. A month's holiday is a loss of one-twelfth of his income.

If your doctor becomes sick or injured his income stops but his expenses continue, unless he is totally disabled. Not only does he lose his pay but he must buy expensive disability and office overhead insurance to cover himself against these eventualities.

But the major reason your doctor receives such a large income is because he moonlights on his own job. Most doctors work an average of not less than 60 hours a week, and many longer.

Other, non-medical writers on this subject have shown that when you divide the net take-home pay of doctors by 3,000 hours per year the hourly rate of take-home pay is between $6 and $8.

The statistics most often quoted, therefore, refer only to fully qualified, hard-working doctors at the peak of their careers, allowing no recognition of their five to ten years apprenticeship nor of their need to provide for their own old age, sickness and holiday benefits.

The workman is worthy of his hire. The doctor works at his profession which involves long hours, difficult decisions and a personal requirement to constantly update and improve his skills and knowledge — at his own time and expense. If we didn't like our profession we would be fools not to leave it.

But your doctor, like you, must face financial realities. Over this next year, till May 1976, he will be faced with inflationary problems at practically the same income. He may be forced to the conclusion that he must withdraw from the government scheme (OHIP) as he has the legal right to do. If so, the government will continue to pay the patient 90 per cent of the present fee and the doctor may or may not add to the present fee whatever modest increase he needs to keep his practice solvent. This will mean that out of every $125 service the government may pay $100 to the patient who will then add $25 from his own pocket to pay the doctor's full fee. Your doctor must warn you in advance what his fee for a service will be and he may select not to charge any extra, e.g. the old age pensioners, as most doctors did when the OMSIP scheme was in force prior to 1972.

If in May 1976 the government does not accept a realistic adjustment to our fees, a wholesale withdrawal of doctors from the OHIP scheme can be anticipated If the government then attempts to conscript doctors into a government scheme, a confrontation disastrous to the practice of medicine, the medical profession and the government will ensue, and the patient will be the victim.

Your doctors do not want this to happen. Most of us will work at our profession no matter what government or scheme is in force, but bad conditions of practice will adversely affect the quality of medicine and this we deplore.

BRUCE E. MORGAN, M.D.,
Delegate, Ontario Medical Association.

Montreal Murder Victims Called Small-time Hoods

MONTREAL (CP) — The gangland-style murder of four men at a suburban hotel bar Thursday may be connected to other murders in the same area last November and December, a Quebec Provincial Police (QPP) spokesman said Friday.

"We presume it was done in revenge of these killings," the QPP spokesman said.

The four men were killed and five other persons wounded, one critically, shortly before midnight Thursday by three masked gunmen who burst into a discotheque-bar at the Hotel Lapiniere in Brossard, on the south shore across the St Lawrence River from Montreal.

The QPP said the shooting was an underworld squaring of accounts and seven of the nine victims were "well-known" to police.

The killings came just 3½ weeks after 13 people were murdered at the Gargantua topless nightclub in the city's northeast end, but the QPP said there is "no connection" between the two mass slayings.

The Brossard killers were described by one police officer as "small-time hoods" fighting for control of certain areas for loan - sharking, prostitution, muscle-for-hire and protection rackets.

Police said no shotguns or machine-guns were used, but one of the men held a pistol or revolver in each hand.

Pierre Provost, 38, the hotel doorman, was shot as the gunmen—disguised with nylon Banning, 32, a waiter from nearby Greenfield Park, was killed as they opened fire at the table where all the other victims were seated.

Roger Letourneau, 31, of suburban Verdun and Andre Lefebvre, 32, a Montreal taxi driver, were the other fatalities. Police would not describe wounds suffered by the dead and wounded but said one victim had been hit five times.

The hotel, a meeting place for many people with police records, reopened last October after being closed for more than a year, police said The discotheque features French-Canadian country music singers and stripteasers.

Police said everyone in the club was watching a singer when the gunmen burst in, and the customers had their backs to the entrance.

Three of the wounded—Paul-Emile Lapointe, 36, and Gilles Roy, 29, both of Montreal, and Claude Lajoie, 35, of nearby Ville Lemoyne—had criminal records, according to the QPP.

Mr. Lapointe was still in critical condition Friday night. Mr. Roy was listed in fair condition while Lajoie and two other wounded, Guy Poisson, 30, of nearby Longueuil and Denise Duhamel, 23, of suburban LaSalle, were listed in good condition.

Fifty-one persons have been murdered in Quebec province this year.

Jury Wants Army Used To Close up Rochdale

TORONTO (CP) — A York County grand jury Friday recommended that Canadian Forces personnel be used to close Rochdale College and rid the country of the "drug abusers and hardened criminals" that live there.

The jury recommended Rochdale be closed by "whatever means necessary" and added that the Neill Wycick student residence is becoming another Rochdale and should be cleaned out before it reaches such "infamous status."

The jury of seven citizens is chosen from assessment rolls at the beginning of each session of criminal cases to be heard by judge and jury. It decides in closed-door hearings if there is enough evidence against accused persons to warrant a trial. It also examines Crown-owned buildings but recommendation such as the one relating to Rochdale College have no legal authority.

Rochdale now is operated by a court-appointed receiver, Clarkson and Co. as a result of a foreclosure by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

About 200 persons now live in the building which Clarkson has been trying to empty since it took over as receiver in September, 1972.

It is a mid-town, high-rise residence not affiliated with any university and occupied mainly by young persons. Coroner's juries over the last few years have recommended the bsuilding be closed because of its links with the illegal drug trade.

PC Insiders Betting Convention Year Away

OTTAWA (CP) — servative Party is still maintaining reservations cities for a November leadership convention, but more and more party insiders are betting it will be held here next February.

The problem of a fall convention, they say, is the possibility of an Ontario provincial election.

Party sources say that if convention organizers could get a commitment from Ontario Premier William Davis that no provincial election will be held until next spring, plans would go ahead for a November convention, either here or in Winnipeg. But after a meeting with the premier earlier this week, Ontario MPs came away without any such indications.

"I don't think the premier has any idea himself yet," said one.

Since Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield announced last summer that he would be stepping down as leader, party officials have been aiming at a fall convention But a possible Ontario election has always been in their minds.

The worst thing that could happen, in their view, would be to head into a leadership convention in the wake of a poor showing by Ontario Tories. And apart from the results of such an election, an Ontario campaign could tie up some potential candidates from that province.

Party President Michael Meighen of Montreal is said to have recommended to Mr. Stanfield, on behalf of the executive, that the convention be delayed until February. A spokesman in Mr. Stanfield's office said the recommendations are being considered.

Prior to Friday's announcement of an Alberta election March 26, Ontario politics seemed to be highest in mind. However, there was concern about an Alberta election, which could see Premier Peter Lougheed in a stiff fight with Ottawa over the energy question.

Some party members still have hopes that Mr. Lougheed will seek the national leadership—but not immediately after he has fought a campaign largely on provincial rights.

One party official said that Ottawa is being favored as the convention site, partly because Parliament likely will be sitting and partly because of expenses.

Read your Tax Guide. It's worth it.

THIS IS YOUR 1974 INCOME TAX FILING GUIDE

Income Tax.

Let's face it. You probably believe filling out your tax return isn't easy and all the talk in the world wouldn't convince you otherwise. But it doesn't have to be difficult.

Each year the Federal Government tries to make it easier for you to understand your tax form and to fill it out accurately and quickly.

For instance, this year we've rewritten the Income Tax Guide to make it easier and simpler for you to use while you complete your return.

And, for most of you, the Guide will be the only help you'll need.

Now, let's touch on the tax form itself. It's used, basically, to identify yourself, to list your income, to reduce your income by subtracting allowable deductions and to calculate your tax.

Using the six easy-to-follow steps in the Blue Section beginning on page one of your Tax Guide is a quick and simple way of filling out the tax form accurately.

The Blue Section takes you through the form, step by step, from front to back. In plain language it tells you how to list your income and claim your deductions. It tells you how to go about calculating your tax, arriving at your refund or balance due.

And that's it.

Following the Blue Section, there is a detailed explanation of different types of income, and how they affect you and your tax return.

Your questions on what you can deduct will probably be answered under the heading 'Deductions' beginning on page eleven. Be sure to read this section carefully.

Your Tax Guide also includes an area of general information, a page or two of answers to some common questions and solutions to problems you could encounter while working on your return.

On the back page you'll find District Taxation Office addresses and telephone numbers if you decide you need more help.

So, you see, your Tax Guide will probably be your best friend come Income Tax time. Read it thoroughly and follow it carefully. You'll find it will make your job a lot easier.

Tax Guide '74. How long has it been since you've read a really good book?

We're making it easier to understand.

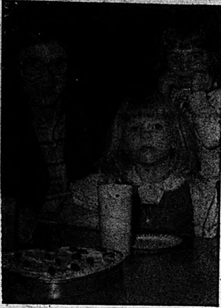
Valentine's Day With the Nursery School Set



Pink icing smeared from ear to ear, and an expression of total delight. That was one happy four-year-old at the Trenton Valley Nursery School on Valentine's Day, and there were others less smeary but just as happy.

With the help of their teacher, Ruth Wright, the preschoolers in both the morning and afternoon classes helped to mix and make a pink heart-shaped cake with jelly bean-studded frosting.

After a face-and-hands wash-up the youngsters exchanged valentines, some of them store-bought and some of them hand-made. What made these cards special was the nickel taped on the back of each card. The children collected the nickels, and donated the money to Can-Save, the relief fund for needy children.

Diane Settle, the Belleville Can-Save representative received a cheque for $12 from the Trent Valley Nursery School Friday morning.

Helping children start out well is a job that Miss Wright enoys completely, so that little annoyances don't get her down.

"Because there's a bingo game here in the Oddfellows' Hall every Friday night, we have to put everything away at the end of the week. Shirley Stone, who helps me during the morning sessions, comes over to assist with the putting away of toys and equipment."

"Although we're pretty well set now, I still need donations of music instruments for the children, and would be happy to get more toys, books, or small easels."

A graduate of Loyalist College's Early Childhood Education course, Miss Wright first worked in a Belleville day care centre in 1972. She moved to the Trenton Day Care Centre and then to this job, which is her only source of income.

"In a way, it's too bad I find it so enjoyable. I'm not getting rich. But when you have a really good day with the kids, it makes it all worth while."

Story, Photos by Isabel Huggan

Facts and Figures About Food Values

But if you follow that cook's old maxim — start vegetables which grow underground in cold water, vegetables which grow above the ground in boiling water — you may be destroying that vitamin.

Cutting peeling, dicing raw vegetables damages them and releases an enzyme which destroys vitamin C. Boiling water halts the process so that some of the vitamin C is saved. You shouldn't, therefore, cut and peel potatoes ahead of time and let them sit in cold water till you're ready to cook them.

Those are a couple of little known facts about nutrition and there are lots more.

For example, once you've carefully cut and boiled those potatoes you can defeat yourself by mashing them — mashing hot vegetables destroys some vitamin C by oxidation.

In fact, nutrition experts recommend that you cut everything in large chunks, avoiding choppers, blenders, juicers and graters which cause more damage — and more vitamin C loss — than just cutting.

You may have believed that protein comes only from beans, nuts and animal flesh. In fact, you get about one-fifth of your daily protein requirement from grains. Of course, you must eat some animal protein along with them to make the protein usable: milk on your oatmeal, for example.

If you think you can get all the vitamins you need from food you're wrong, according to some experts. vitamin D is difficult to come by in your diet so it's added to most milk sold in Ontario. If you're not drinking enough milk, you're not getting enough vitamin D — unless you're eating sardines, tuna or herring every day.

Do you feel virtuous when you take a small glass of sherry instead of a bottle of beer? You're actually consuming more calories in four-ounces of sherry than in eight ounces of beer!

You might think that liver is the only sure way to get enough iron into your family. Well, if they don't like liver you're fighting a losing battle Instead, serve Quick Cream of Wheat for breakfast and deliver their whole daily requirement in one ounce or three uncooked tablespoons.

Did you realize that meat contains vitamins? For example, a pork chop supplies 85 milligrams of thiamine and beef liver supplies 37,320 international units of vitamin A.

One last fact about vitamin C: a serving of broccoli supplies almost twice the vitamin C of orange juice.

Grocery Survey Proves It: Today's Prices Have Risen

It's not really news at this point that food prices are rising. However, here are some statistics to back up your feeling that a dollar doesn't stretch as far any more.

The Purchase Management Association of Canada estimates that since April 1974 there has been an average increase of 5.3 per cent on the ten items specified on their food price comparison chart for eastern Ontario.

The supermarkets used in the survey are Miracle Food Mart, Bellevile; Loblaw's, Trenton; A and P, Kingston; Payless, Brockville; Dominion, Napanee, and Loblaw's, Smiths Falls.

In Belleville, a 10-oz. can of Campbell's vegetable soup cost 15 cents in April, and 23 cents in February of this year. The increase is the same in Napanee, but this item has only risen to 17 cents in Smiths Falls.

Five pounds of King Size Tide, rose 30 cents since April to a present $2.35, in Belleville, Trenton, Kingston and Napanee. However, Tide still costs $2.29 in Brockville and an even lower $2.19 in Smiths Falls.

Johnson's Pledge, a 12-oz. can, is now $1.99 in Belleville, up from $1.52 in April. This is standard except for two further rises in Brockville and Smiths Falls to $2.03 and $2.09.

Belleville's price for one pound of Christie's salted biscuits is the highest in the area, 79 cents, an increase of 20 cents in 10 months. The next nearest price is 69 cents in Trenton and Napanee.

Potatoes (P.E.I., 10-pound bag) show a dramatic reduction all through the area, from a high of $1.45 in April in Trenton and Smiths Falls, to a present low of 69 cents in Belleville and Smiths Falls. This price is 59 cents lower than Miracle Mart's April price.

Chicken legs have stayed at approximately the same price — $1.14 in April, $1.18 in February — although there was a short-lived dip to 88 cents in January. In other areas the variance is wide, present prices ranging between $1.18 and 98 cents.

Milk's rise is no surprise, from an April low of 75 cents in Kingston, to a February high of $1.37 in Trenton. Belleville's current price is $1.35 for a three-quart bag of homogenized milk.

One pound of ground chuck is down to 79 cents in Belleville now, from its April price of $1.28, and that comparison is indicative of lowered prices throughout the area. In Napanee ground chuck is being sold for 68 cents, the lowest price, and in Trenton for $1.28, the highest.

Boneless round steak hasn't gone the same direction as ground chuck, unfortunately, but in Belleville at least it has stayed the same, $1.68 for one pound, a price that is only beaten by $1.42 in Napanee. Elsewhere the cost is up to $1.88 (Smiths Falls) and $1.99 (Kingston in January).

Extra large eggs are a bargain now at 80 cents compared with the spring price of 92 cents in Belleville, a better price than at any other stores in the survey.

A shopping basket of these ten items cost $11.64 in April, and $12.15 in February, if you were shopping at Belleville's Miracle Mart.

People and Events

HOME AND SCHOOL

Chief William J. Brant, Tyendinaga Indian Reserve chief, was guest speaker at the general meeting of Parkdale Home and School Association held recently.

John Gibson was chairman at the meeting which included a discussion period.

Phyllis Beatty, vice-principal, thanked the speaker.

UPCOMING DIRECTORY

Forms have been already sent to women's organizations in the Belleville area in preparation for the second annual Quinte Women's Directory.

However, a change has occurred since the forms were mailed. Because many groups, Women's Institute groups in particular, do not hold their elections until April, a March directory would not be indicative of 1975 executives.

Consequently, the date for the directory's publication has been moved to June, so that the information it contains will be more relevant. Groups are not required to send in their completed forms to the Women's Department until April.

Each group will also be contacted by phone during the spring. If any women's club or auxiliary has not yet received a form, write the Women's Department of The Intelligencer, 45 Bridge street E., Belleville, or telephone 962-9171, Extension 55.

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

The February meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute was held at the community centre with 22 members present.

Marion Richardson, who was chosen the Flying Farmers' Queen for 1975, spoke to the W I about the Flying Farmers organization, and the work that it does, searching for lost people and keeping a check on property. She showed some of the trophies and gifts presented to her in honor of her title.

During the business meeting, plans were made for a special euchre meeting in April. Stewart Hoover gave an informative talk about real estate.

PRINCE EDWARD-BELLEVILLE LADIES CLUB

The Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies Club held their birthday meeting at the recreation centre February 12 with 63 members present.

During the business meeting Past President Grace Thompson was presented with a gift in appreciation of her leadership the last two years. President Clara Adams and Olive White made the presentation.

Vera Bedell introduced Linda Smith, Constable with the Belleville Police Department.

Constable Smith talked about the role of police women in the community, and answered questions about her work. Following her talk she was presented with a gift by Mrs. Bedell

Annabel Hardwick played the piano for a singsong, and then a birthday cake lunch was served.

Inflation Hit Her Too Babysitter Complains

Dear Ann Landers: Please help a group of sincere, conscientious young people who are being taken advantage of. I refer to the babysitters across the country.

Here are our major complaints—each and every one out of my own experience—and there are more like me.

1. Wages. We know times are hard. But inflation has hit us the same as everyone else. A dollar doesn't buy what it once did. Instead of getting raises, we are asked to take cuts because "money is tight." If people can spend money to go out, they should be able to pay a sitter.

2. Not getting paid. Sometimes they say, "We'll pay you next time," and then they "forget." The girl hates to ask for it, so she has worked a whole evening for nothing.

3. Late, late hours. They say they'll be home at a certain time, and come in three hours later. This makes it bad when you have school the next day.

4. Adding other people's children to the job. I've had as many as four extra kids to sit for which means extra work. No additional pay, of course.

5. Last-minute cancellations: After having refused two other dates, I've been cancelled with half an hour's notice. This costs me money.

6. Maid service expected. Some people ask if you'd mind doing a few dishes, and when you go into the kitchen every dish and pot and pan in the house is in the sink.

7. Some people come from a party cockeyed drunk and we have to let them drive us home.

Thanks, Ann, for your help.—Babysitters Anonymous

Dear Babysitters: I have dealt with various aspects of your problems, but now that you have listed several complaints, I'll deal with them all at once, and I hope you girls out there will clip this column and use it as a guide.

Most of your problems result from your failure to establish guidelines and stick to them. If a girl takes her job seriously she should have, in advance, an understanding with her boss on all the issues raised in your letter. If the woman does not live up to her word, the girl should not sit for her again.

1. Wages. Establish your fee and stick to it.

2. If you do not get paid the night you sit, remind the woman the next time she calls that you didn't get paid for last time and that you'll be expecting double money, so please have both fees ready.

3. If the couple comes in "three hours late" on a school night more than twice, don't sit for them again. They are not reliable people.

4. Make it plain when you talk price that the fee includes her children only and extra children mean extra money.

5. Have an understanding in advance that unless you get three days notice for a weekend cancellation, the woman will have to pay you half of a normal night's sitting fee.

6. If you don't want to do dishes, say so. Tell her you have homework to do—which of course you have.

7. Never get into a car with anyone who is "cockeyed drunk." Phone your parents or take a taxi and inform the people that the taxi is on them.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I accumulated $2,500 in a local bank by depositing $5 and $10 a week. Our 20-year-old son, who does not live at home, entered our house when we were on vacation, then presented our passbook at the bank and withdrew $100 by forging his father's signature to our joint account.

Having successfully made his first withdrawal, he proceeded to forge his father's name at this bank and in other branches in the city. Within two weeks he emptied the account of all but $5.

After the first withdrawal he requested a duplicate bank book and was given one so he could return the original to our home, using the duplicate in the hope that he could replace the money before we found out what he had done.

We might have been spared all this grief had one person been alert. Why did they give him a duplicate passbook? How could so many people in the respected profession of banking have used such poor judgment?—Syracuse, N.Y.

Dear Syracuse: I find it fascinating that the thrust of your complaint is that the bank employees were not alert. The real tragedy is that your son is a crook.

Some banks, when they learn they have paid out money on a forged cheque, reimburse the victims. Usually they ask the victims to sign an affidavit giving the bank the right to bring suit against the forger.

My Chicago banking consultant suggests that you write to the senior office of your bank if you wish to recover the money and prosecute. My advice is to try to get that boy into therapy.

It's Never Too Soon To Start Doing Good

Dear Doris: At Christmas in a provincial mental hospital, where I was a patient, a Salvation Army band came to give us a short concert in one of the words.

I asked the youngest musician how old he was. He replied, "Twelve."

Aren't you rather young to be doing this sort of thing? asked.

"No, I don't think so."

The Salvation Army officer in charge overheard our conversation and mentioned that he himself had "started at six."

My point is: it's never too early to start going around doing good; bringing help where help is needed; comforting the lonely, the old and the sick.

You mentioned in your article in Canadian Welfare Magazine on nursing homes that there's problem in finding visitors for certain patients in those institutions.

What about the adopt-a-grandparent idea for young people's groups near these homes? I know one place where this was tried and both the young and old found benefits, as some of the young people had their real grandparents far away across the country — since this was an armed forces' community with much travel because of postings.

My mother is in her eighties and she tells me that, when I'm not around, some of the neighboring young people do small favors for her with an eager spirit and won't take any money in return.

Getting back to that mental hospital: I will always remember, as long as I live, the look of conviction and certainty that he was doing the right thing, of that young Salvationist, only 12, giving up part of his Christmas for others.

Paddy.

Dear Paddy: A grand message and a great idea!

Just today I have heard something that carries out the same people-loving idea: There is a certain young students in a Canadian city who puts aside every Thursday afternoon for a date he always keeps.

He takes his guiter and visits a city nursing home. All residents who can navigate at all assemble to hear Bruce play and sing — new songs and old. When he failed to show up one week, many were the enquiries. And when they learned he was sick, the home residents got together and wrote him a "round robin" card to say how they missed him and hoped he would be all better very soon.

He was. I think he loved those elderly folk with a rare kind of open, giving, love.

Trash Food Banned

MONTREAL (CP) — The school council of the Island of Montreal is eating holes in the theory that kids prefer junk food to wholesome nutrition.

Seven school boards on the island have banned trash foods from school cafeterias, slashing prices for wholesome dishes with a subsidized food program and replacing candy and soft drinks in vending machines with milk and fruit.

The result is that more than 30 per cent of students now buy the nutritionally balanced hot plate (for less than 50 cents) and 90 per cent of both elementary and secondary pupils buy one or more single items (priced from five cents to 15 cents) such as fresh fruit or side salad, yogurt or cheese. Milk is the most popular drink.

Nicole Saint-Jean-Demers, chief dietitian of the Montreal Catholic school commission, said prices were cut only on items that were not automatically popular.

Miss Demers' own board is the largest participant with 59 schools and now is working on a nutrition program to educate parents as well.

Junk foods banned include any food made mostly of sugar, such as candy, pastries rich in sugar and fat, biscuits or cookies with more sugar than dough, popsicles, carbonated or soft drinks, peanuts, chewing gum, potato chips and deep-fried foods, fish and chips and doughnuts.

Favorites such as hamburgers, hot dogs, pizza, smoked meat and submarine sandwiches are permitted, but only as alternatives and only two or three times in a six-week-period.

Ice cream, milk chocolate and 'jello' are allowed and many parents have called Miss Demers to question why.

The dietitian quoted the Order of Dentists research which she said proved that foods leaving particles in the teeth contribute most to tooth decay. Therefore ice cream and chocolate, which melt quickly in the mouth, are allowed while peanuts are banned.

Cooking Capers for Kids

EDMONTON (CP) — "Let your pre-school children mess up our kitchen instead of yours this winter," Linda Woodruff of Edmonton tells young mothers.

Mrs. Woodruff, who is instructing a YWCA-sponsored course called Cooking Capers, is aiming her efforts at a sector often forgotten in the field of culinary endeavor—four- and five-year-olds.

The 10-week course, which is the first of its kind here, will attempt to show preschool children how to make easy snacks, beverages and desserts.

"Mostly, the class is designed to be fun for children," said Mrs. Woodruff, a teacher with several years experience in YWCA programs. "We want to give them a chance to get their hands in cookie dough."

She said she got the idea for the course last winter while taking a course on how to write children's novels in Provo, Utah.

"Our instructor suggested that we try to write a children's recipe book and that got me thinking about a cooking program for pre-schoolers."

She said children love to make things and her niece and nephews often "beg to let them help me make something in the kitchen."

"I know it takes three times as long, and cookie dough will be all over the floor. But they have fun, and that's the main thing."

Fondant, lollipops, carrot cake, lemonade, pumpkin cookies, ice cream, simple cakes and wiener dogs" made with toothpicks are a few of the items Mrs. Woodruff has in mind for her child chefs. She sticks to recipes that "aren't too difficult, but will be fun for them to do."

"We'll start with basic things, like showing children how to use measurng cups. Then maybe we'll try lemonade and a few simple cookies and salads."

Table - setting techniques will be discussed, as well as simple stove operation. The children will become oriented assist in cleanup "because I think that's important too."

One of the problems in the course will be coping with the pre-schoolers' relatively short attention span, "and you can't do a lot in an hour."

She is confident that by providing the children with a few guidelines and the freedom to test their own creativity, the children will become oriented in basic kitchen skills.

If the program is successful, it probably will be contin- course for six-to eight-year-olds set up. Such a course would include some simple traning in breakfast, lunch and dessert preparation.

Course preparation wasn't difficult, Mrs. Woodruff said. A variety of children's recipe books—including one she recommends entitled Kids Are Natural Cooks—provided numerous ideas.

The class was deliberately kept small, with only five children registered. Lessons are held in a small kitchenette.

The subject of nutrition won't be included in the class, "because children that age don't really care," but healthy eating habits may be discussed informally.

"I think it is a really good idea to let children try their hand in the kitchen," Mrs. Woodruff said.

Her husband, who was encouraged to do his own cooking at an early age, "makes a lot better angel food cake than I do, and a lot of other things too."

Big for Spring: Chemise

NEW YORK (CP) — The chemise, which began a comeback last fall, is firmly established and bigness is the word for spring.

"But bigness is not automatically beautiful," said Donna Karan of Anne Klein and Co. "Clothes must fit somewhere. The largest tent shape must capture the shoulder, touch at the bosom and hips."

Jerry Silverman described this season's chemise as "lightly controlled, subtly moving in below the bosom."

One of the most popular styles combines the new shallow square neck with big patch pockets. The chemise can have a shirtwaist look, as in Abe Schrader's beige polyester crepe with bloused sleeves and deep cuffs, or a late-day style, as in Morty Sussman's white-dotted sapphire polychiffon with two deep hem ruffles and a soft pussy bow.

Some designers like the loose look with a wide cinched-in effect. Halston wraps the waist of a brown-and-white striped crinkle cotton dress with a wide white-leather cummerbund, tied in front.

Oscar de la Renta prefers a body-wrapping, front-tied soft sash, wide and snug on a Ming crepe de chine dress. Leo Narducci's narrower sash wraps a float in lime crepe de chine with short turn-back sleeves.

Short sleeves dominate the spring scene. Some are mere caps, others are elbow length and many are turned back into a wide, loose cuff.

While the loose-flowing or belted chemise is the top trend-setter, there are still the gentle tent, smock, shirt and wrapped styles. The wrapped dress can even serve as a sort of coat. Stephen Burrows has a tunic wrap over pants and a V-neck sleeveless top.

The two-piecer is a strong contender. New this spring are army-style fatigues, generally in drab olive green or khaki. Dresses also come with matching fabric jackets, coats, capelets and scarves.

Halston has brought back the mini, which he calls the skimp, but it remains to be seen whether it will catch on. Some young girls still wearing out their minis may pretend they're the new skimps but most girls and women are wearing the knee length or below.

Stripes are popular and prints are mostly small. Adele Simpson introduced what she calls Patterns in Motion, prints inspired by the needlework of the Renaissance.

Mrs. Simpson also likes mixtures of flowers and geometric motifs in multi-colored bands used vertically and horizontally in the same dress.

Bill Blass uses geometrics in a two-piece, crepe de chine dress in a patchwork effect of two sizes of zig-zag stripes.

Albert Nipon mixes small geometrics with huge arabesques and lush flowers. Leo Narducci likes bandana prints for a short shirt-smock dress and a long-skirted halter style.

Poem Brings Acceptance

CALGARY (CP) — Elaine Catley, 83, says she has found peace and acceptance in a nursing home here by writing poetry "to catch all the beauty and sadness and joy and sorrow there is in the world."

Mrs. Catley, who recently published her sixth book—entitled At The End of the Road—began writing poetry at the age of 13 and since then has written about 400 poems.

When she first came to the nursing home, the wheelchair-bound poet asked herself, "How can we bear the empty hours?" Her latest book contains the poem Sanctuary, her poem of acceptance.

At least one person has told Mrs. Catley that her poetry has made a real contribution towards understanding the feelings of those living in a nursing home.

Tots Try Cooking

Edmonton youngsters are cooking up a storm these days in a cooking class specially designed for four and five-year-olds. The YWCA-sponsored class, which has invited mothers to "let your children mess up our kitchen instead of yours," teaches youngsters how to prepare simple snacks and beverages. Holy Year's Aim To Breach Walls

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A door is opened, a barrier breached. The intent was for antagonisms to be overcome and the separated to come together in friendship, with each other and with their God.

That was the underlying theme and hope of a special 1975 Holy Year, launched by Roman Catholicism on Christmas Eve in Rome, with the opening in St. Peter's Basilica of a walled-up door.

"I am the door," Jesus said, laying the basis for the ceremonial gesture. "If any one enters by Me, he will be saved."

Opening of the special door, kept sealed since the last observance of a Holy Year Jubilee a quarter-century ago, symbolizes full accessibility to humanity of Christ's pardon and grace.

Catholicism is putting yearlong emphasis on that bestowal of forgiveness and restoration of broken relationships, an objective that has implications for other Christians and for Judaism.

"Renewal and reconciliation" is the keynote set by Pope Paul VI.

In the extensive preparations for the year, varied suggestions came from many quarters for steps to heal conflicts and renew ties, both spiritually and tangibly.

Numerous Protestant and Catholic scholars have urged special efforts toward overcoming cleavages between denominations and rebuilding of unity.

Rev. Avery Dulles, a noted Jesuit theologian of the Catholic University of America, suggested that the church lift its condemnations of those who reject certain of its doctrines about the Virgin Mary.

Referring to Catholic dogma of Mary's immaculate conception and bodily assumption into heaven, he questioned whether these beliefs are so central that failure to assent to them was an adequate basis for excluding persons from the faith.

Stressing that he himself was not denying the doctrines, he said removing the anathema about them would contribute to reconciliation with other Christians.

Protestants do not accept the dogma, defined by Catholicism in 1854 and 1950.

Pointing up links with Judaism, the Vatican has issued a booklet on the origins of the holy year in the ancient Jewish Year of Jubilee, prepared by Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum of the American Jewish Committee.

In the ancient Jewish observance, set forth in the Book of Leviticus, debts were forgiven, land restored to its original owners and slaves freed.

Citing these acts of clemency, the Pope has appealed to governments to consider granting amnesty to prisoners, particularly political prisoners "who may have been caught up in political and social upheavals too immense for them to be held fully responsible."

Bearded Monk Leads Opposition to Gandhi

By RAM SUNDAR
CP Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — The poster showed a bearded monk pointing towards Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and saying: "This woman is afraid of me. Why? Because I am going to topple her regime and usher in a new India."

Senior police officials, investigating a flood of virulent anti - government propaganda appearing in a number of Indian cities, attribute it to Swami Jai Guru Das, described in newspaper reports as "a mysterious and fanatical figure with a large following in many parts of north India."

The elderly monk is believed to be the head of a monastery at Mathura, a Hindu pilgrim town in Uttar Pradesh state.

He is said to tour northern India in various disguises to whip up sentiment against Mrs. Gandhi and her ruling Congress Party.

Although his following in Bombay is estimated to number no more than 50, 30,000 anti-Gandhi posters appeared in a single night along a 15-mile stretch of main road in the city.

The posters called for "destruction" of the Congress Party, predicted that thousands would die in a famine because of government "blunders" and called on Indians to prepare for the "final war with Pakistan."

Police arrested three suspected members of the movement but it was reported that they refused to speak.

One reason for increasing police interest in the mystery monk and his followers is that they are trying to incite government workers to "paralyse the administration."

Fellowship with Creator Is Cure for Loneliness

By DR. GORDON C. SMYTH

During the Second World War a Dutch sailor, afloat on a life-raft, drifted in the South Atlantic for thirty-seven days. When he was rescued, he said that it was not the tropical sun, nor hunger and thirst, nor even the threatening sharks that caused his greatest hardship. It was sheer loneliness.

However, we should recognize that loneliness is different from solitude. Solitude we will often seek for self-analysis and meditation, if we are wise. We are frequently unhappy because we do not know how to be alone. And yet where loneliness hurts, solitude sometimes heals.

Loneliness itself can be conquered by a two-fold strategy. First, we should cultivate companion ship with others. Everybody has something to gain by overcoming the secret bondage of self-centredness. We have a lot to learn from senior citizens. Why have we erected "lodges" for them on the outskirts of towns and cities? Children need deep, local roots among those who care. Should we not reverse the trend whereby they have to be bused miles to school?

"The Church," said Cardinal Newman, "is the home of the lonely." Well, that is the New Testament ideal. Alas, it is too seldom a present reality. To be sure, church buildings hum with activity on week-nights. All sorts of organizations can count on the availability of rooms in churches. That is to our credit. But what about Newman's statement. It should haunt us.

Second, beyond the fellowship of any earthly connection lies the ultimate fellowship of the creature with the Creator. Teaching us to develop and deepen the sense of God's eagerness to enter those silent places of the spirit, blocked to all human companions, has been the prime function of religion down the ages.

Henri Friedrick Amiel wrote in his famous Journal, "We dream alone, we suffer alone, we die alone, we inhabit the last resting place alone. But there is nothing to prevent us from opening our loneliness to God."

This should be good news for modern man in his complex, impersonal environment. On the eve of Calvary, Jesus said to his first apostles, "The hour is coming when you will leave me alone; yet I am not alone, for the Father is with me. In the world you have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world" (John 16:32-33).

Let this news possess us. And let us share it with others.

Seven-year-old Goddess Sits on Golden Throne

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — She sits on a golden throne as the priest washes her feet, a seven-year-old goddess accepting her due.

"Only a goddess can sit on that throne,' the priest says. "We believe that if another child sits on the throne, it will vomit blood."

Katmandu's Maiden Goddess has graced the throne in a downtown temple for the last four years.

"She has inner strength," said the priest, Kesab Man Karamacharya. "She is not a child like other children. She sits on the throne and she doesn't talk and she doesn't cry. It is very unusual for a child of that age."

Along with other tots from the priestly Bajracharya family, the little goddess was closeted four years ago in a dark room containing sacrifices to the gods. Despite the dark and the incantations from a priest, she didn't cry, qualifying her as Maiden Goddess according to ancient Nepalese Hindu tradition.

She discarded her given name and moved into her temple beside the former royal palace at one end of Katmandu's main street. It will be her home until she menstruates unless she crys or bleeds before then.

"Sometimes she plays, sometimes she reads, sometimes she eats,' said the 70-year-old temple nanny who has looked after the last seven goddesses.

When her time is up, the present Maiden Goddess will return to her village and try to lead a normal life, he said. But maiden goddesses often end up old maids because men fear life with a former deity, he added.

Costs Town $9,000 to Put Men in Blue

TRENTON — It will cost Trenton taxpayers in excess of $9,000 to clothe its 26-man police force this year

At a meeting of the Trenton Police Commission Friday night, it was announced that tenders have been approved for both clothing and footwear totalling $9,960.

The tender for clothing included 21 winter uniforms at $205 each; 14 summer uniforms at $197 each, pants, 84 winter shirts and four summer shirts.

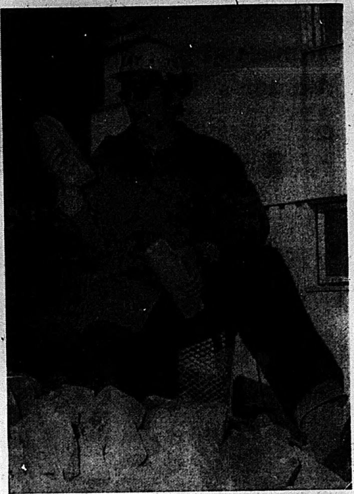
The $8,830 tender was submitted by Vic Auger and Son.

In a second section of the tender, Maher Shoes submitted an $831 price for 50 pairs of assorted footwear.

These two firms were the only ones to reply to the tender.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1975



To some it might look like rubble, to others these bricks from old building are instantly re-useable items. Ray Finkle, demolition contractor on Century Place project, says demand for salvage materials from solidly-built structures of earlier times, is an active trade.

Belleville 'High Cost' Area

Ambulance Study Begins Feb. 24

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

A provincial study will begin Feb. 24 into the operation of Belleville's two ambulance services, a government spokesman said Friday.

Garry Bahr, regional co-ordinator for the province's ambulance services branch, told The Intelligencer, "the study will deal mainly at Belleville but will also touch on service in Trenton and Picton."

In recent weeks, high ranking officials in the health ministry have stated budgets for the two Belleville ambulance services will not be approved until the services "integrate."

The province feels integration will serve to cut costs and heighten efficiency in the Belleville system.

Mr. Bahr, commenting on the possibility of integration for the city services said, "I'll be looking for anything (method) that works a bit more efficient and saves us a few bucks."

Budget figures show LaSalle Ambulance receiving approximately $102,000 annually and City Ambulance receiving $387,000 annually. The majority of City Ambulance's budget pays for service in Napanee and Madoc, says company principal Len Steeler. A City Ambulance spokesman said about $155,000 is spent for the Belleville section of the service.

Both services are required to perform the same duties using two ambulances.

The province considers Belleville a "high cost" area for ambulance services and has requested the study to be undertaken.

Charles Brubacher, director of ambulance services for the province, said once the study is completed, both operators will be given a single budget to work within.

The operators will be given a short period to find out how to meet the budget. If that fails, the province will make an "arbitrary decision."

Mr. Bahr said the study will include meeting with both operators and interviews with employees.

"We'll be looking for general comments about the ambulance system across the province and for concerns of their particular service," he said.

Local health authorities, the hospital and local citizenry will also be asked to contribute in the fact finding stages of the study, said Mr. Bahr.

The study should take about a week, said Mr. Bahr.

"I'll be looking mainly at Belleville," he said. "I'm going into the study with as open a mind as possibe."

"I can insist on action in specific areas only," he said.

While an Ontario ambulance act is written, the accompanying regulations are still in the hands of "the politicians," said Mr. Bahr.

"In making recommendations we have to rely more or less on the good will of the operators," he said.

Recommendations from the study will be forwarded to the ambulance services branch and then up the line (to the minister)" he said.

Tall Problem

In an attempt to dissuade vandals from stealing the flag atop the Trenton Police Dept. office. It was decided to move the rope fastener higher up the mast. But for Brad Clairmont, bringing the flag down poses problems. The solution might well be having a constable remove the flag with the advantage of the long arm of the law. Mr. Clairmont is the department's radio operator.

Marine Radio Motion Coming

City council will hear a proposal Monday that it object to the closing of the marine radio station at Kingston.

The objection to senior government, is being proposed by the harbor improvement committee.

Also expected on the agenda of Monday's regular meeting is confirmation from the Ontario Housing Corporation that the tender has been let for the senior-citizen housing development on East Bridge St.

The development was planned for 81 units.

Apple Festival Thing of Past?

AMELIASBURG — The annual apple blossom festival here will not be celebrated in the usual fashion this year, unless the committee which has organized the event in other years, changes its plans.

The word comes from a spokesman for the Quinte Blossom Festival

This week the spokesman said the festival was being passed up this year because personnel to organize and carry through the work involved was not available.

"A lessening of interest in the project, shown by the growers themselves has helped discourage enthusiasm among those who contributed continually to its success," said the spokesman, who preferred anonymity.

In spite of the negative development, however, visits to the orchards in the township may be arranged to coincide with Ameliasburgh's official opening of its historical museum complex May 18.

The township's "art-on-the-fence" exhibition — which drew wide response when initiated last year — also falls on the same weekend.

A committee of members of the arts project plans to discuss the possibility of revitalizing parts of the blossom festival.

They will consider playing host to the hundreds of visitors to the region who have visited the blossom festival in past years.

One idea to be decided concerns devoting a section of the art exhibit to paintings of orchards in blossom.

For nearly 10 years the Quinte Blossom Committee has sponsored the festival, a program of various events centred on the colorful blossoming of the township's many orchards.

In the past resident growers along the Rednersville Road — Lyle Weese, Summers Dawson and Harold Bonter — opened their orchards to the public to view the blooms and provide walks and tractor rides.

AOCO Gets Job

OTTAWA — A federal contract worth $12,000. has been awarded to AOCA Ltd. of Belleville to provide the veterans' affairs department with optical services, the department of supply and services announced this week.

It was one of 200 unclassified contracts worth $10,000, or more that were awarded by the department to Canadian companies during the week ended Jan. 31. Total value of the contracts amounted to $10,016,595,

These Days Demolition Has More Gentle Touch

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

There's a gentler touch to demolition these days.

The reasons:

(1) Old buildings, despite age, often are monuments to sturdy old-time craftsmanship and materials.

(2) It's a time when recycling means more than a return trip bicycle. Old timber, stonework; bricks an dartifacts are in wide demand in a time where more and more people are seeking supplies from a bygone era.

Anymore, demolition just doesn't mean outright destruction.

"In the old days you often just smashed away with a steel ball and most of the stuff you demolished was dumped," says Ray Finkle. "But now there's a very, very large demand for much of the material that can be salvaged from these old buildings.

"I'd say it applies right across the demolition trade. Some outfits in the bigger centres like Toronto do a heck of a trade."

Ray can speak with some authority. The 30-year-old Bellevillian is president of United Rigging. The company's current contract involved razing the nine-store bloc of downtown buildings to be replaced by the $5 million Century Place commercial development, flanking East Bridge and Front streets. He also has demolition salvage rights.

"People today all of a sudden have also realized our raw materials are not going to last forever and consequently they're also interested in buying the materials."

The sources of orders have been as broad-ranged as the materials sought.

Farmers have wanted old beams for barns. Antique pine planks for restoring dressers, cupboards and other prized furniture.

"In that building one fellow came in and bought all the old glass out of the windows," said Ray Finkle indicating a structure still under demolition which he believed about 130 years old.

As he spoke a man approached and asked if there were any old bricks available for sale. He was building a fireplace. The contractor handed him a safety helmet and sent him off to inspect the demolition site.

There also have been orders for stone — including handcut blocks and window corners — doors and hot water radiators.

Such demand is no new phenomenon:

Bob Taylor, a carpenter with the Finkle company, said in the past two years he has worked steadily around the area on home and other projects involving stonework and barnboard.

Among prize salvage from the Century Place project has been lumber, handhewn by craftsmen of a more personally-skilled age.

Two such beams were 40 feet long, with a 14x18-inch thickness.

"The trees those beams came from must have been a tremendous size," ponders Ray. "And they must have worked hard getting them up When we took them down it was quite a chore."

The demand for materials hasn't been confined to the Quinte district.

A Toronto man, who some years ago spotted a wood-burning stove in the old building, made a special trip to Belleville to buy it when he heard of the Century Place project.

"So most things today are salvaged carefully — which also means people get material that's not only top quality but in good condition."

He was approached a second time by an enquirer.

"Who do I see?" the man asked the contractor, "about buying some 20-foot beams. I want to put them under a cottage?"

County Council Wednesday

Hastings County council next Wednesday will hold its second session of the year.

The one-day assembly follows last month's inaugural session that appointed committees of council which advise on county business.

Wednesday's session is expected to see most of these groups present their first reports on the discussions they've held since their appointments.

Windows Smashed

City police reported this morning two plate glass windows at Templer Flower Shop were smashed by vandals.

Damage is estimated by police at $400. No other damage or theft was reported. No arrests have been made.

Funding By Foot

A group of Moira Secondary School students are holding a 24-hour dance-a-thon to raise money for a class project, The Reflections of Man.

Beginning at 8.30 p.m. tonight, fifth level students will be dancing to raise funds to finance the one-day seminar April 23. Approximately 25 couples will be participating in the fund raising scheme.

Pledges will be accepted by telephone. The numbers to call are 962-7643 and 962-0078.

Reflections of man is designed as a one-day immersion study into man's adaption into a continually-changing environment.

Madoc Woman Killed In Collision

MADOC — A 56-year-old Madoc woman died Friday in a head-on collision on Highway 62, five miles south of here.

Mrs. Myrtle Griffith of 28 Lingstone St. was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. C. C. Derry shortly after the 4.15 p.m. crash.

Her husband Carl Griffith remains in Belleville General Hospital with a broken elbow. A hospital source said his condition is "satisfactory."

A provincial police spokesman in Madoc estimated damage to the Griffith's van at $1,000.

Four Haliburton area people in a northbound vehicle were treated for minor injuries and later released from Belleville General Hospital.

They are Brian Laduranlaye, 27, of Minden, Frederick McGee, 26, of Haliburton, his wife Maxine Evelyn McGee, 25, and Sylvia Martin, 27.

Damage to their vehicle was estimated at $4,000.

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — Figure skating isn't for sissies. One little fellow from the Frankford figure skating club has not let a broken arm deter him from practising for the Trent Inter-Club Competitions this Sunday, from 8.30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Tweed.

Joe Calberry had his answer for taunting teen boys when he was young. He simply let them use his skates to try to cut some fancy figures. "They were bruised and battered up so bad they couldn't skate," he said

Mr. Calberry has turned pro, and teaches figure skating in Frankford, Stirling, and Madoc. There is another pro at Frankford, Sharon L'Esperance. This is the first year that Stirling has had a pro.

Mr. Calberry, of 82 East Moira St., Belleville, bought his first pair of figure skates when he was 16. He has been skating with the Quinte Figure Skating Club for 24 years.

In 1955 and 1956 he won the Quinte senior men's title, and the pairs championship along with Lillian Srackett. This was before the days of inter-club competition.

Mr. Calberry took up teaching because, as a judge for six years, he observed that young skaters were missing the basics of the art. Frankford has six boys in the figure skating club, and Mr. Calberry would like to see some boys come out in Stirling. "It's a good sport to get out to," he says. His three daughters are figure skaters.

The former Belleville figure skating champion has not confined his activities on ice however. He has taught power skating in hockey school. "That is speed and balance, more than anything else," he says.

He and Mrs. L'Esperance teach 110 people in Frankford, and the Stirling club has 34 youngsters under his tuition turning out for this inaugural year. Mr. Calberry has 30 in the Madoc senior group.

Barbara Martin and Eleanor Bailey originally came up with the idea of forming a Stirling club, and started to work on it this season. They found Mr. Calberry through the Frankford club.

Smooth as Silk

This is the first year that Stirling has had a professional figure skating instructor. Former Belleville champ Joe Calberry takes Karen Eggleton, centre, Henry Street, Stirling and Lisa Troy, right, of Ridge Road, Stirling, through a delicate manoeuvre. Mr. Calberry is taking some figure skaters from another club, Frankford, to Tweed for this Sunday's Trent Inter-Club Competitions.

Warrant Out For Naismith

TRENTON — Police here have been alerted to watch for a former resident, being sought by Toronto police in connection with the stabbing of a 14-year-old girl a week ago.

The man is identified as Oavid Naismith, 26, a one-time naval serviceman who was stationed at CFB Trenton in 1970.

A Canada-wde warrant has been issued charging him with attempted murder.

His hometown is Digby, N.S., and police say he has friends in this area dating from his service days.

Trudeau Top Twister

TWEED — Wrist Wrestling, or Indian Wrestling as it is sometimes called, was a new feature added this year to the Tweed Winter Carnival program.

Held at the Hungerford Township Hall, the event attracted over 100 spectators. Kevin Trudeau won two trophies.

Winner of the Winners' Twist off was Kevin Trudeau.

Car Idea Worth Plenty

TWEED—Thomas J. Feeney son of Mrs. Marie Feeney, of Tweed, has won a maximum Ford suggestion award of $6,000 plus a new car.

Employed at Ford's Oakville plant, Mr. Feeney recommended an improved method of packaging bumpers, and the resultant savings from his suggestion earned him the award.

Anne Acton Rink Takes Crack at Ontario Women's Senior Curling Championship

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

In athletics, as in every thing else, it takes a very special kind of person to be a leader. They have to be forward, but not aggressive. They have to be confident, but not self-centred. And they have to have a great understanding of what they're doing and the people around them.

One sport in which understanding is vital is curling. In it, the skip must lead the members of the rink. To do so the skip must understand the strategy of the game, offensively and defensively, must understand the lay and condition of the ice and above all must understand the abilities of the members of the rink.

If a skip has to contend with all these things for one rink, think what a skip of two rinks has to contend with. Especially if the two rinks are in Ontario playdowns.

Anne Acton, of Belleville's Quinte Curling Club, is one skip that has found herself in this particular situation.

She will be participating in the Ontario Women's Senior Championship beginning in Ottawa this weekend and will skip another rink in the Southern Ontario Tankard playoffs in March.

How does she feel about playing a double role?

"You just play one game at a time and take care of one thing at a time," she says, "you can't get too far ahead of yourself or you run into trouble."

Originally the Acton rink had been beaten out of Senior competition by Hazel McNevin's rink in a playoff at the Quinte Curling Club. The McNevin foursome then earned the right to represent Belleville in the women's senior district playdowns in Brighton.

The Acton rink went into Tankard playdowns in Picton. However, due to personal reasons, Hazel McNevin was forced to step down as skip of the senior rink. That happened just before district finals in Brighton. The Senior rink approached Anne to fill the gap.

"We were lucky to get Anne to skip the rink," said Kay Pape, lead for the senior foursome, "none of us were good enough to take skip and Anne's really busy. But when she learned of our predicament she agreed to help out."

To say the least, the senior entry rolled over their competition at the district final in Brighton and went on to the Southern Ontario Ladies Curling Association (SOLCA) final in St. Catherines.

Of the sixteen rinks in the SOLCA final, three advanced to the Ontario final. The Acton rink won four of their five games, losing only to the SOLCA champion, and finished second.

Now the four local curlers are on their way to the Ontario final in Ottawa. There, they play against the best from north, west and northwest Ontario along with the two other entrants from southern Ontario. In all, there are six rinks in the running.

Meanwhile Acton's original rink was preparing for the district Tankard finals in Picton.

I was apprehensive about skipping the seniors at first," said Acton, "after all we played against them and lost our chance to enter senior. I didn't think it would be fair to the rest of my rink. They were desperate though, so I said yes."

Acton's senior rink consists of Jessie Baber, vice, Helen Lewis second and Kay Pape, lead. All are veterans of the game. Baber has 18 years experience, Lewis has 10 and Pape has 14.

Acton, an 18-year veteran of the game herself, feels her rinks chances are 50-50 at the all-Ontario.

"We have as good a chance as anyone else," she said, "you're only as good as you are on the day you're curling. If we have a good day we can take it all. If not we could finish last."

"In one game at the districts," she added, "we could have beaten anybody that played us. Everything went very well. That's the way it is in curling."

Her vice, Jessie Baber, has complete confidence in Acton. "She reads the ice very well. She's a good skip. I worry about the rest of us doing her justice."

Kay Pape, the lead, says, "Anne is an excellent skip. She reads the ice quickly and accurately. She definitely is one of the better curlers in our club."

The three initial members of the senior rink — Baber, Lewis and Pape — have been curling together under Hazel McNevin for three years. Therefore, Acton had to practice with them to try to learn more about their curls and the strength of their shots.

It's not like Acton has time to throw around either. She's in her ninth year as a director of the YMCA, she's on the board of directors of the Cheshire Home and she has recently been appointed the Ontario Junior Development Chairman for Womens Golf (a sport to which she dedicates her summers).

All the time Acton was getting ready for Seniors, she also had to get herself psyched up for the Tankard districts.

In Tankards there are two rinks representing an area. The Acton rink and Lorna Bennett's rink were the two from Quinte Curling Club While Hazel McNevin had originally beaten out the Acton rink in senior, Betty Kelsey had defeated Bennett's rink in Provincial club playoffs. Since Acton was beaten out of senior and Bennett was beaten out of Provincial, they combined their skills to represent QCC in Tankard.

The two rinks act as a team and work together against their opposition. In Picton on Tuesday, the Acton rink and the Bennett rink combined their total scores to beat rinks from CFB Trenton and Cataraqui and win the district. Now the two local entries will represent the district at the southern Ontario finals in Whitby, March 13.

Acton's Tankard rink consists of Betty Kelsey, vice, Marabelle Clare, second, and Mary Livingston, lead. Kelsey has the least experience of the foursome. She has been curling for 10 years. Clare has been at it 20 and both Livingston and Acton have been around 18 years.

At the southern Ontario finals, as at the district finals, Acton's rink will combine their showing with that of Bennett's and hope to finish on top of the 16 entrants

Bennett has Marion Alkins at vice, Jean Quincey at second and Sylvia Grills at lead.

"I'm confident of our chances in Whitby," said Acton, "I feel Lorna can hold up her end. I just have to try to hold up my end."

Anne Acton is one step from the Ontario Women's Senior championship and two away from the Ontario Tankard championship. She's in Ottawa this weekend and in Whitby a month from now.

The local skip may not win both titles. As a matter of fact, she may not win either. One thing is for sure, though, she has to get a pat on the back for taking a crack at both of them at the same time. Most people don't stand up under the pressure of one event of this let alone two.

Anne Acton, in her first year of senior competition, has led her rink all the way to the Ontario Women's Senior Final. Acton is actually a substitute skip for the rink, but nevertheless has come through for its members. The locals left for Ottawa this morning for the senior competition. Acton is also skipping a local rink in the Ontario Tankard playdowns next month.

Vice-skip Jessie Baber practises one of her shots in a warm-up to the Ontario Women's Senior championships in Ottawa this weekend. Baber, an 18 year veteran of the game, is one of the four Quinte Curling Club members participating in the event.

Kay Pape (right) and Helen Lewis are the lead and second, respectively, of the women's senior rink heading for Ottawa today. The two both have over 10 years experience in the game.

Intelligencer Sports

Anne Acton practises her shot in preparation for the Ontario Women's Senior Curling Championships in Ottawa. Acton, the skip of the rink, still relys on the old crouch slide to shoot her rocks. An 18 year veteran of the game, Acton will also be skipping a rink in Tankard playdowns next month.

Rangers Sign Bibby

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Right-hander Jim Bibby, who won 19 games and lost 19 for Texas Rangers last year, signed his 1975 contract Friday, the American League baseball team announced. The contract is reported to call for a salary between $30,000 and $40,000.

WFL Obit Upcoming

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The World Football League soon will announce the death of Florida Blazers, says player representative Mike McBath. He said he was told earlier this week that WFL president Chris Hemmeter had broken off negotiations with Orlando motel owner David Williams, the current holder of the Blazer franchise, after failing three times to get an appointment with the reclusive millionaire

Andruff Promoted

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens recalled forward Ron Andruff on Friday from Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League to replace injured right winger Guy Lafleur on their National Hockey League roster. Lafleur had a cast placed on his injured hand Thursday and is expected to be out of action for three to six weeks.

Belleville Bobcat Mike Crawford spent a lot of time hustling after the puck Friday night in the Cats 6-2 loss to Markham Royals in Markham. Crawford was one of the Cats best forecheckers in th game. Here, he takes control of a loose puck at the side of Markham netminder Steve Weeks. Gary Dillon (19) and Pat Morrison (24) weren't long in checking the Belleville centre. The loss knocked the Cats out of Metro Junior B playoff action.

Bobcats Bow Out of Playoffs

By MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

MARKHAM — The Belleville Bobcats, of the Metro Junior B loop, can hang up the blades for another season after dropping their third straight game to the Markham Royals, this one by a 6-2 decision Friday night.

The win gives the Royals the right to move on to the second round of the playoffs after winning the best of five series 3-0 over the Cats.

The Belleville squad made the trip in a familiar situation — short staffed. The Cats had a total of 15 players dressed, including two goaltenders, and Jim Richardson, who was playing against doctor's orders because of a shoulder injury.

Missing from the line of duty for the final game was: defencemen Dave Taylor, who had work commitments, Rick Langstaff, who aggravated a recent shoulder injury in Thursday's game, and Wally Dainard, who just didn't show. Also missing from the roster were Mike Watt and Paul King.

The Cats that did make the trip, most of whom have been steady performers throughout the season, gave an excellent showing of themselves and at one point the home team some anxious moments.

Both manager, Jim Mathews, and coach Bob Boyle, were disappointed in "the quitters" but were proud of the showing given by the remainder of the team.

This is the worst showing ever in the Cats three year history in the Metro Junior B ranks and the first year they haven't made it to the finals. But as one fan put it "you can't have a winner every year."

The Cats however have some very legitimate excuses for the poor showing including: the loss of some valuable players at the first of the season, a coaching switch in mid season, and one point that management is not going to let get out of hand next year: DISCIPLINE.

Lady luck it seemed had all but deserted the Cats completely as the home team opened the scoring with only 11 seconds gone in the first period. A screen shot from the point along the ce resulted in the first Royals goal.

The winners added two more tallies before the 20 minutes ended and appeared headed for a repeat of Tuesday's 11-4 thumping of the Cats.

Belleville came up with a strong performance in the middle frame holding the high scorng Markham forwards to one short handed marker.

Andy Ricketts scored the nicest goal of the game at the 18 minute mark of he period as his wrist shot streaked by goalie Steve Weeks into the top corner. This narrowed the Royals margin to 3-1.

Some terrible refereeing by Ed Leeds, who let the intimidator go but kept his eye open for any sign of retaliation, landed Ricketts in the penalty box setting up the fourth Markham goal. The locals until this time had been pressing, coming close on several counts.

The third period belonged entirely to the Royals as they out played the weary Belleville squad by a 2-1 margin.

Markham coach, Bill Purcell, at the conclusion of the game summer up, "It just seemed as if we had more legs than Belleville. I was confident that we could beat them on the larger ice surface."

The Markham club will now await the winner of the Peterborough-Kingston series, which could end tonight as Peterborough holds a 2-0 lead in games.

Coach Boyle was appreciative of the handful of Belleville supporters that made the journey knowing that the game might be the last. "It's good to see them win, lose, or draw there are still some true sportsmen left."

Boyle is planning quite a few "changes" for next season including some "new blood."

"This years been good experience for me," stated Boyle, "it's given me a chance to see the rinks and how the other teams operated."

with the clubs showing over

Matthews wasn't pleased the year except maybe at the box office His final statement: "I am just going to forget about the whole thing for about a week or so."

Hunter Wins Scoring Race

Belvedere Spoils Cornerstone's Stand

Belvedere Hotel played the role of spoiler in Friday night's Quinte Hockey League action as it downed Cornerstone Builders 6-5. The win moved Belvedere into sole possession of third place in the four team standings, but the Cornerstone loss allowed Reid's Dairy to move into a first place tie with Builders. Reid's beat Stinson 6-3 in the other contest.

Friday's games were the last of the regular schedule. The Dairymen and Cornerstone finished off the season with identical records. They each won 10, lost five and tied three, for 23 points.

Belvedere finished the year with five wins, nine losses and four ties for 14 points and Stinson Construction brought up the rear with four wins, 10 losses and four ties for 12 points.

Jason Morris was the big gun for Belvedere with a hat trick. Ron Urch, Errol Johnston and Dave Hallam each got one goal.

Terry Pope scored twice for Cornerstone and singles went to Phil Meeks, Norm Pope and Barry Pyear.

Another battle for first place took place through the games Friday. That was for first place in the league's point race. Until the games Friday, Reid's Moe Hunter and Stinson's Rick Rosebush had been tied for first with 33 points each. Hunter scored once and added three assists Friday while Rosebush went pointless. Hunter finished off the season with 21 goals and 17 assists in 18 games to take the title.

Ralph Plane scored three times to lead Reid's scoring attack. Other goals went to Ralph Boomhower, and Bob Smith.

Kevin Allen scored twice and assisted on Andy Pruden's goal for Stinson.

Reid's also topped the goalies race. Warner Hay and Jerry Bull were the Dairymen's netminders.

Playoffs begin Thursday. It has yet to be decided which team will officially finish in first. However in the playoffs, the first place club will meet the third place team and the second place finisher meets the fourth place finisher.

Hull Matches Rockets Record

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

Back in the 1944-45 National Hockey League season Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored his 50th goal in the 50th and final game of that season.

Since then, players in both the NHL and the rival World Hockey Association have attempted to equal the feat by the Montreal Canadiens winger. No one in the NHL has done it yet, but Friday night someone in the three-year-old WHA did.

Bobby Hull, the Golden Jet of Winnipeg Jets, matched Richard's effort with his third goal of the game at 18:27 of the third period as the Jets downed Houston Aeros 5-3 in one of five games.

In other action, Quebec Nordiques topped Minnesota Fighting Saints 7-3, Edmonton Oilers outscored Toronto Toros 8-4, New England Whalers edged Indianapolis Racers 4-3 and Cleveland Crusaders nipped San Diego Mariners 3-2.

At Winnipeg, a crowd of 10,418 littered the ice with debris after Hull took a pass from Ulf Nilsson and rifled a waist-high shot from 25 feet out that deflected off goaltender Ron Grahame and fell into the net

"This has to rank as one of my greatest satisfactions," said Hull.

"But I have to give a lot of credit to my linemates Ulf Nilsson and Anders Hedberg. We played as a unit all year long. If it hadn't been for them, I wouldn't have been able to do it."

Hull, 37, and a veteran of 18 NHL and WHA seasons, said the return of Rudy Pilous to full-time coach allowed him to concentrate more on his playing and relieved him of the burdensome role of player coach.

Pilous, who coached Hull when he played for Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL, said it was particularly gratifying to return as coach the night Hull had a chance to equal the 30-year-old record.

"It's a very momentous occasion for me. I coached him when he scored his first 50 goals."

Steve Sutherland fired three goals and Serge Bernier added four assists as the Nordiques continued their improved road play and increased their lead in the Canadian Division with their win at Minnesota. Quebec now leads second-place Toronto by eight.

Bobby Sheehan and Mike Rogers scored two goals apiece as the Oilers came from behind to top the Toros before 15,326 fans.

Tom Gilmore, Rusty Patenaude, Bruce MacGregor and Murray Kennett scored the other Edmonton goals with Richard Farda, Frank Mahovlich, Tony Featherstone and Rick Cunningham replying for Toronto.

At Hartford, Conn., Tom Webster's 27th goal of the year at 4:22 of the sudden-death overtime gave the Whalers their win over the Racers before 10,507 fans.

Goals by Ron Tard, Skip Krake and Al McDonough gave Cleveland its win over San Diego.

Rick Sentes and Andre Lacroix replied for the Mariners.

Tonight, the Jets are at home to Cleveland and Baltimore Blades entertain Chicago Cougars Sunday, Minnesota plays host to San Diego, Phoenix Roadrunners visit Edmonton, Vancouver Blazers are at home to the Toros and Winnipeg goes to Chicago.

Kingston Rink Takes Lead

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — "Just three more wins and we've got it," said Dr. Alex Scott when his Kingston Cataraqui rink took the lead after six rounds of the nine-draw Ontario men's curling championship Friday.

Scott defeated favored Ken Buchan of London, Ont., 7-6 in a game that wasn't decided until the last rock on the 12th end. The win gave Scott a 5-1, won-lost record and sole possession of first place in the four-day round-robin tournament expected to end today.

Behind the Kingston rink in standings are: London, Harry Adams of Ottawa Lansdowne, Bill Dixon of Brampton and Ron Manning of Toronto Lambton, all with 4-2 records; Jim Currie of Pickering, Doug Palmer of St. Catharines, Bill Martyniuk of Toronto High Park and Paul Savage of Toronto Avonlea, 2-4. Bruce Buchan's Toronto East York rink has one win in six starts.

Today's draws:

Seventh round: Brampton vs. Kingston; Pickering vs. Avonlea; Lambton vs. High Park; East York vs. London; St. Catharines vs. Ottawa.

Eighth round: High Park vs. Pickering; Ottawa vs. Brampton; East York vs. Kingston; St. Catharines vs. Avonlea; Lambton vs. London.

Ninth round: Ottawa vs. Kingston; St. Catharines vs. High Park; Brampton vs. London; Lambton vs. Pickering; East York vs. Avonlea.

In other sixth-round play Friday, High Park defeated East York 9-7, St. Catharines edged Pickering 6-5, Avonlea upset Ottawa 7-5 and Lambton dumped Brampton 11-5.

In fifth-round play, Ottawa downed London 7-5, Kingston defeated Lambton 9-5, Avonlea downed London 7-5, Kingston defeated Lambton 9-5, Avonlea edged High Park 6-5, Brampton beat St. Catharines 10-9 and Pickering defeated East York 10-5.

The winner of the Ontario final will advance to the Canadian men's championship in Fredericton March 3-8.

If playoffs are required after today's games, they will be held Sunday.

Scott's victory over Ken Buchan is considered by some observers as a possible harbinger of the final results. The two were considered early favorites, along with Savage, to capture the title. But defending champion Savage eliminated his chances at a fourth Ontario title when he dropped his first four games. He had won the title in 1970 1973 and 1974.

But Savage wants to play the spoiler today.

"We can't win now but we're going out there in the final draws and win some games," he said. "We have been playing well but have been getting bad breaks.

"We started slow and had some problems but we're coming on strong now."

Meanwhile, Dr. Scott is in a position that he didn't expect.

"I don't think we really seriously expected to go into te final day with a 5-1 record," he said.

"I feel the win over Buchan's rink may have opened the way to a possible championship for us. We were really quite fortunate to win it."

Scott took an early lead in the lengthy game, picking up three points on the second end.

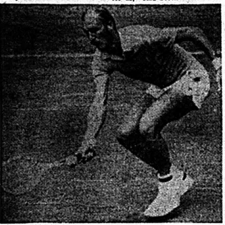
But a determined Buchan scored two in the sixth while Scott forged ahead in the seventh end, taking another two points and a 5-3 lead.

Buchan battled back in the eighth with two points and went on to steal another point in the ninth. Scott replied with two points in the 10th to take a 7-5 lead.

The 11th end was blanked. Buchan was faced with a challenge of picking up two points in the final end to salvage a tie and force the game into an extra end.

Scott froze his last shot in the 12th against the London rock, biting the four-foot ring. Buchan's final toss kicked the Kingston stone that had been lying shot but in the process he also knocked out his second stone, the rock needed for the tie. The game ended 7-6, with Buchan picking up only one point on the final end.

"The freeze on the 12th won it for us," said Scott.



Smith Hangs In

TORONTO (CP) — Stan Smith of the United States, plagued by inconsistency on the pro tennis tour, ran into more of the same Friday but still managed to pull through to the semi-finals in a World Championship Tennis tournament.

Smith advanced with a 6-7, 6-0, 7-5 upset over third seed Cliff Richey of the U.S. in the $64,000 tournament which winds up Sunday.

Smith started out winning the first three games in the first set and let it go to his head.

"I was overconfident at 3-0 but I got pretty discouraged when I lost the next game," said Smith.

"After winning the next set 6-0, it was pretty hard to keep the momentum going. I got tentative in the third set. But I gambled in my last service and I gambled in the very last game in my returns."

Meanwhile, top seed Marty Riessen of the U.S. advanced to the semi-finals with a 6-3, 7-6 win over Australian Phil Dent and Harold Solomon of the U.S. eliminated fellow American Paul Gerken, the No. 4 seed, 6-4, 6-4.

Today, Solomon goes against American Eric van Dillen who defeated fifth seed Bob Lutz 7-6, 6-4.

In doubles action Friday, Mike Estep of the U.S. teamed with New Zealander Jeff Simpson to beat Smith and Lutz 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 while Britain's Stan Cox and South African Cliff Drysdale defeated Solomon and Eddie Dibbs 6-2, 6-1.

Former Players Try to Buy Wings

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Former Detroit Red Wings Marty Pavelich and Ted Lindsay head a group trying to buy the National Hockey League club from Bruce Norris for about $10 million, the Oakland Press reported in today's editions.

The Press, in a story by sports editor Bruno Kearns, also said the Red Wings could play at a proposed arena in Pontiac if the sale is made. And it said that Norris is interested in possibly getting an NHL expansion franchise for Tampa or Miami, Fla.

A source close to the group negotiating for the Wings' franchise said Norris has a commitment from the NHL to put a franchise in Florida, The Press said.

Norris has a development corporation with main offices in Homosassa Springs, Fla., near Tampa.

Norris wants to sell Olympia Stadium, the Red Wings' home, as part of the franchise sale, The Press said. It added that the Pavelich-Lindsay group made an offer to lease the stadium.

Meanwhile, Robert Forte of the Opdyke Development Corp., said he expects to go ahead with plans to build a 16,500-seat arena on his 117 aces across from Pontiac Metropolitan Stadium. The stadium, still under construction, will be the home of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. Forte's plans call for a $200 million complex.

"Mortgage money is starting to loosen and I expect that by mid-summer we might know of our staritng plans for the arena and other phases of the complex," he said.

Midwest Playoff Berths Up in Air

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only three of the four teams are in the National Basketball can make the playoffs, and after two-thirds of the regular season, there's still no telling who's going to be the odd man out

Chicago Bulls have won 11 of their last 13 games, including a 105-87 decision over Golden State Warriors Friday night, and lead the Midwest by four games.

Kansas City-Omaha Kings, whose 132-112 triumph over Buffalo Braves was their eighth victory in nine starts, are now in second place by one percentage point over Detroit Pistons, 103-101 losers to Philadelphia '76ers.

And Milwaukee Bucks, who got off to a woeful start because of the injuries to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, have their centre back in top form and are just one game below .500 and 2½ games behind KC-Omaha after beating Cleveland Cavaliers 112-105.

Elsewhere in the NBA Friday night, New Orleans Jazz beat Houston Rockets 124-112, Boston Celtics defeated Phoenix Suns 112-106, Los Angeles Lakers beat Atlanta Hawks 108-100 and Portland Trail Blazers edged Seattle SuperSonics 90-88.

Favorites Win

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Favorites Jaynes Babe, Erin Surprise and Dusty Duff won featured events Friday at the Windsor Raceway.

Jaynes Babe, driven by Shelly Goudreau, posted the fastest mile of the current meet with 2:05 1-5 in the third to pay $4.10, $3, and $2.50.

Erin Surprise took the sixth in 2:07 4-5 to win the $5,000 Wellington Trot, returning $5.60, $3 and $2.50.

Dusty Duff scored an easy win in the $5,000 Detroit Drifters Pace in the eighth to pay $5.90, $3.30 and $2.70.

The daily double of Shelly Duke in the first and Superb Freight paid $667.30.

The fourth-race triactor of Easy Canoit, J Js Overalls and Bonnie Hawthorn paid $386.90, while Prin Tar, Dragon Hanover and Fire Creed returned $149.80 in the seventh.

In the ninth, Swift Express and Mr. Chrisedchas finished in a dead heat and combined with Brother Bret for exactors of $20.90 and $22.40. The 10th-race exactor of Hilltop Red and Kent Express paid $30.40.

A crowd of 6,168 wagered $576,895.

Wings, Canucks Dissatisfied With Official

VANCOUVER (CP) — Both winner and loser had unkind words for referee Ron Wicks after Vancouver Canucks edged Detroit Red Wings 5-4 in the only National Hockey League game played Friday night.

Vancouver forward Andre Boudrias, assessed a 10-minute misconduct for arguing with Wicks, said after the game that while Wicks is not a bad referee, incidents do happen when he's on the ice.

The Canucks played the last 51 seconds two men short when Vancouver's Bob Dailey picked up a minor and Wicks added a bench minor after Paulin Bordeleau threw his glove in the direction of the referee.

Boudrias then asked Wicks to measure the stick of Detroit forward — Danny Grant, but Wicks instead checked another player's stick, turned over from the Detroit bench. When Boudrias and Bordeleau protested, Wicks assessed the misconducts

"The only thing Wicks had to do was to tell the Detroit bench to give him a stick with the name of Danny Grant on it and measure it," said Boudrias. "That's all I wanted him to do and he gave me a 10-minute penalty for that."

Detroit coach Alex Delvecchio said Wicks should not have called a delaying-the-game penalty in the second period against goalie Jim Rutherford. Boudrias scored on the power play during that penalty.

Delvecchio said Wicks saw Rutherford cover the puck and then briefly let it go without acknowledging the gesture. When Rutherford recovered the puck, Wicks called the penalty.

The teams were tied 1-1 at the end of the first period on goals by Vancouver's Don Lever and Detroit's Larry Giroux.

Detroit jumped into an early 2-1 lead in the second period on a goal by Grant, but John Gould and Boudrias put the Canucks ahead for the first time later in the period. Grant scored at 18:32 to tie the game 3-3 going into the final frame

Grant scored his third of the game and his 35th of the season at 1:54 of the third period to put Detroit ahead 4-3. Ab Demarco tied the score at 17:15 and Dennis Ververgaert scored at 18:33 from directly in front of Rutherford for the winner.

IN MEMORIAM

GILBERT — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Reginald Earl Gilbert who passed away so suddenly on February 16, 1972.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near,
Only those that have lost can tell,
The sorrow of parting without farewell.

—Lovingly remembered by Elsie, Bill and grandchildren, Bob, Steve, Donna and Billie.

MACDONALD — In loving memory of a dear mother, Agatha Alma MacDonald who passed away February 13, 1969.

The midnight stars are shining,
Upon her silent grave,
Beneath it sleeps the one I love,
And the one I could not save.

—Lovingly remembered by son William, daughter-in-law Mary and grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

MEENS — In loving memory of our dear father, William Arthur, who left us on Feb. 16th, 1962.

Miller Considers Dropping Out

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "Well," said Johnny Miller, "if I can't win, at least it's nice to see my friends up there."

Miller, who shot another mediocre 73 and is considering withdrawing from today's third round of the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament, pointed to Billy Casper as the likely winner of the event.

Casper, once Miller's mentor on the tour and a long-time friend, was tied for the top spot with Rod Funseth, Miller's next-door neighbor in Napa, Calif., and New Zealand's John Lister.

All were at 137, seven under par, after two rounds. Miller, fighting a heavy cold, appeared to be ou of the chase at 146. One stroke more and the young man who has won three of his last four starts would have failed to qualify for the last two rounds.

"It all depends on what the doctor says," Miller said. "If it's cold and rainy and he thinks it would be smarter for me to pull out, I'll do it."

Casper, 43 years old and winner of 50 tour titles in a 20-year career, broke into a happy, high-stepping dance after holing a 40-yard pitch shot for an eagle that gave him a 68 and a share of the lead.

Funseth, 41, missed a birdie putt of less than a foot. He did his scoring from long range. He once chipped in, holed a 40-foot birdie putt and eagled the last hole with a 60-foot putt. His 67 was the low round of the cold, windy day.

Lister, in the fifth year on the American tour and still looking for his first victory, had an erratic 69 that included six birdies and three bogeys.

Veterans Ray Floyd and Phil Rodgers were next at 139, two shots back of the leaders. Each had a 71. Defending champion Bobby Nichols and six others were another shot back at 140.

First-round leader Peter Oosterhuis of England blew from an opening 66 to 78. George Knudson of Toronto shot a 74 for a 145 total.

Kingston Rink Undefeated

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — It took an extra end to do it Friday but Loyalist Collegiate of Kingston became the only undefeated rink after three rounds in the Ontario schoolboy curling championship, defeating Earl Haig secondary school of Toronto 4-3.

Toronto had a free draw and raised the Kingston rock which was about one foot in front of the empty house at the centre line to give Joe Dark's foursome the victory.

Also in the third round, Barrie beat Morrisburg 9-6 and London defeated Kitchener 4-3.

In the competition for the Ontario Curling Association's award, Hanover took the 10-8 victory in the one extra end played.

In the first round Friday, Kingston won 14-3 over Barrie and then beat London 11-6. Toronto had a 13-5 win over Kitchener in the first round and then forced Morrisburg to run out of rocks in the 10th end for a 12—3 victory.

Other first-round victors included London, 12-5 over Oakville, and Morrisburg, 9-8 over Hanover.

In the second round, Kitchener defeated Hanover 10-5 and Barrie beat Oakville 19-0.

Boy of 10 Shows Interest in Sex

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it unnatural for a boy of 10 to always have his mind on girls? By this, I mean he's always talking about their bust or their bodies.

And he is very aware of things happening to his own body. He has asked me many difficult questions about the human body.

Could you suggest what I should do, if anything?—Mrs. A.H.

The boy is approaching puberty and notices changes in his own body, so curiosity is not unnatural and can be expected.

However, this process has been greatly accelerated through mass communication, notably television, where commercials and general programming are quite explicit about the human body. Any reasonably bright 10-year-old gets much more sex information today than youngsters of my day.

Also, schools are developing sex education programs much earlier. Your son may be getting only what his peers are getting, but more of it is sinking in. Children with older brothers and sisters also get filled in sooner than others.

Perhaps some outspoken adult is in the habit of making explicit comments in his presence, increasing his already active curiosity.

There is the possibility that he is sexually precocious, but only an examination by a pediatrician could determine this. He would be looking for visible signs of premature physical development which creates an entirely different problem.

As to answering his questions, I suggest straightforward answers that emphasize the serious aspects of sexual characteristics. Ten is not too early to begin such serious conversations, preferably between him and his father. There are many good books available to parents for this purpose.

At 10, your son may be a bit ahead of schedule in his curiosity, but its presence requires special direction on his father's part as well as yours.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had two cervical polyps removed and they have recurred. Will douching with vinegar and water prevent their reappearance?—Mrs. V.G.

No, it won't. Recurrence of polyps is not uncommon. Another operation may be necessary. It's a simple procedure and can be done in the doctor's office.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a fasting blood sugar test (not a sugar tolerance test) be sufficicient to diagnose hypoglycemia?—E.M.

The single fasting blood sugar test might suggest hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), but only if the sugar reading is very low.

Blood sugar readings obtained in a tolerance test are more conclusive. These tests involve blood examination over a period of six hours. They are also far more conclusive than a single after-meal blood sugar test.

Curiously, a letter that arrived almost simultaneously with yours (from Mrs. J.S.) asked if a single fasting blood sugar test was conclusive in diagnosing diabetes (high blood sugar).

My answer to her question is the same as to you.

A reliable diabetes diagnosis cannot be made from a single fasting sugar test unless the reading is quite high. A tolerance test, as explained above, should be done for a conclusive diagnosis.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cher returns to CBS-TV Wednesday in a special that sets the stage for a new music-variety series she will begin for the same network.

The special—Cher's first since she and Sonny Bono split and lost their hit CBS series last spring—stars Elton John, Bette Miller and Flip Wilson.

It was to have been aired last Sunday, but was rescheduled when ABC decided to compete by running the movie, Airport.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — During his battle with the producers' rating administration over the restricted rating given to The Savage Is Loose, George C. Scott announced he will put his money where his mouth is.

He took advertisements in eight cities from New York to Union City, Mo., offering to repay parents who took their children to his film and agreed the R rating was right.

"I realize I'll be the victim of smart-alecks and rip-off artists, but I have faith in the public," Scott said.

His faith seems realized. A spokesman reports that he shelled out only $720 in refunds.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After a half-century in the spotlight, Jimmy Durante dropped out of sight when he suffered a stroke in November, 1972. Since then he has appeared at an occasional charity dinner, accepting applause from his wheelchair.

"I'm feelin' pretty good," the great Schnoz, 82, said over the telephone. "He's getting there faster and faster," said wife Marge.

She said he spends his day quietly, watching a lot of television and sometimes lunching at a delicatessen with his old pal and producer, Joe Pasternak.

Jimmy sometimes plays a few bars on the piano "and he sings a lot," Mrs. Durante said.

Opening lead — K♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby

East overtook West's king of clubs with the ace and continued with the queen and 10. South now had noted the fall of the jack from West, ruffed high and led a heart to dummy's king. East took his ace and returned a heart to put South back on lead.

South proceeded to draw trumps with three leads and plunk his jack of diamonds on the table. East followed. South went right up with dummy's ace, picked up East's singleton king and claimed the rest of the tricks.

"Hold your cards back," growled West.

"I didn't see his hand. I didn't have to," said South. "I was in the unfortunate position of having two chances to make my contract—slim and none. I took the slim chance and it materialized."

What South meant was that there was no chance for West to hold the king of diamonds. He had passed his partner's opening club bid and had already shown up with the king-jack of that suit.

With another king he would surely have responded. Hence the diamond finesse represented no chance. The play of the ace allowed for the slim chance that East would hold the singleton king.

Journey into the Past

Copyright 1975, Toronto Sun Syndicate

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

COPYRIGHT 1975, TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Can you walk through time into the future — or the past?

Most of us are accustomed to thinking of time as a river that flows irresistibly in one direction only. But does that never ever turn back upon itself?

On Aug. 10, 1910, two highly-esteemed English women experienced a foray into what some might call a time-warp.

Charlotte Moberly was principal of St. Hugh's College, Oxford, and her companion, Eleanour Jourdain, served as her secretary. The pair were sightseeing in Versaille, France.

Like many other tourists, they visited the Petit Trianon, one of the sumptuous palaces built by Louis the Fourteenth in the 17th century, and later lived in by the ill-fated Louis the Sixteenth and Marie Antoinette, who lost their heads during the French Revolution.

As they entered the garden of the Petit Trianon, both Englishwomen sensed a strange, unsettling atmosphere. Somehow, nothing about the place seemed right.

They met people — a gardener, soldiers, a woman in splendid clothes — who looked mysterious and ethereal.

The Englishwomen heard these people speaking French but as excellent linguists they recognized it as an unfamiliar, archaicy sounding French.

The came across landmarks of which they could find no trace on their detailed maps. Odd, uncharted paths appeared.

A pretty woman dressed in a long-outmoded cape sketched in a garden but didn't look up as they passed. However, a man with a pock-marked face whom both women later described as "evil looking," seemed to be following them.

In the distance, a band played unfamiliar music, although no band could be seen anywhere.

Curiously, no other tourists appeared during the time the two Englishwomen were in the garden. When they emerged from it, they felt as though some heavy cloak had been lifted from their shoulders — a cloak of dread.

Miss Moberly and Miss Jourdain, both brillian scholars, checked all the historical records meticulously. They discovered that the garden they had visited was identical to what it had been in 1798 — a hundred years before their time.

The French they had heard spoken was the language of that byegone era. The clothes worn by the people they had seen were the fashions of a century before.

Later, when the women returned to the garden it bore no resemblance to the one they had visited earlier. Everything was different — paths, landmarks, and especially the atmosphere, the feeling about the place. Gone was the dread.

The two women called the account they wrote of their experience, An Adventure — as indeed it had been. An adventure into the past.

Making Search

CALGARY (CP) — The search is on for the outstanding citizen of the century, the person, male or female, living or dead, who has contributed most to the city's development. The project is sponsored by Alberta Government Telephones and the Calgary Junior Chamber of Commerce and a panel of judges will name the winner in June.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, Feb. 16

Aries (March 21-April 19) If you don't know when to stop talking, you'll lose the sale. Let what you're promoting stand on its own merits; neither add nor detract.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll recognize the fact that something you're hoping to achieve will be a bit harder than you first thought. However, it is still possible.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your chances of getting co-operation from others is very good if you come straight to the point and spell out your needs clearly.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Friends of yours will have more respect for you if you stand by your principles, though that's your most difficult course for now.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Things won't come as easy for you as you'd like during the earlier part of the day. Don't be dismayed. Press on. You'll grab the brass ring.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be careful or you'll follow suggestions of one whose wisdom is of dubious worth instead of the practical advice of a proven friend.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you'll be tempted to do otherwise, centre your major efforts on serious goals. Something difficult, but rewarding, results.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take a firm stance so that your interests are protected in bargaining you enter into now. Be fair, but also practical.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your first ideas will not be your best where your work is concerned. Don't give up—try and try again.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you know socially has need of financial assistance, but is a poor risk. If you make a loan, make it a small one.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Things you're supposed to do for the family are apt to slip your mind till the last minute unless you list them in order of importance.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You have some self-doubts as to how you'll handle a tricky situation when forced to face it. Relax, you'll manage it very competently.

Monday, Feb. 17

Aries (March 21-April 19) Your financial and material prospects are very promising today. A channel of a confidential nature will open to add to your resources.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Don't be hesitant to ask favors from friends in a position to help. However, request nothing more than you would if the roles were reversed.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Something important will be achieved. You'll get most of the credit, though a lot of behind-the-scenes effort made it possible.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Persons with whom you associate today will have an enormous influence on your outlook. Select companions who are optimistic and active.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) A higher value than usual will now be placed upon your talents by others. Ask a top price for what you have to offer.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A big decision you'll make will be the right one, but circumstances beyond your control will also affect its outcome.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something profitable will come to you through one of your associations. It will be in payment of a service you've rendered.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) On-the-spot decisions you make today will prove lucky for you. This doesn't mean you should discard sound plans for hunches.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Set yourself a material goal—something that you want for your family. You'll be stimulated to greater efforts, earnings wise.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be fortunate today in dealings with those of the opposite sex, especially if you turn the charm on full-blast.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone is going to give you something for your home that he no longer needs. You'll have just the right spot for it.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You have a very convincing manner about you today. You will kindle enthusiasm in others when you discuss your ideas.

GET NEW TITLE

EDMONTON (CP) — Since the start of the year, wardens of provincial correctional institutes have been officially designated as directors. Bob Kng, director of correctional services in the Alberta solicitor-general's department, said the new title is "in keeping with the changing role" of the chief executive officers.

CP News Roundup

56 Charged By RCMP Drug Squad

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fifty-six persons, including four Ontario residents, were charged Friday with a total of 87 drug offences following what RCMP called its most successful under-cover operation here.

All told, 34 arrests were made in early-morning raids and warrants are out for 22 others. The charges mostly relate to trafficking of marijuana, cocaine and controlled drugs such as amphetamines.

Of those charged, including three juveniles, 25 are from Winnipeg, 18 from Brandon, eight from Thompson, one from Dauphin and two each from Kenora and Thunder Bay.

Insp. Brian Van Norman, RCMP assistant commanding officer in Winnipeg, said the six-month operation was the first in Manitoba since 1972.

Not Qualified

EDMONTON (CP) — A spokesman for the Alberta lands and forests department said Friday that a group of Ontario residents who want to homestead in the Peace River region do not meet provincial residency requirements

E. C. Wyldman, special assistant to minister Allan Warrack, also said the would-be settlers would face difficulty in obtaining grazing rights on land.

Hero Honored

OTTAWA (CP) — A taxidriver who brought a runaway transport truck unde rcontrol on a Montreal street in February, 1973, received Canada's second-highest bravery award from Gov.-Gen. Jules Leger Friday.

Marcel Belisle, 40, of Laval des Rapides was one of seven awarded the Star of Courage at a Government House investiture.

First Women

OTTAWA (CP) — The first two women assigned to UN peacekeeping duties in the Middle East with the Canadian Forces have been named by the defence department.

Capt. Violet Connor, 37, of Kingston, Ont., and Sgt. Mary Imoney, 50, of Dartmouth, N.S., leave Feb. 27 to join the United Nations Emergency Force in Ismailia, Egypt, for a six-month tour of duty.

Allmand Mistaken

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand's office said Friday that Rene Vaillancourt, convicted killer of a Toronto police officer, did not write the minister asking that he be hanged as reported in the press.

Officials in the minister's office said it is likely the minister confused Vaillancourt with another convicted murderer who wrote asking that his death sentence be carried out.

Education Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — About 7½ cents out of every $1 spent last year was spent on education, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

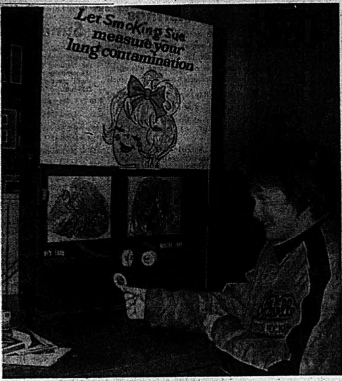
The total was $10.5 billion.

The total was $10.5 billion. About two-thirds of the total, or $7 billion, was spent on primary and secondary education.

Competition Welcome

OTTAWA (CP) — Organizers of the Olympic lottery say they are encouraged rather than dismayed by the prospect of competition from an Ontario government lottery this spring.

Raymond Beaulieu, assistant vice-president of Olympic Lottery Canada, said Friday an Ontario lottery almost certainly will stimulate booming sales of Olympic lottery tickets in the province.



Let Smoking Sue measure your lung contamination

Cancer Warning

Frank Fus, a 16-year-old Moira Secondary School student, shows what happens to a smoker's lungs with the puff of each cigarette. He is holding a filter from Smoking Sue, the Canadian Cancer Society apparatus which measures the amount of lung contamination from one cigarette. Frank was one of four area students who attended the Belleville branch's health awareness presentation Wednesday.

Campaigns Fail

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ontario government is "flying in the face of all the accumulated knowledge" with its $650,000 education blitz to convince motorists to wear seatbelts, the Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC) says.

Similar campaigns are proven failures in the U.S. and Britain, and should not be used to replace mandatory belt-use laws, says Ronald Cohen, a member of the CAC national executive.

Charge Interest

OTTAWA (CH) — The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) will loan $10 million to Cuba at three-per-cent interest over 30 years because the finance department objected to granting an interest-free loan, it was learned Friday.

Extension Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — Flora MacDonald, Conservative housing critic, urged the government Friday to extend the $500 homeowners' grant to people buying existing houses.

Takeovers Okayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Foreign Investment Review Board has approved the acquisition of three more Canadian companies by foreign interests, the Canada Gazette says.

Plans Test Case

TORONTO (CP) — A steward with the Ontario Racing Commission says he was not rehired for the $25,000-a-year position because he is a homosexual.

John Damien said he was offered $1,700 and asked to resign voluntarily and not make a public issue.

Harry Kopyto, Mr. Damien's lawyer, said he plans a test case before the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

Trudeau Ailing

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is not feeling well, his office said Monday when he did not attend the late-morning sitting of the Commons.

The spokesman said he has no details on what the problem is or whether Mr. Trudeau is another victim of the flu.

Deal Okayed

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has temporarily waived its trade boycott of Cuba to allow a Canadian subsidiary of an American firm to sell $500,000 worth of office equipment to the Fidel Castro government.

Acting on a state department recommendation, the treasury department issued a licence Thursday to Litton Industries to sell the material to Cuba.

Check System

TORONTO (CP) — Go urban, the magnetic-cushion rapid transit system that the Ontario government all but abandoned last November when the system's West German designers withdrew participation, is far from dead, Kirk Foley, president of the Ontario Transportation Development Corp., said this week.

Mr. Foley said Ontario currently has about 11 to 14 engineers in Munich checking the transit development system to see if it is feasible for Ontario to go ahead with its proposed program.

Lack of Communication Tangles Bail Handling

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial court judge says the entanglement of bail laws makes it difficult for courts in one community to know what is going on in another.

Judge Clare W. Morrison said in an interview Thursday that one of the problems is that there is little communication about bail among Ontario's 56 court communities.

Judge Morrison, president of the criminal division of the Ontario Provincial Court Judges' Association suggested a computer system to alleviate the problem.

Such a system, he said, might operate as a central clearing house into which court offices would program on a daily basis the names of people released pending their trial.

That list would be available in time for police and Crown attorneys to intervene and ask a judge to deny release in cases where an offender already is on bail from another jurisdiction, he said.

Ontario Big Loser In Travel Exchange

OTTAWA (CP) — Statistics Canada issued Friday a digest of travel statistics which showed, among other things, that Ontario is the biggest loser in inter-provincial travel

Ontario residents visiting other provinces spent more than twice as much as residents of other provinces did during trips to Ontario. The figures were for 1971, the latest available.

British Columbia had the best balance of tourism, followed by the Atlantic provinces, surveyed as a group, then by Alberta. Saskatchewan was the only other province with a net loss.

Other statistical facts in the 220-page book included this information.

—While the majority of foreign travel is to the U.S., of those who went elsewhere in 1972 about one-fifth visited the United Kingdom and another one-fifth other European countries.

—About 10 per cent of trips to the U.S in 1973 were for business reasons, 55 per cent for holidays and 27 per cent to visit friends or relatives. About 11 per cent of trips to countries other than the U.S. were for business, about 61 per cent for holidays and 26 per cent to visit friends or relatives.

—Canada was eighth among countries in earnings from international tourism in 1972.

—Preliminary figures for 1973 showed that there was a net loss of $248 million. Visitors here spent $1.394 billion and $1.124 billion was spent by U.S. residents. Canadians spent $1.684 billion abroad, $1.047 of the total in the U.S.

—Estimates of inter-provincial spending were: Atlantic provinces, received $41.1 million while residents spent $22.1 million; Quebec, received $57.9 million, spent $54.4 million; Ontario, received $60.2 million, spent $125.1 million; Manitoba, received $30.1 million, spent $25.4 million; Saskatchewan, received $25 million, spent $34.5 million; Alberta, received $60.9 million, spent $44.6 million; and B.C., received $66.4 million, spent $40.2 million.

The breakdown for spending in the Atlantic provinces was not available and Statistics Canada said some of the figures on interprovincial spending should be viewed with caution.

IBM Gets Contract For Ontario Computers

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario ministry of government services said Friday that IBM Canada Ltd. has been awarded a $16-million contract for computers at the government's three Toronto computing centres at Queen's Park, Downsview and Leaside.

It is the first time the government's computer business has been open to tenders.

The ministry said in a news release that IBM was the "lowest evaluated bidder" and that the award was based on the "lowest total effective operating cost, implementation cost and marketability."

Bids opened in October showed IBM bid a total $14,730,345 and Sperry Univac, a division of Sperry Rand Canada Ltd., bid a total $12,469,499.

D. A. Alexander, assistant deputy minister of management and information services, said adjustments to what the government wanted added to the total cost, bringing the total estimated cost of the IBM system to about $16 million.

Mr. Alexander was chairman of a four-man equipment strategy committee that recommended the IBM system be bought. He said a detailed analysis was made of prices originally bid and some of the government's work was processed with the suggested systems.

"When we did that, IBM was the lowest," Mr. Alexander said. "We feel that we've done a very fine job on this one."

Combines Investigators' Tactics Held Illegal

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal investigators into suspected combines law offences may have to change some of their search-and-seizure tactics because of a Federal Court of Appeal decision Friday.

The court unanimously refused a government appeal against an earlier Supreme Court of Ontario decision upholding companies' rights to refuse to hand over certain documents privileged between solicitor and client.

The director of investigation and research, appointed under the Combines Investigation Act, brought the appeal. Appearing against the director was Shell Oil (Canada) Ltd., which won the Ontario Supreme Court decision last September.

Officials from the corporate affairs department, which administers combines law, say the decision means inquiries by the director will be more time-consuming for the government, and more expensive for companies being investigated.

Cobourg Youth Awaits Sentence

COBOURG, Ont.(CP) — Reagh Stewart, 19, of Cobourg was acquitted of murder Friday in Ontario Supreme Court but found guilty of manslaughter in the shooting death of his neighbor.

Stewart testified during the 41-day trial that he did not remember pulling the trigger of the .12-gauge shotgun which killed Perry Giddings, 57, early last Sept. 1.

Stewart will be sentenced March 14 by Mr. Justice Thomas Zuber who ordered a pre-sentence report.

Millions Won

North Reaps Top Prizes

QUEBEC (CP) — The two $1-million prizes from the fourth Olympic lottery draw Sunday night were claimed early today by two groups of winners in Northern Ontario communities 75 miles apart.

Three women of Fauquier, Ont., shared the first $1-million draw while the second $1-million winners were two men of nearby Hearst, Ont.

The bonanza came as "an unbelievable surprise" to Mrs. Blanche Marcoux, 62, who shares $1 million with her daughter Raymonde Morin, 41, and a friend, Annette Gagnon, 36. The three held ticket number 6405101, purchased at a Caisse Populaire credit union branch in Kapuskasing.

The women said Sunday they had not thought about what they will do with the money.

The second $1-million ticket, number 5042918, was held by Michel Richard, 24, and his brother-in-law Roland Martin, 22. They said they purchased the ticket at a local corner store. Both plan to be in Montreal today to pick up the cheque

The two communities, each with a population of about 500, are situated 550 miles northwest of Toronto.

About 1,800 people attended the $22.9 million draw in Quebec's Grand Theatre where the nationally-televised one-hour lottery was broadcast live to a potential 12 million viewers.

Names of other major winners with ticket numbers 2919471, worth $500,000, and 6808336, worth $250,000, were not immediately known.

The $200,000 prize went to the holder of ticket number 4998167 while number 4010370 picked up the $150,000 prize.

The $125,000, $100,000 and $75,000 prizes were won by ticket numbers 3984575, 3475155 and 5787779 respectively.

The $50,000 winning numbers were 5926221, 3041691, 4078049, 2176262 and 2539671.

Persons holding the 59 tickets bearing the last five digits in sequence of the selected numbers win $5,000 each. The 540 tickets with the same four last digits are worth $1,000 each while the 5,400 tickets bearing the last three digits each win $100

About 80,000 ticket holders in the draw won prizes.

Majority Oppose Suggestion

Trustees Advised To Boycott Talks

TORONTO (CP) — A committee of the Ontario School Trustees Council recommended Saturday that the 141 school boards who belong to the council refuse to negotiate with teachers this year until provincial legislation is passed which defines terms of reference for collective bargaining.

The recommendation by the nine-member salary committee was debated at the end of the council's two-day salary conference of about 450 delegates. The resolution is not to apply to boards that have begun negotiations.

A minority supported the recommendation and a majority wanted it referred to local boards for reaction when committee chairman William Hillyer took a vote for the recommendation. Mr. Hillyer, of the Bruce-Grey Roman Catholic separate school board, did not call for votes against the recommendation.

John Tolton, chairman of the Toronto borough of Etobicoke board of education, said he doubted he could sell the idea to his board.

"It would be irreparable damage to what little relations we have left with our teachers," he said.

Marcel Tourigny of the Kapuskasing District Roman Catholic separate school board, said that "it's time for a showdown with the teachers."

Alberta Vote Gets Tangled With Tax Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Some of the first shots of the March 26 Alberta election campaign may be fired in the Commons this week.

Both Progressive Conservatives and New Democrats will be shooting from the hip as they try to score points here and in Edmonton in the continued debate on the government's proposed income tax legislation.

Debate on it is expected to last at least another two days this week as thousands of taxpayers await its passage so they can get 1974 income tax rebates.

Council Briefs Cabinet

Present Bridge Site Fits Official Plans

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Official plans for both Prince Edward County and Ameliasburg township point to the Bay bridge remaining in its present location, Belleville city council noted today

Controversial site for a new Highway 14 traffic link across the Bay of Quinte, was among issues raised by the council in its official brief to an Ontario cabinet team meeting for two days in the city.

The submission, presented by Mayor Robin Jeffrey, listed four reasons why the city feels any new structure should be built at the present Belleville—Rossmore site:

— Engineering of the city's arterial road system is based on the crossing at its present location.

— Servicing of Rossmore, across the Bay with drinking water from Belleville — already recommended by an area board — would be cheaper if the feeder pipe were incorporated into the new structure.

— The northend Quinte regional shopping centre draws consumers from around Prince Edward.

And: "We have noted with interest that official plans forwarded us from the County of Prince Edward and the Township of Ameliasburg and sent to the minister of housing for approval both indicated in the transportation section . . . the crossing location remaining as is," read the Mayor

"These official plan documents are 20-year plans."

The brief also asked that the preliminary study leading to selection of the new site be speeded up.

The 24-page city document also raised another transportation issue that has long pestered city planning — the waterfront Canadian Pacific freight line.

"The present location of the CPR on Belleville's waterfront is a deterrent to its development and its exciting potential," submitted the city.

Mayor Jeffrey asked if the province intends studying a transportation corridor or corridors for Eastern Ontario.

Council believes, she said, such a study would help resolve the problem that sees CP freight lines cut through "prime waterfront".

The study, she suggested, should include all Eastern Ontario municipalities. "Particularly those in the Quinte area which abutt . . Belleville. A study by our municipality alone would be unworkable."

Other proposals from city council:

— A change in municipal election polling hours to 9 a.m.-7 p.m., from the present 11 a.m.-8 p.m. This would mean prompter returns Voters — many of whom must travel during election day — would have an extra hour to ballot. Council is awaiting a study by the Association of Ontario Municipalities before deciding if December elections should be earlier.

Low-cost provincial loans to local governments so unserviced, vacant lands can be opened for housing and industry. In Belleville cost of servicing of a remaining 150 acres of vacant industrial land is estimated at more than $2-million. Cost of opening up 90 acres of vacant residential acreage is figured at more than $1 million.

A Quinte Parks Commission. A developmental agency similar to the St. Lawrence and Niagara Parks commissions, this would benefit municipalities in Prince Edward and Hastings counties. these counties need aid in setting aside properties and historic sites for their own citizens and those of Ontario as a whole.

"We know our lands and waterways are growing increasingly attractive to tourists," said the mayor. "We want them

Suburban Roads Setup Opposed

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville has asked the provincial government to repeal long-standing legislation that makes urban centres share road-building costs in neighboring rural areas along city boundaries.

Such a policy has become outmoded with the blending of development across municipal boundaries, Mayor Robin Jeffrey told the meeting of provincial resources cabinet ministers at the Four Seasons Hotel today.

Mayor Jeffrey was the first of the spokesmen presenting submissions at the two-day meeting between the cabinet team and representatives of local communities and groups across Eastern Ontario.

The cabinet delegation headed by Provincial Resources Development Secretary Allan Grossman, faces a session that includes debate and presentation of more than 80 briefs and submissions on problems and proposals involving the region, said the conference chairman.

At the outset of the conference, Mr. Grossman rebutted any suggestions that such on-the-spot local sessions between provincial government and community spokesmen were connected with promoting election opportunities in the next Ontario provincial campaign.

He said there "is some implication" such meetings are being held in the event of an election.

But such policy conferences across the provinces between various cabinet groups date back more than two years.

"We find the dialogue very productive both from the government point of view and the citizens in the responsible areas," he said.

"Some government policies have been enacted from these," he said.

Belleville's suggestion — that urban centres no longer be required to contribute to suburban road commissions — was one of seven issues selected by city council for its brief.

Such inter-municipal commissions involve cost-sharing between urban centres and neighboring townships in building and upkeep of what are classed as suburban roads. This means,

12 IRA Prisoners Eat Again

DUBLIN (AP) — Twelve imprisoned Irish Republican Army men have ended a 6½-week hunger strike but it was not clear whether the government agreed to segregate them from common criminals.

An IRA statement said the men ended their salt-and-water fast Sunday after a "satisfactory settlement" was reached with authorities at Portlaoise penitentiary 50 miles from Dublin. The statement gave no details of the agreement.

A goverment spokesman denied that it had given in to the strikers' demands that jailed IRA members be given the status of political prisoners.

Kissinger, Gromyko Hold Talks

GENEVA (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko opened talks today on propects for a Sinai settlement between Egypt and Israel.

U.S. officials said the Soviets so far had not been "actively obstructionist" in Kissinger's efforts to obtain another Israeli withdrawal in return for tangible moves by Egypt toward acceptance of the existence of Israel.

However, the Soviets have renewed pressure for early resumption of the Geneva peace conference, which the United States opposes for fear it would break down into a dispute over Palestinian participation.

Bermuda Hit by General Strike as Queen Arrives

HAMILTON (AP) — Bermuda is having a general strike and visits from Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and 10,000 holidayers from the United States. But the strike is expected to have little effect on any of the visitors.

The Queen and her husband arrived Sunday, hours after the 25,000-strong Bermuda Industrial Union began a general strike in support of pay demands.

Transport and sanitation workers have been on strike for a week, and the rest of the union members were ordered out after talks with the government broke down.

The Queen, who has a heavy cold, received a friendly welcome from thousands who lined the 12-mile route from the airport to Government House.

It is the Queen's first visit to Bermuda in 22 years. Later in the week she flies to Barbados and the Bahamas, then takes the royal yacht Britannia to Mexico for a six-day state visit starting Feb. 24.

Although many hotel employes are members of the striking union, the walkout had no immediate impact on the Americans jamming the island's hotels for George Washington's birthday weekend.

"I am confident we will carry on some way," said one manager.

The 660 transport and sanitation workers earn an average of $135 a week and seek a $25 raise. The government offered $16.

Speed Bridge Study

here because we can use the dollars they leave behind But, the job of setting asire lands to meet these increased tourist demands is beyond our capabilities."

Transportation Minister John Rhodes said the Bay Bridge study — a project that became complicated with alternative site suggestions when first announced last August — would be speeded up "as quickly as we can".

The provincial government, he said, was concerned with federal legislation involving relocation of railroad lines such as the CPR waterfront track. Such relocations involving the province had come to a halt until the Ottawa bill had been studied and more clearly defined on such matters as cost.

There also are no federal allowances for assisting with industry and business dislocated by such moves.

". . . Hopefully reasonable changes can be made," he said.

Tourism and Industry Ministry Claude Bennett said a big industrial park near Prescott, recently announced, would not interfere with industry developments in other Eastern Ontario municipalities.

He already has announced a plan for some degree of assistance in financing municipal industrial parks, although this has not yet had cabinet approval.

Such projects would be reviewed and the money spread across the required areas.

Provincial Resources Secreatary Allan Grossman, who is chairman of the conference, said cabinet ministers were sympathetic to the election act changes suggested by the mayor. A recommendation will be made shortly to cabinet, he said.

The province is signing the CORTS agreement this week with the federal government and this may solve some of the problems outlined in the proposal for a Quinte parks commission.

The CORTS document involved a federal-provincial study of recreational facilities along the Rideau-Trent-Severn system which also involved the Bay of Quinte.

Strike Still Uncertain

More may be known on the potential strike situation involving city hall employees early this week.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said Saturday she would not know any further information on events surrounding the possible walkout until later today — which sees both a caucus and regular meeting of council.

She was replying to a question from James Driscoll, city police commission chairman, during a commission meeting Saturday.

Local 140, Canadian Union of Public Employees, already has set an unrevealed strike date for its 43 technical and clerical workers at city hall. They can legally strike any time after this Friday.

Example from Youth

Peter Bennet (left) and Chris Walmsley, both 14, were told Saturday they set an example for adults to become more involved with crime prevention James Driscoll city police commission chairman, presented the youths with merit citations for help in solving a burglary last year, after they took a car number and gave key testimony in court hearing that convicted a man of the crime.

Concept Outmoded

said the mayor, that towns and cities must share in building costs outside their boundaries when the urban centres themselves are unable to allocate sufficient funds for their own road programs.

"The concept to build farm-to-market roads which rural municipalities could not afford to construct or maintain, no longer exists," she said.

"The townships surrounding cities are no longer poor, unpopulated rural areas. They are, in fact, fast becoming urban communities with commercial, industrial and residential development — and the resulting assessment dollars similar to cities."

The suburban roads network involving Belleville includes Wallbridge — Loyalist Road in Sidney Township, and a second route which runs across Thurlow township to Tyendinaga township. Both "bypass" the city, said the mayor.

Transportation Minister John Rhodes told Mayor Jeffrey, while no changes had yet been considered in suburban roads commissions, "you have certainly made a very valid point . . . and we will certainly be having discussions on it".

Other submissions scheduled for this morning included requests from the Quinte Planning Board (QPB) to resolve two issues troubling the board for the past two years: (1) A boundary dispute of its area caused when Brighton, Murray and Brighton townhsips quit the QPB. (2) Payment of an extra levy to Hastings County Planning area by QPB member municipalities Frankford and Sidney and Thurlow townships.

Trucks Collide

A collision between two out-of-town trucks early today on Highway 37 caused about $10,000 damage to the two vehicles but only minor injuries to three people involved.

Provincial police in Belleville said a flat-bed truck driven by Robert Brydges, 19, of Carleton Place and a dump truck carrying asphalt and marble chips driven by Edgar Timmons, 32, of Kettleby, Ont collided about 4 a.m. today.

The flat-bed truck, from Carleton Place, police said, was south on Highway 37 about a mile north of Highway 401, while the dump truck from Malton, Ont. was north on Highway 37.

The flat-bed truck ended on its side in a ditch while the other vehicle ended up on its side in the middle of the road. Both drivers as well as a passenger in the dump truck, Stephen Martin, 28, of Brampton, were taken to Belleville General Hospital where they were treated and released.

Police estimated total damage to the two trucks and the damaged cargo to be $10,000 to $11,000 Police said Brydges has been charged with driving to left of centre of a road.

Non-stop Dancing Nets About $2,000

The next time you hum I could have danced all night, stop and think about the 50 Moira Secondary School students who did just that this weekend.

Senior students at Moira are preparing for a day-long seminar on man's ability to adapt to a changing environment. But, a project like that costs money.

With a goal of $700 in mind, 24 couples took the cafeteria floor Saturday evening and began pounding their feet and moving their bodies. All the while, school staff manned pocket-sized calculators keeping a running total of pledges as the minutes ticked by.

When 5 a.m. rolled around, 12 couples were left.

Throughout the night and all day Sunday drive-in restaurants across the city donated milk shakes and hamburgers for the stalwart dancers.

When noon Sunday ticked into sight, a dozen were still dancing and by 4 p.m. their original goal had been passed and calculators were already signalling $1,300.

"It's fantastic," exclaimed Pran Joshi, a key figure behind the environment seminar. "By the 24th (Final) hour, we'll have raised about $2,000."

Like a merciless taskmaster, a student manning the record player chose vibrant music that would make an old man die and a young man pain.

After four hours of dancing a groan echoed through the otherwise sedate corridors of the school. The disc jockey had just announced 20 minutes to go before a 20-minute break.

With the success of the dance-a-thon, Reflections of Man is now a surety. The majority of funds will be used for honorariums and expenses for some 40 guest speakers expected to lecture at the seminar.

The seminar will be held April 23 and will deal with a broad range of subjects including mass media, the arts and justice.

The event is open to the public beginning at 9 a.m. For further information contact Moira Secondary School.

Mishap Claims Life

TRENTON — A Toronto area man died Sunday when his car flipped over five times, three miles west of here on Highway 401.

David Robert Shortt, 25, of Greenwood, a community north of Ajax, was pronounced dead at the scene of the single-car collision by acting Brighton coroner Dr. C. D. Milton.

Provincial police say the Shortt vehicle went out of control, it travelled along the north shoulder of the eastbound lanes before crossing the roadway to the south shoulder where it flipped over five times.

Threat Brings Call For Protective Clothes

City police are to investigate what equipment is available to more fully protect officers on bomb-scare searches.

The issue was raised Saturday by Mayor Robin Jeffrey as she recalled for city police commissioners the bomb threat that cleared city hall during a council meeting two weeks ago.

But said the mayor, as she and others left the building she pondered the safety of the officer.

The call empited the building — save for police who had to make the search, which re-

The call emptied the build-vealed no explosive devices.

But, said the mayor, as she and others left the building she noticed the officers didn't appear sufficiently protected for such a possibly-dangerous assignment.

Despite the fact the search showed nothing dangerous "we don't know in today's society," worried the mayor. "I'd hat to think one of those men might have tripped over a wastepaper basket (with a bomb) and killed himself."

"I know it's their job, but I couldn't help but think they should have been wearing some kind of protective garment—," she said.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said his force has bullet-proof vests.

But he would investigate availability of any other protective equipment — including headgear — with police and military sources.

While the city has no bomb-disposal experts, there's a standard procedure where explosive safety personnel are immediately sent from CFB Trenton if a bomb is ver found by city police, said the chief.

Blaze Guts Home

TWEED — A Saturday afternoon blaze in Crookston — five miles east of here — has left the Salladown family homeless.

Fire and police sources at the scene, said the fire originated in the attic of the single-storey home. Damage is estimated in excess of $30,000.

The Madoc Township fire department responded to the blaze shortly after 2 p.m. Saturday. The 14 men fought for three hours to bring the fire under control.

Graduates Honored

Graduates Honored Donna Thrasher (left) and Vivian Wilcox were two of 20 area student to graduate from a provincial Health Care Aid course Saturday. Moments before mounting the stage, Hastings Manor nursing director Shirley Foster straightens Mrs. Thrasher's corsage.

Health Care Aid Course Yields 20 New Grads

A score of Belleville and area men and women were presented with graduation certificates Saturday night following successful completion of a Health Care Aid Course.

The course — centred about Hastings Manor — was a joint project of three provinical ministries, Education, Colleges and Universities and Health.

The course covered over 440 hours dealing with the psychological and physical needs of patients. Loyalist College and Hastings Manor were the classrooms for the course.

Graduates are Shirley Bennett, Robert Brennan, Helen Bradshaw, Carolyn Carr, Margaret Cockburn, Carole Colclough, Brenda Deline, Irene Godfrey, Rita Horslen, Christine Orr, Gloria Peake, Isabelle Poole, Shirley Roblin, Theresa Theriault, Donna Thrasher, Vivian Wilcox, Marvin Luffman, Yeshi Wankhang, J. D. Rongae and Shirley Shipman.

Several of the class have been working for a number of years in Quinte area institutions.

Offices Looted

Two Belleville industries were vandalized and robbed this weekend with total financial loss reported to exceed $5,700, city police say.

Stanley Structures and Standard Paper Box were both entered sometime after business hours Saturday with thieves smashing plate glass windows in both instances.

At Stanley Structures, two plate glass windows valued at approximately $350 were broken as thieves made their way to the main office area.

In that occurrence, bandits made off with eight calculators and an IBM electric typewriter. A cash box was forced open and left untouched was "about six or seven dollars in change," a city police spokesman said. The same spokesman said the office area suffered "extensive damage."

The total cement company loss is estimated at $3,100.

At Standard Paper Box, thieves ransacked the office said a police spokesman. Some office equipment was stolen with its value estimated at $1,500.

Company officials are checking inventory to determine if any other items were taken.

Neighbors Donate Cash To Cheer Injured Youth

The neighborhood spirit is alive and well on Belleville's West Hill.

At least that's what young Jamie Forster discovered Saturday after a weekend home from hospital.

Jamie, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Forster, 13 Octavia St., is being treated at Kingston's Hotel Dieu Hospital for a severe hand injury.

Just 12 days ago—the day after his birthday — he lost the fingers of his left hand in an accident with a planing machine in the workshops at St. Michael's Academy.

He's a well-known playmate among youngsters in his neighborhood as an enthusiastic hockey, lacrosse and road hockey player.

He's also know to adults — notably Bill and Erma Marcenko, who run the local grocery store on West Bridge St.

People send gifts to hospital patients. The Marcenko's decided to involve the whole neighborhood in such a gesture.

They set up a glass jar for donations in their store.

"We thought we'd do it just to cheer him up. He's an awful cheerful boy all the time anyway — he comes into the store all the time," explained Bill Marcenko.

The donations came in as pennies, nickels, dimes, bills, — "from kids and adults," said the store owner.

Saturday, with Jamie home for a few days between treatment, the jar was taken to his home by Mr. Marcenko, his son Mike, 16, and Timmy Jaques, 12, both playmates of the injured youth.

By that time the donations totalled $45 and a surprised Jamie wasn't immediately sure what he'd do with it.

"Save it, I think," he said.

There was only one disagreeable sequel to the whole neighborly project, said Mr. Marcenko.

He said he'd had reports that youngsters had been falsely canvassing for donations in the John St. area for Jamie's neighborhood fund.

"We never sent anybody," said Mr. Marcenko. "All we had was the jar in the store."

Neighborliness

Jamie Forster, 13, of Octavia St., was surprised Saturday on return trip from hospital to find neighborhood youngsters and grownups had donated $45 a surprise gift. The collection was started by local store owner Bill Marcenko after youngster lost fingers in accident at school workshop for which he's still undergoing hospital treatment.

Hayes Finally Gets Medal

It's taken 10 years, but the man whose name once was a Quinte byword for law and order has finally won formal, official tribute for his service dedication.

J. Clare Hayes ended 33 years police duty in 1965 when he retired as Belleville's deputy police chief — ending a career that began as a one-man law enforcer who organized everything from rustling vigils to murder hunts in Hastings County.

But "through an oversight" authorities forgot to award him due recognition for such public service Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said Saturday.

The city's police commission rectified things as it presented Mr. Hayes, now 75, with his government long-service medal — with two clasps.

And, fittingly, the formalities were performed by a man who shared many a crime watch with the veteran. Commission chairman James Driscoll was a member of the then tiny detachment of provincial police in Belleville in the 1940s when Mr. Hayes was a lone municipal lawman in the Tweed area.

"We worked with each other for many, many years and we solved a lot of crime together," recalled the commissioner as he presented the medal, recollecting earlier times when law enforcement in the county and surrounding townships was sparsely manned.

Born at Enterprise, Mr. Hayes started life as a Canadian Pacific telegraph operator and relief despatcher at 17 — after four years had been added to his job application age. With the economic slump of the 1930s he entered police work — becoming police chief for Tweed.

"Sometimes you had to be a policeman, magistrate and Crown Attorney," recalled Mr. Hayes.

As such, he developed a reputation as the nemesis of rowdies, rustlers, bootleggers and thieves. Involved in murder cases, he twice was assigned to escort condemned men to the scaffold.

In 1944, he quit Tweed to become investigations inspector for the Belleville police which was slowly beginning to grow as new urban problems arose. For the next two decades he headed cases involving major crimes in the city.

As such he also became known for his professional expertise in the rules of law — a talent that apparently brushed off on the family.

His son, Fred C. Hayes, entered law and now is chief judge of Ontario's provincial criminal court division.

On his retirement in 1965, the veteran's experience was put to work as a justice of the peace and handling traffic court cases — assignments from which he retired two years ago.

But the memories of his law enforcement days still evoke ready comment.

"I enjoyed my work as a police officer very much," Mr. Hayes told the commissioners. "It was a great experience in life."

Medal at Last

J. Clare Hayes, veteran Hastings and city law officer finally received his long-service medal for 33 years police service Saturday. Police commission chairman James Driscoll hands the official tribute to the veteran, once Tweed police chief who retired as Belleville deputy chief in 1965. But, through "an oversight" the medal was not awarded until 10 years later.

Two Area Youths Get Merit Awards

Two teenage Belleville residents were told Saturday they ar examples for adults to get more involved in creating a law-abiding community.

The praise came from the city's police commission for Peter James Bennett, 301 Victoria Ave., and Chris James Walmsley, 303 Charles St.

Both 14, they stumbled on a burglary last May on Charles St., took the licence number of a getaway vehicle and gave key testimony at hearings that eventually cnvicted the thief, said police.

". . . Without their actions it's difficult if this case could have been brought to a successful conclusion," Police hief Douglas Crosbie told the commision.

The youths received merit citations, the second occasion on which such awards have been made by the commission which now feels such gestures might profitably prompt citizens in aiding law and order

"Whereas the seniors should be setting an example, you're setting an example for the seniors," commission chairman James Driscolle told the teen-agers.

"I can't express how completely grateful we are to you both. If we could get more citizens involved in this community we would have less crime," he said.

Last month the commission awarded citations to two brothers who helped rescue a man whose car had plunged in Belleville harbor.

Pick Up Trash Or Else!

Police this weekend made the punishment fit the crime — and didn't have to lay a charge.

Queen St. residents early Saturday called police and complained of two youths kicking over garbage bags and containers, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie told a meeting of the city police commissioners later in the day.

The officers found refuse stretched from John St. to Bleecker Ave. — about eight blocks, said the chief.

He said the officers gave the youths one alternative: Either retrace their steps, clean up the mess, or be charged.

The official report laconically stated the choice accepted:

"They decided to pick up the garbage."

Bridge Planning

Transportation Minister Rhodes' has warned that preparations for a new bridge across the Bay of Quinte will be protracted, and that whichever site is chosen it will not please everyone.

This is another way of getting the Government off the hook as it were, so that whenever the ultimate decision is made it will be pretty well a case of "take it or leave it."

Yet when all is said and done over the next 18 months or so, the case for a bridge at the site of the present link across the bay must remain a strong one. It is the route that has served for many years, it ties in with existing facilities on either side, and about all that would remain to be done is the planning.

But it is not going to happen like that. Ahead lies the tortuous process of public lobbying and kicking of political footballs between here and Queen's Park. It is one of the prices we pay for the democratic process.

Meanwhile a suggestion seems to have taken hold that people in Rossmore and Ameliasburg township favor relocation of the bridge from its present site. This is far from being the case as witness a recent petition favoring the present site and the township's reversal of its earlier support for relocation.

Local History

A concern for the past, gaining momentum in our midst in recent years, has been given further affirmation in this area.

For instance, three students and a teacher from the Toronto area have applied for an Opportunities for Youth grant for underwater explorations in Prince Edward County waters.

They hope to probe the sites of known shipwrecks and donate any findings to local museums.

It is reminiscent of the explorations in the provincial interior by former Bellevillian Ed Imhoff who originally planned ship probes in the St. Lawrence but switched to searching for artifacts of the voyageurs.

On a larger scale there have been other marine explorations in different parts of the world, the most notable perhaps being the uncovering of Spanish treasure from the waters off the County Antrim coast of Northern Ireland — fantastic finds by Belgian diver Robert Stenuit from the sunken Armada vessel, Girona, which went down in 1588.

Yet another initiative locally is one being undertaken by Bob Huggan and Howard Mandel, communications arts teachers at Loyalist College. They are studying and photographing different movie theatres in this area and hope to record it all in book form with the aid of a Canada Council grant.

With the demise of many theatres such as these, the Loyalist faculty members' effort is timely. The Belle theatre locally is one which closed with the steady decline of moviegoing. The Regent in Picton is another, although we recall it was opened for the summer season a couple of years ago. Between one thing and another the movie scene for many of the older houses is summed up in the title of the Larry McMurtry novel, The Last Picture Show. The Huggan-Mandel publication could be an interesting record of a passing era.

Cops and Robbers

The police in the Niagara and Buffalo regions seem to have great fun. That business about the Buffalo police pursuing a Canadian car back across the border is evidently common enough — and in both directions.

No concern, it would appear, as to border markers: there's a quarry for the police and by golly they will get their man, even if it means crossing into the other country. Now we understand how a draft dodger was caught on Canadian soil and dragged back into Washington a while ago, although he was set free eventually.

Perhaps it is all in the game. Even the Americans complain about Canadian takeovers of vacation property, as manifested by heavy Canadian purchasing in Washington state. As a U.S. official said recently with a laugh: "when the Canadian elephant leans on us, we notice."

The police chases however are less of a laughing matter, and it is something authorities on both sides of the border are going to have to discuss.

'Ilicit' Rum and All That

Wartime Legends of French Islands off Newfoundland

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

There was a great story in the old pre-unification navy, the never-to-be-forgotten Royal Canadian Navy, about a naval officer in Halifax who sailed on leave to the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon to pick up duty-free booze, mainly rum.

This illegal horde was brought back to Nova Scotia and sold to fellow naval officers and other friends.

Well the story says that our naval officer, perhaps an apocryphal one, had selected a cache for his haul alongside a highway leading to Halifax and dumped it there while he took orders in naval barracks, HMCS Stadacona.

How was he to know the site he chose was an Indian reserve or that its inhabitants would find the liquid horde and polish off every last bottle.

The result was a reserve filled with drunks, many of the members fighting each other and police had to be called.

The source of the liquor drop from St. Pierre and Miquelon was traced back and I believe said naval officer was fined accordingly, probably the full customs charge.

Naturally my vision of St. Pierre and Miquelon has been considerably colored by this story and by remembrances of fellow naval officers from the misty past who sailed off on long leaves, heading I wonder where?

The other vision of St. Pierre and Miquelon, for a columnist who has never set foot on this tiny piece of France left in the New World, is a totally passive one in comparison to the rum caper.

Several years ago my mother-in-law, swept up by the local learn-French craze, all by herself went to live on the islands for a month with a French family.

The visible and continuous result of this quiet junket was that she did not learn to speak French but became a lifelong subcriber to Maclean's French-language edition.

So much for the pull of Canadian nationalism, 13 miles off the shores of mainly Anglo-Saxon Newfoundland in the North American bosom, tiny as that is, of la belle France.

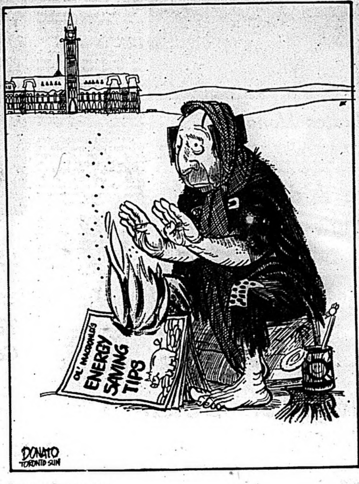
And now at long last there is a news story from the tiny islands. It is about a split in political opinion, it would seem, between many of the inhabitants over the ruling style of Gaullist-thinking Governor Jean Cluchard and Socialist Mayor Albert Pen of St. Pierre, the colony's capita, a gent who also happens to be the senator for St. Pierre and Miquelon in the French Senate.

The governor, an apparently self-assured fellow, arrived last August and has been accused of arrogant ways. The whole issue was brought to a head when he "imported" 65 gendarmes from the island of Martinique, one of a cluster of tiny islands also belonging to France in the Caribbean to keep the peace.

A protest parade of 2,000, which must make it a very big turnout for St. Pierre, followed the mayor to the governor's residence, putting it bluntly that he could serve best by leaving soonest. The whole incident is before the minister of overseas territories in Paris for a solution.

Remember the interesting suggestion from MP Max Saltsman last year that Canada should annex the tiny Turks and Caicos islands in the Caribbean?

It wasn't a bad idea at the start, a piece of Canadian-owned sun-drenched beach and warm tropical waters. But he didn't know then how much trouble these offshore small islands could be . . . did he?



Energy Resources

Ottawa's Goal is Self-Sufficiency

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Self-sufficiency in energy is the goal set for the United States by none other than Richard M. Nixon.

Now, after a graceful lapse of time, our government has said that it will be Canada's goal, too.

Between now and 1983, we are to phase out shipments of oil to the U.S., and keep it all for Canadian use.

In proclaiming our new national priority, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald seemed not so much to be concerned about the task of coping with the possible loss of our self-sufficiency in oil, but rather about the social philosophy of conservation.

According to Mr. Macdonald, Canada should be moving away from "an economy obsessed with quantity, to one that places a premium on quality—and from a society founded on competition to one based more on sharing and compassion."

But who, in the final analysis, is "obsessed?"

Could it be our prime minister, whose official life-style appears to grow increasingly imperial, and who swallows whole the dubious Club of Rome predictions of imminent starvation and collapse?

And before we dismiss competition, let's remember that a competitive market system has helped to bring us one of the world's highest living standards—far higher than in those countries in which authoritarian regimes have eliminated competition.

Messrs. Trudeau and Macdonald apparently see the people of the world, and of Canada, as so many abstractions.

But the sacrifices that they are proposing must be made by real people—the factory hand who has no choice but to drive between home and plant, the old couple who must keep warm or risk serious illness.

Should their modest life-styles be turned upside-down because of an unproven scarcity, in a country so richly blessed with energy resources?

Let it be granted that domestic energy supplies are not growing apace with consumption.

Despite higher prices for oil and gas, there was a decline last year in drilling for new reserves.

The blame, however, must go to federal and provincial government policies. It is their eagerness to grab more and more revenue that has made the producers' share too small to stimulate drilling.

Surely it would make more sense for governments to encourage the greatest possible expansion of our energy reserves, than to pursue their abstract and paternalistic quality-of-life policies.

And it would also make more sense to explore the possible advantages of continued Canada-U.S. energy sharing before we smugly slam the door on the Americans.

Co-operation is not necessarily a dirty word. Access to the U.S. market has always been a spur to discovery of new oil and gas deposits—and Ontario consumers have had the benefit of low-cost U.S. coal.

Next time the flow of Middle East oil is cut off—as it has been four times in the past 15 years—it would be more comforting to have a nearby partner than an ability to accept scarcity, discomfort and illness with equanimity.

The Prickly Issue of the Strap

Ontario Public School Men's Teachers' Federation News.

"A pupil shall submit to such discipline as would be exercised by a kind, firm and judicious parent."

That's what the Regulations have said for a long time and still say.

And for most of those years, this statement was a license for strapping. One slap, two, three, 10 or 12. All properly done with some fatherly advice, appropriate witnessing, and accurate recording in the book — date, time, number of slaps, etc, etc.

In 1969, caught in the fervour of a "new" approach to child chastisement, then Minister of Education William Davis changed all this. Well, not exactly. While his feelings as a person and parent of five wanted it removed, his political judgement prevailed and he said something less. The strap, he decreed, was "not appropriate" in schools and teachers should "refrain" from using it.

And what's happened since then?

Toronto and London boards of education banned its use. The London Board recently reaffirmed its position by a narrow margin. In taking this action, it raised the hackles of the local teachers who are pro-strap. A London survey shows 83 per cent of teachers and 60 per cent of parents want the strap reinstated as a disciplinary device.

A recent telephone survey of a mixture of boards — about 25 — showed no other boards with a total ban on the strap. Most allow its use but discourage it. Some, such as both public and separate school boards in Ottawa are re-viewing the situation with new guidelines forbidding its use a possibility.

It's a mixed-up situation at best. Education Minister Wells says he has no intention of banning the use of the strap in Ontario schools. He sees no need to change government regulation which condone strapping school children. At the same time, he acknowledged that as Minister of health he supported the policy of firing staff who used corporal punishment on children in institutions operated by the health ministry.

Pro-strappers seem to share the same forked-tongue position. They talk about their concern for more staff and better psychological services for some children while whacking the daylights out of the same kids for misbehaving. While their concern is undoubtedly genuine, they weaken it by insisting on retaining the strap as the ultimate weapon. By providing an option, more support services OR the strap, they deflect attention from the real focus; children and their needs.

"And God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power." 1 Corinthians 6:14 The surest thing about life is that it continues. The greatest thing is that it can continue with Him. "O grave where is thy victory." Jesus said, "Because I live, ye shall live also." "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father." John 14:12. The greatest miracle is the new birth, and for those who will believe, it is only the beginning. Jesus wants to live out His life again and again by way of His Spirit in each of us. Why don't we let Him?

Beaver as a Canadian Symbol Has Champion in Sean O'Sullivan

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — When, a few weeks ago, Sean O'Sullivan PC — Hamilton-Wentworth introduced a bill in the Commons that would make the beaver an official emblem of Canada, there was laughter all around the chamber.

He smiled too—but just like John Diefenbaker smiled when he accused the government, two years ago, of substituting the word Police for RCMP on their buildings across Canada. There was laughter then, too, as few in the House took the matter seriously.

But letters of support flowed into the office of the former prime minister, and letters of protest flowed into the office of Solicitor-General Warren Allmand. A few weeks later it was announced that the change would be halted and the initials RCMP would be restored on buildings and cars.

Mr. O'Sullivan, at 23, is 56 years younger than Mr. Diefenbaker, but as a former executive assistant to The Chief, he is not without his political savvy.

If his private members' bill on the beaver goes down the drain like so many other such bills it won't be for lack of political effort. At the moment there are indications the matter might reach committee study in a matter of weeks.

Mr. O'Sullivan decided to give the beaver official status after the state of New York began proceedings to make the animal the official emblem of that state. He was upset that the beaver, which appeared on Canada's first stamp, the five-cent coin, and other Canadian productions, was on the verge of being "stolen" as an emblem.

But, in the normal course of events, his bill, at the bottom of a long list of private legislation, would not be heard for many months, if at all.

However, he had another bill high on the list, and as a result of persistent behind-the-curtain negotiations, there is a good chance that when this other bill is called on Feb. 21, there will be unanimous consent to substitute the beaver bill instead.

Furthermore, unless some individual MP throws a last-minute curve, there is a better-than-even chance that the bill will be referred to committee and perhaps even approved.

Normally these private members' bills are "talked out" during the one-hour devoted to their consideration. Then they die on the order paper.

But Mr. O'Sullivan, fueled by more than 11,000 signatures of support, is confident this issue is going somewhere. Several hundred letters have arrived in his office, all supporting the beaver, and he says that Senator Bernard Smith of New York was astounded by the reaction from Canada.

"By making the Americans aware of our feelings, I hope we can convince hem to find a more suitable alternative," he says.

Many of the letters and petitions have come from school children. "We, the undersigned, find it a deplorable situation when our 'neighbors' decide to steal one of our favorite animals and emblems. . . ." says one petition.

"If the beaver goes, we go," says another.

Many of the signatures were sent to the CBC radio program As it happens, which canvassed support for the legislation. Most have been forwarded to the New York legislature.

"I don't think New York will adopt the beaver if we do," says Mr. O'Sullivan. "But if we don't do something, they very might well have it as their emblem."

Meanwhile, he is leaving no political stone unturned in his efforts to get his bill through the House. And Mr. Diefenbaker is not saying anything—just like a principal keeping a quiet eye on a favorite student.

Ontario's Lottery Plan Under Way

By ON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Well Ontario is going to have a lottery all right.

The prizes haven't been set yet. And the price of the tickets haven't been settled.

But the one real confirmation has gone through.

Advertising agencies (Hayhurst and McConnell) have been appointed to handle the advertising promotion.

There was a certain government presumption shown in this.

For though the Lottery Act had gone through the house before the appointment of the agency was announced, obviously negotiations had started while the members still were debating the legislation and deciding whether we should even have a provincial lottery.

Now that we have it, however, let's try and do something about it.

Let's take a look at Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, and instead of being jealous, adopt some of his zeal and imagination.

Since Expo 67 and before, Ontario and Toronto have really appeared bush league.

Drapeau has done big things, cosmopolitan things.

Expo was the biggest sales promotion Canada has had throughout the world in this century.

Securing the Olympics and finagling the financing was a spectacular triumph.

It redounds to the credit of all Canada.

And the voices we have heard recently, such as those proposing that the Games should be held across Canada, can't really be regarded as anything but sour, and very small grapes.

Drapeau had the vivre and the imagination to go for a big project. The rest of the country, trying to cut in, would have to look like a very small boy trying to hitch a ride on a very big truck.

So let's hope we get rid of this old Ontario inhibition.

If we are going to have a lottery let's take a look at Drapeau and do it as he would do it.

Let's make it big time.

Let's have a million-dollar first prize. He has shown us it can be done.

Let's have a lottery which will be sold across America, if for no other reason than to show the rest of the continent that besides Quebec there's another big-time area in Canada: Ontario.

CFB Boost to Trenton Carnival

The Trentonian

Leave it to the armed forces.

That annual winter carnival is really something. The amount of organization it takes one can only guess. The amount of enthusiasm it generates one can see.

Base personnel have long done such things in this area, often in conjunction with Trenton. But the ideas and the impetus come from them, and they have helped to make things hum when otherwise they might have been hum-drum.

Trenton has plenty of scope for similar opportunities in many areas. To a limited degree the town does it with annual fishing contests on opening day, and some special events. But we seem not yet to have taken full advantage of the natural assets we possess, and how we might use them to promote civic spirit.

Much has been done. It is quite obvious that much more can be done.

The St. John Ambulance Service

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

A brief news item on the front page of your second section of Friday's newspaper made reference to a decision of the Marmora and Lake Townships Council. The Council has every right to decide its policy on donations but the statement that, "the St. John Ambulance Society charges for their services" is incorrect.

Their misunderstanding could be based on the confusion between the Association which charges a fee for its 16-hour courses to cover books, bandages and remuneration to lecturer and examiner, and the absolutely volunteer work of the uniformed members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

There are some organizations, such as the Quinte Fair Board, for which the Brigade does much public duty, who show their appreciation by making donations to the local branch, and more recently having the Mobile First Aid Post repainted for St. John. However, this money goes into the local budget, is reported to United Community Services and subtracted from allocation. Not one cent goes to any uniformed member for services.

In 1974 the adult Division alone provided over 3,900 hours of unpaid duty, including 540 on week-end assistance in the Emergency Ward of the Belleville General Hospital. Since we were never paid before, we will still be pleased to help at the Winter Carnivals at Tweed, Madoc and Coe Hill as well as at the other county events. Marmora and Lake Township residents can be assured that we'll be there assisting if we can.

In Toronto a lawyer has applied to the city registry office for and has been granted registration of two fraternal societies — one known as the Invisible Empire Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of the Dominion of Canada and the other the Hidden Knights of the Midnights Sun of the Dominion of Canada. Word was received today that objection to the registration has been made and that it might be necessary to apply for letters of incorporations.

Off for Hike

A dozen people were supposed to go on the ten mile snowshoe trek Sunday morning during the Madoc Winter Carnival, but only these five tackled the route. Leading off is Carl Winterburn followed by his daughter Dana. Tom Burnside Jr. is third in line and John Mitchel pushes along in fourth. They are all from the Madoc area. John Russell from Ormsby brings up the rear. There was a big crowd of people on hand however, enjoying pancakes inside the Kiwanis Centre.

Peterborough Takes Trent Skating Title

TWEED — The Peterborough figure skating club won the over-all top club trophy for the Trent Interclub Competition held in Tweed Sunday The event was sanctioned by the Canadian Figure Skating Association.

Peterborough accumulated 54 points while Tweed was next with 29 points. Frankford placed third with 26 points, narrowly edging Trenton which had 25 points for fourth spot. Colborne was awarded 21 points for fifth place, and Belleville was last with 18 points.

The Tweed arena was filled almost to capacity throughout the day, and the events went long past the alloted finishing time, trophies being awarded prior to 10 p.m. The competitions started at 8 a.m.

Late in the evening a smaller crowd of several hundred watched Gary Simmons Peterborough take first prize for pre-novice boys. Jed English of Tweed was second.

Pre-novice girls, flight one, saw Janice Platt of Peterborough getting the nod of the judges. Barbara Klemencie of Trenton took second honours, while Sahanna Smith of Frankford skate to third.

Pre-novice girls, flight two, was won by Karen Furze of Belleville, while Susan O'Donnell of Peterborough came second. Another Peterborough girl, Donna Floyd, placed third.

In the juvenile section, boys, David Knapp, Colborne, placed first followed by Tim Klemencie, Trenton. Third went to Jimmy Duffy, Belleville.

Juvenile girls, flight one, saw Peterborough's Charlene Rowbotham getting the most points while Frankford's Nancy Bastedo placed second. Cheryl Crabb, Belleville, came third.

Flight two, juvenile girls, was won by Kathy Wilcox, Belleville Carolyn Mountenay, Peterborough was second, and Susan Sparrow, Peterborough third.

Pre-Juvenile standings were: flight one — First: Janet Heffernan, Peterborough; second: Jennifer O'Neil, Belleville; third: Laura Casey, Peterborough. Flight two — first: Carole Moore, Peterborough, second: Marcia Bain, Trenton, third: Wanda Pokora, Tweed; Boys — first: Rodney Brown, Peterborough.

There were 12 other events. Juvenile dance mixed was won by Trenton's Barbara Klemencie and Malcolm Carswell.

Residents Sell Crafts For New Greenhouse

BANCROFT — Every day from 9 a.m. to 11.30 and again from 1 p.m. to 3.30, a number of the residents of the Hastings Centennial Manor here go to the craft shop and work at sewing, quilting, crochet, woodworking and toy-making for sale and for display.

Working under the direction of Annabelle Davis, the residents have raised in excess of $2,500 toward the construction of a green house adjacent to the manor.

"Most of the materials we use are donated and the workers don't want to be paid," said Mrs. Davis, "So we've been able to save a great deal of money."

The handmade projects from the craft shop are sold to the community at manor teas and during the hours that the craft shop is open.

"We're only going to have one tea this year," said Mrs. Davis, "I can't keep enough things on hand for more than that."

Island Farm May Become Haven for City Tourists

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

BIG ISLAND — As a young boy growing up in Somerset County, England, Maurice Rich, now of Big Island, was interested in agriculture and wanted to manage a farm.

"I was the only one in my family interested in farming," said Mr. Rich. "I would spend my school holidays on a farm and worked on farms as a herdsman in charge of cattle, gaining experience as I went along."

Mr. Rich always had a feeling of sentiment for Canada, and in 1969, he and his wife, Pamella, moved to Peel County. It was there the Richs introduced "barley-beefing," a method developed by Mr. Rich while in England, of raising Holstein bull calves on a mixture of barley-straw, barley and protein supplement.

Commenting on the development,. Mr. Rich said he couldn't see "why it wouldn't work here." This unique feeding method produced 900-lb. calves in just 11 months with a low-fat contest, extreme tenderness and a light-colored meat which "is a selling point."

An article published in a farming magizine about Mr. Rich's discovery created a mild furor among beef farmers, who soon agreed that the method was not only possible, but practical and profitable.

The farm Mr. Rich is presently managing is owned by Michael Dickinson of Stouffville, and although still in the initial stages of development, Mr. Rich has a few thoughts on how to make the farm pay. Mr. Rich says he believes the farm, because of its location along the Bay of Quinte shoreline, could be utilized as a "tourist farm," where city people who may have never seen a farming operation could spend their holidays at the Rich residence.

Mr. Rich says he notes several differences in the agriculture of England and Ontario.

"There seems to be more enthusiasm toward farming by the young people in England," Mr. Rich observed. "Each county has its own agricultural institute and applicants for a job on one farm may number as high as 100.

House Entered

CONSECON — Investigation is continuing into a break and enter Sunday morning at the residence of James Mattis.

Picton OPP stated that a green fishing tackle box, containing deeds and personal papers was reported missing. Entry to the home was gained through a bedroom window.

Driver Charged After Chase

REDNERSVILLE — A Belleville man has been charged following a high speed chase at 9:30 p.m. Saturday night. Constable Ray Best of the Picton OPP took up the chase on County Road 3 in Rednersville, pursuing the car at excessive speels east to Rosemore, into Belleville and back again into Prince Edward County where the driver was apprehended.

Charged with dangerous driving, driving with no insurance and improper licence plates on vehicle was Stafford Mark LaChappelle, 21, of Belleville.

Two Hurt In Crash

BANCROFT — A single-car accident on Highway 28 about 2 miles south of Bancroft has resulted in a Toronto man being seriously injured.

According to investigating officer Corporal H. De Heer, at 3:20 p.m. on Feb. 15, a car driven by Jerry Woodcox, 21, of Toronto went into a skid while in the northbound lane and entered the ditch and rolled over.

Woodcox was able to get out of the car, however, a passenger Douglas Staniszewski, 19, also of Toronto was trapped in the car for an undetermined length of time until Bancroft and Apsley OPP officers were able to release him. Staniszewski, who was seriously injured was taken to Peterborough Hospital and then on to Tornto for treatment.

Open House?

One way to acquaint city dewellers with life down on the farm would be to open farms to tourist visitors. Big Island farmer Maurice Rich is considering doing just that. If could be a paying proposition and lead to better urban-rural understanding, he says.

Your leisure years made easier.

First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan

First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan helps you plan for your leisure years.

Retirement can be the time of your life. But you have to plan for it now, while your earning power—and probably your expenses—are high. You can start by reading about First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan, and how it can make your leisure years, as well as your saving years, much, much easier.

Reduce your income tax while you save for your retirement.

By investing in First Canadian Retirement Savings Plan any time during and up to 60 days after a taxation year, you may reduce your taxable income by the amount of your investment, up to the lesser of: 20% of your earned income, $4000 if you have no pension plan, $2500 if you are a non-contributing member of a pension plan, or $2500 less the amount of your contributions to a company pension plan. Your tax reduction is not affected by payment into the Canada or Quebec Pension Plans. Income tax will have to be paid on your savings eventually—either when used as retirement income or if you withdraw your savings prior to retirement—but probably at a lower rate than during your peak earning years.

Choose from two options.

At present there are two options available. Both are eligible for registration with the tax authorities so that you can reduce your annual income tax.

Option I-First Canadian Mortgage Fund.

In today's financial market, investment in a quality mortgage fund is considered a good bet to produce a relatively secure high yield over the long term. At the same time, investors may realize an increase in value of their units in this Fund depending on prevailing mortgage interest rates. There is no load on the purchase or redemption of these units.

Option II-Firstbank Special Retirement Account. Your deposits in this special bank account will earn interest at the Bank's Five-Year-Term Deposit Receipt rate. This rate of interest will be fixed every January 1st and July 1st at the rate prevailing that day—and remain in effect for six months.

Interest is calculated and payable on your minimum monthly balance and credited semi-annually.

Over the long term, the yield will vary but always be tied to the upper end of the scale of bank interest rates.

Option I and Option II. If you wish, you may buy into both First Canadian Mortgage Fund and Firstbank Special Retirement Account. In fact, over the long term and as economic conditions fluctuate, one option may become more profitable and appropriate than the other. You may switch your savings contributions from one option to another without penalty or charge.

The cost of this plan is minimal.

Unlike many other registered retirement savings plans, there is no charge for opening or closing a plan.

There is an annual Trustee fee of 1/5 of 1% of your investment—maximum $25 per account, to cover registration and the expense of the Trustee of the plan. The amount will be deducted from your share of the income of the plan and will be indicated on your statement. The standard management fees will also be applicable.

You start by investing as little as $200.

The minimum initial contribution into First Canadian Mortgage Fund and Firstbank Special Retirement Account is $200. (If you invest in both, your first contribution is $400—$200 into each option). Contributions may be made at any time. However, the most effective method of participation is on a regular basis.

Ask your bank manager to help you work out a regular payment schedule and automatically transfer funds from your bank account to your R.R.S.P., as per your instructions.

The best time to start is right now.

Now is the time to arrange your saving program for the future with First Canadian Retirement Savings Plans.

For an independent analysis of types of plans, what to look for, costs, etc., ask for R.R.S.P. specialist, R. W. Wakefield's booklet, "Registered Retirement Savings Plans".

Jane Foot, Heather Burke, and papier mache art.

Kids Recycle Paper And Become Artists

Saturday morning in the basement of Corby Library you'll find 20 youngsters up to their elbow in ripped paper and water.

If you think that sounds as if they're misbehaving, you're wrong. They're learning the art of papier mache from Florence Watson.

Papier mache is a French term which, literally translated, means "chewed paper." In fact, the paper has been shredded and mashed together with water and paste to form a heavy, slightly slicky clay. The clay can be molded into any shape at all, and when dry becomes hard and solid, ready to be painted.

Mrs. Watson who is an expert papier mache artists, is presently giving a six-week series of classes at the library for children from Belleville and outlying areas.

Her interest in papier mache started she says, when one of her daughters came home years ago with a balloon dripping with glue and scraps of paper.

"I could see that the technique being taught then needed some improvement. To help my daughter, I started reading about papier mache, and then I got really interested myself," Mrs. Watson says.

Now Mrs. Watson is skilled in this hobby, and is currently sharing her knowledge at several schools.

"I'm resident artist at Parkdale, Prince of Wales and Queen Elizabeth Public School," she says. "I spend time at each of these schools during the week, showing classes how to make and use papier mache.

The special angle now is the recycling of paper, showing how can use waste paper can beused in an artistic way. The best paper according to Mrs. Watson, comes from old TV Guides. The children collect them and then she demonstrates how to make the clay and how to fashion pictures and objects.

"It's not a difficult hobby, and the children catch on quickly and really enjoy it," says Mrs. Watson.

She teaches them the correct way to tear the paper (with the grain) and how to build up a solid bases by molding strips of paper and clay around a bottle or dish to provide shape.

After the objects — vases, piggy banks, pictures and the like — are perfectly dry, they are painted with bright tempera colors, and left to dry again before use.

And what the children have when they're finished is both pretty and durable. And, perhaps even more important, a sense of satisfaction at having "made something."

How can you get the best transatlantic airfare going?

A Montreal-London return economy airfare can cost you as little as $305 or as much as $750 depending on your needs.

We know your problem. There's Apex, G.I.T., Youth Fares, 22-45 day excursions, Advance Booking Charters (ABCs) and a lot of other fares to Britain and Europe. So how do you know which is which? And, more importantly, how do you know which is the best one for you?

The fact is, it all depends on you and your circumstances. When you're going. Where you're going. How long you're staying. And so on. Because, to put it simply, a bargain fare isn't a bargain if it doesn't give you what you need. And, too, you may find that a higher fare category offers savings you hadn't thought about. To take just one example, for two adults travelling with two children under 12 the adults should book the cheaper Apex fare with the children travelling at the normal 22-45 day fare at a 50% discount. You may find that for your particular needs, a combination of different fares will pay off even more. So the first thing we can do to help is tell you the differences between the different fares.

There are charters, of course, but the destinations served are limited and they offer no flexibility, as you go and return on given dates. With scheduled airline fares, there are all kinds of ways to save money without giving up your freedom of choice. There are Youth Fares for those between 12 and 22, Group Inclusive Tour Fares if you buy an accompanying land package, and Special Affinity Fares for club members and employee groups. These special fares probably don't apply to you but your travel agent can tell you for sure. So that leaves us with the four basic fares that apply to most people and they're explained below. (Shoulder fares are for eastbound departures in April, May, September, and October. Peak fares are for eastbound departures in June, July, and August.)

Now the second thing we can tell you are the questions you should answer before you can determine which fare or combination of fares is the best solution for you. Fill in the questionnaire below and take this advertisement to any authorized British Airways travel agent. In return you'll get a custom tailored vacation planned to fit your expectations and your budget.

And the third thing we can tell you is simply this. No matter which fare structure you and your travel agent come up with . . . no matter how much or how little it costs . . . you'll get the best that the world's largest international airline has to offer when you fly with us. And that's a promise with no strings attached.

22-45 Day Advance Purchase Excursion Fare. (Apex).

$305 Shoulder. $395 Peak. You can fly anyday you like including weekends, your children under 12 travel for ⅔ fare, Infants under 2 for 10%. You stay abroad at least 22 days and return within 45 days. And you can go to one city and return from another. But you must book firm departure dates and pay your fare no later than 60 days before departure. For this year only, if you travel in April, you can book and pay for your ticket up to February 28. And, if you change dates or cancel, you pay a penalty of 10% or $50 minimum.

22-45 Day Economy Excursion Fare.

$340 Shoulder. $431 Peak. Like Apex, you can fly anyday you choose, but there's a surcharge for weekend travel of $15 in each direction. Like Apex, you must stay abroad at least 22 days and return within 45 days. And you can go to one city and return from another. On the other hand, children under 12 can travel ½ fare and infants under 2 for 10%. And, most important, you can book and pay any time up to departure, and change or cancel without penalty.

14-21 Day Economy Excursion Fare.

$482 Shoulder. $567 Peak. Similar to the 22-45 Day Excursion, except that you can stay abroad for as few as 14 days and return within 21. You can also visit two cities on the way there and two on the way back (six cities in all) at no extra fare. Again, you can book and pay anytime up to departure, and change or cancel without any penalty. And the same discounts for children and infants apply.

Regular Economy Fare.

$612 Shoulder. $750 Peak. Regular Economy means that you have all the freedom in the world. Go and return anytime within a year, and change your travel plans to suit yourself. You can visit as many cities as can be fitted into the routing. There's no weekend surcharge, and the same discounts for children and infants apply.

Just answer these questions and talk to your travel agent.

When do you want to go to Britain or Europe?
What Canadian city are you leaving from?
Where do you want to go?
How long do you want to stay?
How many in your family or group will be going?
Any children? If so, what are their ages?
Can you finalize your air travel dates and pay for your ticket 60 days or more in advance?
Do you wish to travel on the weekend?

What places do you want to visit?
What city would you like to return from?
Do you want a complete packaged holiday?
London Show Tour ______ Fly/Drive ______
Fly/Mediterranean Cruise ______ 1 or 2 week Enterprise ______
Coach Tour ______
How about just hotel accommodation? Where? How long?
How about renting a car or motor camper?
Will you require Air or Rail transportation around Britain or Europe?

British Airways has a way.

Fares shown are Montreal—London return with even lower fares available to Glasgow and Manchester and other fares available to cities in Britain and Europe. All fares are subject to Government approval.

Making a Black Forest cake is not the sort of thing one does without a special reason. A German meal, being prepared by members of the University Women's Club gourmet group that she belongs to, was the impetus that Julie Brock needed in order to give this rich and beautiful dessert a try. "It's much easier than it looks," she says. "The hardest part is curling the chocolate." Her recipe for "Schwarzwalder Kirschtorte" may be the one you'll use for your next fancy meal.

Black Forest Cake

CHOCOLATE CURLS:

Use eight ounces semi-sweet bar chocolate

To make chocolate curls to garnish the cake, the bar or chunks of chocolate should be at room temperature. Hold the chocolate over wax paper and shave the bar or square into thin curls with a sharp narrow-bladed vegetable peeler. Draw the peeler along the wide surface of the chocolate for large curls, and along the narrow side for small ones.

Refrigerate the curls until ready to use them.

CAKE:

ten tbsps. unsalted butter six eggs at room temperature one tsp. vanilla
one cup sugar
½ cup sifted flour
½ cup unsweetened cocoa

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Coat the bottoms and sides of three 7-inch round cake pans with brushed-on soft butter, (one tbsp. in all) and sprinkle two tbsps. of flour in each pan, then shake out excess.

Clarify ten tbsps. of butter by melting it slowly in a small saucepan. Let it rest, and then spoon the clear butter into a bowl, discarding the milky solids at the bottom of the pan.

Beat the eggs, vanilla and sugar at high speed for at least ten minutes, until the mixture is fluffy and tripled in bulk.

Combine the flour and cocoa in a sifter, and sift it over the egg mixture, a little at a time, while folding it in with a spatula. Finally, add the butter, two tbsps. at a time. Do not over-mix.

Divide the batter among the three pans, and bake for ten or 15 minutes. Remove from oven, let cool in pans for five minutes, and then turn out on racks.

SYRUP:

three-quarters cup sugar
one cup cold water
one-third cup kirsch

Combine the sugar and water in a saucepan and boil briskly, uncovered, (only stir until sugar dissolves) for five minutes then remove from heat and cool to lukewarm be-
one-third cup kirsch

When the cakes have cooled, transfer them to wax paper, and sprinkle each one with an equal amount of the syrup after having pricked the tops gently with tines of a long fork. Let the cakes rest for at least five minutes.

FILLING AND TOPPING:

three cups chilled heavy cream
½ cup confectioners' sugar
¼ cup kirsch
one cup poached, pitted fresh red cherries OR one cup drained and rinsed canned sour red cherries fresh sweet red cherries, with stems, OR maraschino cherries, with stems, drained and rinsed

In a large chilled bowl, beat the cream with a whisk or blender until it thickens lightly. Then sift the sugar over it and continue beating until the cream forms firm peaks on the beater when it is lifted out of the bowl. Pour the kirsch in a thin stream and beat only until it is absorbed.

To assemble the cake, place one layer of cake on a heavy serving plate. With a spatula, spread ½-inch layer of whipped cream on the cake, strew the fresh or canned cherries over it, leaving ½-inch free of cherries around the edge. Set the second layer gently on the cherries, and spread it with ½ inch of cream. Then set the third layer on top to this, and spread the top and sides with the remaining cream.

With your fingers, gently press the cold chocolate curls into the cream on the sides go the cake, and arrange a few curls on top of the cake, in a pattern if you like. Place a small number of stemmed cherries on the top.

The cake is vastly improved if it is allowed to rest for a day before being served.

Father Treats Son Badly, Mother Is Nervous Wreck

Dear Doris: My husband is always down our little son's back for any little thing. He thinks nothing of hitting, kicking or punching out at him in a fit of rage.

I can no longer take it and told him this morning that if he didn't get some self-help he could leave. As far as I am concerned he is just like two different people. Sometimes he plays with Bobby just fine, but after about 15 minutes he gets tired of it and gets mad at Bobby. Bobby becomes puzzled and depressed.

My depression is terrible. Whenever we are invited anywhere I am a nervous wreck, wondering how my husband will act. He thinks there is nothing wrong. But Bobby is only a normal five-year-old boy and I sure don't want his mind warped by his Dad.

Full of Tears.

Dear Tears: I'd guess you married a rebellious child — one who never had the loving and firm control needed to develop a serene maturity. Whether he will develop it now, is in question; and meanwhile he is moving in the right direction to produce a pseudo-adult who will follow in his footsteps.

The stress you are enduring, which is certainly distress has its limits too. But a letter from me won't help — unless you follow it with a consulation with a trained social worker. Too much damage has already been done.

Ann Landers

Will Yelling Kill Weeds?

Dear Ann Landers: A while back you printed several letters from readers who insisted that when they spoke gently to their plants and flowers they flourished beautifully. Will you please tell me if yelling at weeds will stunt their growth or maybe even kill them?—Logical In Lubbock

Dear Logical: I checked with two horticulturists and neither one gave me any assurance that yelling at weeds would make a darned bit of difference. So save your pipes.

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter from the mother who felt guilty because she had five girls and no sons I wanted to wring her neck. Doesn't she realize that the same problem exists for women who produce nothing but boys?

In the first 11 years of our marriage I gave birth to six sons. My husband offered me $5,000 if I'd get pregnant again and try for a girl. I told him to go jump in the lake.

To make matters worse, my husband's two brothers had all-boy families. (One four, the other five.) Every time I had a son, my in-laws, without coming right out and saying so, made me feel as if I had done them a dirty trick.

I thank God for my normal, healthy boys. I refuse to feel even the slightest twinge of guilt. Please, Ann, publish this letter for all mothers who are dissatisfied with the sex of their children. Remind them of the thousands of couples who can't have a family and would be thrilled with either a boy or a girl. Then perhaps they will count their blessings.—Lucky Me

Dear You: One nice thing about having six sons is that somebody else will be paying for the weddings. Have a good day, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will print this letter for so-called well-meaning friends who know your husband is running around but keep quiet because they "don't want to break up a marriage."

I agree they should keep their mouths shut—that's not my complaint. What burns me up is after the word is out and the divorce is in the works, they tell you with a smirk and a half-smile, "I knew about it all along."

A divorce is bad enough without finding out that your friends (and relatives) knew what was going on behind your back. You start to wonder, "How many people did they discuss it with?" You begin to recall the parties you and your husband went to together and wonder if your friends were looking at you and thinking, "What a fool!" I've concluded that people who say, "I knew it all along," enjoy stripping you of the last piece of pride you have left.

My advice is, if you happen to know, keep it to yourself—forever.—Trying To Hold My Head Up In Hartford

Independence Worker Is Making Comeback

BOMBAY (CP) — At 78, Morarji Desai is confident that he is on the verge of a political comeback.

One of the stalwarts of the campaign that won India's independence from Britain, Desai was Indira Gandhi's deputy prime minister until she dismissed him in 1969 after he was accused of "sabotaging" the administration's socialist policies from within.

Desai and his supporters resigned from the ruling Congress Party to form the Organization Congress and in recent months he has emerged as spokesman for the non-Communist opposition in the 520-member Indian parliament.

Recently he threatened to start an indefinite hunger strike unless opposition members were shown secret documents relating to a police investigation of corruption charges against a Congress Party MP. The government produced the papers.

Desai's difficulties with Prime Minister Gandhi began when they were rival candidates to head the government after the death of Lal Bahadur Shastri in 1966.

Desai appeared headed for victory but lost narrowly when friends of Mrs. Gandhi's late father, Jawaharlal Nehru, mounted a campaign in her favor.

Desai has predicted a "crushing defeat" for the Congress Party, which has ruled India since it achieved independence, in the general election expected in 1976.

"The prime minister has made a mess of things," he said. "She has mismanaged the national economy and made a mockery of the democratic system."

But while Mrs. Gandhi's popularity has been declining, many Indians do not share Desai's political philosophy, which has been described as right-wing, old-fashioned and highly authoritarian.

He favors prohibition, the banning of nightclubs and cabarets and making the use of Hindi, the northern language, compulsory for all Indians. More than half the population of 570 million does not speak Hindi.

Mr. Conservative Says Too Many Miss Sports

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leon Ladner, who for much of his life was known as Mr. Conservative, says too many Canadian school children miss out on athletic programs.

Mr. Ladner, who celebrated his 90th birthday with special exercises and an hour-long walk, said in an interview that youngsters are not getting the opportunity or the discipline to embark on a lifelong regimen of regular exercise.

"It should be compulsory for every able-bodied student in every school to have daily workouts—real exercise that means something—and more young people should be involved in team activities," he said.

"Then there would be less need for hospitals and more healthy and happy people.

"I've lost too many dear friends at relatively early ages because they didn't get enough exercise."

Until recently, Mr Ladner jogged and worked out with weights. Now that he is 90, he takes long walks, does knee-bends, arm exercises and touches his toes.

"I don't touch them, exactly, but I get close."

He served as a member of Parliament for nine years until he was defeated in 1930. His law firm is one of the largest in Vancouver. Mr. Ladner was one of the founding members of the University of British Columbia and the University of Victoria.

Undiscovery Day Marked

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (CP) — Undiscovery Day began three years ago to commemorate April 27, 1790, the day Captain George Vancouver failed to discover this Washington state resort town.

For the last three years, residents have formed a reception committee on Undiscovery Day, just in case the captain comes back.

The routine is simple. They gather in local bars during the early evening and, at midnight, head for the sand dunes to yell in unison: "Hey, George!"

This year, their efforts will be rewarded.

Mayor Bun Lewis of Ocean Shores said the Vancouver Convention Bureau has promised to send the 25-piece Captain Vancouver Sea Cadet Corps band, along with Harvey Rourke, who often portrays the naval explorer.

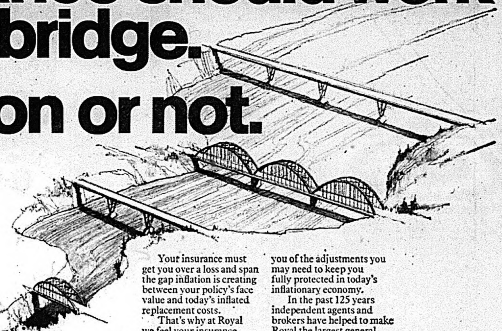
At Royal, we feel insurance should work like a bridge. Inflation or not.



Your insurance must get you over a loss and span the gap inflation is creating between your policy's face value and today's inflated replacement costs.

That's why at Royal we feel your insurance programme needs a review. An immediate review. The insurance protection you now have may not provide you with enough money to replace important possessions in the event of loss.

We recommend that you have an independent agent—an insurance professional—examine your programme and advise you of the adjustments you may need to keep you fully protected in today's inflationary economy.

In the past 125 years independent agents and brokers have helped to make Royal the largest general insurance organization across Canada. Because they know from experience that Royal represents value for your money.

Talk to an independent agent about your insurance programme, about Royal and a bridge for your future.

Centennial Charger Tournament

Nicks Win Fourth Title in Four Weeks

By MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

Nicholson Catholic College has made it four in a row in Tournament Basketball pway all coming within the last four weeks. The latest triumph for the Nicks came in Saturday's Centennial Charger Senior Tournament at Centennial.

Although the win came as no surprise to most persons acquainted with highschool basketball the Nicks had to fight every inch of the way.

What coach Gary Duggan of Nicholson described as "a good team defence and some outstanding jump shooting by Boyle (Jeff) from the corners," was the deciding factor in the team's final game against Oshawa Central.

After commanding only a 22-20 lead at half time, the Nicks and Jeff Boyle who scored 26 points in the contest, came on strong for the 51-29 win in the second half.

The days event produced some excellent ball for the spectators with some of the more accurate shooting seen in many a day and also some very tough defence.

A total of eight teams took part in the tournament including Regiopolis, of Kingston, Cobourg, Trenton and Brockville.

Coach Duggan wasn't too impressed with his teams showing in their first two wins against Brockville 48-27 and Trenton 44-34. "We looked like we were asleep out there. Trenton gave us a scare but we were fortunate."

Nicholson met Regiopolis in the semi-final game and were put up against some unreal outside shooting from the Kingston squad especially from Wells and White who between them picked up half their teams points in a 52-29 loss to the Belleville team.

The Nicks coach was relatively sure by the half however and went entirely with his second stringers who held the visitors to 16 points.

Boyle and Bruce Collins contributed 12 and 14 points, respectively before taking a well earned rest for the second half.

Oshawa Central on the other hand just scraped by Trenton in their opening game by 37-34 margin, went on to defeat Brockville 34-29 and finally Cobourg West 43-33 to advance to the championship.

The host Centennial club won their opening game over Regiopolis, but lost out by three points to Cobourg West in the semi-final.

Expected to be the second best team in the tourney, Oshawa Eastdale edged Cobourg in their first game 54-46, but were clobbered 69-39 by Regi, who had lost their opener.

Boyle led the tournament in the scoring department averaging 18.7 points a game.

Lancers Bounce Trent

Trent University basketball team visited Loyalist College on Saturday and left somewhat shocked by the results of their game with the Lancers. The Loyalist squad trounced Peterborough 101-57.

Earlier in the year, Trent had beaten Loyalist by 10 points and at Christmas time they took top honors at the Loyalist Invitational Basketball Tournament.

"We were clearing the boards and running well," said Lancer coach, Rob Stinson. "This has to be one of the best games we've ever played"

With the Eastern Ontario College Athletics Association just around the corner, it appears the Lancers are coming together at the right time.

Bill Kyle led the way with 20 points, but five other Loyalist players hit double figures. Larry Green got 18, Peter Scott had 16, Jim Sutton got 12, Dave Culmer had 10 and Brian Calnan added 10.

Tony Leighton had 15 for Trent and Bob Hobbs got 12.

Lancers In Split

The Loyalist Lancer Hockey team split a pair of games over the weekend losing the first one to St. Lawrence College 5-2 on Friday and winning the second game Saturday 5-4 over Trent University.

In Friday's game Dave Johnston and Rick Desilets each picked up a pair of markers for the winners with Jamie Freemark adding the single. Ted Waite and Dave Horwood replied for the Lancers.

Loyalist took 16 of the games 21 minor penalties as the St. Lawrence team outshot the Lancers 32-28.

In the game on Saturday Andy Prudden and Dave Horwood netted a pair for the Lancers to lead the attack with Keving Allen adding the single tally. Each team recorded 32 shots on net with Loyalist again taking the majority of penalties, six out of the nine.

The Loyalist squad will play their last regular season game next Friday night at the Memorial Arena at 8.45.

BCI Takes Blackball Consolation Honors

ORILLIA (Special) — Belleville Collegiate (BCI) lost their first game, but bounced back to win their next two and bring the Orillia Blackball Junior Basketball Tournament Consolation title home on Saturday.

BCI went down to defeat 51-48 in their opener to Westlane, Niagara Falls. Westlane then went on to defeat the two pre-tournament favorites and win the Grand Championship.

In their second game, BCI won 44-35 over Twin Lakes, Orillia, and in the Consolation final they trounced Thistletown, Toronto, 48-25.

"Westlane is by far the best team we've played all year," said BCI coach, Bill Miller, "they play in a senior league back in Niagara Falls and this gave them an advantage over us"

"They're used to playing against good offences and good defences," added Miller, "so they didn't throw the ball away very often."

"It took us a whole half a game to realize we could beat them," he said.

By half time the score was 30-19 and BCI had some real hustling to do in the second half. They fell short in their comeback drive however, as Niagara Falls scored a couple of foul shots in the final few seconds to put the game on ice.

John Guthrie had 17 points for the locals and Mitch Hannah had 12. Mike Kirby was next with eight and Ron Bell added 7.

In their second game, the Belleville school took an easy win from Orillia. The locals led by 10 or 15 all the way through as their tough defence clicked. Orillia had a six-foot-four centre, but BCI contained him without much difficulty.

Bruce Milliken and John Guthrie ahd 12 points apiece for the locals and Mitch Hannah added 10.

In their final game of the day, they jumped into a big first-quarter lead and their opposition, Thistletown, just gave up. At the end of the opening period they led 16-4 and just coasted from there.

The win, like the earlier games, was a solid team effort. In this one nine different players shared in the scoring.

John Guthrie was tops with 15, Mike Kirby had seven, Mitch Hannah and Ron Bell had five each, Bruce Milliken, Gord Van Vliet, Dave Franklin and John Geen had four apiece and Bill Greer rounded things out with a converted foul shot.

Olympics Whip John's Variety

John O'Neill scored three time to lead Belleville Olympics to an 8-1 win over John's Variety Store in Indoor Soccer League action at Sir James Whitney on Sunday.

Kevin Kirby and Nick Del Crosso got two each and Ernie Brown got one

Kevin Bentley replied for John's.

Lions Repeat As Champs

BROCKVILLE (Special) — Four goals by Sandy Waterson gave Belleville Lions Major Midgets a 5-3 victory over Cornwall here, Saturday, and their second consecutive Brockville Midget Hockey Tournament championship.

Tony Bennett scored the fifth goal for the locals. In all, the Lions went undefeated in three starts

They beat Prescott 3-2 in overtime in the opening game. Calvin Pope, Tom Belch and Rob Chase each scored once to give Belleville the win.

In their second start, Rob Chase scored the winner again as the locals edged Ottawa South Canadians 2-1. Clint Riendeau was the other Belleville marksman.

Mark Meehan was in net to record all three wins.

Pembroke won the Consolation Championship.

Newman Double Winner

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Derek Newman one of Kawartha's top veteran drivers reigned back to back winners at Kawartha Downs yesterday. Newman's first victory came when he made an exciting drive for the wire with Vegas Bob and came back to the winners enclosure in the 9th with Rogerland to combine with Terry Jeans Byrd driven by Rejean Bolley for a $208 exactor.

The Daily Double combining Arawana Belle driven by Blaise McConnell and Kawartha D Bye driven by Guy LaRush paid $152.

The feature race went to Fleetwood Bev as owner, driver Bruce Shea promptly took command of the 10th race and never was headed. Jimmy Bing, driven by Guy LaRush, finished second.

Larkes Girl captured the lead in the 4th race and never was threatened as she returned to the winner's enclosure for her fourth consecutive victory for driver Jerry Robinson.

Other winning horses on the program were Sinor Mix, Nickawampus, Star, Victoria Danny and Hempstead Stan.

Paquette Fires Three In A & Js 6-0 Victory

Two shutouts were recorded in Broomball action on Friday as Northern Electric edged Golden Mile 1-0 and A and J Drive-In blasted Art's Esso 6-0

Fast action and an end to end style of play were in order for the Northern—Golden Mile game.

Bob Brownlee scored the games only goal, drawing assists from Larry Bradley and Ron Lessels.

A and J's league leading scorer, Mike Paquette, counted a hat trick in their winning performance with singles going to Larry Wannamaker, Ron Cannons and Gilles Paradis.

Huskies Eliminated

PORT PERRY (Special) — Paul Hadden's goal with six minutes gone in overtime shot Port Perry Flamingos past Frankford Huskies in Ontario Hockey Association Junior C playoff action here Sunday.

Hadden's goal put the home team in front 7-6 and teammate Carlo Camazzola put the icing on the cake about one minute later.

The Port Perry win knocked Huskies out of the playoffs. Flamingos took the series 4-1.

Robin Kydd was a two-goal shooter for the winners as was Camazzola. Andy Litt, Bob Marquis and Neil McLaughlin had one each.

Al MacIntosh paced the visitors with three goals. Curt McLean, Jean Doucette and Scott Poupart had the others.

Yardmen Midgets 'Shafted' Claims Manager of Team

According to Gordie Bell, manager of the Belleville Yardmen Midget hockey club, the team will seek legal advice in an effort to iron out difficulties encountered during an Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA minor playoff series with Peterborough.

Bell says the Yardmen club was advised Friday by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) that an opening game 6-0 Belleville win has been thrown out, leaving the best of five series tied at 2-2 with the deciding match scheduled for Peterborough this week

"They're shafting us," Bell said this morning.

In that 6-0 win, Yardmen used a player who is signed to a goaltender's card, at another position.

Peterborough protested but the Yardmen manager claims the protest "was not in the hands of the OMHA within the specified 48-hour time period."

Should Yardmen get by the Peterborough squad it will be the first playoff series win by a Belleville team since the city was classified AAA by the OMHA.

At the Bantam Minor level, Belleville McInroys bowed out of OMHA playoff action, in Peterborough, Friday, losing 5-1 to drop the series 3-0 after each of the first two games was decided by one goal.

Steve Casey scored the lone McInroy goal. Larry Floyd was a two-goal shooter for the winners.

In an exhibition match with Stirling, Sunday, McInroy lost 5-3

Bill Faulkner scored two Stirling goals while Rick Woodward, Darrell Bush and Reid had one each. Counting for McInroy were Clarence Broekema, Greg Sprout and Steve Murphy.

Saturday, the same two teams played to a 3-3 draw. Murphy, Broekema and Mark Crawford clicked for the McInroy goals. Barry Danford, Bush and Faulkner replied for Stirling.

A pair of goals each from Ross Lawrenson and Roger Chapman led Belleville Shells to a 7-1 exhibition juvenile win over Stirling, Sunday.

Martin Thistel, Steve Hedge and Ken Just also scored for the Shells. Stirling's Rob DeJong's goal midway through the third period spoiled Don Thompson's shutout bid

Building up an early 6-1 lead, Belleville Rollins Peewee Majors coasted to a 7-3 win over Oshawa Little NHL at Memorial Arena, Sunday.

Steve Slaughter and Jamie Robertson each shot a pair of Rollins goals. Singles went to Greg Horwood, Charlie Doran and Jim Nobile. Robbie Soule picked up three assists.

A goal into the open net wrapped up a playoff win for Kingston Sunday as Belleville Dixie Lee Minor Peewees came out on the short end of a 6-4 score.

Steve Molaski connected for three Dixie Lee goals. Bryson Lamble had the other one, Steve Thompson earned two assists

Boultbee Named MVP

PICTON — A Picton boy walked off with two awards here Saturday night at the Sixth Annual Picton Peewee Hockey Tournament, held at the Prince Edward Community Centre.

Twelve-year-old John Boultbee won "the most valuable player in each team" award and was awarded a trophy for the most valuable player in the tournament.

John Matthews, Chairman for the event, said Boultbee was an outstanding player throughout the tournament.

The tournament featured hockey teams from Picton, Fort Henry, Peterborough, Newcastle, Ajax, Campbellford, Uxbridge and Wellington. Picton won the B Championship topping Ajax 10-9.

Winning the A Championship Trophy was Peterborough who beat Fort Henry 4-1.

Junior Girls Top Brockville

The Belleville Junior Girls hockey team took their exhibition game, on Sunday, by a 2-1 margin over Brockville. Lorraine Hassock and Luanne Guthrie scored for the locals and Debbie Doyle replied for Brockville. Karen Brownlee was in net for the win.

Ottawa on Short End Against Local Schools

OTTAWA (Special) — Belleville Collegiate (BCI) and Quinte Saints each played three exhibition games on the weekend against the best teams the Nation's Capital had to offer. The end result was four wins in six starts for the Belleville schools.

Quinte defeated Lisgar, last season's AAA champ, 48-39 and Confederation 59-49. In their third contest they lost to Brookfield — the same school they lost to in the final of the Carleton Christmas Tournament — 64-58.

BCI beat Brookfield 51-39 and St. Pius X 52-36, but lost to Lisgar 49-39.

Ron Crook led the Quinte win against Lisgar with 14 points. Rick Bradford scored 12 and pulled down many of the Saints rebounds and Pete Vos got 10.

The Saints trailed 22-20 at half time against Confederation, but Sterling Wilson came off the bench in the third quarter and scored 12 points to spark the Quinte comeback. Steve McCracken added 16 and Steve Hale got 17 points.

Against Brookfield, Hale had 16 and Bradford scored 17, but it wasn't enough to give the locals a win.

BCI gained a certain degree of revenge for Quinte when they beat Brookfield. Larry Wilson and Chris Lachman scored 12 points apiece and Russ Simonds got 10.

The BCI squad rolled to another easy win over St. Pius X. Wilson was tops with 19 points and Brian Bell got 10.

In their third game, they weren't quite as fortunate. Wilson hit for another 19 points, but the remainder of his team was held to single figures and BCI lost by 10 points.

Ontario Minor Hockey Association Convenor, John Matthews, presents Picton's John Boultbee with the Most Valuable Player Award for the 6th Annual Picton Peewee Hockey Tournament. Peterborough was the winning team of the tourney.

First Shutout For Capitals

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

There were a couple of firsts Sunday in National Hockey League play involving Philadelphia Flyers, the defending Stanley Cup champions, and the expansion Washington Capitals.

The Flyers recorded their initial win of the 1974-75 season over the team they defeated for the Stanley Cup last spring as they edged Boston Bruins 4-3.

And Washington goaltender Ron Low recorded the Capitals' first-ever shutout in the NHL as the Caps whitewashed Kansas City Scouts 3-0.

Meanwhile, Montreal Canadiens stretched their road unbeaten mark to 18 games with a 6-3 win over the Black Hawks in Chicago while Pittsburgh Penguins ran their home-ice undefeated streak to 18 games by edging New York Islanders 3-2.

In other games, New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 5-5 tie, St. Louis Blues rallied to tie Buffalo Sabres 4-4 and Minnesota North Stars downed California Seals 8-4.

Saturday, the Canadiens humiliated Chicago 12-3, Atlanta Flames and Vancouver Canucks fought to a 3-3 draw, Pittsburgh dumped Toronto 8-3, the Islanders and Flyers skated to a 1-1 standoff, the Rangers bombed Minnesota 9-2, the Seals blanked the Scouts 3-0, St. Louis smashed the Capitals 7-1 and Los Angeles Kings humbled Detroit Red Wings 8-2.

At Philadelphia, goaltender Bernie Parent blocked 25 Boston shots and was tabbed as the main reason for Philadelphia's win.

"We have some questions that need answering," noted Boston coach Don Cherry after the Bruins dropped their third consecutive game.

"The game today was Parent's. That's all I want to say right now."

Reggie Leach's 28th goal of the season at 15:26 of the second period provided the Flyers with their winning margin. Leach beat goaltender Ken Broderick with a 40-foot blast while the Bruins Andre Savard was off for hooking.

At Landover, Md., Low blocked 32 shots to lead the Capitals to their third straight victory on home ice and their first over the Scouts, who joined the league with Washington this year.

Stan Gilbertson, Mike Marson and Ace Bailey scored for Washington before 14,214 fans.

Yvan Cournoyer, who scored five goals against the Black Hawks Saturday night, gave Montreal a 1-0 lead at 3:30 of the first period in Chicago.

Murray Wilson, replacing the injured Guy Lafleur on a line with Steve Shutt and Peter Mahovlich, scored his 16th and 17th goals of the year and added an assist to pace Montreal's attack.

Syl Apps' 21st goal of the season at 3:15 of the third period proved to be the winner for the Penguins. The Penguins now have a 16-4-8 record on their home ice.

Ted Irvine's goal at 11:22 of the third period gave the Rangers their draw with Toronto.

New York defenceman Brad Park suffered a strained left knee early in the second period and he will be lost to the club for two to three weeks.

Jets' Game Plan Fails but It Doesn't Matter

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Jets had planned Sunday to concentrate on defence but Chicago Cougars wouldn't let them.

"Our fast start in the game wasn't planned," said Winnipeg's Danny Johnson after he scored three goals to lead the Jets in a 6-1 World Hockey Association victory over the Cougars.

"We were intending to play a defensive game but then we got breakaways and two-on-ones."

The Jets scored three goals in the first three minutes and added two more before the period ended.

"My hat trick tonight was my first in the WHA," said Johnson, "and it was particularly satisfying because for the last three years I've specialized as a penalty killer."

In other WHA games Sunday, Toronto Toros beat Vancouver Blazers 7-4, Minnesota Fighting Saints defeated San Diego Mariners 5-2 and Phoenix Roadrunners beat Edmonton Oilers 5-4.

Saturday, Winnipeg beat Cleveland Crusaders 5-1 and Chicago defeated Baltimore Blades 5-3.

Danny Spring scored for Winnipeg in the second minute of play at Chicago and the rout was on. Veli Ketola and Jean Guy Gratton scored to make it 3-0 and Johnson added two of his goals before the period ended.

Despite the one-sided scoring, the game was filled with penalties and fights. Winnipeg player-coach Bobby Hull, who along with Swedish linemates Ulf Nilsson and Anders Hedberg has been getting bumped around a lot this season, said:

"I wish the other teams would stop pushing us around. If they put me and the Swedes out of action, who will bring in the crowd at the gates?"

At Vancouver, Paul Henderson put Toronto ahead for good five minutes into the final period with his 29th goal of the season and Frank Mahovlich, Wayne Dillon and Tom Martin added third-period goals to put the game out of Vancouver's reach.

Tom Simpson scored twice for the Toros as Vancouver saw its five-game winning streak ended.

Wayne Connelly scored twice and added a pair of assists as Minnesota slipped past San Diego into third-place in the Western Division. Andre Lacroix of the Mariners picked up an assist to make it his 18th game in which he has earned at least one point.

At Edmonton, Pete McNamee's goal with less than two minutes to play gave Phoenix the victory and ended Edmonton's five-game winning streak. Jim Boyd had a pair of goals for the Roadrunners who outshot the Oilers 45-23.

GET A TOYOTA FOR LESS THAN VEGA OR PINTO. REBATES AND ALL!

Despite all the rebates you can get on Vega and Pinto, the Toyota Corolla 1200 still costs less than either one of them.

Look at the check list. You get more for your money on a Toyota when comparing the lowest priced models.

What the check list doesn't show you is all the space inside. There is actually more room for passengers and more trunk space than in a Pinto.

Take our Toyota Corolla 1200 out for a test drive, and put your foot down. You'll find it's really a peppy little performer, with plenty of power for passing and highway cruising. And along with that performance comes terrific gas mileage, too.

We thought you should have the facts straight from the shoulder. TOYOTA KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Kathy Kreiner, 17, of Timmins, Ont., won the women's Canadian alpine downhill skiing championship Saturday.

She beat Toria Moser, 15, of Toronto by more than 2.5 seconds in the one-run downhill race at Tod Mountain, 30 miles east of here.

In international women's competition this season, Kreiner has finished better than 15th on 11 occasions and ranks 14th in women's World Cup standings with 32 points.

Ken Lead of Calgary won the men's downhill championship, beating Dave Murray, 21, of Abbotsford, B.C., by more than three seconds.

Kreiner finished with a time of one minute, 21.67 seconds, while Moser finished with 1:24.24.

Quebec Athletes Mine Gold at the Games

By MEL SUPRIN
CP Sports Editor

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Quebec has developed something of a guilt complex at the Canada Winter Games.

With nine of 16 sports still to be completed, the Quebec team has already exceeded the 13 gold medals it won at Saskatoon in 1971.

So far in this year's Games it has 18 officially and is assured of at least one more in the badminton team competition.

Both the Quebec men's and women's basketball teams were undefeated in their divisions and stand good chances of winning the titles in that sport.

In gymnastics Quebec has captured all 12 gold medals compared with four in 1971 when its men's team won the gold but its women finished second to Ontario.

And it has come on strongly in fencing, winning four gold medals and edging Ontario for both the men's and women's team crowns. It did not win a single gold in this sport four years ago although it was second to Ontario in the over-all standings.

The other Quebec golds came in synchronized swimming and ski-jumping.

The fencing ended Sunday with Eli Sukunda, 25, of Windsor, Ont., winning the individual sabre title but Quebec once again edged Ontario for the team prize.

The only team medal Quebec failed to win in fencing was in the epee competion as Rene Robert of Ottawa, Rob Nichol of London, and Alan Christian of Welland combined to win for Ontario.

Robert won the individual gold medal with Nichol second and Jim Robb of Regina third.

Alberta swept both curling championships with Dale Cruickshank skipping his Red Deer rink to victory in the men's and Wendy Phillips, playing with an injured knee, leading her Calgary rink to the women's gold. Alberta won the men's in 1971 but its women were fifth.

The Manitoba rink skipped by Dale Duguid of Winnipeg, son of former world champion Donnie Duguid, was second and Dave Grafton's rink gave Quebec the bronze.

In the women's, Manitoba, skipped by Patti Vandekerhove of Winnipeg, was second, and Kim Clark's Sioux Lookout rink gave Ontario the bronze.

British Columbia, like Quebec, has exceeded its 1971 gold-medal total of six. It now has eight, including five picked up in wrestling. All 10 members of the B.C. team won wrestling medals as they edged Ontario, also with five golds, for the team title. Saskatchewan was third.

Alpine skiing was an Alberta show over the weekend as Greg Hann, 16, of Banff, Alta., won the dual slalom to go with his gold medals in the giant slalom and slalom. Wendy Robinson, another 16-year-old from Banff, won the women's giant slalom.

Iva Cejnar, 21, and her 20-year-old sister Dagmar, from Cambridge, combined with Luise Sander, 16, of Dunrobin, to give Ontario the women's cross-country relay crown. Alberta was second and the Northwest Territories third in the competion in which each of three skiers covered five kilometres over the course at Castle Junction.

Rex and Angus Cockney and Kevin King of Inuvik teamed to win the men's 3x10-kilometre relay Sunday with the Quebec team of Pierre Vezina of Giffard, Christophe Weber of Cantley and Bernard Voyer of Stoneham second. Third was the Ontario team of Lauri Penttinen and Juhani Lassila of Thunder Bay and Darryl Frank of Sudbury.

In ski-jumping at Devon, near Edmonton, Guy McMartin of Hull, Que., recovered from a fall in his first jump to win the gold medal. McMartin cleared 187 feet on his first jump and, with his hand broken, matched that distance.

Substitute Lifts Ipswich Town

LONDON (CP) — Bryan Hamilton, sent in as substitute for Ipswich Town in the last 2 minutes against Aston Villa, was the hero of Saturday's English Cup soccer games.

Villa led 2-1 at the time, but Hamilton scored two goals in seven minutes to give Ipswich a dramatic 3-2 win and a place in the last eight of the knock-out competition.

It was a fast change for Aston Villa, a Second Division team that led 2-0 after 49 minutes and looked poised for an upset.

Ipswich, chasing the highly-prized league and cup double, had a shock in the 11th minute. Bobby McDonald and Keith Leonard split the Ipswich defence wide open and MacDonald scored from close range.

In other cup games Saturday, Viv Busby scored two goals to give Fulham a 2-1 upset win over Everton, Birmingham beat Third-Division Walsall 2-1, Carlisle won 1-0 at Mansfield, and West Ham, after trailing early inthe game, beat Queen's Park Rangers 2-1.

Third - Division Peterborough held Middlesbrough to a 1-1 draw, forcing a replay next week along with the Arsenal-Leicester match, which ended at 0-0.

The Derby at Leeds was postponed due to a waterlogged pitch.

Dave Clement gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead, but Pat Holland came back to tie the game six minutes later. West Ham went ahead 2-1 on Billy Jennings' goal early in the second half.

Brian Kidd was the only player to come close to scoring in the Arsenal-Leicester scoreless draw as the Arsenal forward missed an early [illegible] Kidd put the ball into the net later in the game, but the referee ruled he had handled the ball.

In league play, Stoke City drew 2-2 with Wolverhampton 2-2 and moved to the top of the table in the English League's First Division.

Stoke has 36 points from 30 games, while Everton and Burnley have 35 points. Everton has played two less games than their rivals.

Kingston Rink Takes Ontario Title

Glare of TV Lights Fails to Upset Scott

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Alex Scott and his Cataraqui club mates weren't as concerned about their play Sunday at the Ontario men's curling championship as about the lamps above sheet No. 2 at Preston Memorial Garden.

The Kingston curlers were thrust into the glare of television lights because, after eight draws, their place atop the standings in the 10-rink round-robin event merited such attention. Only Ottawa Lansdown, skipped by Harry Adams, blocked their path to the title.

"I admit I was a little apprehensive after the eighth round when they told us about playing under the lights," said the 34-year-old doctor of medicine.

"But I didn't find it affected the ice at all out there tonight," he said, after winning a 6-3 struggle with Adams that was undecided until the last rock of the final end.

He didn't get any argument from his mates—third Ted Brown, second Mike Boyd and lead Tom Miller—who will join him as the British Consols provincial representative at the Canadian championships in Fredericton, March 2-8.

Elsewhere in the ninth round, Ron Manning's Toronto Lambton rink dropped a 7-6 score to Jim Currie of Pickering Annandale, Doug Palmer of St. Catharines defeated Bill Buchan of London Ivanhoe, 6-3, and Paul Savage, the 1974 champion who lost his first four games here, skipped Toronto Avonlea to an 8-6 win over Bruce Buchan of East York.

The Savage rink was reprimanded Saturday night for what Ontario Curling Association president W.A. Meyer termed "conduct unbecoming of players in this competition," a result of the rink's behavior after Thursday's fourth draw.

"We're not suggesting that they be suspended from OCA competition," said Meyer, "but we want it known that their actions will not be condoned."

Saturday's three draws concluded four days of competition with the Savage rink winning two of its three games—9-5 over PPickering in the seventh round before being edged by St. Catharines, 8-7.

In other seventh-round action, the scores were: Kingston 6, Brampton 5; Lambton 10, High Park 3; London 5, East York 4, and Ottawa 7, St. Catharines 6. Eighth-round scores were Kingston, 6, East York 4; High Park 11, Pickering 6; Brampton 9, Ottawa 7, and Lambton 10, London 2.

In the final standings, Kingston was on top with an 8-1 won-loss mark, followed by Lambton and Brampton at 6-3, Ottawa and London at 5-4, Avonlea and St. Catharines at 4-5, High Park and Pickering at 3-6 and East York at 1-8.

Defeats Smith in Tennis Final

Solomon Gives Away Size but That's All

TORONTO (CP) — The experts say the tall man has the advantage over a smaller opponent in a tennis match, but a slow court Sunday at the World Championship Tennis tournament became the great equalizer.

Towering Stan Smith, six feet, four inches tall, ran into Harold Solomon, at five feet, six inches and only 130 pounds, and finished on the short end of a 6-4, 6-1 decision.

Solomon, of Silver Spring, Md., broke Smith's opening service twice, then three more times in the second set as he overwhelmed the former United States Open and Wimbledon champion to take the tournament singles title.

"I've lost about seven or eight times to him, but I felt pretty confident today," Solomon said after gaining $12,000 in prize money. "The extremely slow court made for extremely good tennis."

"Smith isn't serving quite as well . . . and he's not as fast at the net as he was before," he said.

In doubles competition, Dick Stockton of Dallas, Tex., teamed with Erik van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif. to defeat brothers Anand and Vijay Amritraj of India 6-4, 7-5, 6-1 and share $3,000 in prize money.

Smith advanced to the final by beating top seed Marty Riessen of Florida 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 while Solomon won the other semi-final 6-4, 6-2 over Van Dillen.

Dropping his opening service in the second set, Smith, from Sea Pines, S.C., quickly found himself down 2-0 behind the solid passing shots of his smaller opponent.

In the third game, Smith double-faulted to deuce, lost advantage on a net exchange and close line call, then was broken again. He also was broken in the fifth game, before rallying to break Solomon's service. But he was broken back in the seventh game for the match.

"You have to keep Stan deep because of his size," said Solomon. "He was not hitting his groundstrokes too well and that worked against him."

J. C. Snead Wins in Playoff

SAN DIEGO (AP) — J.C. Snead, a playoff winner in the Andy Williams-San Diego open golf tournament Sunday, has for 33 years lived in the shadow of his famous Uncle Sam.

At times it's been a problem. But now he's learned to live with it.

"Sometimes I've had a hard time with it," Snead said after defeating defending champion Bobby Nichols and Ray Floyd in four holes of sudden death.

"Maybe somebody had a run-in with my uncle a long time ago and they want to give me a hard time about it."

Snead came from five strokes off the pace with a four-under-par 68 in the cold and wind to tie Nichols and Floyd at 279, nine-under-par on the seaside, 7,047-yard South course at Torrey Pines Park. Nichols had a closing 71, Floyd 72.

Nichols dropped out with a three-putt bogey on the first sudden death hole. Floyd took Snead two more holes before he pumped his second shot into the water on the fourth playoff hole. Snead made birdie-four and it was over.

Rod Funseth, who had the lead after 54 holes, went to a 74 in the last round and missed the playoff by a single stroke at 280. Tom Kite followed at 281 after a closing 71.

George Knudson of Toronto finished with a 73 for a four-round total of 294 and $74.

Top Prize To Fort Erie

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Jo-Anne Russ, a 26-year-old unemployed factory worker from Fort Erie, Ont., won the $250,000 tax-free first prize Saturday in the second Western Canada Lottery Foundation draw.

The draw, held as part of the Canada Winter Games celebrations, divided $630,000 among 16 winners, eight of whom were present and eight drawn as home partners.

If you had a savings plan that gave you high interest and let you save tax dollars, you'd call it smart. That's what we call it.

Introducing SMART

We figure with inflation and taxes taking more and more of your earnings, it's become harder just to get by now, let alone save.

That's where the Commerce SMART registered savings plan comes in. The SMART plan is really a double-barrelled savings plan. It not only gives you good compound interest rates on the money you save, but it also saves you some of the money you'd normally pay on income tax.

For example, if your taxable income is $10,000. and you put $1,000. into SMART you'd only pay taxes on $9,000.

You see, since the SMART plan is registered with the Government, the Income Tax Act lets you deduct a certain amount from your income and lets you accumulate this money tax-free until you really need it. Your accumulated savings will be treated as taxable income in the year they are paid out to you.

At the Commerce we think a plan that allows you to SAVE MONEY AND REDUCE TAXES is smart. Which is why we named our plan the way we did.

SMART
Save Money And Reduce Taxes

How much money does it require to start?

The minimum contribution has been set at $50. And you can contribute as often as you like. The amount you wish to save (within allowable limits) is entirely up to you.

You may, if you choose, make a single lump sum deposit. Alternatively, the Commerce can make it easy for you to save systematically —regular transfers from your chequing or savings accounts can easily be arranged.

What's the best age to start contributing?

You can begin at any age so long as it's before your 71st birthday. In fact, the sooner you start the better.

Because, how much you end up with in your Registered Savings Plan depends on how long your money has been accumulating as well as the amount you've contributed and the interest rate you earn.

For instance, if you started saving $1,000. a year at age 25 and assumed an average compound interest rate of 7%, your retirement savings would amount to $220,723. at age 65. On the other hand, if you waited until age 45 and contributed $2,000. a year at the same 7% compound rate, your savings would only total $89,014. even though you had contributed exactly the same amount ($40,000.).

So you see, the whole idea is to let your money keep working for you as long as possible.

Can you make withdrawals from your SMART plan?

While withdrawals are not permitted you may de-register your Plan. At that time, your accumulated savings will be treated as taxable income in the year received. However, you may use your savings to purchase an annuity thereby spreading your taxes over a number of years.

Is SMART the plan for you?

The Commerce SMART registered savings plan makes a lot of sense for just about everyone. It doesn't matter whether you're a successful businessman, a busy working wife, a young family man, an active career girl, or someone who's just interested in a good savings plan.

How can you start SMART?

Come to the SMART Information Centre located at the Commerce branch nearest you.

We'll be glad to help you set up your SMART plan or give you any further information you may need.

CP News Roundup

Car Switch Saved Life Of Amin

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuter) — President Idi Amin of Uganda narrowly escaped death in an assassination attempt last month, reliable Ugandan sources said Saturday.

The sources said Amin's limousine was sprayed with machine-gun fire Jan. 7 on the road to the northern Ugandan town of Gulu. The occupants of the car, said to be four senior army officers, were killed.

The president had earlier transferred to a smaller vehicle and was driving himself at the rear of the official convoy.

Controls Planned

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jonn White, Ontario minister without portfolio, said Saturday that controls for environmental protection are high on the government's list of priorities, whatever the economic costs.

Land Left Idle

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Sunday that the province is losing good farmland because city dwellers move to farms but leave the land idle.

Arthritis Vaccine

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Murray B. Urowitz, an assistant professor of medicine at the University of Toronto, said Saturday that an experimental vaccine is being used to prevent destruction of bone joints in rheumatoid-arthritis victims.

Negligence Seen

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Ontario New Democratic Party Leader Stephen Lewis said Saturday he believes some provincial cabinet ministers are guilty of criminal negligence under the Criminal Code for allowing to go uninterrupted, abuses to the health and welfare of Ontario workers and residents.

Syncrude Opposed

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Cyril Symes, New Democrat MP for Sault Ste. Marie, Sunday said Canadians harbor feelings of "outrage" toward the Syncrude oil sands project in Alberta.

Equality Demanded

THUNDER BAY (CP) — The Northern Ontario NDP council has demanded that services of the Ontario government be provided to all provincial residents on an equal basis.

A resolution adopted at the council's weekend meeting said there is a "dire need" in some parts of the province for better medical, dental, water and road services.

Editor Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Brud Delany, 53, entertainment editor of The Star and managing editor of the now-defunct Vancouver Times, died Saturday.

Barrie Band Wins

TORONTO (CP) — The Barrie central collegiate band, under the direction of Morley Calvert, won the challenge competition of the Kiwanis Music Festival Saturday.

Big Cities Opposed

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island says it is nonsense and shortsightedness to encourage 85 per cent of Canada's population to live in a half-dozen cities.

He noted that some European countries have initiated programs which in effect penalize industries that establish operations in urban areas.

Toronto Wins

OTTAWA (CP) — The University of Toronto law faculty won first place in the 13th annual Ontario Moot Court competition Saturday.

Each of the province's six law faculties had teams with one student to present the case of the applicant lawyer and another to present the respondent in a reconstruction of a Supreme Court of Canada case.

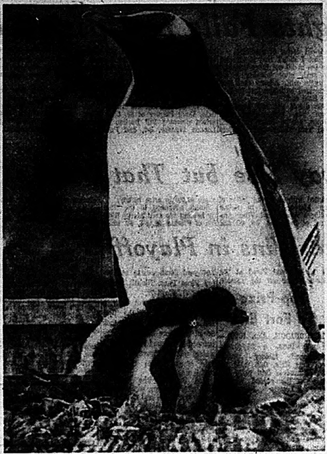
Manila Gets Match

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Manila has been selected as the site of this year's world chess championship match between Robert Fischer of the United States and Anatoly Karpov of the Soviet Union.

Weather Factor

TORONTO (CP) — Arthritis victims who think their joints hurt more when the barometer drops are not deluding themselves into believing old wives' tales, a conference was told Saturday.

Dr. Murray B. Urowitz, assistant professor of medicine at the University of Toronto, said falling air pressure and rising humidity cause greater discomfort for arthritis sufferers.



Protected from Cold

This baby penguin gets at least some temporary parental comfort and shelter from the cold world it soon will face on its own. And a cold world it is at Paradise Bay, Antarctica, where these penguins were recently photographed. (AP Photo)

Brings Back Fathers

VICTORIA (CP) — A United States doctor lecturing at the university of Victoria this week says he's working on bringing the fathers back into the family.

Dr. Ross Parke, head of the social development section of Fels Research Institute in Yellowsprings, Ohio, told a university audience fathers have been "a biological necessity but a social accident for too long."

New Bloc Sought

CUCUTA, Colombia (AP) — Venezuela and Colombia proposed on Sunday creation of a Latin American economic consultative body that would exclude the United States but welcome Cuba and all other Latin American countries. The organization, to be called the Latin American Economic System, would not interfere with the Organization of American States.

Soviet Guns Simpler

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — United States Army tests have shown Soviet artillery and anti-aircraft guns to be simpler and more reliable than U.S. counterparts, Representative Les Aspin said Sunday. The Wisconsin Democrat said tests by the army showed that U.S. weapons had too many unnecessary refinements.

Paintings Stolen

MILAN (Reuter) — Thieves took 28 paintings, including masterpieces by Cezanne, Renoir and Van Gogh, from the Gallery of modern Art Sunday night. The theft occurred 11 days after the theft in Italy of three priceless paintings by Raphael and Piero Della Francesca.

Snakes Alive

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Albert Robbins, 74, of Bakersfield, Calif., told the judge he was going 20 miles over the speed limit because he had a 120-pound, 17-foot problem.

He said his pet python had squirmed out of its barrel and was snuggling up against his neck.

He said he decided to step on the accelerator in hopes of attracting police.

Suez Canal Open

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — The Suez canal is open, Israeli military correspondents reported Monday, and a British oil tanker recently passed through it. They also said Egyptian naval vessels had been transferred south through the canal from the Mediterranean to the Gulf of Suez and others were sent north to replace them. Egyptian authorities were reported to be delaying the official reopening of the canal to increase political pressure on Israel for further withdrawals in the Sinai.

No Pension

TORONTO (CP) — Louis Jevnikar, 70, is supporting his wife and youngest daughter on a $120 Canada Pension Plan cheque each month because he retired after 18 years as a city laborer without a pension.

Somehow, Mr. Jevnikar, who came from Yugoslavia in 1948, never became a member of a city pension plan.

Boston Doctor's Conviction In Abortion Stirs Debate

BOSTON (AP) — The manslaughter conviction of Dr. Kenneth Edelin for the death of an aborted fetus has raised fears among some physicians of new restrictions on abortions.

"The verdict will send shock waves into the medical community," said William Curran, professor of legal medicine at Harvard.

Edward Golden of Troy, N.Y., on the board of directors of the national Right to Life Committee, said legislators will have to take another look at abortion laws.

Edelin, 36, was convicted Saturday for the death of a fetus during a legal abortion in October, 1973, at Boston City Hospital.

His conviction clears the way for prosecution of four doctors under an 1814 grave-robbing statute for experiments on aborted fetuses. Assistant District-Attorney Newman Flanagan said he now will turn to the fetal experimentation case, in which indictments were returned last April.

Some doctors fear this case could interfere with research in fetal development and birth defects.

Edelin's trial involved complicated medical testimony about when life begins.

A conference of conservatives in Washington passed a resolution Sunday urging a constitutional amendement to protect the life of unborn children from the moment of conception.

And John Cardinal Krol, Roman Catholic archbishop of Philadelphia, said of the case:

"Some have expressed concern that the decision may inhibit abortion. We pray to God that it will."

Edelin's lawyer said the case will be appealed, to the Supreme Court if necessary. Edelin, on the Black News television program here, said the color of his skin was a factor in the trial.

He said one alternate juror was quoted as saying the jurors made racial slurs while considering the case.

In a Boston Globe interview, Edelin called the trial "a witch hunt."

"A lot came together for them in my case. They got a black physician, they got a woman more than 20 weeks pregnant, and they got a fetus in a mortuary."

Despite six weeks of complicated and sometimes contradictory medical testimony on the differences between a fetus and a human being, the jurors said it was a photograph of the aborted fetus that convinced them.

"It looked like a baby," said Liberty Ann Conlin of the black and white picture of the 20-to 24-week-old fetus.

Said Paul Holland: "Everybody in the room made up their minds that the fetus was a person."

It was one of the first major abortion cases since the Supreme Court on Jan. 22, 1973, barred states from interfering with a woman's right to abortion before the fetus was old enough to survive on its own outside the womb.

The Edelin jurors reached their verdict despite an instruction from Judge James McGuire of Superior Court that "a fetus is not a person and therefore not a subject for an indictment for manslaughter."

He said that in order to become a person protected by law, it must be born outside the body of its mother.

Edein was charged with killing the aborted fetus during a three-minute wait during which he held it without air inside its mother's womb. Edelin denied the delay, and was supported in his testimony by two nurses and a medical student.

Edelin is free on personal recognizance while awaiting sentencing. The maximum penalty for manslaughter is 20 years in prison.

The state board of registration in medicine said it will take no action on Edelin's license to practice until all legal proceedings are completed.

Off-track Betting — Long Wait

TORONTO (CP) — Off-track betting is in the works for Ontario just as soon as the federal government amends the section of the Criminal Code dealing with wagering.

That statement was made two years ago by Marshall Pollock, chief counsel for an Ontario government study group on off-track betting.

The situation remains the same today.

The Ontario Jockey Club, with its president, John J. Mooney, leading the fight, continues to press for a government-operated off-track betting program and the provincial government apparently is backing him.

"We've made many approaches to the federal government, as has the province, but so far the law hasn't been changed," said Mooney.

"I think it will. I think it's inevitable the government is going to do it. And there's going to be a good system of off-track betting in those provinces that want it."

Mooney, 50, is an owner and breeder who has been around thoroughbred racing almost all his life, his father, J. D., having been a jockey who rode Black Gold to victory in the Kentucky Derby in 1924 and Shore Lint to the King's Plate in 1929.

As jockey club president since 1973, he is responsible for thoroughbred racing at Fort Erie and at Woodbine and Greenwood in Toronto as well as harness racing at St. Catharines, Mohawk (midway between Toronto and Kitchener) and Greenwood.

Mooney wants off-track betting run by the government so that money wagered will go to the track. The club has always been opposed to off-track betting messenger services because "there are no controls or licensing procedures and no way to guarantee the dollars bet get to the tracks."

"We know there's a very large bookmaking industry in this province and Canada," Mooney said in an interview. "Their money generally does not come to the track and does not help racing in any way. We think the majority of people if they had an off-track betting system would tend to be with that system rather than the bookie.

"If you have your shops located in the right places so they're convenient to people . . . they'll use those shops. The money would be channelled through the proper sources — the federal government and province would get their share."

Is the jockey club only thinking of itself regarding off-track betting?

"The jockey club is non-profit," Mooney said. "I don't think this is being greedy. It's trying to make it economically sound to continue racing, keeping it prosperous and at a high quality. The money would be mainly used for purses.

"In all of our surveys we found that race tracks only draw from a small percentage of the population in their areas. Customers tend to be repeat customers."

Those opposing an off-track betting system say it might be the death knell for the smaller tracks. Unless there were regional controls, bettors would tend to use the off-track system and stay away from their local track.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A man who died mysteriously in the Soviet Union 39 years ago is suddenly American theatre's author of the month.

A few days ago the Royal Shakespeare Company arrived in New York with Maxim Gorky's Summerfolk. Another Gorky, also never shown before in the United States, Our Father, was presented in weekend Theatre.

The scheduling coincidence may not start a vogue—10 of the early Slavic firebrand's 15 scripts are yet to be seen in the U.S.—but the twin events established his dramatic appeal for audiences now, one drama critic said.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Elvis Presley is home from the hospital under the same rule he used when taken to hospital, secrecy.

Hospital officials said Friday that Presley was discharged Thursday without announcement of his release.

Presley entered the hospital Jan. 29 for tests and treatment of an intestinal blockage. Doctors have said the singer's condition results from a twisted colon.

Presley's father, Vernon Presley, 59, remains in the hospital as the result of a heart attack Feb. 5.

THE SELF-HELP HOME PLAN

"How can it save me money?"

Low Cost — No Down Payment Housing FROM ROLLINS LUMBER

Over the last decade, the cost of materials and labor for construction have risen considerably. There is no way around the increased cost of quality materials. However through volume buying, Rollins Lumber can offer you some reductions in these prices.

The big savings, though, come on labor costs, when you build through the Self-Help Home Plan. A lot of the cost of a new home comes from paying highly-skilled workmen to do relatively easy interior finishing jobs. These jobs can be done by most people with a little bit of advice from Rollins Lumber's expert personnel. The Self-Help plan gives you the opportunity to finish your home's interior and really save yourself some money — several thousand dollars in fact.

No — you don't have to worry about materials because we supply them as you need them.

In addition by reducing the over-all cost of construction your home qualifies for the $500. federal grant. See us today for details.

NO DOWN PAYMENT

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Tuesday, Feb. 18

Aries (March 21-April 19) You will have more fun if your activities are based around entertainment you don't have to pay for out-of-pocket.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) The early part of the day will go much to your liking. Toward evening, there will be a foul-up because of another.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) It would be wise if you attended to responsibilities first, but you won't. It will cut you away early from something enjoyable.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Keep persons out of your affairs who have no place in them, or something you want to achieve will be snatched from your grasp.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone has taken time to give you some very sound advice and thought you were in accord with their views. You won't follow it as you should.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Sometimes it's wise to hold out for a better bargain businesswise. Today is an exception. You're obstinance is a deficit.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will make an agreement. At the last minute you'll break away for something you think to be more advantageous. It won't be.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Get at anything productive you hope to accomplish as early as possible. Later disruptions will throw you off-stride.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Have your exit lines prepared in advance. You're going to want to duck out early from a social involvement this evening.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're a bit restless today. After awhile you'll want to get out of the house. Relaxation will elude you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be alerted for some unannounced drop-ins at your house this evening, or you'll be caught embarrassingly unprepared.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be in such a big rush to get home this evening that you speed and try to beat a few traffic lights.

MAY SET UP CIRCUIT

Research into the possibility of setting up a New Tork state performing arts touring circuit will continue as interviewers fan out into 20 communities during the next few months.

To Your Good Health

Parasite Present In Man and Wife

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a married woman of 25, and have been married eight years. During the last year I've been having this problem of vaginal discharge.

The doctor calls it trichomonas, which he says is a form of venereal disease spread by sexual contact. My husband insists he hasn't been messing around, so he says it's me, and I know I haven't been.

So where is it coming from—Mrs L.M.

It could be coming from either of you.

The problem is the use of the term "venereal disease." Yes, trichomonas vaginalis is a venereal disease in the sense that it is passed on by sexual contact. But in this case there need be no stigma of "messing around."

It is a symptom of a disorder of the female genital tract, although the organism is also found in the urethra of males. How the parasite gets started is not clear. It is often found in women who are sexually active, but that doesn't have to mean promiscuity.

Recurrence does raise the question of improper feminine hygiene, although the male, too, can be a source of the reinfection.

The problem is that the symptoms are almost always more pronounced in the woman than in the man. The woman will experience the discharge, genital irritation and discomfort during urination. But while the symptoms in the male are negligible the organism can be detected by microscopic examination of either his urine or prostate secretion.

When the infection occurs in a marital setting, the husband should be tested along with the wife. Otherwise the threat of reinfection will remain.

To preserve harmony and, more importantly, to get rid of the bug, ask your husband to take the medication you are taking, whether or not he feels he is the source. Flagyl is one of the most effective drugs.

Avoid tight-fitting clothing, slacks, panty hose, panty girdles and shorts. Wear a nightgown instead of pyjamas. Take a tub bath instead of a shower. Put a little detergent into the bath water and soak daily about 15 minutes at a time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 69 and have hepatitis. After five weeks I am not improved. I am tired. The doctor wants bed rest. Just how long does this stay with one? Does it stay longer with an older person than with a younger one?—Mrs. S.K.

Infectious hepatitis tends to clear up in from six to eight weeks, so statistically you haven't much longer to go although it does take a bit longer for an older person.

When your appetite returns you will feel better. It may take a while before your liver function tests begin to show normal readings but this doesn't mean you will feel badly all that time.

Relapses occur in from five to 15 per cent of cases, usually because the patient has resumed activity too soon. I recommend you follow your doctor's orders.

Your diet should be high in protein (meats, fish, etc.) and carbohydrates (starch and sugar) but low on fats.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In connection with your advice to the mother who wanted to prepare nutritious school lunches for her children I would like to pass on a suggestion.

Put the sandwiches in the freezer the night before the day they are to be eaten. By the time the children are ready to eat the sandwiches they will be thawed out but will not have had time to spoil.—S.P.

Good enough advice to pass on. Thank you.

Find Burying Ground

PRAGUE (AP) — One of the largest Langoboard burial grounds was discovered at Sakvice in southern Moravia during ground-breaking for a house, the Czech youth paper Mlada Fronta said. There were 53 graves in the sixth-century burial ground. The Langoboards were a West Germanic tribe that lived near the headwaters of The Elbe River and later invaded what today is Hungary and Italy.

Elevated Hay Stacks

DONJI MILANOVAC, Yugoslavia (AP) — Farmers near this East Yugoslav city have nature provide them with material for their hay stacks. They prune tree branches but leave a crown, and then put their hay in the receptacle where the crown protects the hay from rain and elevation provides ideal ventilation. The tree also is preserved.

FAIR IS FOUL

LONDON (CP) — Peter Fairfoul was only slightly annoyed when informed his Village Blacksmith pub was accidentally dropped from the new telephone yellow pages. For in the present edition he's listed in the Blacksmith and Forgemaster's section and is hounded by inquiries about horse shoes and wrought ironwork. Said a telephone spokesman: "At least Mr. Fairfoul will not be troubled any more."

Busy in 1974

LONDON (CP) — The Royal National Lifeboat Institution, supported by gifts from the public and maintaining lifeboats round the coasts of Britain, had its busiest year in 1974—the year in which it celebrated its 150th anniversary. Its boats set out on 2,706 rescue missions and 1,336 lives were saved.

Jim: "All mistakes made at the bridge table aren't costly. Sometimes they boomerang into winning scores. When Joe Conforte of Reno doubled five diamonds at the San Antonio nationals, he made what should have been a costly mistake, but wound up with a top score."

Oswald: "They sure like to gamble in Nevada. North's two-club bid was artificial and forcing. South's two diamonds a negative response and I guess that when South finally bid five diamonds he sounded like a dying duck."

Jim: "Joe led the spade king, looked over dummy and promptly shifted to the nine of hearts. Five minutes later South had gone up with dummy's ace of hearts, come to his hand with a club, led the three of diamonds and finessed dummy's nine. East was surprised to find his ten of diamonds gathering in a trick, but not too surprised to lead a heart to his partner's king."

Oswald: "South's play was rather illogical, yet not completely so. Joe might well have doubled with the ace-king of spades a singleton heart and five diamonds to the ten. Incidentally, when you next see Joe suggest to him that he should rest on his laurels and not try any more doubles like this one."

Candu Conversion Would Be Costly

OTTAWA (CP) — Converting Canadian natural-uranium power plants to burn enriched nuclear fuel, a possibility raised by Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa, would be too cumbersome and costly to make sense, Ottawa technical authorities say.

And they calculate that a possible Quebec project to produce the enriched uranium, partly for export to France, would use up Canada's proven reserves of uranium in about 16 years.

Authorities with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. (AECL), the government company behind the Candu plants, outlined in weekend interviews some technicalities involved in any conversion of the system

The suggestion was made last week by Premier Bourassa, whose government is studying jointly with France the feasibility of building a uranium-enrichment project, possibly in the James Bay region of northern Quebec.

The prospect has been greeted coolly by federal politicians on grounds it would amount to a wasteful diversion of energy resources into a foreign power-plant design that competes with the Candu.

Part of the argument concerns differences between the common European and American-style nuclear plants, which use enriched uranium fuel and natural water to generate power, and the Candu system, which uses natural uranium and heavy water.

The Candu system is used in power plants at Gentilly, Que., and at Douglas Point and Pickering, Ont.—rated the world's biggest nuclear power plant. The design also is used in India and Pakistan and has been sold to Argentina and South Korea.

AECL officials describe as wasteful the enriched-uranium system, which generates four times more reactor heat than the natural fuel but needs more than four times as much raw uranium to make the enriched fuel

AECL officials cite cost comparisons between Candu and enriched - uranium reactors - less than one mill for each kilowatt-hour of electricity from Pickering compared with 2½ mills for U.S. plants.

They Hate to See Mary Jo Down at the Grocery Store

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — It is a bad day for grocery clerks when Mary Jo Berding comes to call.

The last time she led her family of six children to market it took 50 minutes for the grocery clerk to tally up her bill which came to more than $600.

That means more than 13 feet of grocery tape, which told the tale of 54 grocery bags and nine grocery carts.

"They hate to see me come in," said Mrs. Berding.

Going to the grocery is a big event in the Berding family, because Mama Berding shops only once every three months.

"I hate grocery shopping," Mrs. Berding said after a recent trip to the market. "I hate the crowds. I hate the fact that you have to go every week and all the time it takes. So I just put my shopping off until I have to go."

Just compiling a shopping list takes several days. Mrs. Berding's last list included 15 large size jars of powdered fruit drink, 26 boyes of cereal, 15 large boxes of sugar and 15 large cans of corn.

"Somehow we made a mistake and ended up with seven large jars of mustard," she said.

Once the shopping spree is over, and her station wagon loaded and driven home, that's all the grocery shopping the family does for the next three months. Meat and dairy items don't count, since Mrs. Berding has them delivered.

Her infrequent trips to the grocery save money, she said.

"When you're buying for three months, you're eating on last week's prices for the whole time," she said. "We think that's quite a saving."

Stanfield Opposes PC Convention While Election Campaign Underway

OTTAWA (CP) — It would not be a good idea to hold a Progressive Conservative party leadership convention while an Ontario election campaign is underway, says national party leader Robert Stanfield.

An Ontario election "would interfere a great deal with the federal leadership convention," Mr. Stanfield said.

In an interview taped for the CTV program, Question Period, he said no decision has been taken on whether to hold the convention in the fall of this year or in early 1976.

Ontario's PC Premier William Davis has yet to set a specific time for a provincial election, but a fall date has been mentioned as a possibility.

Mr. Stanfield also said his decision to step down from the leadership is firm.

The election of Margaret Thatcher as leader of the British conservative party has increased the possibility of electing a woman as leader of the conservative party in Canada, Mr. Stanfield said.

He said it would be more likely that a woman in Canadien politics, "Flora MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands), for example," would be voted in because of her merits "and not voted against because she is a woman."

The recent decision to shuffle responsibilities in the conservative caucus was not made to give anyone a boost in the leadership race, he said.

The choice of Sinclair Stevens (York-Simcoe) for the position of economic critic was made "simply on the basis of what I thought was in the interests of the caucus, the basis of performing in the House," he said.

Bible for Old Debt Makes Bartender Rich

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bartender Don Goodwill was a soft touch if you needed a buck or two, so when a customer offered an old Bible as payment of a debt seven years ago, Mr Goodwill accepted.

Today, the leather-bound volume has been identified as a rare 1628 version of the King James Bible, printed in England. The British Museum, which has three of the seven copies known to exist, has authenticated the book.

Mr. Goodwill, who cancelled the debt and paid the man $25 for the book, said he knew it was old when he took it, but didn't think much about it.

He gave it to his mother, and it sat on a shelf for several years.

"Then one night I was chatting with this fellow at the bar, and he seemed to have a lot of knowledge about historic books. When I described my Bible he got very interested and kept asking me a lot of questions."

Today the Bible is in a bank vault.

There is a mysterious section in Mr. Goodwill's Bible that is not in any of the others.

The three-and-one-half-page insert, titled The Booke of Solomon, is lettered in a language biblical scholars have not been able to identify.

There are seven sheets of maps, captioned with the same language.

Some museum curators are guessing the maps involve the temple of Solomon. Antique experts, scholars and Vatican officials have written Mr. Goodwill seeking more data on the book.

You preach it. Now read why you should practice it. Every day.

"Drink your milk." If you think this applies just to growing children, you are wrong. Nobody ever stops needing the good nutrients in milk.

YOU ARE CERTAINLY AWARE of your children's daily need for milk.

But did you know that you need it too? Every day, just as they do?

Well, you do. Milk is just as important to adults as it is to children. It contains more nutrients needed by all ages than any other food that Nature provides.

All by itself, milk is an excellent source of no less than five nutrients of major importance to adult health. Here they are:—

Calcium. Calcium is a factor in the maintenance, and repair, of bones and teeth. Milk is rated "excellent" as a source of this important mineral.

Protein. You think "meat"? Think "milk". Because milk is an excellent source of the same types of protein found in meat. (Bet you didn't know that!)

Riboflavin. One of the B Vitamins, Riboflavin is a factor in keeping you healthy. And what is an excellent, readily-available and economical source of it? Milk.

Vitamin A. Another basic factor in maintaining health in adults and children. Whole milk (although not skim) is an excellent source of this vitamin.

Phosphorus—of which milk is also an excellent source—works with calcium to maintain good bone condition throughout adulthood.

Wait. There's more to the story: milk is also considered a good source of Thiamine, another needed health factor. And, in Ontario, Vitamin D is almost always added as well.

In short, it's the deficiencies ~~in~~ milk that are hard to find! Just about the only important nutrients it cannot supply are iron and Vitamin C, both of which it has, but only in small amounts.

Now you know how much benefit milk can be for you, an adult. And, you will remember, you once drank it every single day ...through all of your childhood.

Maybe the time has come to start again.

"Every day is what it takes."

To get the most out of milk, make it a daily habit. Just the way you brush your teeth.

Fortunately, nothing could be much easier to make a habit of than milk. You don't have to mix, stir, cook. Just pour...and drink.

You don't have to revise your food habits, either. You can make room for milk in your daily diet simply by adding a glass to breakfast, lunch or dinner. If you have coffee-breaks during your day, you can do yourself a real favour by making one a milk-break instead.

Noonday soups can often be made with milk instead of water. Extra creamy as well as extra good!

And if you're counting calories, make your calories count—by drinking milk every day. It contains more nutrition per calorie than any other readily obtainable food!

Another benefit from milk.

There is one other aspect of your re-instating yourself as a daily milk drinker which deserves your very serious consideration.

It is this: if your children grow up seeing you, an adult, accepting milk as a fundamental part of your daily food intake, it will be a lot harder for them to get talked out of milk by their contemporaries who condemn it as "kid stuff". You're the daily proof that it isn't.

In this day of the junk-food explosion, that's a service that can be important.

And all the time you are setting an example for your children, you are doing a great big nutritional favour for yourself.

Two things to feel good about—with every glass of milk you drink!

Thank goodness for milk.

Over and above all its nutritional values—and no other single food outranks it—there's something uniquely satisfying about milk.

Perhaps this is because milk is such a basic food, so abundantly surrounded with associations of purity, wholesomeness, naturalness.

And, if you are like most Canadian women, you have already been away from milk for far too long.

Make friends with milk again. Every day. Starting now.

It isn't hard. And you won't regret it.

Housewives' Pensions Is Welfare Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Welfare ministers will again grapple with the question of whether housewives should participate in the Canada Pension Plan when they meet here today and Wednesday.

Marc Lalonde, federal health and welfare minister, said in an interview Monday that reports prepared by the pension plan advisory board and the status of women council will be released at the closed two-day meeting.

Today Saskatchewan Welfare Minister Alex Taylor told the meeting any overhaul of social security programs should avoid making distinctions between the working poor and persons on social assistance.

Mr. Taylor's comments run counter to proposals favored by the federal government.

Bata Lays Off Picton Night Shift

Postal Service Slows

TORONTO (CP) — Postal service in Metropolitan Toronto is "gradually winding right down" as the result of a strike by the Public Service Alliance of Canada, a post office spokesman said today.

Ed Roworth, regional information officer, said only a fraction of the normal volume of mail is moving here and the effects of the walkout, which began Monday, will be felt throughout Canada.

The strike here is one of a series of rotating walkouts called by the union across the country to back a demand for higher pay. About 11,000 blue-collar workers left their jobs in many centres.

"The only people we haven't pulled out are those at airports because we don't want to inconvenience the public," an alliance spokesman said.

Canada Warned

If Gas Cut Off U.S. Retaliates

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail quotes a United States state department official as saying Ottawa will risk drastic U.S. retaliation if it breaks natural gas export contracts.

In a Washington dispatch, the newspaper says the warning is apparently due to the fear that Ottawa may soon declare that an imminent natural gas shortage will force it to curtail contract exports to the U.S.

The newspaper says the state department official listed a number of retaliatory steps ranging from the cutting off of Canadian pipelines running through the U.S. to ending American coal shipments to Ontario steel mills and electrical generating plants.

He is also quoted as saying that any moves must be approved by Congress or the president.

"It is vital that we leave the Canadian government in no doubt about our determination to take decisive action if the contracts are broken," The Globe and Mail quotes the official as saying.

The newspaper says the warnings are backed by a senior state department official and an official in the U.S. federal energy administration.

It says the state department official acknowledged that the U.S. does not have a good case since Canada's National Energy Board has the legal power to modify or even abrogate the natural gas export contracts.

The Globe and Mail says industry and congressional officials in the U.S. generally agree that the breaking of natural gas export contracts would mean the end of the Arctic Gas project.

The newspaper quotes a state department official as saying that if Canada breaks contracts, there is almost no chance of congressional approval of a Canadian-U.S. treaty that would guarantee unimpaired operation of oil and gas pipelines crossing the border.

Gunmen Surrender To Radio Reporter

MONTREAL (CP) — Two armed bank robbers who held five hostages followed a recent trend Monday by surrendering in the presence of a reporter from a local radio station.

The gunmen ended a noon-hour drama in the city's north end by climbing into a mobile radio unit and driving to police headquarters with reporter Claude Poirier of the French-language radio station CJMS.

Police said the suspects would be charged today with armed robbery, kidnapping, illegal possession of firearms and other crimes.

But a police spokesman said he hopes the practice of surrendering only to reporters soon ends. It has happened about five times recently, he said.

"We can't have these guys thinking they will surrender only when there are reporters present," the spokesman said. "If every armed robbey ended like this, we would be in trouble."

About 125 armed policemen, a technical unit equipped with tear gas and a police helicopter converged on a Texaco gas station where the two suspects took refuge and captured five hostages.

Police said the suspects had escaped shortly before noon with $3,258 from a branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada, but were followed by two patrol cars answering a holdup alarm.

Postmen Reject Offer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Letter Carriers' Union of Canada asked the federal public service staff relations board Monday to waive appointment of a conciliation board, so the union would be in a position to strike as soon as possible, union president Roger Decarie said Monday. Mr. Decarie said in an interview that the union has rejected a treasury board offer of a $1.15-an-hour wage increase.

Ministers Demand Names

Young Says Party Politics Leaves Polluters Undisturbed

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A Belleville man's inference that party politics and patronage influenced enforcement of anti-pollution laws in the city area drew a lively reaction from Ontario cabinet ministers Monday.

Clarence Young, voluntary pollution watchdog and unsuccessful aldermanic candidate in the last Belleville civic election, suddenly found himself pressed for specifics — including names — by the cabinet team at the two-day conference on Eastern Ontario resources and problems.

With details demanded, Mr. Young linked the Conservative party to his allegations of a "clique" in the city.

Environmental Minister William Newman said district industries had spent millions in recent years on pollution control.

"Nobody is in our pockets," he told Mr. Young.

In his submission to the conference's afternoon session Monday, Mr. Young had mentioned several instances in recent years in which he alleged action was not taken against polluters he had reported.

His brief charged a "comfortable state of affairs" exists in the Belleville area, "primarily, I suspect, to protect the businessmen and contractors that make up the biggest percentage of the offenders."

He claimed little would be done to counteract the situation if action interferes with the "poltical structure as it exists in this area."

Anti-pollution officials should get on "with the business of prosecuting the offenders who seem, by way of political patronage, to bear a charmed life." he submitted.

Provincial Resources Secretary Allan Grossman, heading the cabinet team at the Four Seasons Hotel sessions, demanded Mr. Young be more specific about his claims of political influence.

Mr Young said "Belleville has always been a clique ... This I could explain later."

But, pressed for on-the-spot explanations by Resources Minister Leo Bernier, he said they belong "to the same party."

Harry Mulhall

Clarence Young

The minister wanted to know names and which party.

Mr. Young said the Conservative party. He named two city construction contractors and Belleville General Hospital as among pollution offenders.

Mr Grossman demanded to know why the hospital, as a non-profit organization, would be involved in patronage.

"We're all interested in clearing pollution up," added the minister.

He told Mr. Young such statements without backing didn't help "respect for processes of government and law."

Among incidents cited in Mr. Young's brief were 1972 complaints he had made to the Ontario Water Resources Commission alleging the hospital and manufacturers Mead Johnson and Union Carbide were polluting the nearby Bay of Quinte.

The OWRC also allowed dumping of other contaminants close to the bay, he said.

On other occasions he had been with environmental officers at a Marmora Quarry when workers "blackened the sky" with a refuse fire and when a 200-gallon drum of oil was emptied into the Moira River. On both occasions reasons were given why no action was taken.

Environmental Minister Newman demanded the names of the civil servants involved and said his ministry would not "tolerate" any deliberate oil dumping.

He said the problem involving the hospital had been cleaned up with the hospital's co-operation.

In the past five years industries in the Quinte-Kingston region had spent $18.7 million on pollution controls. "Nobody is in our pockets," he said. The 12 hospitals in the area had shown similar co-operation.

"If industry refuses to co-operate we will lay charges immediately," Mr. Newman told Mr. Young.

"I just want to let you know," he told Mr. Young, "we don't show any favoritism to anyone. And if you know any instances where people are breaking the law I want to know about it."

"You are not stopping the violators — because we get on to one and there are two or three more start up," countered Mr. Young.

The minister asked Mr. Young to write him with "specific names of these people" so "I can follow through on it."

Newman Outlines Pollution Fight

By BARRY McCULLAGH
Staff Reporter

Preventive measures taken since the ministry's inception, rather than after-the-fact corrective measures, have resulted in a greatly improved provincial environment.

That was the essence of an address to Belleville Rotarians yesterday by Environment Minister William Newman.

Mr. Newman said that in the past five years industry in the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Leeds and Grenville had spent approximately $18.7 million on pollution control.

During this same period 85 industries had completed some major form of abatement program. They included Deloro Stellite and Northern Electric in Belleville, Lake Ontario Cement in Picton and Metcalfe Food in Deseronto.

In addition 12 hospitals had modified either their heating plants or incinerators and eight asphalt plants and three ferrous foundries had added control equipment. Domtar Packaging in Trenton and Marmoraton Mining Company are currently on control programs and plans are under way at nine other industries.

During the past year the ministry's offices in Kingston and Belleville had processed atotal of 21 industrial applications dealing with the control of possible new sources of pollution or modification to existing sources. New industries assessed and approved included S.A. Armstrong Pumps, Signet Foods, and Proctor and Gamble.

The minister said officials had also spent considerable time dealing with pollution problems associated with waste disposal from agricultural problems, such as high density animal farming

Mr. Newman said that in the past 12 years the concentration of suspended particulate matter — one of Ontario's two major air pollutants — had decreased appreciably.

Referring to the continuing program to determine the quality o fthe Bay of Quinte water the minister said that by the end of this year phosphorous removal equipment would be installed in all sewage treatment plants in the area, with results that would soon become apparent.

He stated the province's solid waste management program, representing a capital investment of between $400 and $500 million over the next 15 years, was unequalled anywhere. He noted that the Hastings County area waste management study, which included Belleville had just been tabled in county council.

The county's committee of which Ald. Jean Smith is chairman, he described as the "most active and eager we have ever dealt with." Clerk Administrator Carl Bateman had also been a tremendous help in making information available.

Noise is another form of pollution — a "unique form" as Mr. Newman put it — which was being tackled. An amendment to the Environmental Protection Act had been introduced which would enable municipalities to pass by-laws controlling noise pollution.

Labor Groups Question Recent Board Decision

Two area labor groups marshaled their forces against a Trenton company and the Labor Relations Act Monday, charging the Labor Relations Board abetted the company's interference in its employees' right to form a union.

Both the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) Local 509, representing Canadian General Electric workers in Trenton and the Quinte District Labor Council made the charges in separate briefs to the provincial resources ministers conference at the Four Seasons here.

The manufacturing firm in question was Erie Technologiacl Products of Canada Ltd., a non-union plant since its inception 25 years ago, which recently UE attempted to organize.

The labor board report Dec. 16 on UE's application was negative and UE was prohibited from further organizing attempts for six months under the act.

UE president G. A. Young, presenting his brief outlined board actions which "did nothing to allay the fears of Erie workers who were already badly scared".

He said the board openly interviewed union sympathizers on company property and subpoenaed others to appear before it for workers as union people".

Mr. Young added the board was quick to investigate the union at the behest of the company without any evidence as a basis for allegations while "ignoring the union's charges against the company and its activities".

The labor council brief commented, "the procedures of the board are open to question, do not reflect the intent of the act, and cast serious doubts on the sincerity of the ministry."

John MacBeth, minister of labor, taking exception to a labor council statement that Ontario labor law "is the most repressive and oppressive in the western . . . world," remarked, "I think our labor relations laws work very well".

He refuted charges, saying the board sides with union applications and is wary of any management presentation. "There are two sides to all stories," he said, adding he will follow up on the allegations.

Province Won't Lift Park Ban on Bikers

The provincial government will not relax its clampdown in certain provincial parks where motorcycle gangs have caused disturbances and enforcement problems, Natural Resources Minister Bernier said Monday night

He said while officers were being trained to tackle the situation as yet "we're not equipped to handle this type of problem",

"We will continue to ban them (unruly motorcyclists) until we can correct the situation," he told the eastern Ontario conference of resource cabinet ministers at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Provincial parks are for "family-type" relaxation, he said and there are many parks not under the restriction. But where the problem exists the authorities "will still enforce the ban".

Mr. Bernier was replying to a brief from the Pisten Pushers Motorcycle Club, of Foxboro, a 25-member group of motorcyclists started in 1952 and active in local community activities.

Piston Pusher Ian Reilly, who presented the document, complained that many motocyclists were being unfairly affected by the ban.

Parks and camp grounds should be open to all who act with discretion, no matter what their mode of transport, he said.

"The vast majority of motorcyclists are not in the group you're complaining about," said Mr. Reilly.

He said an experienced parks official should be able to discern between a "respectable" motorcyclist and gang members.

For instance, he said, a Belleville - area provincial judge was a motorcyclist

He agreed "drastic action" might be necessary to remove troublesome elements.

Mr. Bernier agreed with Mr. Reilly that re-instituting beginners' permits was a safety factor. At present, student riders must learn on private property, get a permit to take a test, but can't ride home if they fail.

New Industry Needed For Thurlow Economy

Thurlow Township is feeling the property tax loss of the now-defunct Canada Cement Co., and faces a problem in inducing industry within its borders.

The cement company which ended a half-century operation two years ago — once paid about $100,000 a year in taxes as one of the predominantly rural township's major industries, Township Councillor Ken Yorke said Monday night.

Meantime, migration of urbanites which started into the township about 15 years ago has stepped up demand for what actually are urban services, he told the conference of Ontario resources cabinet ministers at the Four Seasons Hotel.

"To us it's a serious problem," he said. "... If we're to provide city service we must have industry."

A brief he presented the ministers said the township's government felt it had a "very slim chance" of recovering from the Canada Cement loss — which once paid about 17 per cent of the township's total assessment.

A municipality the size of Thurlow cannot afford a full-time industrial commissioner, needed to compete in the scramble with larger centres for industry.

He challenged remarks made earlier in the day by Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey that township areas around city perimeters were undergoing much development.

In Thurlow, "we have residential development, but not commercial and industrial," he said.

Tourism and Industry Minister Claude Bennett said one problem is the township has no official plan. If there is a plan and official agreement on industrialization he suggested the township might consider seeking Belleville's co-operation in using the city's industrial promotion department.

Site of Former Hotel Described as Hazard

By ROBIN CHASE. .....
Staff Reporter. ....

Provincial ministers avoided any concrete statements concerning Tyendinaga Reserve during a presentation by the Tyendinaga Community Association at the mini-cabinet hearing here Monday.

D. F. Ellis, association president and brother of Hastings MP Jack Ellis, outlined several issues including the leasehold on property in Tyendinaga Township development of the Salmon River as a tourist attraction, further development of a day park in Shannonville, proposed light industry on inferior-quality farm land in the area and continued operation of the Tyendinaga Community Centre.

Mr Ellis described an issue still outstanding due to the 999-year lease between the federal government and the Bay of Quinte Mohawks, that of the former Shannonville Hotel which was destroyed by fire almost two years ago.

The debris has not been cleaned up, he noted. "It's not safe ... a health hazard."

Pointing out the hotel sat on leasehold property where the township has no jurisdiction, Mr. Ellis said the township does not even have the recourse to clean up the site itself and charge the fee back to the owner on the tax roll because there are no property taxes.

No promises of action were made by the ministers. Leo Bernier, natural resources minister, said the leasehold situation should be clarified in present negotiations between the Mohawks and the federal government.

On the undeveloped day park in Shannonville which began in 1967, Mr. Bernier noted the township can apply for funds available from the province for this project.

Regarding slow tourist development and efforts to have the history of area people included in travel brochures, Claude Bennett, minister of industry and tourism, said that would be under the Eastern Ontario Travel Association.

Two Children Hit by Truck

Two grade-school children struck by a truck on their way to school today are in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital.

Darlene Hibbard, 8, of 26 Westmount Dr., a rGade 2 student and Steven Detlor, 9, of 39 Village Dr., in Grade 3, were on their way to Parkdale Public School about 8:30 a.m. today when the accident occurred.

Police said the two children were crossing Sidney St. near Auburn heading for school when they were struck by a truck northbound on Sidney St.

The girl was taken to hospital, police said, with bruises to the head, elbow and ribs, while the boy had head injuries.

Furhter details of the accident were not immediately available pending police investigation.

Bemis Wants Name Change

The city's industrial commission has requested council to consider a new name because it is "being called upon daily to answer inquiries in areas other than industrial development".

In a letter to council, industrial commissioner Fred Bemis suggested the commission be renamed the Belleville Economic Development Commission. Council will rule on the request at a future meeting.

"His Home's on Fire - Can He Still Buy Insurance?"

Construction costs increase about 4% each year, on average. A home costing $15,000 ten years ago would cost roughly $25,000 to replace today. If building insurance is maintained to at least 80% of value, the full replacement cost will be paid on insurance losses, up to the limit of the policy.

Demolition Opposed

PICTON — A delegation from the Prince Edward County Historical Society expects to address tonight's session of county council in an effort to prevent demolition of the old Prince Edward home for the aged. The building was vacated ten days ago when residents were moved to the new H.J. McFarland Memorial Home.

President of the historical society, Jack Welsman of RR 2, Picton, says members agree the old home is typical of the late Victorian period and still has a number of useful years to offer in the community.

He noted the home built in 1905, has no particular hostorical significance but if it is allowed to stand uses may be found for the old structure.

"As long as the building is standing there are two choices — to use it or to tear it down," he added.

Mr. Welsman said the historical society hopes to gain Prince Edward County council's support for preservation of the old home adjacent to the new H.J. McFarland Memorial Home for the Aged.

He observed that he had personally toured the building recently and was impressed with the soundness of its structure.

"Its still very rugged and well-preserved," he commented.

Mr. Welsman suggested, although there are no specific proposals for use of the vacant home now, ideas to utilize it may develop in the months ahead.

If the home is not demolished there will be an opportunity to consider these plans.

Another member of the historical society, Roy Shortt of RR 2 Picton, has suggested the old home could be converted to apartment for senior citizens living alone or in couples.

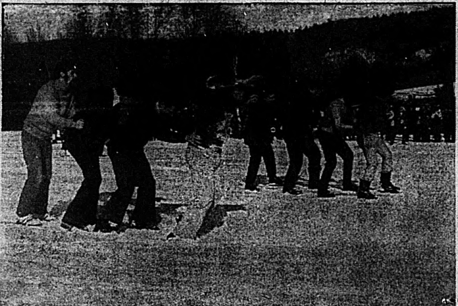
He described demolition of the building as a crime" noting it is structurally sound.

Chairman of the building committee for the new county home for the aged, Allan Anderson, said recently demolition of the old home would take place as soon as possible. An auction sale was held there last Saturday to dispose of furnishing and appliances.

Gas Gun Stolen

PICTON — A Crossman-Luger, gas-operated Pellet gun has been reported stolen from the porch of a house owned by Russell Cole of RR 4 Picton.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said the gun, valued at $45 was reported missing Monday morning. Police investigation continues.



Sloochers in Action

Slooching was a popular event at the opening of the Frankford Winter Carnival. Teams of four sloochers each race each other across the snow with their feet strapped to lengths of two-by-four. A breakdown in team co-ordination can lead to a cold and tangled tumble.

Carnival Gets Good Sendoff

FRANKFORD — The climax to the week-long Frankford winter carnival should be one of the most successful community presentations of the year if the sendoff the public gave it on Saturday and Sunday is a true barometer.

This coming Saturday night at the local Legion hall the Carnival Queen for 1975 will be selected from princesses representing the seven village organizations sharing the responsibilities of staging the event to raise money for Frankford's proposed sports complex.

The Queen is to be decided under a point system devised and scored by the carnival committee. The princess sponsored by the organization collecting the most points throughout the winter funfest becomes the winner. She will be officially recognized in formal crowning ceremony as the highlight of the Queen's Ball as the carnival ends.

Organizations with princesses vying for the Queen's honors are: Frankford Lions Club (Carol Rumney); Branch 387 Royal Canadian Legion (Iona Holden); Lower Trent Valley Game and Fish Club (Gale Sutton); Frankford public school teachers (Shirley Smagla); Bata Boot and Shoe Union (Brenda Elder) and Frankford Firemen (Tina Lewis).

The carnival got under way on Saturday with a cross-village parade including 60 majorettes, 11 floats, bands and a variety of decorated vehicles along with individuals dressed in colorful attire. The procession dispersed at the Dr. McMullen Community Centre which will serve as the hub to the planned recreation complex.

Those interested in making available organized diversified sports in the community strive to provide the finances for the addition of double tennis courts, a swimming pool, both soft and hardball diamonds, an area playground and a section equipped for regulation track and field meets.

Sunday, the second day of the carnival featured a pancake breakfast, sponsored by the local Lions Club upstairs in the arena building. Carnival chairman Al Doone reported this undertaking was well attended and very successful from a financial standpoint.

In the afternoon activities moved to the Trent Valley Fish and Game property north of the village. The setting was ideal for snow games with all contestants showing enthusiasm and the desire to win. Snowshoe, slooch and toboggan racing, along with snowmobile games entertained onlookers as sunshine prevailed.

From this Monday until Saturday the Carnival continues with more races, games and contests and finally winding up with the Queen's Ball in the Legion hall Saturday night.

Stirling Council Avoids Commitment on New Arena

STIRLING — No financial commitment will be made toward a new arena by Stirling council until it settles its budget for the year sometime in April or May, it was decided during a council meeting Monday evening.

A recorded vote was taken on a motion made by councillor Wayne Martin and seconded by deputy-reeve Fred Brandt that council make a commitment of $25,000 to be raised by taxes this year for a new arena.

The motion was turned down, three to two. Brandt, and Martin voted yes. Reeve Ray Shortt voted no, followed by councillor Ruby Tompkins. This left councillor Ray Tanner to think for a few minutes, and then saying he agreed with Mrs. Tompkins that council should wait until the budget is prepared making a decision, he voted no.

Council was recently put on the hot seat by the finance committee seeking to raise funds for a new arena Council was told that it must make a decision so the committee could function properly.

Council did pass a motion to set up a meeting with MP George Hees during the meeting which ran for more than four hours, taking it beyond the stipulated closing time of 11 p.m. Council wants a federal grant to help build the arena.

Council passed two other motions. One was to pay for a new ice plant being installed in the present arena for almost $27,000 The money is to come from funds already raised for a new arena. It has been said at other arena meetings that this ice plant would be moved to a new arena when built.

The other motion was to use up to $10,000 of the fund to take soil tests of suggested arena sites and to prepare plans for a new arena.

In other business Clerk Robert Hulin told council it was going to get its fingers burned on its approval of a tender for a new furnace for Stirling library. Reeve Shortt agree with the clerk.

Tenders were called asking that the BTU rating be a minimal 145,000. Those bidding were Doug Ackers, 151,000 BTU, $900; Ross Anderson, no BTU specified, $650; W.H. Bolte, no BTU, $885; Ralph Clements, 169,000 BTU, $650; Wally Wrightman, $160,000 BTU, $825.

Council accepted the bid from W.H. Bolte for $885., Councillor Wayne Martin said they would have to recognize that the lowest tender need not be accepted.

Deputy-reeve Brandt called upon council to seek assistance from the province through one of its plans to build low rental housing or condominiums as well as 12 more senior citizen units.

Reeve Shortt said some cheaper homes were needed, and councillor Tompkins said there aren't any places to rent in Stirling. Mr. Shortt said he would like to see council apply for the HOME plan. Action was delayed since the 11 p.m. closing time had elapsed.

Earlier in the evening Hastings Federation of Agriculture president Ivan May appeared before council regarding the break in the dike holding the sewage in one of the two cells of the Stirling sewage lagoon. Later in the evening two farmers affected by the sewage appeared before council as well.

They were told that ministry of the environment people were to come on Tuesday to repair the break which occurred last Thursday. On Friday evening the smell resulting from the flow of lagoon water running under Highway 33 was beyond words, it was stated.

Farmer Roy Irven told council the pollution was destroying property and he might have to sue council to get justice.

Pickets Set Up At CFB Trenton

TRENTON — About 200 members of the general labor and trades group of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) walked off their jobs at CFB Trenton and Mountain View shortly after 12 o'clock Monday in a token strike to back union wage demands.

Strike action here was taken after the noon deadline set by PSAC negotiators in Ottawa passed without a wage settlement with the Treasury Board

It coincided with walkouts by 15,000 PSAC members across the country. Another 3,700 workers are termed essential — airport snowplow operators, grain handlers — and are thereby prohibited from striking.

Noble Young, president of 675-member Local 637 of the Union of National Defence Employees, a PSAC component, said Monday pickets were thrown up at CFB Trenton at 12:30 p.m.

At the base as well as at Mountain View, where eight men are off the job, the walkout will end today at midnight.

"It's just a token strike in support of other places that will be going out every day," said Mr. Young.

Acting base commander Lt.-Col. W. W. Garner said Monday he has been told by union officials here that the strikers will be back to work Wednesday.

Workers termed essential remain on the job, he indicated.

Lt.-Col. Garner said the strike is not affecting operations at the base greatly: "It has very little bearing on our main role — that of flying aircraft.

"If we had to cancel aircraft flights, that to us, would be interfering with our role."

He said the essential work is being carried out by military personnel. Striking workers are in the supportive services category.

Within the striking group are sheetmetal workers, welders, carpenters and those who maintain federal government buildings, including post offices.

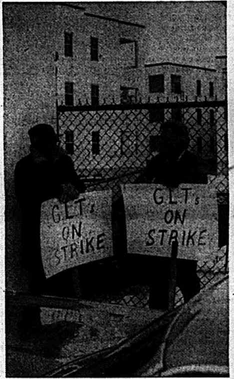
Lt.-Col. Garner said work normally performed is simply not being done. Barring a change for the worse in weather conditions when the lack of the men would put the base "up against it", nothing "untoward" has occurred.

"They have acted responsibly," he said.

The strike was called for by PSAC officials who were still far from agreement with the federal government during mediation talks in Ottawa Monday.

The talks were broken off four hours after the noon deadline for strike action Monday. Union officials said they had no idea when talks would be resumed.

The union is asking for a 37 per cent wage increase over two years while the government is following a recommendation by the conciliation board for a 26 per cent increase over two years.



CFB Strikers

With collars turned up and hidden from Monday's rain in a corner outside the main south gate of CFB Trenton, base transport worker Gerald Hurl (left) and sheet metal worker, Victor Eachus, picket after a strike call by the Public Service Alliance of Canada. The men were two of 200 at the base who walked off their jobs to back union contract talks with the federal Treasury Board. About 15,000 federal blue collar workers across Canada walked out Monday.

More Land and Bridge Main Trenton Concerns

Queen's Park does not want to act as referee in any dispute between Trenton and its neighboring municipalities in talks aimed at adding land to what Trenton Mayor Robert Patrick calls a resource that "has become exhausted" in the town.

Claude Bennett, industry and tourism minister, told the mayor Monday the provincial government has in the past resisted the use of the "iron hand" in dealing with annexation matters.

Mr. Bennett suggested Trenton and its neighboring municipalities come to a "reasonable understanding" over a land deal. He suggested Trenton resolve the problem at the local level. Subsequently, the provincial government will enter the picture.

The minister was responding to questions put to a mini-cabinet meeting at the Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville Monday. Trenton's mayor spoke from a prepared brief before the cabinet committee on resources development. The two-day meeting of eight ministers is being overseen by chairman Allan Grossman, provincial secretary for resources development.

In his brief to the committee, Mayor Patrick said "the town has nowhere to go in development. until consideration is given to expanding the town's boundaries".

Mayor Patrick prompted Mr. Bennett's remarks by asking what reaction the province would have to annexation. He also asked what sources of money are available to the town for assembly and servicing of industrial lands.

The question met with the minister's assurance that the government will shortly announce a policy that will assist municipalities in servicing industrial lands.

Trenton's seven-page brief, which began with the concern over its land shortage, included only two other points — the fate of the Dundas St. bridge, and the prospect of getting provincial assistance for a marina off Centennial Park.

Repairs to the Highway 2 bridge, now a half-century old, will run as high as $.5 million and will only forestall further repairs by 20 years.

On the other hand, states the brief, a new bridge, similar to the MacDonald bridge, would cost an estimated $1.5 - million and would endure for 60 years.

From such a situation, "one can see that this is spending good money after bad," states the brief.

Mayor Patrick requested and received assurance from transportation minister John Rhodes that the province will be in constant contact with the town.

However, the minister said he did not want to raise the town's hopes because the province has other priorities. One is sitting "just around the corner," he said, in reference to the Belleville-Rossmore link.

Direct provincial financial assistance to the town with construction of a marina off Centennial Park was also not offered immediately.

Tourism minister Mr. Bennett said funds are available to private enterpreneurs through the Ontario Development Corporation. But a municipality must raise money through debentures.

Natural resources minister Leo Bernier told Mayor Patrick his ministry has been studying the need for small boat harbors and docking facilities on the Great Lakes. A program, based on the study, will bbe announced "in the not too distant future".

Some assistance may be forthcoming through a federal-provincial agreement covering development of the 425-mile land and water recreational corridor between Ottawa and Georgian Bay. The corridor will fall under the authority of the Canada-Ontario - Rideau - Trent - Severn (CORTS) Agreement Board and Advisory Committee.

Announcement of the agreement will come at a special signing ceremony in Peterborough Thursday.

House Robbed

CARRYING PLACE — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police Tuesday reported the theft of electrical appliances and a quantity of silver from the residence of John Yott, RR 1 Carrying Place.

Taken were an electric can opener valued at $20, a blender valued at $40 and about $19 in silver.

Entry to the house apparently was gained through an unlocked rear door.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Communist Strategy

The Americans are long since out of Vietnam, but the war continues there and in Cambodia, Washington's support is now minimal and the Communists are battering at the gates.

These two countries could fall anytime, but there is not a word of protest or concern in the west, not a whimper that the Communists might be breaking the cease-fire agreement.

Instead the Red military machine pursues victory in the field and its propagandists — supported by the Liberal leftists and bleeding hearts of the West — hammer away at the corruption of the Thieu government in Saigon, not to mention the Park regime in South Korea.

Corrupt they may be, but can any better be expected of the Communists who seek to take over, giving rise to renewed fears that the domino theory that one country after another in that part of the world may fall into the Communist orbit?

Meanwhile the secret service of the United States, in the shape of the Central Intelligence Agency is laying bare some of its innermost workings, to its own discomfiture and no doubt the delight of Moscow and Peking.

And activists such as comedian Dick Gregory are rubbing salt in the wounds by noising abroad all manner of unsubstantiated accusations concerning CIA operations, from responsibility for the murder of President Kennedy to the rise of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Gregory, making one of his now regular visits to the University of Waterloo suggested Canadians, "aren't aware of what's going on. Canadians are not even aware they've got a racial problem." On the first score, he could be right — there is much of a security nature of which we have no knowledge — and as to a racial problem there is indeed more of discrimination than most of us care to admit.

In this context the recently-retired Archbishop of Algoma, the Most Rev. W. I. Wright, has gone so far as to acknowledge the harmful effects of white culture on Indians, and to suggest segregation would give them a better basis to combat social evils developed from contact with whites.

Yet for years everyone from politicians to clerics have condemned apartheid (separate parallel development) in South Africa, a land which the Communists also seek to undermine as part of their worldwide strategy of subversion.

One last word on the readiness of the Communists, compared with the apathy and unpreparedness of the great mass of people in the West. It is contained in a statement by a 47-year-old French-born Englishwoman, Mrs. Marie de Roland Peele, who fought with the French in Vietnam. Eccentric or realist, it makes no difference, she wants a million women to join her Women's Resistance Movement, to be available to help counter a possible Communist revolution in Britain. Mrs. de Roland Peele is meeting with little response . . . but she warns: "The Communists are already organized and the army and police will not be able to stop them when the balloon goes up."

She might just be right. Subversion . . . infiltration of this organization and that group. The universities . . . anywhere converts can be found, all are involved. That is the Communist strategy. Does Canada have an answer to it?

Women's Hockey

Some further aspects of the increasing participation of women in a society long dominated by men: in Rochester, N.Y., housewives get together once a week to play hockey. They had tired of watching the men and the boys do their thing, or at least they had tired of being hockey widows and mothers. Now they have an outing too and they love it. The menfolk are all for it as well.

The Rochester women seem to have made their point more effectively than in Kitchener, as witness a picture in The Kitchener-Waterloo Record of some girls at play on what is described as "apparently the icy refuge for these (Kitchener) girls who enjoy playing a bit of informal hockey on Sundays."

The 15 girls complained that all other ice surfaces had been taken over by the boys.

Their patch is near Old Chicopee Drive and it sounds as if the city will have to move in with some regulations to ensure that they keep this location, if not provide them with other spots as well.

UNICEF Aid Program

Floods Changed the Lives of Millions in Bangladesh

The following article on famine conditions in Bangladesh is by ALASTAIR MATHESON, Deputy Director of Public Information for the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

Six-year-old Aram vividly remembers the day last August when she was helping her mother cook kuju (yams) in their home in northern Bangladesh.

Her father and three brothers were down by the river, with other villagers making a desperate attempt to protect their land from destruction. The river was rising rapidly, swollen by melting Himalayan snows.

Suddenly Aram heard a cry of alarm. The surging waters had ripped through protective embankments. For this little girl life has never been the same since. It has been an endless search for food and shelter.

The disastrous floods struck 16 of Bangladesh's 19 districts between August and October. Famine followed. At one time more than four and a quarter million people were receiving sparse daily meals in hastily-erected "gruel kitchens."

I found Aram, months later, living as a destitute in one of 5,000 relief camps set up by the Government. At least the Jabber family is still together — father, mother and six children all survived. In this they are luckier than many families.

The day the embankment collapsed ended Abdul Jabber's job as a farm laborer. His employer said there would be no more work, nor food, since the rice crop was washed away. So the family left for higher ground.

With thousands of others, they sheltered for a time in a railway station. Eventually, authorities moved them to Rangpur, where their home in recent months has been a tented camp, shared with 5,000 other destitutes.

In the neighboring tent lives Aparullah Khan and his family. Mr. Khan used to be a landlord. One day during the floods, his land simply slid into the river. Now he and his family also live as destitutes. Landowners and landless are equals in relief camps.

It will be an enormous task to re-habilitate all those who lost land, employment and possessions. The number of landless doubled as pangs of hunger forced people to get cash for food. At first people sold their gold and silver trinkets, then bullocks and carts, later their crops, finally their land itself. In the end authorities ran out of stamps needed to legalise title deeds, so great was the rush to sell land for cash.

Throughout the stricken countryside tales of suffering and death are re-counted. As I crossed one bridge villagers pointed out the spot where a distraught farmer threw his four children into the river after his wife died — and then followed them.

At Kurigram, one of the worst affected areas, there is a camp inhabited by 800 young children, mostly orphans. Last October, UNICEF field co-ordinator Anowar Hussain was shocked when he reached Kurigram. "Bodies were just lying around," he told me. "I could see ribs sticking through. Mostly women and children. Most were dead."

Together with many others, UNICEF is trying to help Bangladesh to its feet. Providing more food is top priority. Neighboring Thailand has donated a prolific species of fish, and there is some optimism about developing fish farms in the country's half a million fish-ponds. Ducks, using the same ponds, and local chickens which thrive on scraps, will also help fill the "protein gap" in this largely rice-eating nation. Soybean cultivation is also under way.

The country's education system will play an important part in revitalising agriculture. The Government plans to use primary schools to help disseminate knowledge of modern farming methods. UNICEF is helping to repair and re-equip 8,000 damaged schools, and to train urgently needed teachers at 27 training institutes.

There is also a nationwide drive to provide clean, safe drinking water. When the present UNICEF-aided project to install 300,000 handpump tubewells is completed, clean water will be within reach of the entire population. This, together with a drive to install latrines, is aimed at curbing cholera, long the main "killer" disease in this part of the world.

So many formidable problems plague Bangladesh that there is no prospect of a quick, easy end to its troubles. But UNICEF officials and a large army of relief workers and aid agency representatives are looking beyond the present crisis, working to help Bangladesh become more self-sufficient, less dependent on international aid and foreign food supplies.

Recession Hits Hard in United States Compared with Either Canada or Brazil

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

It's usually taken for granted that a sick American economy means the major hemispheric partners of the U.S. will suffer accordingly.

As the present recession deepens, it's apparent that hemispheric giants like Canada and Brazil are not performing as badly, so far, as the United States.

It's true they are hit by the same crisis of escalating oil prices as everyone else. Brazil has been harder hit than Canada because it produces so far, little of its own oil, while Canada is a major petroleum producer.

Brazilian economists estimate about $3 billion had to come from Brazil's last year's record boom and growing export sales to pay for Arab oil imports.

On unemployment, it's easier to compare Canada-U.S. trends, since large areas of Brazil's interior, especially the bereft northeast subsist in a Bangladesh-style, non-market economy where 30 per cent unemployment is hard to match with the unemployed of evolving industrialized nations.

Using the latter for comparison, Canada with an estimated seven per cent jobless by mid-year should perform much better than the United States, though there could be 700,000 Canadians out of work by mid-summer.

Admittedly it won't be easy here with growth rates estimated by the National Industrial Conference Board to be slightly better than 1974, which wasn't a great year either for the economy.

But the upward-looking trends are more "upward-looking" than in the U.S. Presumably there have to be reasons for it, bearing in mind the complementary status of the two economies.

Two reasons, both historic, play a large part. The Canadian government apparatus is more smoothly-run than the American and in terms of its size, in relation to the private sector, governments in Canada are larger.

This seems like a contradictory statement, but it isn't. By a tradition inherited from British colonial rule, Canadian senior civil servants remain largely apolitical, their rationales for public administration, like advice on future economic policy, being made on professional, not political terms, where for example a severe economic policy could defeat the incumbent leader.

Second, governments in Canada have often had to be the main stimulators of economic growth and population movements in a huge and still-empty nation, compared to the U.S.

The Canadian federal government now at record size is matched by huge provincial governments. Some of them as in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia administer provinces as large and much richer than many of the world's developing nations.

This means that many industries primarily serving the private sector in the United States and currently suffering from awful market conditions, rely more heavily on big governments in Canada as customers at federal, provincial and municipal levels.

These industries include construction, road building, service industries like computer operations, food vending.

Also Canada like Brazil is aggressively pursuing exports to help offset mounting internal costs, and high tax levels. Brazilian-made quality hardware appears this week for the first time in the annual Canadian Hardware Show, a bigger potential money-earner for the Brazilians than coffee and rubber.

Retirement Savings Plan Deadline Nears

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Of the 60 days in 1975 for investing in a tax-trimming registered retirement savings plan, only a handful are left.

After March 1, it's too late to invest a part of your 1974 earnings in a RRSP and thus defer a part of your income-tax liability until retirement time.

The basic rules are familiar by now: The RRSP is a contract between yourself and an authorized trsutee — usually a trust company, bank, insurance firm or mutual fund.

You may invest up to 20 per cent of your 1974 earned income, subject to these limits:

—$4,000 if you have no pension plan.

—$2,500 if you have a non-contributory pension plan.

—$2,500 if you have a contributory pension plan, but your current pension contribution plus RRSP investment must not exceed the lesser of $2,500 or 20 per cent of your earned income.

But there have been a couple of significant changes in rules in the last two years.

One permits the entry of chartered banks into the RRSP field. (The banks have managed to let you know about it, even though they are prohibited from advertising the sale of any security). Naturally, the banks' RRSP programs concentrate on fixed-income or guaranteed investments.

Another change is that a husband may contribute to an RRSP for his wife, or vice versa.

This does not increase the amount that the family may invest tax-free—but it does permit investment in the name of the spouse who is likely to have the lower marginal tax rate after retirement.

If, for example, a husband expects upon retirement to receive Canada Pension Plan, Old Age Security and $7,500 annually from RRSPs he has already built up, while his wife would receive only Old Age Security, then he might reduce the family's post-retirement tax liability by about one-quarter if he invests his $4,000 (or whatever) in an RRSP for his wife rather than for himself.

Here are a few checkpoints to bear in mind when comparing claims of various types of RRSP:

—Flexibility of contributions. Does the plan require that you make a minimum annual payment, at the same time each year?

—Investment mix. Will you be able to switch your investment (from bonds to stocks, say) easily and quickly?

—Front-end load. People should invest in RRSPs for the long haul, but let's suppose that you had to bail out after a year. Find out how much you would get back out of each $1,000 investment, taking into account the initial charges levied against you when your plan is set up.

—Penalties on deregistration. If you have to take your money out (and pay tax on it) prior to retirement age, will the trustee sock you with termination penalties, commissions or similar charges?

—Insurance on the plan. Some plans contain term-insurance features to protect survivors in the event of death before retirement—but remember that the cost of the life-insurance component is not deductible from your taxable income.

—Investment vehicle. Whether you direct your RRSP investment into stocks, bonds or other vehicle depends on individual circumstances. But pension experts usually suggest that people close to retirement, or people with a balanced portfolio, should direct their RRSP money into fixed-income investments.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

February 18, 1945.

The Belleville Kiwanis Club has completed plans for the construction of a summer camp for children at Roblin's Mills, Prince Edward County.

School children in Belleville are doing a fine job selling war savings stamps in connection with the current campaign being sponsored by the food and allied industries. To date students have sold 6,660 stamps. Eight prizes in all will be offered to the individual students selling the most stamps.

40 YEARS AGO

February 18, 1935.

The advantages of short-wave radio over teletype was the topic of a talk given by Chief Constable J.L. Locke of Ontario, California, at a general get-together of local, provincial and United States authorities during the recess called in the local sitting of the Supreme Court.

There was no intention on the part of the government to introduce non-contributory unemployment insurance, Prime Minister R.B. Bennett told a delegation from the National Congress on Social Insurance now in session in Ottawa.

50 YEARS AGO

February 18, 1925.

More than 200 were initiated into the Ku Klux Klan of Kanada at the fourth ceremony of its kind to be held in Toronto. The Grand Kleagle who is reported to be a Montreal business man came to Toronto to conduct the affair.

The Prohibition Union of Ontario, in convention at Toronto, passed the following resolution. We are absolutely opposed to the weakening of the Ontario Temperance Act through the legislation proposed by the Ontario Government to increase the alcoholic content of beer.

Grits Are 'Scandal-Mongers' According to Stephen Lewis

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The session which finally wound up nearly a year after it had started, saw at least one curious concluding note.

In the final days NDP Leader Stephen Lewis was taking a strange position.

Mr. Lewis was accusing the Liberals of being "scandal mongers."

He intimated that the party was trying to thrive on scandal.

If one wanted to go far enough back into history there would be considerable humor in this.

For as we all know the old CF-NDP for years tried to thrive on scandal.

It didn't get many openings during the Robarts' days.

But when Leslie Frost was leading the government and the province the party was as open-mouthed as a trout taking a fly in its search for anything that appeared as wrong-doing.

With Mr. Lewis it would seem that we probably can give him 50 per cent marks for integrity and 50 per cent for politics.

On the integrity side Mr. Lewis as a leader has matured.

In his earlydays in the house he could be wild-eyed.

To him there were just good guys and bad guys, and many more bad guys.

But now he quite sincerely seems to have acquired more balance. He appears to feel that there are more people in the middle in our society than there are on the extremes and has adjusted his attitudes accordingly.

But also he has appreciated that his party itself was being strangled by extremism, and has adjusted himself, and tried to adjust it, accordingly.

It is on the rare occasion it really yells for blood anymore, and then it is on matters such as asbestor or lead when it can blame society rather than any particular individuals.

As for the Liberals concentrating on scandals, this would appear to be a product of the times rather than any planned intent.

It happens that the Davis administration has been hit by a series of "scandals," in great part because of a critical press and in other parts because the weaknesses of a party long in office are catching up with it.

The Liberals, as the official opposition, have had the obligation to deal with this development.

But really to the observer who has been close they haven't been particularly vindictive about it.

LETTERS

Decision on Band Queried

The following is the text of a letter from Hastings MP Jack Ellis to Howard L. Kokesh, chairman of the Veterans of Belleville Council.

Thank you very much for the letter from the Veterans of Belleville Council expressing their concern with regard to the disbanding of the Air Transport Command Band based at Kingston, Ontario.

I am well aware of the contribution made by the military band to the Armed Forces and particularly, in our area. In addtion, however, I have been made even more fofrcefully aware of the tremendous contribution made by this band, and in particular, the Band Master, Captain Kenneth Moore, to the education of young people in the school system in Hastings County. I cannot remember an issue in recent times which has generated so much mail as has this proposed action by the Minister of National Defence.

I have spoken to the Minister personally, and written him on a number of occasions asking that further consideration be given to this matter. Unfortunately, there has been no success to date.

You may be sure that I will continue to press for the preservation of this particularly unique form of culture in our area.

Thank you for expressing your concern. I will use it as a further impetus in my discussions with the Minister.

J.R.ELLIS, M.P.

Amblance Service in City

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The prospect of a "knock-down, drag-out battle" battle between rival ambulance operators has no place in Belleville.

The statements made by the director of ambulance services for the province paint a shocking picture of inefficiency and spiralling costs.

It must not be forgotten that these services are havily underwritten by the taxpayers, so much so that they are, in effect, a socialist concept of operation.

What a frightening suggestion that any man working on an ambulance might be "undertrained". There is no doubt that for far too long they have been "underpaid".

With so much public money involved it is no wonder the province is concerned. Mr. Meeks statement that he has to leave his book-keping to attend to vehicle maintenance, raises some pertinent questions.

First, is the public investment being properly protected? Second, if so much time has to be spent welding vehicles to keep them on the road, is, not it high time consideration was given to taking them off the road?

Alternative to VLA Will Be Ready Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — A government study on possible alternate housing assistance for war veterans should be ready soon, Veterans Affairs Minister Dan MacDonald said in the Commons Monday.

But he refused to make a commitment about extending the Veterans' Land Act (VLA) if the government is not ready to proceed with other assistance when the VLA expires March 31.

"That would be a decision for the government to make at that time," he told Jack Marshall (PC—Humber-St. George's-St. Barbe), Mr. MacDonald has said repeatedly that the act, already extended one year, has served its purpose and will not be extended.

Mr. Marshall said 3,000 applications for aid were received during the one-year extension that the opposition parties forced on the then-minority Liberal government last spring.

The act provides low-interest loans for certain veterans—up to $40,000 for farm purchases and $15,400 for fishing vessels or residential lots larger than o

Danson Ducks When Urged To Clean Up Rochdale

OTTAWA (CP) — A recommendation that the government step in to clean up Rochdale College in Toronto was rejected Monday by Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson.

The fate of the high-rise, co-operative residence will be decided in court, he told William Scott (PC—Victoria-Haliburton) in the Commons.

Mr. Scott asked if the government would follow the advice of a York County grand jury and use the armed forces, if necessary, to clean up the college, financed through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

The jury's report referred to Rochdale as "not only a haven for known drug abusers, but also a bastion for hardened criminals of all types from all parts of North America.".

Residents of the co-operative, which fell badly behind in mortgage payments, have been involved in several clashes with the police and the college has been placed under court trusteeship.

Mr. Danson said the delay of the legal process to decide the building's fate is frustrating, but the government cannot do anything but await a decision.

The building might be useful as a residence for senior citizens, Mr. Scott suggested.

Exotic Costumes at International Night

The Belleville chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday night in the Sun Valley Motor Hotel for their annual International Night. This year the evening's theme was especially appropriate, linked to International Women's Year in 1975. Winner in the costume contest was Ruth Follwell, standing at left Beside her is Jean Stevens, Lois Brown, second prize winner, Dolly Reed, vice-president of the club, and Colombe Both, president. Speaking after the dinner, Ruth McMullen told of her recent trip to the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Congress in South America and showed slides of Lima, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro. Miss McMullen was one of 150 Canadians at the congress, which was also attended by 800 business women from around the world.

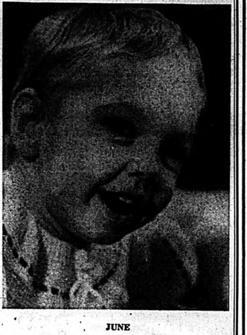
Today's Child

By Helen Allen



JUNE

The small charmer with the bewitching smile is June, aged 22 months.

She is tiny for her age, about the size of a six-months baby, and has blonde hair, fair skin and hazel eyes.

Her background is Ukrainian.

June is in good general health but has cerebral palsy, which is lack of muscle control.

She is a very strong child, though she can't hold her head up properly yet. She has therapy twice a week and her foster mother does exercises with her at home, all designed to loosen the muscles of her legs.

It is too early to tell whether she will be able to walk, but her doctor says that many children like June have learned to walk through therapy.

June is a bright baby, considered at least average in intelligence. She is very alert, as you can tell from her expression.

She likes to have her own way but she knows what "No" means.

Happy, cuddly and affectionate, June likes company, especially when put on the floor with one or two other little ones to play with.

She has just started to crawl, which she does lying on her back. She travels well in that position but if she's placed on her stomach she doesn't go anywhere. She knows how to bounce in her jumper.

June needs parents who will give her love, stimulation and special care.

To inquire about adopting June, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Teen-age High Jumper On Her Way to Fame

BRAMPTON, Ont. CP — Julie White is the best 14-year-old girl high jumper in the world and she can prove it.

The five-foot-nine athlete from the Brampton Kinsmen Track Club proved it the first time in mid-January when she jumped five feet 10½ inches. That surpassed the world age-class record of 5-9¾ set by Val Harrison of Britain.

Then she did it again Feb. 1 in the qualifying competition for the Toronto Star Maple Leaf Indoor Games when she cleared 1.84 metres, almost six-foot one, to defeat such Canadian Commonwealth Games medalists as Louise Hanna-Walker and Brigitte Bittner.

"I knew I'd get it today," she said afterward. "I don't set goals but I was looking for the six-foot mark today."

Miss White a Grade 9 student who weighs 126 pounds, is all the more remarkable because she has been jumping for less than two years.

She was introduced to the sport by her sister Pat who won the Ontario high school championship in high jumping last June.

"Because of my sister, high jumping was the first thing I tried and I just stayed with it," she said.

But it's not the only thing in her life. She is also a member of the Brampton Centennial Collegiate basketball and gymnastics teams. And until she decided to begin serious training in a bid to make Canada's national team for the Pan-American Games in October, she practised only once a week.

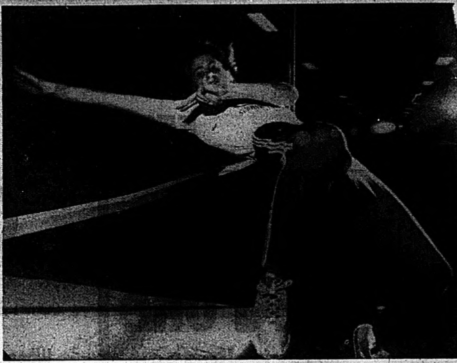
"When I was 12 my goal was to go out and have fun. That's what it still is, really. I don't want to set too high a goal and be disappointed. As long as I don't go down in my jumping I'll be satisfied.

"High jumping is an important part of my life, but I don't want it to occupy 100 per cent of my spare time. I guess to be a dedicated athlete you have to make it 100 per cent, but I'm not ready for that yet."

Miss White now works out three times a week — once under coach Dave Baetz — employing a training program worked out by Baetz and Derek Boosey of Montreal, the Canadian national high jump coach.

As a National Classified Athlete, she received $50 a month as part of Game Plan 76, but if she's not ready for the 1976 Olympics she said she will simply aim at 1980 when she will be only 19.

As a potential Pan-Am team member, Miss White took part in Canada's warm-weather training trip to Arizona Dec. 26 to Jan. 10 and the effects have been noticeable in her recent performances.



Over She Goes

Julie White, 14, soars over the bar with ease. The Brampton, Ont., girl has been competing for less than two years but is a bright star in Canadian track and field circles. She holds the world age class record of five-feet-10 ½ inches. (CP Photo)

Church Union Spoon Marks Anniversary

Dear Doris: The U.C.W. at our United Church needs a new idea for raising money. Can you help?

Tillie.

Dear Tillie: This being the 50th Anniversary of a church union, I can't think of a better money-raiser for you than a special spoon that is being turned out to commemorate the event.

You may remember that in 1925, here in Canada, an example was set of the spirit of "Let's get together". At that time the three churches which united were the Methodist, the Congregational and a part of the Presbyterian Church. They became the United Church of Canada — our largest denomination. Since then other churches have joined this forward-looking union.

The little silver-plated coffee spoon is available for sale only through charitable and church groups. Many United Church Women's groups are rejoicing in the fact that they now have something shining and beautiful to offer to friends for shower, gifts birthday presents, and for souvenir pieces to keep themselves. The United Church crest with dates is on the handle; and the nice part is that U.C.W. groups and any others interested — actually make $1 on each spoon they sell.

If your group is interested, write to me for details, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Doris: A retired farm worker wants to marry me. He is good looking and healthy but the bad part is he is illiterate, and doesn't speak good English.

He promises me I can be the boss and whatever I decide I want he will do it. I live alone. This man is pushing me to go tothe priest; he is not familiar with Canadian customs, since he is just 10 years in Canada.

Confused.

Dear Confused: I know too little to advise you — and even if I knew a lot more it still wouldn't do me You are the one who makes a decision for marriage.

Just being the boss isn't all. Wanting rescue from your loneliness isn't enough. The health and good looks I like, but they are not primary. Not being too good in English doesn't worry me quite as much, because he can learn.

The main question is, how do you feel about him? Warm, affectionate? Do you like his company? Is he free of habits that are annoying to you? You say he is retired — what is the difference in your ages?

Don' let loneliness or your yearning for sex push you into a relationship you may regret. Marriage ought to be for life, so take your time, and look for a truly loving relationship.

Dear Doris: Would you or your readers know the entire poem which contains the lines: "You can always tell a drunkard by the company he keeps, And the pig got up and slowly walked away."

A Reader.

Dear Reader: I have the amusing poem, entitled "Judged By The Company One Keeps". It seems both the drunkard and the pig were lying side by side in the gutter — at which time the pig turned snob, and deserted his pal.

This poem (?) may be had by readers writing in for it, enclosing 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers

If You Have Secrets, Destroy the Evidence

Dear Ann Landers: It's too late for us, especially for my mother. She already has had a nervous breakdown, but I hope this letter will be published and perhaps it might spare others the grief we are now suffering.

Dad passed away last month. He was a great person, successful in everything he did, highly respected in the community. My mother and we kids worshipped him.

The day before the funeral we were going through dad's personal belongings and found a metal box. It was locked and we had to pry it open. We found photographs that I will never forget as long as I live. There is no question they were taken during the last few years of his life, perhaps months.

Dad had posed nude with several other men and women. There were even pictures of him involved in the sex act. We didn't know any of the people in the photographs. It was apparent he had a secret life we knew nothing about.

If any person who reads your column has such damning evidence "hidden away," please, for God's sake, get rid of it. You never know when your time will come. It could be tomorrow.—Scarred Forever

Dear Friend: If your mother has had a nervous breakdown she is, I assume, under the care of a psychiatrist. He will explain to her that your father was a sick man—very sick. His ability to lead two completely different lives is a symptom of a severe personality disorder.

When your mother and you children accept this fact the hurt will be greatly diminished. You will then feel compassion for your father rather than disgust and betrayal. I hope it happens soon.

Dear Ann Landers: Do tell the woman who complained about her husband because he couldn't remember to put the toilet seat down that she doesn't have much of a problem. Honest she doesn't.

She should have mine. The jerk I'm married to is too lazy to lift the seat in the first place. Now that's a problem.—Busier Than I Ought To Be

Dear Busier: One of the comforting aspects of this column is that people don't realize how well off they are until they read what somebody else has to put up with. Thanks for writing dear.

In India

Paper Divorces Foil Land Reform

BOMBAY (CP) — Ajit Kumar Mukerjea, a wealthy landlord in the Indian state of West Bengal, recently divorced his wife. They had been married for 40 years.

But almost everyone in Midnapore county, where the Mukerjeas live, knows the divorce is unusually amicable.

Says a farmer: "Though divorced, the Mukerjeas continue to live in the same mansion."

What the Calcutta Statesma called "paper divorces" are becoming common in West Bengal's farming areas to defeat the new land reform law passed by the state legislature.

Under the law a family can own only a maximum of 12 acres. The term "family' includes husband, wife and unmarried children.

But if a man divorces his wife, she is entitled to claim six acres for herself, while the family retains its 12 acres. In other words, the technical divorce enables the family to increase its holdings by 50 per cent."

Press reports say hundreds of such divorces are taking place in rural areas.

Gyan Singh Sohanpal, a West Bengal cabinet minister, is quoted as saying: "Most of the recent divorces in villages are meant only to defeat the land reform legislation. We must put an end to this kind of cheating."

Known as jotedars, West Bengal's landlords are a powerful group. Many of them are well educated and quite a few are lawyers.

When a judge asked a couple why they wished a divorce, the wife's reply was: "We are temperamentally incompatible." The husband said: "We just can't agree on anything."

The couple had been married 56 years. After getting the divorce, they got into the same horse-drawn carriage and were driven to their 25-room mansion.

Legislators have suggested that one way to stop "paper divorces" is to make it difficult for courts to grant them.

But the government's difficulty is that the right to divorce has been won after many decades of agitation and is considered a major social reform.

"Making divorce difficult will harm the interests of people who have not made a success of their marriage," said a government official.

Sarojini Sen Gupta, a women's lib leader, said women will oppose any basic change in the present divorce law.

Her Fishing Rights Lost

VANCOUVER (CP) — "Because I married a white guy it didn't change my eating habits. It didn't turn me white either."

But marriage turned Ada Yovanovich into a non-status Indian and she lost the right to harvest herring roe, the caviar of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Since then, she has been fighting to get food-fishing rights for all Haida Indians who have lost their registered Indian status.

"I said to my husband that if I was only moneyed up I would go to Ottawa and sit at the door of the minister of fisheries because this is how much it hurt me."

She did get to Ottawa once, as a delegate to a Native Council of Canada convention, and has carried on her campaign with numerous federal and provincial government officials.

"From here to the Yukon, they know about this problem, yet nothing has been done."

Mrs. Yovanovich thought she was getting somewhere last year when she talked on a radio hot-line program with Iona Campagnolo, successful Liberal candidate for Skeena, during the federal election campaign.

"Iona told me the people in Burns Lake get a food-fishing permit and she didn't see why no tup in the Queen Charlotties.

"However, I haven't heard from Iona again."

Brubacher Clarifies Operating Budget for City Ambulance

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Charles Brubacher, director of Ontario's ambulance services, told The Intelligencer Monday he had misrepresented the budget of Belleville's City Ambulance to the tune of $200,000.

When word of a Feb. 24 provincial study into the two services first came, Mr. Brubacher quoted City Ambulance's 1974 budget at approximately $380,000. La Salle Ambulance's budget is reported at $102,000 for the same period.

In answer to the criticism that City Ambulance was receiving three times the amount of provincial funds as another Belleville ambulance operator, City Ambulance officials this week opened their books for complete financial disclosure.

Ambulance calls are divided equally between the two firms.

Len Steele, two-thirds owner of the company explained the $380,000 quoted by the ministry of health covered his three operations — Belleville, Napanee and Madoc He said the Belleville share of the budget amounts to 40 per cent of the total or "about $155,000."

"I won't duck it," said Mr. Brubacher. "The error is my fault and the fault of my staff."

In his financial disclosure, Mr. Steele said 87 per cent or $337,000 of his actual annual budget for 1974 went to employee salaries approximately $30,000 for operating costs and $21,000 for vehicle operation.

Stu Meeks, operator of La-Salle Ambulance, told The Intelligencer Monday night, "I prefer not to go too deeply into budget details until I have met with the minister (of health) Tuesday."

Mr. Meeks — accompanied by a lawyer — was to meet with provincial minister of health Frank Miller today to discuss the situation.

"Very close to 90 per cent of my budget is spent on payroll," said Mr. Meeks. "The remainder (about $12,000) goes towards business and vehicle maintenance."

The question of budgets for the two services arose two weeks ago when Mr. Brubacher announced that 1975 budgets will not be approved until the two Belleville companies "integrate." A week-long study to begin Feb. 24 is expected to determine the extent of possible integration.

Controversy surrounding the two companies began with allegations from the province that buogets for City Ambulance are significantly higher than those for LaSalle because of quality of service provided.

Mr. Brubacher said in an earlier interview that City staff were more highly trained and deserved more financial recognition.

Mr. Meeks said Monday that the provincial ambulance services director was "speaking untruths."

"Budget differences, training and my challenge to run the entire ambulance service in the city for $380,000 will all be discussed with the minister," said Mr Meeks.

Province Asked to Keep Ideal Venders Operating

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A suggestion that senior government ease the reeling punch suffered by Deseronto area with the impending loss of its larg[illegible] among the pile of pap[illegible] laden on Ontario cabinet ministers leaving Belleville today.

The proposal for provincial government aid to Ideal Venders — scheduled to close its 220-worker plant this June — was never debated Monday as the cabinet team ended the first, of two days conference in the city.

Nonetheless, it was among close to 80 submissions filed with the group of resources ministers who have engaged in what Provincial Resources Secretary Allan Grossman had earlier predicted would be one of the busiest of such regional sessions.

His forecast came true. The original program of discussions on Eastern Ontario community problems — and protests — had to be rescheduled to include an added night sitting Monday.

The Deseronto industrial aid proposal was filed by J. H. McKechnie, a manufacturers' representative who lives at Green Point, across from the town.

Ideal Vendors' closing will cause a "serious situation" for the area, his submission warned. Since there is no alternative employment this will mean a "heavy drain" on unemployment insurance and, later, welfare funds, he warned.

Mr. McKecnnie said he also feared the closeout would cause "much social deterioration" in the district.

He asked the ministers consider assisting the company so it could defer its shutdown.

This not only would save social assistance costs but give more time to explore an industrial replacement.

Such aid, he said in an interview, might eventually prove cheaper than the possible government assistance needed to encourage new industry to settle in the town.

Mr. McKechnie was unable to attend the Monday session because the timing clashed with a prior-set meeting, he said.

The plant, an industrial offspring of Eddy Match Co., which started in 1948, announced Jan. 10 it was going out of business because its vending and softdrink machine division had consistently been running at a loss.

Meantime, the cabinet group was scheduled to hear nearly 30 more submissions before it wrapped up the conference today.

Among projects it will be asked to consider will be suggestions from the Highlands of Hastings and adjoining Land of Lakes on setting aside 200,000 acres for recreation in central Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties; a scenic parkway along Highway 33 from Collins Bay to Glenora; grants for acquiring historical artifacts by conservation authorities; a protest from cottagers on the controversial proposed Papineau Lake provincial park development and the industrial development suggestions of communities from Brighton to Smiths Falls.

No Law Against Giving Little Nip to Friends

Belleville winemakers were told here Monday to stop "nitpicking" at Liquor Control Act regulations on amateur winemaking

Ian Reilly, Winemakers guild president, complained in a brief to the provincial resources ministers hearing at the Four Seasons amateur winemakers have restrictions placed upon them which they unavoidably break.

He said permission to make home-made wine cannot be secured from a "competent provincial authority" because "no one knows anything about such permission."

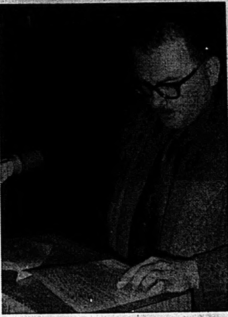
And when a winemaker produces as if he had permission, he cannot stock over 100 gallons of wine for proper aging over several years, said Mr. Reilly.

He pointed out the regulations prohibit a winemaker from offering a drink to a friend in his home and only allow him to consume wine in the residence where it was made.

Provincial secretary Allan Grossman refuted most of the charges, assuring Mr. Reilly no permission is required to make wine up to 100 gallons.

And although a liquor regulation states home-made wine may be consumed by the maker or his immediate family, Mr. Grossman emphasized the "law doesn't say you can't give it to a friend."

"There's no possible way — you can have a law on which you can't nitpick," he commented "There is a constant review of the regulations to see if we can't make them more clear."



Pass the Wine

Ian Reilly, president of the Belleville Winemakers' Guild, argues with Allan Grossman, provincial secretary for resources development, during brief presentation Monday at mini-cabinet hearing. Mr. Grossman disputed allegations in the guild brief that amateur winemaking regulations are too prohibitive.

Personal Attention

Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell (left) took time out from provincial cabinet ministers' meeting in Belleville Monday to get details personally on issue bothering B. T. Hubble, RR 5, Belleville. Mr. Hubble was among participants at conference for Eastern Ontario at Four Seasons Hotel that ends today.

Landfill Assistance Promised

Reeve Horace Casey, of Thurlow Township, has asked for provincial aid to municipalities to help local governments conform with environmental laws on waste disposal sites.

Current regulations that require land-fill operations are running into technical and financial snags at the township's dump. Among them:

(1) Fill soil either freezes or is too muddy in winter; (2); The landfill operations requires "expensive" machinery and an operator on a daily basis, he told the meeting of resources cabinet ministers in Belleville Monday night.

To operate its present site — for which environmental officials keep seeking improvements — and meet regulations "would create a financial burden on the majority of smaller municipalities," he said.

Minister William Newman said he appreciated such problems which now were being studied. An assistance program will be announced some time this year, he said.

"All we're trying to do is upgrade the sanitary landfill sites in the province" said Mr. Newman.

Rural Experience Proposed

A social-education program that would temporarily place young city people in a rural setting, was suggested to Ontario ministers Monday.

The proposal was suggested by the Northumberland Federation of Agriculture to the two-day resources ministers conference with eastern Ontario local spokesmen at the Four Seasons Hotel.

The brief, first submitted by federation president Maria Heissler, RR 1 Frankford, said there is "definite need" to establish a program providing outlets for the energies of urban youth in a rural setting.

Both young people and society generally would benefit from a work-contract educational program.

Farmers would have the advantage of short-term trainable help and trainees would learn about farm life.

The federation, said the brief, would participate in organizing any such pilot project in co-operation with provincial government ministries.

It suggested the initial program should involve about 30 young people with three or four adults to assist.

Conservation of Farm Land Stressed

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Ontario government has made no deliberate attempt to institute a cheap food policy affecting farmers Agriculture and Food Minister William Stewart told a spokesman for Hastings County food producers Monday.

He was replying to W. C. Langstaff, speaking for the Hastings Federation of Agriculture at the two-day conference of provincial resources cabinet ministers in Belleville.

Mr. Langstaff said farmers must be supported in their endeavors to help the provincial government "in your cheap food policy to your constituents".

"There is no cheap policy in the government of this province," said Mr. Stewart. "It may be interpreted that food is cheap. I think we will have to establish priorities. But there has been no deliberate attempt to do that."

Mr. Langstaff was one of severla agricultural spokesmen who discussed a wide-range of problems affecting farmers and rural areas at the opening day of the conference involving community spokesmen from around eastern Ontario.

The farm spokesman told the ministers they should have developed a land-use policy and adhere to it.

In the past year, area farmers and rural councils have drafted briefs in attempts to maintain prime farm land in the district — with "apparently little success".

A recent example is Stirling village's proposal to aerate its sewage lagoon — and an expropriation hearing has been called for next week in Belleville involving 25 acres of prime farm land.

Meantime, he claimed an engineer had said that any of three sites were acceptable for the lagoon.

Mr. Stewart said he would like to obtain more details on those sites from Mr. Langstaff.

Another example of the potential loss of farm land cited by Langstaff was the proposed Lennox-to-Oshawa power line.

Consultants' suggested routing of the high-powered Ontario Hydro line through arable land in Belleville - area townships. Farmers have been unable to get assurances that Hydro would not follow fences and unopened road allowances instead of cutting through open fields — which would cost less, he said.

Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell said the report on the Hydro project had not yet been handed down from the Solandt group responsible for the study and "they are going to have to give some awfully good reasons" for their decision.

Council Briefs

Harbor Committee Named

City council Monday approved the following members of the city's Harbor Improvement Committee for 1975:

Bev Quincey, Chamber of Commerce; Bruce Lynch, Downtown Association; Douglas Burley, Harbor Commissioners; Bud. Simmons, Bay of Quinte Yacht Club; Ald. Paul Russell, Board of Parks Management; E. A. Fletcher, Loyalist College; H. R. Frink, Moira River Conservation Authority; Barry Bevvan, Navy League of Canada and Lee Jourard, member at large.

Taylor Steps Down

The city's Financial Appeals Review Board has two new members, council was informed in a letter from the Chamber of Commerce Monday.

They are Max Dayman, Royal Bank of Canada and Nate Hayes, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Resigning after many years of service is Denton Taylor, Ontario Hydro, who received a letter of appreciation from the city.

Yardmen Want Bylaw Changed

Spokesmen for the Belleville Yardmen sports centre on Cannifton Road appeared before council Monday to request changes in the bylaw governing the character of their project.

The description of building use was too restrictive, lawyer George Murray said. He asked council to include uses for educational, convention and residential purposes in the bylaw.

It was indicated by Mr. Murray that a summer figure skating school, under the auspices of the Figure Skating Association of Canada, is being considered as one of the users for the facility.

Toronto architect C. F. T. Rounthwaite requested council consider relaxing parking provisions in the bylaw.

Council referred the bylaw to the Quinte Planning Board for its opinion and report.

Groups Get Week

City council Monday agreed to officially proclaim four weeks on behalf of local organizations. They are Boy Scouts Week, February 17-23; Community Concert Week, March 3 to 8;; Cancer Research Week, first week in April and Nurses' Week, June 1-7.

Council, City Manager Attacked Over Proposed Standards Bylaw

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

In an attack on city council and city manager Wilbur Purcell, two frequent citizen-spokesmen at city council meeting Monday used the controversial draft property standards bylaw to take shots at the former city engineer.

First, Ian Reilly said that a statement by Mr. Purceal that "Inspectors are not going to go out and check every building rather, they will wait for complaints," should be classified as "the all-time statement of ridiculousness by a city official . . . Surely, if this is Mr. Purcell's method of dealing with city business, you (council) should seriously consider his replacement.

"In fact, the more I think about this whole matter, the more I feel that the architect of this bylaw and any member of this council, or even you, your Worship, who might support it, or a loosened version o fit, should either be fired or resign, whichever is applicable.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey did not react to these statements, but when W. C. Hockley suggested that some councillors had benefited from landlords who owned substandard properties during their election campaigns, she stated that Mr. Hockley "had questioned the integrity of everyone on council" and demanded that he withdraw his remark. Mr. Hockley agreed.

He stated, however, that the draft property standards bylaw was "completely impractical, harsh, unrealistic" and "showed a lack of understanding that speaks volumes for the administrative inability of the individual who drafted it."

City manager Wilbur Purcell, after the meeting, said he had done what council had asked him to do.

"A draft bylaw, subject to many amendments was produced. It is still subject to those amendments."

Cabinet to Investigate Double Planning Levy

Quinte Planning Board members received assurances from provincial government minister Monday that several problems outlined in a brief will receive further investigation.

Board chairman George Beer outlined the issues which included one outstanding since 1971 on a double levy assessed to six area municipalities for both county and joint planning areas at a meeting of the cabinets recourses team here.

The board is concerned with municipalities which are not part of a county planning area but participate in a joint planning area separate from the county, but have to pay to both, he said

The board said it feels these municipalities "should be excluded from having to pay the planning levy for the county planning area".

Mr. Beer said the municipalities involved are the village of Frankford and townships of Sidney and Thurlow in Hastings County, and the village of Brighton, and Townships of Brighton and Murray in Northumberland - Durham counties.

The Board also asked the government to clarify why the village of Brighton and townships of Brighton and Murray have not been participating in the board since 1973. "It has put us in a very troubled situation," commented Mr. Beer.

Little Objection Raised To Trailer Park Growth

Sidney Township Council Monday night was asked to consider large scale expansion of a mobile home park on White's Road adjacent to the Quinte Drive-In.

Paul Sweetman, proprietor of the mobile village, approached council with a consultant offering three alternatives for expansion.

The proposals dealt with alternate types of water and sewer servicing for park residents allowed for a possible increase of 107 units.

At present approximately 135 homes are parked on the site.

Council advised the proprietor that they are receptive to proposals but asked for further investigation before any decision is reached.

Special Speakers

Winners of the Zone F3 Royal Canadian Legion public speaking contest held at Branch 428, Tweed, this weekend were, left to right: Bonnie McIsaac, Belleville Collegiate, sponsored by Belleville Branch 99; Martha Vincent, Kente Public School, sponsored by Belleville Branch 9[illegible]; Janet O'Connor, Nicholson Catholic College, sponsored by Marmora Branch 237 and Barbara Wilson, Massassaga Public School, sponsored by Consecon Branch 509. The winners will compete in the district final next Sunday at Branch 110, Trenton.

Aeros Clip Nordiques

Homecoming Wrecked

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Nordiques had just returned from a highly successful nine-game World Hockey Association road trip when along came Houston Aeros to spoil the homecoming.

The Nordiques, who had won seven of the their nine road games, including a 4-3 decision at Houston, dropped their guard on home ice and ran into a 5-3 loss at the hands of the Aeros.

In other games Monday, Chicago Cougars beat Indianapolis Racers 6-5 in overtime and Minnesota Fighting Saints defeated Cleveland Crusaders 2-1.

"The Nordiques were flat coming off such a good road trip," said Houston coach Bill Dineen. "It's a normal thing when a team comes back to its home rink."

Chris Bordeleau opened the scoring for Quebec but Jim Sherrit's unassisted goal at 8:41 was the first of three for the Aeros in the first period.

Bill Preston, Mark Howe, John Schella and Gord Labossiere added Houston goals as the Aeros kept on top of the tired Nordiques.

"We really came on in the second and third periods," said Dineen.

Rejean Houle and Rich Jordon had the other goals for Quebec, which still holds a six-point lead over Toronto in the Canadian Division. The Houston victory increased the Aeros' West Division lead to 10 points over Phoenix.

Quebec defenceman J. C. Tremblay left the game in the second period and was taken to hospital for x-rays on his back. There was no immediate indication how he might have suffered an injury.

A crowd of 12,254 was on hand for the Nordiques first home game since Jan. 25.

At Chicago, however, only 2,065 showed up to see Cougar Pete Mara score the winning goal at 5:48 of the overtime period.

Mara also helped set up a goal by Rick Morris at 15:16 of the third period that tied the score and forced the overtime.

Kerry Bonds, Murray Heatley, Jim Wiste, Bob Whitlock and Joe Hardy scored for the Racers who had a 3-2 first-period lead, dropped behind 4-3 in the second period and rallied to a 5-4 advantage in the third.

Rosaire Palement, Brian Coates, Brian Baltimore and Mark Lomenda had the other Chicago goals.

At the new Coliseum outside of Cleveland, only 3,267 fans saw the Crusaders beaten on Wayne Connelly's [illegible] goal which broke a 1-1 tie at 14:24 of the second period.

Gary Gambucci got Minnesota's other goal in the first period and Steve Cardwell scored for the Crusaders at 7:07 of the second.

Goalie Gerry Cheevers faced only 27 shots in the the Crusaders net while Minnesota's Mike Curran made 28 saves.

Lacroix, Bernier Challenge Hull

LOS ANGELES (CP) — The final third of the season, it has been said, is when you separate the men from the boys And there's a lot of separating to be done as the World Hockey Association heads into the final weeks.

Not the least of which is the scoring race.

Winnipeg Jets' Bob by Hull, having equalled Maurice Richard's 30-year-old record of 50 goals in 50 games, faces the challenge of Andre Lacroix of San Diego Mariners, Serge Bernier of Quebec Nordiques as he goes for his first WHA points title.

With seven points in the 18th week, Hull ran his total to 93 in official figures released Monday that include Sunday's games. Bernier and Lacroix both have 89. Bernier also had a seven-point week, while Lacroix produced 10 as he ran his consecutive game points-streak to a record 18 and tied Terry Caffery's consecutive game assist mark of 12.

Earlier this season, Lacroix accumulated points in 15 straight games. Since Jan. 4 he has tallied 43 points on 12 goals and 31 assists.

Hull, meanwhile, equalled Richard's mark the hard way: getting three goals against Houston on Feb 14. It also marked his fourth straight 50-goal season and eighth in his 18-year career. And that three-goal outburst ended Houston Aeros' goaltender Ron Grahame's win streak at five.

Grahame, meanwhile, has displaced goalie Gary Kurt of Phoenir Roadrunners at the top with a 2.86 goals-against average. But Kurt is only a fraction off thepace at .89.

Rookie defenceman John Hughes of Phoenix remains the penalty minute leader, adding 16 to run his total to 175.

New England Whalers, dedicated to a third straight division title, have suffered only three defeats in 22 home games. While they have lost goaltender Christer Abrahamsson for the season, they recently re-signed Bruce Landon out of retirement.

The new Baltimore Blades, meanwhile, are one loss removed from equalling the record for consecutive home defeats They've dropped six.

Remparts Whipped

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four goals by Michel Bossy, including three in a seven-goal outburst in the second period, powered Laval Nationals to a 10-2 win over Quebec Remparts in Quebec Major Junior Hockey League play Monday night.

In other action, Cornwall Royals upended Shawinigan Dynamos 6-4.

Jean Trottier with two, Mario Placente, Michel Dalbello, Michel Hamel, and Pierre Belanger also scored for Laval.

Bossy also added a pair of assists while Daniel Beaulieu and Claude Huard tallied for Quebec.

Laval outshot Quebec 48-22 before 2,120 spectators.

In Shawinigan, Yvon Disotell scored three goals to lead Cornwall over the Dynamos.

Ron Davidson, Mark Brazeau and Rick Patterson got the other Cornwall goals while Richard Dubreuil with two, Jacques Rodrigue and Benoit Gosselin scored for Shawinigan.

Stan Patrick Dead at 74

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stan Patrick, 74, youngest of the four Patrick brothers who dominated professional hockey on both coasts for more than two decades, died Monday.

Born William Stanley Patrick, he stayed in Vancouver to look after family interests while his late brothers, Lester, Frank and Guy went to New York to take over the Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Patrick was a former manager of the family-owned Denman Auditorium In the heyday of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, before and during the 1920s, he helped his brothers manage teams in Victoria and Vancouver.

Brad Park

Injury Reports Are Not All Bad

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When National Hockey league teams stopped for a brief rest Monday, some found that, for a change, there was some good news in reports from team trainers and doctors.

The major bad news hit New York Rangers, who learned that defenceman Brad Park will be out of action for at least two weeks with strained knee ligaments.

But even the loss of Park may not be so serious because, for a change, the Rangers don't have to send for help from the minor leagues. When Park was knocked out of action Sunday, Ron Harris had just returned from a long absence to reinforce the New York defence.

Park suffered strained ligaments of the knee in the opening minute of the second period in Sunday night's 5-5 tie against Toronto after he checked Leafs' rookie Dave Williams into the boards.

Harris, meanwhile was making his first appearance since suffering a fractured hip last Nov. 23—and he scored his first goal of the season.

Meanwhile, Vancouver Canucks trainer Pat Dunn reported that his club's injury list has shrunk from nine a month ago to just two.

Dunn said he believes the Canucks were being plagued by injuries because of the amount of time the team spends on the road. When the players are travel-weary, Dunn said in an interview Monday, their reflexes are not as fast as they should be and they get hurt.

Dunn said the team's remaining injured are defencemen Dennis Kearns and Harold Snepsts, both out for six to eight weeks.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks both announced Monday that players returning from the injury lists had prompted them to send some extra players back to the minor leagues.

Toronto returned goalie Pierre Hamel and left winger Bob Sykes to Oklahoma City Blazers and called up goalie Gord McRae from the Central League team.

The Leafs said Hamel was being sent down to get some ice time while the club has a chance to look at McRae.

Sykes, a left winger, saw only limited action and is no longer needed with the return of wingers Bill Flett and Lanny McDonald. Flett, who [illegible] couple of games with a knee injury, will be back [illegible] in Oakland where Toronto plays California Seals, and McDonald, out several weeks with pulled chest muscles, will play on the weekend.

NHL Shooters Savor A 120-goal Weekend

MONTREAL (CP) — All 18 National Hockey League teams had a day off from scheduled play Monday.

And for many of the players it afforded an opportunity to savor last weekend's exploits as the teams combined to produce the highest goal output of any weekend in league history.

During 15 games—eight Saturday and seven Sunday — 120 goals were scored, an average of eight per game. The total exceeded the previous high of 112 in 13 games last April 6-7, although that weekend still ranks as the highest average goal total 8.6.

The previous high this season was 104 goals in 15 games Dec. 14-15.

For Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal Canadiens the respite provided him with time to consider his personal single-game high five goals against Chicago production. Cournoyer scored five goals against Chicago Black Hawks during Saturday night's 12-3 win in Montreal and added a pair of assists.

The last time a player scored five times in an NHL game was Nov. 7, 1968, when Red Berenson of St. Louis Blues had six goals during an 8-0 victory at Philadelphia against the Flyers.

The last Montreal player to score five goals in one game was right winger Bobby Rousseau, who did it against Detroit Red Wings at Montreal Feb. 1, 1964.

The 12 goals represented the most by a Montreal team in a single game since Jan. 9, 1954, when it defeated the Hawks 12-1.

The 15 goals equalled the most in one game by both teams this season. Minnesota North Stars defeated Pittsburgh Penguins 8-7 at Minnesota Dec. 21, in the other 15-goal game.

Centre Pete Mahovlich will also have fond memories of the weekend. He picked up four assists in the two games against Chicago—Canadiens won 6-3 Sunday at Chicago—to set an all-time Montreal club single-season record of 59 assists. He has played 58 games and surpassed the old Montreal mark of 58 assists set by Jean Beliveau in 1960-61.

Greg Polis of New York Rangers also had a good weekend as he scored four goals to lead the Rangers to a Saturday 9-2 win at Minnesota. It was the first time Polis had scored three goals in one game.

Rookie Eric Vail of Atlanta Flames scored all three goals during his club's 3-3 tie at Vancouver against the Canucks to givev the rookie his third three-goal game of the season.

Rick Kehoe turned in the first three-goal game of the season by a Pittsburgh player as the Penguins beat Toronto Maple Leafs 8-3 Saturday at Toronto. It was Kehoe's second three-goal game of his NHL career, the other coming while a member of the Leafs in 1972-73.

But despite the flood of goals, the leading scorers in the individual points race had a lean week.

Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins was held to one assist in three games, but still retains a four-point lead over team-mate Bobby Orr. Orr picked up four assists in three games.

Esposito has a league-leading 52 goals and 106 points. Orr leads in assists with 69 to go with his 33 goals.

'Sister Wants Her Skates'

You know, a guy in this business shouldn't leave the country even for a short absence, if he hopes to keep abreast of the goings-on in the sports world.

Oh, sure, you can go to the U.S. for a weekend or so and have no trouble staying informed, at the national level.

I mean, there was Bobby Hull celebrating his 50-goals in 50-games achievement when the New York Times was opened to the sports section.

Word of Montreal's shelling of Chicago trickled through.

But somehow I found it was a case of "out of sight, out of mind" as far as the quickly changing picture in the Bay of Quinte Area was concerned.

It was discouraging to learn the Bobcats have bowed out of Metro Junior B playoff action.

And only hours after these boots that were made for walking were making tracks on the Canadian side of the border, Frankford Huskies followed Bobcats' example and found themselves on the sidelines in Junior C play.

Returning back through Customs for a moment. One thing was brought home clearly while I enjoyed the chance to see minor hockey operate in the U.S. and that is, the game appears to be the same wherever one travels.

Except for the fact many of the youngsters scurrying up and down the ice surface of the John F. Kennedy Civic Arena in Rome, New York, showed they need more emphasis placed on their skating, it might have been any rink in any Canadian community.

House league hockey is still the greatest. And the younger the participants, the better.

A Cleveland-Rome game which was billed as semi-pro, left a lot to be desired off what I took in. But the game had its moments.

There was the leather-lung from Canada who, sizing up the white skates on a Cleveland forward, advised the player to "hurry up, pal, your sister wants her skates."

And when a Cleveland player caught a puck in the face, and play continued while he squirmed on the ice in a corner of the rink, his coach strolled to the scene of the mishap and got off scott free after tearing a strip off the referee for failing to halt play sooner. The referee merely shook his head.

It provided a humorous beginning (the injured player wouldn't agree with that) to a visit which brought home the goodwill that is usually generated when these minor hockey exchanges are made.

The outcome of the exhibition hockey games? Sure it was important (too much so in the case of some of the Canadians) but it was more a case of "getting to know you", an experience that was enjoyed by visitor and host alike.

SLICES — When New York Rangers claimed goalie Dunc Wilson from Toronto Maple Leafs on waivers, ($30,000 price tag), it meant the possibility of an interesting confrontation this Saturday night. You guessed it. Rangers are in Toronto.

Apparently Sunday's night attempt to get the Quinte Fastball League planning under way for the new season, met with little success.

Efforts to elect an executive will be made again, March 2.

Oshawa Tony's, Canadian champs, are finding fastball players in New Zealand are adept at the game.

If I read the reports correctly, Tony's have three wins in seven starts. The club is touring New Zealand.

Belleville Kinsmen Major Bantams divided a pair of shutouts in action at the Cornwall Invitational Tournament on the weekend. Drew Stotesbury recorded the shutout as Kinsmen blanked Syracuse 4-0 in their first start.

Belleville got two goals from Nelson Frederick and one apiece by Danny Vance and Pat Willman.

In their second start, Kinsmen bowed out when they were shutout by Cornwall 3-0.

Belleville, Frankford Win Big

Weekend action in the Quinte and District Church Hockey League produced a pair of runaways.

Playing at home, Belleville topped Kingston 13-3 while at Napanee, it was Frankford over Odessa, 11-2.

Belleville turned on the power in the third period to score seven times and win going away.

Don Sutton and Ron McIntyre each scored three goals while Brent Babcock, Peter Hall and Stephen Graham each scored twice. Paul Reed rounded out the attack with a single marker.

Kingston goals were scored by Vic Stonehouse, Ron Eaton and John Gale.

Frankford broke in front early on the way to its convincing win

Walter Twiddy helped himself to five goals and Dick Patrick added three. Terry Squires collected a pair with a single for Wayne Halliwell.

Odessa got one each from Rick Colver and Ken Carroll.

Yardmen Aim To Win on Ice

While officials of the Belleville Yardmen Minor Midgets are still not satisfied with the Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) decisions on their group playoff with Peterborough, the local club will definitely be in Peterborough tonight for the fifth and deciding game in the series.

Yardmen found themselves in a 2-2 tie in games with Peterborough after the OMHA threw out a 6-0 Belleville win in the opener of the playoff. Yardmen used a player signed to a goalie's card at another position in that one and Peterborough lodged a protest.

Yardmen not only had their opening-game win thrown out, they have also been ordered to play the deciding game on Peterborough ice.

Gordie Bell, manager of the Belleville team, is seeking a court injunction to overturn the OMHA rulings.

"We've had no word on the injunction but we'll certainly be in Peterborough tonight," Bell said this morning.

"The players on the team come first in this and there's no way we'll hand Peterborough the series," he said.

The game is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. at Peterborough's Northcrest Arena on Highway 28.

Gas House Hockey

Rollins' Key Win Keeps It Close

Rollins Lumber closed the gap on second-place Belleville Generals in Gas House Hockey League standings Monday night when the club posted a key 8-4 win over the Generals in one of three games played.

Generals saw their grip on second place slip to a single point, 31-30, over Rollins.

And Chuckwagon Foods remained in the hunt for second place honors, bringing its point total to 29 with a 6-3 defeat of Belleville Yardmen.

In the third game, Constellation Carpets, in fifth place, increased its lead over sixth place Jim's Pizzeria to three points by turning back the Pizzamen 5-3.

A scheduled match between Art's Esso and Canadian Durabla was taken by Art's by default.

Rollins got three goals from Larry Pascoe and a pair from Don Bowry in its important win. Bruce Pascoe, Scott McLaren and Bill Lynch notched the other Lumbermen goals. Hyalie Bryant was tops for Generals with a pair of markers. Singles went to Gary Goyer and Paul Knutson.

John Smith's three-goal production sparked Chuckwagon past Yardmen. Checking in with one each for the winners were Steve Moore, Wayne Brown and Gary Sero. Yardmen got singles from Pat Mullins, Doug MacDonald and Ted Eves.

Constellation got three goals from Ron Mitchell in its defeat of Jim's. Greg Bellis and Ken Kerik had the others. Looking after the losers' scoring were Mike Evans with a pair and Jack Card.

Soccer Goalies Shine

It was a night for goaltenders in the Indoor Soccer League doubleheader Monday night at Loyalist College.

Moira Secondary School, making its first league start after replacing Trenton Spartacus in the grouping, lost 3-0 to Olympics who got shutout goalkeeping from Chris Johnson.

The school team gave it a good shot but couldn't beat Johnson.

Jim Asseltine was sharp in goal for the losers.

Nick Del Grosso, Kevin Kirby and John O'Neill had the Olympic goals.

John's Variety Store shaded Cosy Grill 2-1 in the other match.

Keith Lawday and Steven Edwards counted the Variety Store goals. Charlie Nesteroski replied for Cosy Grill.

$5,000 in Prizes At Madawaska

BANCROFT — The sixth annual running of the Madawaska Cup Snowmobile Races is scheduled to be held in Bancroft on February 22-23.

The races, which fall into the "B" sanctioned class of the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation (OSRF), are sponsored by the Bancroft Cardiff Kinsmen Club and by area businessmen who put up the prize money for the two-day event.

This year, the cash awards will total more than $5,000, which club members will solicit from merchants in the North Hastings area.

"We really hope that the local merchants will support the races the way that they have done in past years," said race chairman Jerry Howarth.

The property for the race track is donated yearly by Ted Kelusky, who permits the staking of the track in the fall and the development of the facilities for a two or three week period before the actual running.

"This year the OSRF wanted us to go to an "A" event like the Kawartha Cup," said Kinsmen president Fred Palmer, "We have the track to handle that but not the rest of the facilities."

The local organizers are expecting a number of "A" sanctioned drivers to attend this year's race since there are no conflicting races on the same date.

Wayne Thomas of Cardiff, placed third in last year's Madawaska Cup and in this year's Kawartha Cup and is expected to be back to race his Polaris machine here.

The entire Mark Ten snowmobile racing set-up will be in Bancroft for the Madawaska Cup. This involves several vans for registration and scoring as well as a public address tower and race markers.

In addition to this equipment, race chairman Jerry Howarth estimates that at least 100 volunteers from local service clubs are necessary to efficiently handle the operation.

The races, which are duplicated each day follow the standard form for sanctioned stock and modified machines, however this year an unlimited race has been added.

Cash prizes will be awarded for the winning of each race and the three large prizes and trophies will be awarded on a total points system.

Acton's Rink In Running

OTTAWA — After three rounds in the Ontario senior women's curling championships here, Anne Acton's Quinte Curling Club rink from Belleville has two wins and a loss.

Acton, curling with lead Kay Pope; second, Helen Lewis, and vice-skip Jessie Baber, gained a split in her first two starts and then won over Penny Phillips of Thunder Bay 8-6.

The only undefeated rink in the championships is the foursome skipped by Shirley Pilson of Chatham which has a 3-0 record. An 11-7 win in a match with Shirley Keeley of Kingston Monday, brought the leader its third straight victory.

Two more rounds are scheduled today and if playoffs are necessary, they will be held Wednesday.

Rebels and Bearcats Take Playoff Openers

Rebels and Bearcats, one-two during the Northern Electric Hockey League regular season, scored wins as the loop opened playoffs Sunday at Memorial Arena.

Bill Dugeon and Rick Rosebush each fired a pair of goals for Rebels in a 6-4 win over Yankees while Bearcats got two from Rod Salter on the way to a 5-2 defeat of Falcons.

Other marksmen for Rebels were Tom MacDonald and Bruce Pascoe. Wayne Brown was a two-goal shooter for Yankees with singles for Bob Baitley and Edgar Eley.

Adding Bearcat goals to Salter's production were Larry Lupenette, Lyle Lloyd and Jim Barber. Falcons got both their goals from Don Mathews.

Interested in Safe, Efficient Insulation?

THE RAPCO FOAM HOME INSULATION SYSTEM

IT PAYS FOR ITSELF!

No other home insulation offers all these advantages:

- Maximum fuel economy. Rapco-Foam's insulating value (K factor) is 0.2 at 70 degree F, the most effecient available (R Factor 5.5).
- Completely draft free. Spaces around doors, windows and pipes, seldom reached by ordinary insulation are completely filled by Rapco-Foam.
- Easily installed. Skilled applicators inject Rapco-Foam into the walls of your home like shaving cream. It's usually done in a day from the outside. No fuss, no muss.
- Discourages vermin. Rapco-Foam's patented urea-formaldehyde formula destroys rodents and most insects.
- Reduces noise. Installed in your outside walls and roof, Rapco-Foam reduces street noise levels by more than 30%.
- Fire resistant. Rapco-Foam meets the strict New York City building code for non-combustibility.
- Non-Toxic. Rapco-Foam is non-toxic per the Federal Hazards Substance Act.
- Low cost. Compare the cost of Rapco-Foam with any other insulation.

Tight Defence Good for Gold

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A few days ago people at the Canada Winter Games were complaining that the Quebec men's basketball team was scoring too many points against weak teams.

Monday, in the men's final against British Columbia, one of the stronger teams in the Games, Quebec put the emphasis on defence and it proved every bit as effective as piling up the points.

Quebec scored fewer than half the points it had in games against Prince Edward Island and the Yukon, but its pressure defence had all the answers as Quebec won 71-58 to take home the gold medal.

The women's final was just the opposite with B.C.'s women beating Quebec's 77-68.

New Brunswick picked up its first medals of the Games in men's and women's basketball playoffs. The men beat Nova Scotia 78-75 while in the women's bronze medal playoff New Brunswick downed Manitoba 46-41.

Monday was another good day for Quebec as it coasted to victory in the badminton competition. The 12 points awarded for that first-place finish plus the 23 points picked up for a first and second in basketball brought Quebec's total to 143 and pushed it past Ontario, the defending Games champion, in provincial and territories team standings.

Ontario was second and British Columbia third.

Four teams remained undefeated after the second round of berta and Novav Scotia. B.C., New Brunswick and the Northwest Territories were 1-1.

Only three teams remained undefeated in volleyball. B.C. topped the B division with a 2-0 record and Manitoba and Quebec were tied for the A division lead with the same mark.

With nine of the 16 sports at the Games now over, boxing begins today and the hockey and volleyball competitions continue. Figure skating, judo, table tennis and weightlifting begin Wednesday, and the Games wind up Saturday.

Even the official scorer got into the act in frustrating the B.C. men's basketball squad. At the final buzzer the clock had 60 points posted for the West Coast team but when the scorer got through adding the totals, he cut two points off the B.C. score.

"I was worried about our defence," said Quebec coach Robert Comeau. "We had to establish our running game and we had to keep them from getting inside.

"We knew the key would be defence and went out to keep pressure on them outside. Fortunately everything went well."

B.C. had a bigger team than Quebec but it couldn't keep Egyptian-born Varous Gurunlian of Montreal away from its basket. While team-mate John Hunter was Quebec's leading scorer with 15 points, Gurunlian came up with 10, many of them as a direct result of muscle underneath the B.C. hoop. Top scorer for B.C. was Steve Aferguson of Hope with 12.

The B.C. women, five of whom play for Canada's national team, credit their basketball gold medals to films which the Quebec girls probably wish had been unavailable for viewing.

"We watched the video tape of the game we'd lost to Quebec last week," said Bev Barnes of Burnaby who scored 18 points to pace B.C. "It was obvivous the middle of their zone was open and we used that.

"It worked like a charm. We kept going to the middle and it kept right on working for us."

The victory was not without its drama. Up five points at half time, B.C. built a 17-point lead early in the final half, only to watch it dwindle as Quebec came back to pull within three points.

Then Barnes went to work, again. She had scored B.C.'s first eight points of the game and, when they were needed most, came up with eight more. Just as Quebec pulled to within striking distance, Barnes got four baskets in less than a minute and there was no keeping the B.C. women away from the gold medals.

Barnes, Bev Eland of Richmond, Angie Dobie of Nanaimo, Wendy Grant of Surrey, Carol Turner of Vancouver, Joanne Sargent of Vancouver, Marg Mainwaring of Victoria and Terri McGovern of Chilliwack—all members of the B.C. gold medallists—have had playing experience with the Canadian national women's team.

Mireille Roy-Corbeil of Montreal led Queec with 18 points while Sylvia Sweeney of Montreal had 15.

Bob Fagan of St. Stephen scored 24 points to lead the New Brunswick men with Blaine Macdonald of Fredericton scoring 16 and Gary Young, also of Fredericton, getting 11. Jim Collins of Halifax was the top Nova Scotia scorer with 15 while Kevin Kelly of Halifax and Don Robertson of Bedford got 14 each.

Joyce Douthweight of Fredericton and Lesley Nason of Chipman each scored 15 points for the new Prunswick women while Beth Johnston of Winnipeg scored 11 for Manitoba.

Pacers Almost Blow Big Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana Pacers lost all but one point of a 19-point lead but beat the Spirits of St. Louis 100-99 Monday on a late tip-in by George McGinnis, the American Basketball Association's leading scorer.

Elsewhere, New York Nets beated Virginia Squires 120-104 and Utah Stars defeated Memphis Sounds 114-100.

There were no National Basketball Association games.

McGinnis, who led the Pacers with 29 points, had only two in the final period until he tipped in Don Buse's missed shot to withstand a late basket by the Spirits' Marvin Barnes.

Barnes scored 14 of his 35 points during the final 12 minutes to lead all scorers while team-mate Maurice Lucas had 29.

New York's frontline of Julius Erving, Larry Kenon and Billy Paultz combined for 67 points, enabling the Nets to take a half-game lead over idle Kentucky in the Eastern Divivsion scramble.

Utah got 30 points from veteran Ron Boone and 29 from rookie Moses Malone. The Stars led by as many as 27 points at one time and were nevevr seriously threatened.

Two Sign With Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Second baseman Jim Cox and Brian Abraham, a left-handed pitcher, Monday agreed to terms with Montreal Expos for the 1975 National League baseball season.

The signing of Cox and Abraham boosted the number of Expos under contract to 36.

Only four members of the club's 40-man major league roster remained unsigned. They are pitchers Dave McNally and Don Stanhouse, infielder Pat Scanlon and outfielder Rich Coggins.

Canadian Men's Seniors

Three-draw Days Taking Toll

CALGARY (CP) — Saskatchewan skip Morrie Thompson of Saskatoon's Nutana Club says three-draw days take their toll in the Canadian senior men's curling championship.

The 50-year-old Thompson, who with Glen Adams of Lachine, Que., is the youngest player in the competition, said his team had a distinct advantage going into its fifth round battle with 1971 champion Dr. Wendell MacDonald of Prince Edward Island on Monday night.

"We were coming off a bye," he said. "Wendell was heading into his third game of the day. That's tough for a guy 66."

At that, Thompson admitted the veteran Islanders gave his rink "all we could handle."

"We'd get a jump . . . he'd come right back to tie. It happened three times. But he gambled in the ninth end and lost."

MacDonald was trailing by two and elected to play a double takeout at the back of the rings for a tying two instead of making an easy draw for one. Then he missed the takeout, it was 9-5 Saskatchewan and the Islanders called it quits

The three Prairie teams joined New Brunswick with leading 3-1 records and each of the leaders drew a bye Monday to support Thompson's theory.

"The tables are turned tomorrow," said Thompson, who played third on a 1964 men's rink which lost on the last rock to Ernie Richardson of Regina in the provincial championship.

Today's second schedule of three rounds, the last such day of the competition, calls for each of the leaders to play three games apiece.

At 9:30 a.m. MST in the sixth round, Saskatchewan and Manitoba face off in the key game. In the seventh round at 2:30 p.m., Manitoba plays New Brunswick

Ken Melvin's Saint John team was the last to suffer defeat Monday. Riding a 3-0 record, Melvin was beaten 8-6 by MacDonald who displayed consistant draw weight. Earlier, Melvin beat British Columbia 11-4.

Saskatchewan's bye split its day. Thompson beat Bill Wagner of Ontario 13-6 in the third round, then outlasted P.E.I. in the fifth round.

Manitoba's Lyle Henry of Winnipeg and Alberta's Del McIntyre of Edmonton took the third round off, then won two straight

Henry whipped Royal Cooper's winless Newfoundland outfit 12-3, then scored a 6-5 victory over Lawrence Carter of Amherst, N.S., who earlier defeated B.C. 11-4.

McIntyre struggled through both his victories, accepting stolen points in bundles. Against the Territories' Herb Taylor of Whitehorse, the Edmonton rink stole a pair of threes in an 8-4 win. Then it handed defending champion B.C its third straight loss by taking four points in the last three ends played for another 8-4 decision.

Northern Ontario's Jim Simpson lost two of three matches. Simpson missed his last rock of the third round to give P.E.I. a 7-5 win. Then after thrashing Ottawa's Wagner 11-3, the Thunder Bay rink bowed 7-6 to Quebec's Adams, whose two wins evened his record at 2-2 along with the Territories.

Carter has a 2-3 record while Ontario and B.C. are 1-3 and Newfoundland has lost all five of its matches.

O.J. Moves In Front

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — O. J. Simpson moved into a commanding lead over defending champion Kyle Rote Jr. and 1973 victor Bob Seagren after the first five events Monday in the $122,000 Superstars finals.

A first place in bowling with a score of 185 Monday gave the running star of the National Football League's Buffalo Bills 29½ points entering the final five events today. He placed second in three other events—tennis, rowing and weight lifting.

Rote, a soccer player for Dallas Tornado, won the tennis and swimming competition and had 22 points. Pole vaulter Seagren was in third place with 17 points on a first in rowing and second in swimming.

Other point totals were: football's Franco Harris, 14; football's Phil Villapiano, 13½; tennis player Marty Riessen, 7; skier Hugo Nindl, 5; baseball's Lou Brock, 4; pole vaulter Steve Smith, 3; football's Lawrence McCutcheon, 2; baseball's Mike Hargrove, football's Jack Ham and speed skater Ard Schenk, 1; and basketball's John Havlicek, 0.

Hunter, Clifford Slalom Winners

JASPER, Alta (CP) — Veteran national ski team members Jim Hunter of Calgary and Betsy Clifford of Old Chelsea Que., won the giant slalom event of the Canadian alpine ski championships at Marmot Basin Monday.

Miss Clifford cut through the 42-gate women's course in 66.65 seconds, more than 1½ seconds ahead of Joan Wilson of Port Hawkesbury, N.S.

Hunter, despite "a mistake" on his second run through the 43-gate course, led by almost three seconds in the combined time after times of 64.07 and 70.66.

Hunter was followed by Montreal's Russell Goodman, who caught the total time on the two 3,100-foot-long courses of 137.47 seconds. Alain Cousineau of Brownsburg, Que., was a close third in 137.86.

Robb Safrata of Toronto was fifth in 139.53, followed by Steve Podborski, also of Toronto, in Bay, Ont., was 10th in a time of 141.43.

Miss Wilson, a new member of the national ski team, slid down the women's course in 68.07 seconds to finish second, followed by sisters Laurie and Kathy Kreiner of Timmons, Ont., in 68.11 and 68.36 seconds repectively.

Susan Aslett of Toronto was sixth in 68.96, followed by Toria Moser, also of Toronto, in eighth-place at 69.53.

The giant slalom at Marmot basin was the second of three races comprising the Canadian alpine championships.

41,000-ton Roof Goes into Place

MONTREAL (CP) — The controversial Velodrome for the 1976 Summer Olympics had its roof in a permanent position Monday.

During the weekend, engineers and architects raised the roof on the $57-million venue for the cycling events several inches to rest on its four permanent abutments.

The one-piece 41,000-ton roof will allow spectators an unobstructed view of the cycling track. One of the largest domes ever built, it is an important cornerstone in the over-all construction plan for the main Olympic stadium and swimming pool.

Claude Phaneuf, superintendent of public works for the City of Montreal at the Olympic site, said the $57-million figure included some of the cost of the swimming pool.

Phaneuf said the next step will be to complete the inside facilities, including the 285-metre track with its 7½-metre width, followed by installation of stairways and seating for 6,000 spectators, a central ice rink that can be transformed into a convention or exhibition centre, plumbing, ancillary dressing rooms and offices, restaurant, air conditioning and heating.

Williams To Coach In Majors

HOUSTON (CP) — After 28 years of struggling in baseball's minor leagues, Toronto native Jim Williams got his first major league job Monday.

General manager Spec Richardson of Houston Astros of the National League announced that Williams, who has managed in the Houston farm system since 1970, will fill the major league team's final coaching vacancy.

Williams, signed by Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 as an outfielder off the Toronto sandlots, is believed to be only the third Canadian, native to get a major league coaching job in the last half-century.

He was named to fill the job left open by the appointment of Grady Hatton as director of player development.

The 47-year-old Williams broke into professional baseball in 1947 with Kingston, N.Y., of the North Atlantic League, and played his entire career in the Dodger farm system.

In 1962, the Dodgers made him a player-coach with Omaha of the American Association, and in 1973, manager of their Santa Barbara farm team in the California League. He's been managing in the minors ever since.

Although he grew up in Toronto, where he played hockey, football and lacrosse, Williams lives now in Pueblo.

VEISOR DEMOTED

CHICAGO (AP) — Goaltender Mike Veisor was assigned by Chicago Black Hawks Sunday to their Central Hockey League farm club in Dallas. Coach Billy Reay of the National Hockey League Hawks said Veisor was sent down to get more ice time. The Hawsk recalled goalie Mike Dumas.

Alberta Squad Gets Win No. 2

PINCHER CREEK, Alta (CP) — Joe Meli scored his second goal of the game after 10 seconds of the second overtime period Monday night to propel Alberta to a 7-6 victory over Newfoundland, its second hockey victory in the Canada Winter Games.

The sudden-death goal left Newfoundland with a 1-1 record in the competition which ends Saturday, final day of the Games.

Meli also set up Al Dumont for his second goal at 5:21 of the first overtime, a 10-minute session, to tie the score 6-6.

Alberta is represented by the Junior B Lethbridge Native Sons and Newfoundland by an all-star team.

Ken Klinkhammer, Dennis Hatt and Dwayne Howell also scored for Alberta. Max Hayes of St. John's paced Newfoundland with two goals. Joe Byrne of Grand Falls, Gord Butler of Labrador City, Randolf Crane of Ferryland and Paul Newman of St. John's added a goal each.

Quebec, which humbled Prince Edward Island on opening night, edged Manitoba 3-1 in another game on two goals by Yves Blain and one by Serge Bouchard. Bob Williamson of Belmont replied for Manitoba after Quebec had opened a 3-0 lead.

At Stand Off the Northwest Territories beat Yukon 3-1. Al Young of Yellowknife contributed two goals and Cliff Robertson, also of Yellowknife, added the other for the winners after Tom McNabb of Whitehorse opened scoring for the losers.

In other games, New Brunswick outscored Prince Edward Island 9-6, Ontario's Oakville Blues defeated British Columbia 8-5 and Nova Scotia surprised the Saskatoon-based Saskatchewan entry 5-3.

John Foran and James Guitard paced New Brunswick represented by a Junior B team from Dalhousie, with two goals each. Dan MacLean, Maurice Mockler, Michel St. Pierre, Lonnie Clark and Newton Guitard got one each.

Mike Galland and Roger Savoiant of Summerside scored one goal each for P.E.I. Others were added by Les Oakes of Grapaud, Wayne Stanley of Charlottetown, Jim MacAdam of Morell and Larry Maylew of Kensington.

John Holmes paced Ontario with three goals. Others were scored by Gary Stephens, Dennis Fowler, Mark Cassidy, Frank Incuye and Rus Chapman. Al Anderson, Fred Nicks and Don Fraser of Burnaby, Steve Tambellini of Trail and Frank Goiringe of Richmond replied for the losers.

Mal David of Amherst led Nova Scotia with two goals and Mike Henderson of Brookfield, Charles Reid of Milford Station and Scott Giffin of Truro scored the others. on Robison and Garth Hackl counted for Saskatchewan.

'Family Unit' Quebec's Secret

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Quebec coasted to the gold medal in badminton competition at the Canada Winter Games Monday because of what the team manager described as "a strong family-type relationship" among his players and the absence of national-calibre members from British Columbia and Ontario.

Quebec took the gold, its 20th of the Games, against what Denys Boucher admitted was a "diluted" opposition because of a Games rule prohibiting participation by national-level players in Games events.

Although Quebec had clinched the gold Sunday night, it emphasized its claim to the title with an easy 9-0 win over the Yukon in the final round-robin matches Monday night.

British Columbia won the silver medal with a 9-2 record as it ended a marathon against Ontario early today with a 5-4 victory.

Alberta and Manitoba also finished with 9-2 marks but Alberta won the bronze medal. Second, third and fourth places were determined by the number of sets won.

"The national-ranking rule really hurt B.C. and Ontario," said Boucher. "They lost more good players than we did because a lot of them were in the top 25 ranking in the country"

Boucher said his team has a "terrific family-type relationship . . . They've worked with each other a long time and are all close friends on and off the court"

Boucher said badminton players are angry over a decision by the Olympic organizing committee not to recognize badminton as an Olympic sport in 1976 in Montreal.

"We were an exhibition sport in Munich in 1972 and usually exhibition sports are brought into the Olympics the next time they are held. The athletes are very mad that they are being excluded because we think we are good enough to compete on a world level."

Three flights every week, April to October

London via Wardair 747

from $259

If you've made up your mind to fly to London this year, but haven't yet decided on the date or the airline, this is for you. You can fly from Toronto every Thursday, Friday and Saturday from April to October in a big, luxurious Wardair 747, non-stop, and return, AND SAVE UP TO $321 PER TICKET over a regularly scheduled flight! It's the simple truth. A 14 – 21 day excursion fare via scheduled airline, departing anytime between June 1 and 19 or August 18 and 31, will cost you $610 per adult ticket. The fare via Wardair, same dates, will cost you only $289 per adult ticket. You save $321 per ticket. And that's better than "two for the price of one." We also fly at big savings to Manchester, Amsterdam and Frankfurt. Check the flight schedules below, and see how much you're better off. To fly Wardair.

Just name the date.

1. Pick your Intervac holiday flight via Wardair.
2. Book at least 60 days in advance, and pay a $50 non-refundable deposit per passenger.

Fares do not include $2.00 Frankfurt airport departure tax

Balance of your fare is due at least 60 days before departure.

CANCELLATION

In the event you have to cancel your flight booking any time prior to departure, you automatically forfeit your $50 deposit. Any balance of the fare which has been paid will be refunded by Intervac.

For an additional $6 per passenger, you can purchase Intervac's CHARTER FARE PROTECTION INSURANCE which protects you under most circumstances if your travel plans are necessarily and unavoidably cancelled due to causes beyond your control. The INTERVAC CHARTER FARE PROTECTION INSURANCE will refund the $50 cancellation charge, and in addition will ensure your travel home (point of departure) if you are unable to return to Canada due to sickness, injury or death.

All flights depart from, and return to, Toronto International Airport. Arrivals and departures in Britain and Europe are at Gatwick (London), Manchester, Schiphol (Amsterdam), and Frankfurt Main airports, depending on destination.

Tickets are valid only for flights purchased and cannot be exchanged for other flights.

Infants under 2 carried free of charge.

An additional $5 to cover the Canadian Transportation Tax must be paid at the time of final payment.

All flights governed by the Advance Booking Charter provisions of the Canadian Transport Commission, and approved by the Air Transport Committee.

BIRTHS

AINSWORTH — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ainsworth are delighted to announce the birth of their son Bryan Christopher on February 11, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital, weight 8 lbs., 2½ ozs. Our sincerest thanks to Drs. Allore and Dolan and all the staff on 5th floor.

IN MEMORIAM

MURRAY — In memory of a dear dad, John Patrick who passed away February 18, 1947.

Twenty-eight years have passed and gone,
Since one I loved so well,
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon his grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.

—Always remembered by daughter Marguerite and son-in-law Ernest.

STEWART — In loving memory of a dear sister, Helen Stewart who passed away 2 years ago today.

There are times of stony anguish,
When the tears refuse to fall,
But the parting time, dear sister,
Was the hardest time of all.

—Ever remembered by brother George wife Peggy and family.

WILSON — In fond and loving memory of a dear father, husband and grandfather, Stanley Harry Wilson who passed away eleven years ago today, February 18, 1964.

—Ever remembered by wife Anne and family.

WILSON — In loving memory of a dear faher who passed away eleven years ago today.

He would not wish for sorrow,
Nor would he wish for tears,
But just to be remembered,
By us, throughout the years.

—Always remembered by son John and daughter-in-law Joan of Sarnia.

MORGAN — In loving memory of a loving husband, dad and grandfather Ray, who passed away Feb. 18, 1974.

A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
Some may think you are forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
But in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.

—Wife Louise and Family.

MORGAN — In loving memory of a dear brother-in-law, uncle and great uncle, Ray, who passed away Feb. 18, 1974.

God's greatest gift - "remembrance."

—Greg, Leona Place and family.

TAKE THE RISK OUT OF BUYING A COLOR TV

RENT FROM CIRCLE TV

With option to buy and full rental rebate. Are you worried about getting a "lemon" in a TV? Well relax! Circle TV will rent you a brand new 1975 Electrohome TV for a reasonable period. If at the end of that time you are happy with the set, as we know you will be, then the rental charge will be applied against the purchase price. Or, if you wish, you can continue to rent the set. If you are not satisfied though, we will take the TV back with no further obligation on your part. Do you know a better way to take the risk out of buying a TV?

Lighthouse Well Received At City Nightclub Debut

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

For the first time ever, one of Canada's top-rated rock groups, Lighthouse left the concert scene behind and premiered its brand of music Monday night in a club setting at the Mad Mechanic in the Four Seasons Hotel.

And if Monday night's performance is an indication, the 10-man group can rest assured it can succeed in both situations.

Of course, if you're looking for personalities such as Skip Prokop bouncing around on drums and vocals, vocalist Bob McBride and Paul Hoffert you won't find them as only three of the originals are still with the group. What you will find though is an evening of rich, music that's well worth the price of admission.

The lead vocalist in the group now is Billy Ledster, who does a fine job and at times sounds reminiscent of McBride. Other vocals are handled well by Ralph Cole, one of the original members of the group who said during a break on the show that the group is trying the club atmosphere out "to do a lot of playing to feel each other out and to try new material to see how it goes over with the audience.

He said the group hopes to release an albrum in the spring. They travel to Thunder Bay when they leave here.

For the record, the three orignial members of the group that has won wide acclaim throughout Canada and the United States are Ralph Cole, on guitar, Louie Ackman on bass and Dale Hillary on saxophone and flute.

The new members are Ledster on vocals, Tom Wills replacing Porokop on drums, Fred Mandel replacing Hoffert on piano, Ian Gunther on violin, Howie Wiseman on cello, Dave Tanner on saxophone and flute and Joe Ambrosia on trumpet and flugelhorn.

The Mad Mechanic was about three-quarters fill Monday night for the groups first appearance in Belleville since playing a concert at the Memorial Arena in August with a vastly different personnel The current group has been together since November.

The switchover from concerts to clubs said Ralph Cole, required some adjustment on the part of the group. "We seem very much at ease playing here," he said. "We're very relaxed."

"In a concert people come to listen to the music but at a club people are there to drink and have a good time. It's really more difficult playing in concerts where you have more time on stage and not that many breaks. In a club, we're trying to carry on the continuty we had in our concerts we have to juggle everying around to make sense out of it." said Ralph Cole.

And for the group known as Lighthouse, such a change in style seems to be working out quite well

The group is appearing at the Mad Mechanic all this week, playing three sets nightly, two 45-minute sets sandwiched in between a half-hour one The Saturday night show, however is sold out

Auto Workers Want Action in Six Weeks

OTTAWA (CP) — The 150,000-member United Auto Workers union (UAW) is allowing the government "a month or six weeks" to start implementing its proposals to rally the ailing auto industry and fight rising unemployment, Canadian UAW director Dennis McDermott said Monday.

In the meantime, the battle will be carried to the Ontario and Quebec legislatures, where the UAW intends to meet provincial premiers and cabinet ministers to present grievances.

About 300 UAW members met in Ottawa Monday to present a toughly-worded brief to the government calling for "dramatic action" to deal with problems in the auto industry. The delegates later blitzed offices of riding MPs, enlisting support for proposals including removal of the 12-per-cent sales tax on vehicles.

Removal of the price differential—which the UAW brief repeatedly terms "a rip-off" of consumers—is a key point in the union submission.

Other proposals include a reduction in the Canada-U.S. deficit in auto parts, a regular annual report on the auto industry, more capital investment in Canada and a negotiated reduction in foreign trade barriers against Canadian-made autos.

During Monday's Commons question period, New Democratic Party parliamentary leader Ed Broadbent (Oshawa-Whitby) asked what steps the government will take to implement the UAW recommendations. He said there are already 25,000 unemployed auto workers in Canada.

Mr. Gillespie said only that the government will give "careful consideration" to the brief.

In a reply to Allan Lawrence (PC — Northumberland - Durham), Mr Gillespie indicated the government does not intend to remove the 12-per-cent federal sales tax.

Stills Allowed

TORONTO (CP) — R. S. Dollard, head of the federal customs and excise department's excise duty branch for Toronto region, said Monday the department has discontinued its policy of discouraging persons from having stills in their homes.

Mr. Dollard said in an interview the policy was simplified so Morton Shulman, NDP member of the legislature for the Toronto riding of High Park, could instal a small still in his home to purify the drinking water.

Portable distilling devices often have been used to make home-made whisky.

Get Cool $1,800

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Thieves got a cool $1,800, missing from one of the beer coolers where it had been left overnight, from the Paisley hotel, manager Ronald Kirkpatrick, said. Chief J. J. Paquette said caretaker Henry Deyo saw someone in the area about 4:20 a.m. and chased him off, or so he thought. Later Mr. Deyo heard more noise behind the bar and chased off another person. A later check disclosed the theft.

Clive's Place

LONDON (CP) — The Mayfair home of Clive of India, the man who made India part of the British Empire, has gone on the market for &2.2 million ($5.06 million). The early Georgian building, where Clive committed suicide in 1774, now is the office of Moral Re-Armament, in Berkley Square. Sources say several firm offers have already been made by oil-rich Middle East interests.

Sales Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Sales by wholesale merchants in December were up 13 per cent over a year earlier, Statistics Canada reported Monday, but other reports indicate price increases accounted for most, if not all, the gain.

Retail sales of refrigerators and washing machines, two of the larger items in consumer budgets, were down sharply in December, but wholesale and retail inventories were up sharply, possibly indicating larger stocks of unsold goods.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Wednesday, February 19

Aries (March 21-April 19) You have the answers you need to your problems but your methods will be a bit too wishy-washy to be truly effective.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) There will be some confusion in your commercial affairs regarding money you spend or take in. You'll fail to do it in a businesslike manner.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) An interfering third party will create doubts for you in regard to an arrangement you've worked out with another. Judge for yourself.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Be careful to whom you talk about a matter you want kept confidential. There's a pal who has trouble keeping his lip buttoned.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Most individuals you associate with now can be relied upon. However, one whose motives you suspect should be avoided.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your chances of succeeding at what you attempt the next few days look very good, if you shun tactics that corrupt your high standards.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your self-interests can be advanced now if measures you take are bold and determined. Also, keep your plans to yourslf for awhile.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sure you get a firm price in writing for purchases you make at this time, when the merchandise is to be delivered later.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is not a good period to make agreements hastily just because you don't want to haggle. Take your time. Do it right.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Matters that have a direct effect upon your work or career should be attended to promptly and not put off till tomorrow.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something advantageous to you can be gained through a social contact. A plan you'll fit into will be discussed.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Today will be very rewarding if you spend your time cleaning up old tasks and projects that are half finished. Set aside the new.

Quart of Pop Daily Too Much

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to have a very important question answered. My mother has been nagging me about drinking too much diet pop. What effect does a lot of diet pop have on you?

By a lot, I mean three 12-ounce cans a day. Can it cause kidney disease? Please help me with this problem.—Miss N.H.

You are getting a quart of fluid a day that really has no food value (vitamins or protein), and if the pop is a cola you are getting a considerable jolt of caffeine. This could begin to make you nervous and jittery. The fact that it is diet pop doesn't alter anything except calories.

The quart a day won't cause kidney disease, but it can make you urinate more than you normally would have to.

Chalk one up for mother. I side with her and say you are overdoing the pop consumption.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 50 years old and have had what is called a "silent heart attack." Will you please explain to me what that means? What should I do or not do to prevent another one? Are they serious?—Mrs. B.A.

A heart attack (a myocardial infarction or a coronary artery occlusion) occurs because of an obstruction of blood flow in one of the arteries supplying the heart muscle. This is usually accompanied by dramatic symptoms—chest pain, perspiration, shortness of breath, or a combination of these.

A "silent" attack is one that occurs without such violent symptoms. It tends to go unnoticed. It's estimated that from 15 to 20 per cent of all initial heart attacks occur this way, undetected for months, years, even lifetimes.

When such an old attack is discovered in a routine examination later on, a patient usually recalls the episode which he may have dismissed as a bit of indigestion, pleurisy or muscle strain.

Electrocardiagram detection is not difficult for the cardiologist. A coronary occlusion usually leaves some heart abnormality, however minor, in the heart muscle behavior. An acute attack leaves a characteristic pattern on the graph, and an old "silent" attack also leaves its own distinctive pattern.

How serious is a "silent" attack? Quite obviously, it is usually minor, as indicated by the light symptoms. But such an attack can be insidious. With no warning of something amiss, the victim may continue a lifestyle or certain activities he normally would forgo had the warning of a more serious attack taken place.

Once discovered, therefore, the patient should assume that the circumstances which brought about the earlier attack might well prompt another.

At 50 (a prime heart attack age) you should do what any other heart victim would do. Watch your weight and slow down your pace of living.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you please tell me the name of new medicine you referred to as being helpful in tic douloureux?—Mrs. R.C.

The medicine I had in mind is called Tegretol. But it can be toxic to the blood and should be taken only under careful medical supervision.

Year Of The Hare

SINGAPORE (AP) — Chinese following the lunar calendar are celebrating the year of the hare in 1975, replacing the year of the tiger. Prof Hsu Yungtsiao, vice-president of the China Society, said the Chinese interpret the year of the hare as a more tranquil time.

Examine Aging

EDMONTON (CP) — When I'm 64, a new course offered through the continuing education division of Grant MacEwan Community College, will examine the literary perceptions of aging, and how the perceptions relate to a person's experience and the experience of those around him. Individual viewpoints on the subject will be studied in detail during the 10-week course, using various literary works.

REVENUE HIGHER

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta tourism generated $528.8 million in revenue during 1974, 13 per cent more than in the previous year.

Has Much Heat

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Lake Ontario receives enough heat in one day from waste matter to heat every home in Canada for two winters. Unfortunately, there is no way to harness this heat, says Anthony R. Kirby, public-relations officer for the Canada Centre for Inland Waterways. The CCIW is a federal project that studies management of fresh-water lakes in Canada.

MOOD PICTURES

A Swedish firm has come up with a clever way to give business letters more zing: photos on the letterheads depicting the mood of the sender. They range from a happy face to downright fury for letters telling the recipient where to get off.

Opening lead — J♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jettison is a nautical term that applies to throwing cargo overboard to lighten a sinking ship. In bridge you jettison a winning card to get it out of the way for some valid reason.

We are indebted to George Coffin for today's jettison play. A very careless South wins the club lead with his king and plays a trump. East takes his ace and can beat the contract by leading a second club for his partner to ruff.

A slightly more careful South wins the club in dummy and leads a trump toward his own hand. If East plays low everything comes up roses, but if East hops up with the ace South's king of clubs get ruffed.

A careful South remembers that opening club bid and worries about a club ruff. Then he rises with dummy's ace of clubs, jettisons his king of clubs on the ace of diamonds and leads dummy's deuce of spades.

Now all the defenders can collect are two hearts and the ace of spades, since South can ruff the second club if it is led.

A — We slightly favor a pass, but would not criticize another double provided you are sure that your partner won't leave it in.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of passing your partner has bid three spades over the three heart call by West. What do you do now?

CP News Roundup

Pipeline Cost Said 10 Billion

OTTAWA (CP) — The newest price tag on a Western Arctic pipeline to bring Alaska and Mackenzie Delta natural gas to southern markets is about $10 billion, Canadian Arctic Gas Pipelines Ltd. told the National Energy Board Monday.

President Vernon Horte, representing the company applying for permission to build the 2,600-mile line, estimated the cost of the main line at about $7 billion "in inflated dollars." New lines and extensions of others account for the rest.

When Arctic Gas applied in February, 1974, for permission to build the main line, it set a cost in excess of $5 billion in 1974 dollars.

Mr. Horte told the board that Canada can expect a gas shortage over the next several years because other forms of energy cannot be developed fast enough to meet the increased demand.

Prague Dirty

PRAGUE (Reuter) — Prague is the dirtiest city in eastern Europe, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported Monday.

It said industry in Prague produces 70,000 tons of solid and gaseous pollutants a year and that every square mile of the city gets an average of about 600 tons of ash annually, rising in industrial districts to as high as 1,500 tons.

Guard Released

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — A guard at the B.C. penitentiary was released early today after being held at knife point for almost four hours by a prisoner.

Herb Reynett, deputy regional director of Canadian Penitentiary Service, said in a telephone interview that the prisoner, Michael Wayne Plapko, 27, pulled a knife on the guard at about 8:30 p.m. PST in the prison's recreation area.

Rate Review

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court will hear arguments next month on whether the Canadian transport commission has the power to delay increases in railway freight rates.

In a brief hearing Monday, the court agreed it would be in the public interest to review a decision of the Federal Court of Appeal which suggested to the commission that it did indeed have such powers.

'Brother' Charged

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP) — Dave Davies, the newly-elected president of the Grimsby-Lincoln Big Brothers Association, was charged Monday with assault causing bodily harm in connection with an incident in which the outgoing president was assaulted.

Wrong Decision

TORONTO (CP) — Two hundred third-year medical students hypothetically killed two accident victims with wrong decisions during a recent exercise at Toronto General Hospital.

"This is the second time we have run this drill, but the first time the patient has been killed," Dr. Hamilton Hall, director of the hospital's medical learning office, told the students.

Given 10 Years

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Dennis John Golding, 24, of Peterborough was sentenced Monday to 10 years in prison in connection with the death of his 22-year-old wife Eleanor.

He was found guilty last month of manslaughter.

His wife's body was found last year in a shallow grave about 40 miles north of here.

Precipitation

Wet and Cold

Most of Canada is expected to have below-normal temperatures in the period from mid-February to mid-march, according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. The only exception is British Columbia, which will have above-normal readings. Precipitation is expected to be above-normal for most areas. The outlook is not a specific forecast and changes may occur (CP Newmap)

Plans African Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen will visit Africa during the last two weeks of April, his first foreign tour since he took over the portfolio last summer.

Cuban in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen and Cuba's top banker met Monday and discussed bilateral matters and the ways in which their countries are dealing with inflation.

Raul Leon, president of the National Bank of Cuba, is one of the most senior Cubans to visit Ottawa. His post is comparable to that of a minister in the Cuban government.

Checks Needed

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian director of the International Labor Office (ILO) said Monday that "restraints and constraints" on human rights legislation are needed to prevent it from being used against minorities and the poor.

Food Stalled

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The organizers of the Kingston Food Fund still are searching for a way to airlift 50 tons of food to Bangladesh following a refusal last week by British Airways to transport the food from London, England.

Company Charged

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — Controls Company of Canada Ltd. and its maintenance manager, William H. Fletcher, were charged under the Industrial Safety Act in provincial court Monday in connection with death of a company employee Nov. 14, 1974.

James Symms, 41, of St. Thomas, died while working with a high-voltage automatic welder.

The company and Mr. Fletcher have been charged with failure to ensure adequate protective devices.

The case was ajourned without plea until March 5.

Water Safe

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Testing by the Ontario ministry of the environment reveals drinking water in northwestern Ontario is safe for human consumption.

Concern had been expressed, especially by residents of the Red Lake area, about the possibility of arsenic contamination in drinking water. However, the department reports that tests since 1969 continue to show safe water.

Laing Buried

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator Art Laing, leader of the British Columbia Liberal party from 1953 to 1959 and a cabinet minister in the governments of Prime Minister Trudeau and Lester Pearson, was buried Monday after a funeral service attended by more than 700 people.

Chrysler Borrows

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., hit by a fourth-quarter 1974 deficit of $73.5 million to cap its worst year ever, has arranged new credit of more than $1 billion.

Rebates Working

DETROIT (AP) — Car dealers in the United States want the auto industry to extend cash rebates on new models into the spring because, they say, the program is helping sales.

Sudbury Loss High

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — This city's annual per-capita fire loss in the last five years was the highest in 10 medium-sized Ontario cities, says an insurance advisory official.

Betting Operation Linked to Bombs

TORONTO (CP) — Police, carrying out simultaneous raids in three southern Ontario areas Sunday, said they believe they have cracked a $5-million-a-year bookmaking operation and a possible link to two bombings here.

A police spokesman said the bombings involved delinquent bettors and that overdue accounts were being sold to a strong-arm group which also operated a loan-sharking business charging 40-to 50-per-cent interest a week.

"The victims can't even pay the interest, and when they get behind the bones begin to break," the spokesman said.

Simultaneous raids were made in Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls. Four arrests were made in Toronto.

Police said that when they burst into an apartment here they found sheets indicating bets on United States and Canadian horse racing, National Hockey League and National Basketball Association games.

They said a man was at a table with two telephones, a radio and a television set and he had a payoff sheet indicating $65,000 in bets.

In the few minutes that police were in the apartment they answered the telephone and recorded $1,000 in bets, the spokesman said. They seized a number of records and estimated the turnover at nearly $100,000 a week.

Meanwhile, a raid in Hamilton Sunday resulted in seven men and five women being arrested for bookmaking offences.

Native People's Caravan Abandons Ottawa Mill

OTTAWA (CP) — A small band of native people who have been occupying an abandoned government building along the Ottawa River for the last five months announced an end to the occupation Monday night.

John Graham, one of their spokesmen, complaining of police and government harrassment, said the group, known as the Native People's Caravan, now seeks another headquarters.

Electricity and heat were turned off at the old carbide mill last week and the regional government said it was stopping free transportation and other benefits.

Announcement of the evacuation was made at a public meeting in a community hall, called by the Ottawa Committee in Support of Indians. Some of those attending were critical of the group and its actions.

"Who do you represent; frankly I am puzzled by your group," said a Roman Catholic priest who said he is chaplain for native people in the Ottawa-Hull area.

Another man, who identified himself as a registered Indian, said he did not like the tactics used by the caravan and asked whether the caravan was not being used "by a left wing political party."

There were reports that a wing of the Communist party inspired the militant action on Parliament Hill last Sept. 30.

Mr. Graham said the caravan had come to Ottawa to let people know how shamefully Indian people were being treated. The caravan people "got their heads banged in" during the skirmish on Parliament Hill but also had brought national attention to the plight of native people.

Because of the caravan, there now was a system of meetings between native people's organizations and the cabinet, be added.

Guaranteed Income Seen Poverty Pledge

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's plan for a guaranteed annual income is only going to guarantee poverty, Marjorie Hartling, executive director of the National Ant-Poverty Organization (NAPO), said Monday.

Mrs. Hartling said at a news conference that the guaranteed level of $6,000 for a family of four—the highest level now being considered by the government—would have to be raised to at least $7,500 to meet current living costs.

Within Limits

TORONTO (CP) — A report promised last week by Ontario Environment Minister William Newman says asbestos fibres in the air around a local Johns-Manville Co. plant are "within Environment Ontario guidelines" of .04 fibres (larger than five microns) per cubic centimetre.

Can Disperse Fog

TORONTO (CP) — James Megaw, head of York University's centre for research on environmental quality, says he has found some chemicals which can, to some extent, disperse fog that accumulates around factories.

Immigrants Exploited

OTTAWA (CP) — Second generation immigrant women exploit new immigrants who are unfamiliar with Canadian law and do not speak English, says e UNESCO spokesman.

Wanna Joy Hoy, program officer for women's status with UNESCO, said Monday that Chinese immigrant women "wanting to work in the Vancouver area are being exploited by second-generation Chinese who know the laws and speak English."

Employers, she said, force the women to report for work at 4 a.m., charge them 75 cents for a ride to work and an additional 75 cents to return in the evening.

"These women receive $1.25 to $1.50 an hour while men receive the minimum British Columbia wage of $2.50," she told a Council of Women of Ottawa meeting.

Couples Arranged Purchase of Baby

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Two couples who arranged for the sale of a baby on Feb. 9, 1973, pleaded guilty Monday to charges under the Child Welfare Act.

Michael and Beverly Ann Leishman, both 20, of this area 40 miles northwest of Toronto, and Donald and Marlene Smith, both of Oyen, Alta., pleaded guilty to the charge of selling a baby. Further charges of conspiracy to commit fraud and falsifying a birth certificate were withdrawn.

The four, to be sentenced March 2, face a maximum sentence of three years in jail or a maximum fine of $2,000 each. But Crown Attorney Peter Parkinson has asked the court only to fine the couples.

Mr. Parkinson told the court that the Smiths met Mr. Leishman and Beverly Ann Atherly in Jan., 1973, at a nearby ski resort to negotiate a deal for the baby. At the time, the Leishmans were not married and Beverly Ann was pregnant.

Court was told the couples decided the baby would be born under the name of Marlene Smith. When born, it was named Trina Elana Smith.

Mr. Parkinson said the Leishmans gave up the baby for $250 cash and an agreement for $100 monthly payments until $1,000 had been paid. On July 7, 1973, the Leishmans wrote the Smiths a letter which passed all rights of ownership to the Smiths.

Defence counsel Bill Stutz, representing the Smiths who did not appear in court, asked the court to waive conviction because the Smiths made formal application to adopt the baby in Alberta. He said the Smiths resorted to buying a baby because they were desperate to have children

The court was told that Mrs. Smith was unable to have children because of medical reasons and that an earlier application for adoption was turned down by the Ontario Children's Aid Society.

Canadian Wants Raise In Tolls for Seaway

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP) — Paul Normandeau, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority told shipping company executives Monday he would like seaway tolls raised as much as 50 per cent to cover operating costs.

But his U.S. counterpart, D. W. Overlin, administrator of the Seaway Development Corp., said his budget has already been approved assuming no toll increases in 1975 and 1976. He said later he could not comment further on the possibility of higher rolls.

Mr. Normandeau confirmed recent reports that he had urged the federal government to write off the seaway authority's $788 million debt in exchange for higher tolls to cover operating costs.

Church Interest in Farm Labor Disturbs Agriculture Minister

KINGSVILLE, Ont.(CP) — Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart says be hopes objectivity and not emotion will characterize church involvement in farm labor questions.

Speaking Saturday at the annual meeting of the Essex County Federation of Agriculture, he said church groups should "get the facts" before issuing statements about working conditions on farms.

He said Ontario farmers have cause for apprehension about the coming season because of "the sudden interest of different organizations in farm labor."

"I would suggest church organizations and other groups who feel a need to assist in farm labor relations get all their facts before issuing public statements that our farmers are poor employers," he said.

Mr Stewart also said he does not want to close the doors on Mexican or Caribbean farm workers simply to enforce a "Canada first" policy.

He said a federal-provincial committee is still considering the offshore farm worker situation.

"Obviously, the popularity of the offshore and Mexican programs suggests Canadians are not as interested in agricultural work as one might be led to believe."

Mr. Stewart said reports of a Canadians-first policy, with imported labor to be used as a safety valve, have caused dissatisfaction among many farmers. In previous years, Canadian farm workers had tended to be unreliable.

Professor Accuses Bernier Of Distorting Health Facts

TORONTO (CP) — A Montreal professor of science and human affairs said Monday that Leo Bernier, Ontario's resources minister, is guilty of "blatant distortion" in discussing the health situation among Elliot Lake, Ont., uranium miners.

Fred H. Knelman of Concordia University told the royal commission inquiry into the health and safety of mine workers that the situation is "worse than the mere distortion of reports."

"Apparently, there also seems to be an attempt at cover-up and a suggestion of collusion between government and industry."

Mr. Knelman, an unpaid adviser to the United Steelworkers of America, said statistics show one miner died of lung cancer between 1955-60, 11 between 1960 and 1964, 13 from 1965 to 1969 and 16 during 1970-72. But the figures were misleading because among the miners examined were a large number exposed to mine dust for short periods.

He said death rates during the last three periods were three-to-five times greater than the expected rates for men and a "clear indication of the lack of adequate protection."

Mr. Knelman said the scientists who did the research "have been co-opted and used—a situation they should understand as inherent in the institutional bias imposed by politics."

He said the government has told mining companies about serious health problems suffered by workers, without also telling the workers.

"It . . . raises again the question of accommodation and collusion between government and industry. It is tantamount to consulting the perpetrators of a crime rather than acknowledging the primary rights of the victims."

L. R. Williams, a Steelworkers official, said mining company executives who operate mines that do not comply with safety regulations should be jailed. He added that: "in general, we do not think the policy of an eye for an eye deters criminals."

"But we wonder what society must do to get owners of the means of production to recognize that, while it may be cheaper to kill workers and replace them than to make jobs safe, it is far more civilized to prevent industrial death than to take it for granted," he said.

PM Still Ill

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau continued to battle a heavy cold Monday, missing his second consecutive Commons sitting.

A spokesman said Mr. Trudeau is expected to return to work during the week but he could not say how soon.

Whelan Is Target In Debate on Eggs

OTTAWA (CP) — Egg marketing was the subject on the Commons order paper Monday, but Eugene Whelan seemed to be the specific preoccupation of MPs.

The gruff agriculture minister came in for praise and blame as MPs rehashed arguments about the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA).

Mr. Whelan was absent when Progressive Conservative James McGrath (St. John's East) led off the one-day debate by saying a special Commons investigation of egg industry problems "failed to lay the problem where it belongs, that is, squarely on the shoulders of the minister of agriculture."

But he returned in time to leaf deliberately through papers on his desk as responsibility for CEMA was laid at his doorstep by Liberal Herb Gray, a former cabinet colleague.

Between the criticism by Conservatives and Mr. Gray and praise from other Liberals and a Social Credit MP, Mr. Whelan assured the House that the agency which last year destroyed 2.5 million dozen eggs now seems to be operating properly.

The agency, a producer-run group formed in 1973 to buy surplus eggs from provincial marketing boards, now "is getting a grip on surplus production," he said. It was surplus eggs, rotting in storage, which CEMA destroyed.

The committee that investigated CEMA after the rotten-egg incident recommended that non-producers be appointed to the agency's board. Mr. Whelan said he hopes to announce the appointments within 10 days "with no political strings or regional loyalties."

Introduction of a computer system to monitor producers' flocks had been proposed to help "tailor the supply to meet demands."

"We are only a year away from having one of the most sophisticated planned products systems in the whole world."

Conservatives speaking on Mr. McGrath's motion to concur in the committee report were not entirely satisfied. Jack Murta (Lisgar) called the minister's comments "soothing in some respects," but said the agriculture committee should resume investigation of egg marketing.

Mr. McGrath, who also favors further investigation, used the motion merely as a way to get debate on the subject. The debate ended without a vote and the motion is dead unless the government decides to reintroduce it.

"A lot of the problems plaguing the agency today are a direct result of the minister's failure to take an active interest," said Mr. McGrath, warning that further protection for both consumers and producers is needed before any other national marketing plans take effect.

Mr. Gray, former consumer and corporate affairs minister, said legislation controlling CEMA seems to make it clear that Mr. Whelan has over-all responsibility for marketing agencies.

The committee report had understated that responsibility, said Mr. Gray. He clashed during the committee hearings with Mr. Whelan, who said his responsibility was limited greatly because CEMA is a producer-run agency.

This view was supported again Monday by Hugh Anderson (L—Comox-Alberni) who said the minister had limited control over the agency. It was unfair to "accuse him of not following the progress of this marketing plan as though he could throw a lifesaver that was going to rescue a very, very waterlogged board."

Mr. Whelan won support from Adrien Lambert (SC—Bellechasse) who said the minister has some responsibility in a tough situation but, unless given a chance, "will not be able to create miracles."

In fact, said Mr. Lambert, Mr. Whelan should be given the extra power of controlling the import and export of eggs to ensure orderly marketing.

Outside the House, Mr. Whelan said CEMA has met a Feb. 15 government deadline to shape up. This was shown by the appointment of Montrealer Max Van Roytenburg, a former supermarket executive, as agency manager.

CEMA also had disposed successfully of a 3.4-million dozen surplus that accumulated early this year.

Speech Not Free

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde paid $8,625 for 13 speeches, including $1,950 for his contribution to the World Football League (WFL) debate, the Commons learned Monday.

Written replies to a Commons question show that only four cabinet ministers hired speech writers on a freelance or contract basis in the 12-month period ended March 31, 1974. They paid a total of $13,625 for speeches.

The spending leader, by a wide margin, for both total amount and the highest individual price for a speech was Mr. Lalonde.

He paid $1,950 for a 45-minute speech delivered in the Commons April 18, 1974, during second reading of his bill to keep the WFL from establishing a team in Toronto.

The remaining $6,675 he spent on 12 speeches to a wide variety of sports and health groups. These speeches cost between $300 and $750.

Environment Minister Jeanne Sauve reported that she kept two writers on contract during the 12-month period, paying them $1,600 each for writing four speeches each. Mrs. Sauve, minister of science and technology at the time, said one writer received an additional $200 and the other $1,000 for other writing work within the department.

Stanley Haidasz, secretary of state until he was dropped from the cabinet last August, reported he paid $1,500 for three 20-minute speeches.

Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet reported paying $300 for three speeches during the year, when he was postmaster-general.

The remaining 26 members of the cabinet reported they had not hired any free-lance speech writers during the period in question.

Mitchell Sharp Takes Long Way Round Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Politicians have been tagged with the reputation of being orators who often talk in circles, taking the long way around to reach a point.

There was an example of this in the Commons Monday when Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp was asked if Finance Minister John Turner's endorsement of cost - of - living adjustment (COLA) clauses in labor contracts is government policy.

Here is Mr. Sharp's reply as recorded in the rough edition of Hansard, the official record of House debate:

Hon. Mitchell Sharp (acting prime minister): As the minister of finance said in the statement which has just been quoted, there is something to be said for this. But, regrettably, there is more to be said than that.

I would not look upon the statement of the minister of finance as being an endorsement at all. He merely comments that there is something to be said. There is something to be said on the other side too.

I would not interpret the minister of finance as endorsing COLA.

Anyone who has looked into the question of the best basis of negotiation of labor contracts knows that this is a subject upon which there can be legitimate differences of view.

The minister of finance was not endorsing this concept for universal application; he was saying there was something to be said for it, and there is.

Consumers Slow to Benefit From Lower Interest Rates

TORONTO (CP) — Jim O'Grady, president of the Consumers' Association of Canada, says "it's puzzling why the lower interest rates take so long to filter through to consumers."

Mr. O'Grady, in an interview Monday, was referring to the fact that despite a trend to lower commercial rates on business loans, the cost of borrowing money for the average consumer has hardly dropped.

Since mid-November, prime interest-rates—the rate charged by a bank to its most credit-worthy customers—have fallen to 9½ or 9¾ per cent from a record 11½ per cent, and the cost of short-term loans of 30 to 90 days has dropped to about seven per cent from about 10½ per cent.

But most banks still charge 13½ per cent for consumer loans, up about 1½ per cent since early 1974. And automobile loans financed through dealers cost 14 to 15 per cent, up about 2 per cent in the past year.

Major department stores have raised monthly charge-account rates to 1.75 per cent, equal to an annual rate of 21 per cent, and Imperial Oil will raise its rate to 21 per cent from 18 per cent as of March 15.

Only mortgages rates seem to be budging. At banks and trust companies mortgage rates have dropped from a peak of 11½ and 12 per cent to around 10¾ per cent.

Jack Lofquist, vice-president of consumer credit with the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said that while the prime rate moved upwards about 4½ points in just over a year, consumer rates only moved about 1 to 1½ points in the same period.

"Consumer rates tend to stay around the same point," Mr. Lofquist said, adding that it usually takes about six months for banks to see what pattern is being established.

Finance companies currently charge 23 to 24 per cent for consumer loans of more than $1,500, up from about 21 per cent a year ago.

A Household Finance spokesman said: "I doubt we're about to change our rates just because of a change in the bank market. A few months from now, it could go up again."

Alter Pensions

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill introduced in the Commons Monday would give female public servants full pension equality with their male counterparts.

The bill, introduced by Treasury Board President Jean Chretien, amends 11 laws to give male and female contributors "equality of status and equal rights and obligations."

Among pension plans affected are those for the defence and external affairs departments, the RCMP, judges, Parliament and the Governor-General.

Content of Answers Not Speaker's Concern

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs berated the government Monday for allegedly withholding information from Parliament, but Speaker James Jerome said he can do little to change the situation.

Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland and Colchester North) asked the Speaker to protect rights of opposition MPs who are not getting answers to written questions, pointing to an answer he received about cabinet ministers receiving or giving gifts when outside the country on business.

He asked whether gifts received remain the property of the minister or belong to the country. The reply said there is no policy regarding exchange of gifts and gave no specific information about gifts received.

Mr. Coates said this was an example of worthless replies and indicated "the government is becoming more and more secretive with information."

He was supported by former prime minister John Diefenbaker, who said he is waiting for a question he posed Nov. 8 to come up in the House, although he already got the answer through government officials.

"The government is afraid" to provide the information, he said.

Mr. Jerome said that under House rules there is nothing he can do about the content of answers. It was a matter for the House, not the Speaker.

Cabinet Ministers Study Proposal

Cabinet Fascinated

Bush Playground Proposal Tabled

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A dramatic bushland recreational project proposed for the central Quinte district, has caught the attention of Ontario cabinet ministers.

The vast outdoors development — sweeping across 200,000 acres — was presented for reaction to the Eastern Ontario conference of resources ministers at their final session Tuesday in Belleville.

The huge tract would sweep across nine central wooded-and-watered townships in Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties. On Crown land, laced with lakes, and easily reached by prime road networks, the spacious project would provide year-round recreation — boating, riding, hiking, skiing, snowmobiling — and there might even be limited hunting.

The concept was presented to the cabinet team by the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region, supported by its neighboring tourist booster organization in Lennox and Addington — the Land O'Lakes Tourist Council.

"I must admit," reacted Industry and Tourism Minister Claude Bennett who has been touring Ontario sounding out tourist enterprise potential — "this is the first time anyone has come forward with a proposal for a 200,000 - acre park."

As outlined by Vers McMurray, president of the Hastings group, a Gilmour native and a years-long booster of community projects, the big tract would be a major tourist area around which lesser attractions would be located.

It would reach east through the Hastings' townships of Grimsthorpe, Tudor and Cashel into Effingham, Anglesea, Kaladar, Ashby, Abinger and Denbigh in Lennox and Addington.

It lies north of Highway 7 and is bounded by highways 62 and 41. Throughout it is threaded with accesses — secondary roads, logging routes and natural resources roads.

Its climate, after black flies and mosquitoes have dropped off, is "excellent" for summer, as well as for winter, sports.

Already, the main area industry is tourism in a region poor for farming.

"The many lakes and rivers and the unspoiled nature of the area offer a great potential, for tourism although development has been very slow," said Mr. McMurray.

Its creation could be expeditied by government studies and plans to confirm the potential to attract public and private investment needed for development.

"Since 200,000 acres of the area is Crown Land this would be an excellent area for the investment of public funds," Mr. McMurray suggested.

"It's difficult to get private capital in there," confessed Mr. McMurray.

Eastern Ontario has not succeeded in attracting venture investment as has Northern Ontario, he said.

Gordon Blotz, Denbigh-Abinger-Ashby reeve in Lennox and Addington, presented a suggestion for a recreation project to help his area where the once-busy logging industry has declined.

It would call for an access road from Highway 41, the north shore of Cotter Lake, hooking up with a township road on the east side of Weslemkoon lake — both lakes in the area of the suggested 200,000-acre recreation tract. Weslemkoon has been a popular resort lake with Bellevillians for more than a half-century.

Welfare Reform Held in Abeyance

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial welfare ministers say they will end their two-day meeting with federal Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde today without a commitment to support federal proposals for major reforms of the welfare system.

Ministers from most of the provinces say they want extensive new studies or changes in a Lalonde proposal to combine a modified guaranteed minimum income with income supplements for the working poor.

The proposal, presented to the provinces by Mr. Lalonde at the opening of the conference Tuesday, would provide an unspecified guaranteed minimum income to single parents and the unemployable together with a sliding scale of income supplements to aid the working poor.

Criticism came from three fronts as provincial welfare ministers spoke to reporters outside the closed conference.

Ontario, Quebec and Alberta called for further detailed study before any commitment is given to the costly proposition of supplementing the incomes of the working poor.

The New Democratic Party welfare ministers of British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba objected that the proposal would split recipients into separate employable and unemployable categories.

Mr. Lalonde told reporters the ultimate cost would range between $250 million and $2 billion a year, depending upon the level of support agreed to in an incomes program.

Union Does Work Left by Strikers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Specially-designated members of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) worked into the early hours today to clear emergency-landing facilities at Toronto International Airport after five snowplow operators walked off the job as part of the union's policy of rotating walkouts.

Craig Fraser-Lee, a public relations officer for the ministry of transport, said in an interview the airport was closed at 9:52 p.m., after snow began accumulating on the runways, making landing conditions dangerous.

An Air Canada spokesman said planes scheduled to land in Toronto had been diverted to Montreal, but no flights for this morning had been cancelled.

The effects of a strike by an estimated 11,000 federal employees across the country continued to increase Tuesday, but there were still no plans for resumed negotiations between the PSAC and treasury board officials.

The blue-collar workers, including the airport runway cleaners, post office maintenance workers, grain weighers and samplers, public works tradesmen and laborers and civil defence employees, are seeking a 42.5-per-cent pay increase in a one-year contract.

Union officials have said the increase would give their 18,600 members wages equal to about 90 per cent of wages paid to employees performing the same jobs in the private sector.

Average hourly wage of the employees now is $4.42.

The union rejected conciliation proposals last week that suggested pay raises of 15.4 per cent in the first year and 10.66 per cent in the second year of a two-year agreement.

In Montreal, air-traffic-control operations were normal Tuesday and runways clear at Montreal International Airport following a walkout of 275 maintenance crew members, an airport spokesman said.

The workers left their jobs at midnight Monday night in the midst of a three-inch snowfall. Runways were left open as Tuesday's 33-degree temperatures melted the snow.

Service at Winnipeg International Airport, halted Monday for 2½ hours when runway crews joined the strike, was restored in full Tuesday morning.

Meanwhile, the strike also continued to play havoc with postal operations.

Michael Lyons, PSAC regional representative in Toronto said the walkout at Toronto's downtown post office, which handles much of Canada's mail, has been extended for 48 hours to midnight Thursday.

Nixon Lacked Right to Stop Pollution Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former president Richard Nixon exceeded his authority in withholding $9 billion authorized by the United States Congress for pollution control, the Supreme Court said unanimously Tuesday.

It was the first time the court has ruled on a presidential impoundment of funds.

Speaking through Justice Byron White, the court said the act under which the money was appropriated "was intended to provide a firm commitment of substantial sums within the relatively limited period of time in an effort to achieve an early solution of what was deemed an urgent problem."

"We cannot believe that Congress at the last minute scuttled the entire effort by providing the executive with the seemingly limitless power to withhold funds from allotment and obligation."

Postmen Ask Wider Bargaining

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) said Tuesday the post office must become a Crown corporation if union members are to have the right of free collective bargaining.

"If the government doesn't accept these responsibilities there will be heightened strife in the post office," Joe Davidson said in a news release.

Creating the Crown corporation would place postal workers under the Canada Labor Code rather than the Public Service Staff Relations Act which does not allow collective bargaining for effects of technological changes, job classifications or job transfers.

Grey Issues Warning

Bill Won't Stop U.S. Interference

OTTAWA (CP) — Herb Gray said today that, government statements to the contrary, a bill progressing through Parliament will provide no solution to the problem of United States law stopping exports from Canada.

The MP for Windsor West said the proposed Canada business corporation act, which has passed the Commons and now is before the Senate, will have no immediate effect on the manner in which the U.S. Trading with the Enemy Act hurts Canadian exports.

The government says a proviso calling for a majority of Canadians on the boards of directors of federally-incorporated companies will help solve the problem.

Mr. Gray was in the unique position of being an MP testifying before a Senate committee about a bill he helped write before being dropped last August as minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

He said his Liberal colleagues are wrong in implying that the bill—which he says has been watered down—will stop the U.S. legislation hurting exports to Cuba by Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. corporations.

Duplicate Schools Costly

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Education Minister Thomas Wells said Tuesday that separate school supporters should stop demanding secondary schools and instead should suggest programs they want added to secondary education in the public school system. Mr. Wells said he is not against moral or religious instruction but believes the province cannot afford to duplicate schools at the secondary level.

Wants Food Amounts Set

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The amount of food fed to Canadians in the future should be determined by a national food policy to be enacted by the federal government on the advice of all sectors of the food industry, Beryl Plumptre told University of Guelph students Tuesday. The chairman of the Food Prices Review Board said she hopes to form the framework for such a policy before the board's term expires this December.

1975 Salary $14,200

City Firemen Get $2,038 Increase

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Settlement has been reached between the city of Belleville and the city's Professional Firefighters' Association for a one-year contract calling for a 17.28 per cent package including salary and benefits.

The decision came at a meeting between city council and the firefighters' association earlier this week. A breakdown of the settlement means that a first class firefighter will now receive a 1975 salary of $14,200 and a dental plan.

Last year first class firefighters were paid $12,162. Fire captains, the highest category under the contract get a $2,232 raise to $15,620 from $13,388. The lowest category, probationers, will receive a starting salary of $9,940.

Sixty men are involved in the firefighters' association. The group's previous contract expired on Dec. 31 of last year and the negotiating committee under chairman Bob Andrus has been negotiating since then.

Said Mr. Andrus: "The settlement you might say, has been agreed upon in principle and is to be signed in March." He added that such a decision has about 95 per cent support from the firefighters involved.

Snowmobile Brief Termed 'Excellent'

The Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail Association has called for the provincial ministry of natural resources to make total trail land use agreements similar to the 1975 Snowmobile Trails Program.

In a brief to the cabinet committee on resources development here Tuesday, the association recommended the agreement cover all trail activities including hiking, trail biking, cross-country skiing, horseriding and snowshoeing.

It also said the trail land use agreement period be flexible from one to five years. "A long agreement period would be mandatory if any capital expenditure were planned for such facilities as overnight shelters and other amenities," it outlined.

In addition, section 19 of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act 1974 should be included in the agreement "in an amended form to protect the other types of trail users," said the association brief.

Although recognizing the timing might be too soon, the association recommended April 1 be the starting date for the overall activities program.

The 1975 Snowmobile Trails Program concludes March 31.

In other proposals, the association said all property owners and land occupiers should be exempt "from all personal liability claims brought against them by trail members or the general public users."

And to facilitate securing necessary private landowner agreements, there should be some incentive to encourage landowners "to be more willing to sign," it said. It suggested a "tax rebate or a uniform standard cash payment."

Recognized official trails should have access to and use of crown lands for multi-purpose systems, said the association. Such trails would have to meet ministry standards and approval.

Hydro rights-of-way should be open for use by recognized official trails as well, it said.

Calling the brief "excellent," Leo Bernier, natural resources minister, said it would be sent to the newly-appointed Trails Advisory Council which is currently developing a trails policy proposal for the government.

Fish Planting Discussed

Province to Speed Up Bay Study

The provincial ministry of natural resources assured the Moira River Conservation Authority uesday action would be taken to speed up the date fish planting will be allowed in the mouth of the Moira River.

During a presentation to the resources development cabinet committee at the Four Seasons here, Stu Meeks, chairman of the authority fish and wildlife advisory board, said a biology study has recommended no planting until after 1980.

"We here in the Quinte area do not like being put in limbo," he commented. "We feel our bay has cleared up an awful lot in the last five years."

Leo Bernier, natural resources minister, said his ministry is still investigatng the issue but added he had not heard of a 1980 date. He said he would work on speeding that up".

However, Mr. Bernier did not commit himself to grant an authority request that a fish planting program be instituted in the river this spring.

"My biologists tell me there's an abundance of fish predators (white perch) which would feed on them (salmon)," he noted.

The authority brief pointed out an environment ministry report says phosphates in the bay will have been reduced by 90 per cent this year.

It said the authority is "conducting a planning study of the Bay of Quinte waterfront area which will include a dredging program to improve the fish spawning grounds in the mouth of the Moira River."

The authority has requested 200,000 salmon smolt to be planted this spring and if the ministry has insufficient stocks of coho or chinook smolt, it should substitute another species such as splake suitable to water conditions.

"We feel fish planting is a people program ... something for the everyday man," commented Mr. Meeks.

Eleventh Hour Bid To Save Home Fails

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County council Tuesday voted against taking any action to halt demolition of the old county home for the aged.

The decision followed discussion of a presentation by a delegation from the Prince Edward Historical Society urging preservation of the vacant building, possibly for use as senior citizen apartment housing or a community recreation centre.

Roy Shortt, a member of the historical society said his group was seeking postponement of demolition until 1980 to permit a study of potential uses for the building. He observed many county residents had been contacted concerning this suggestion and approved it.

"We strongly feel there is a use for this home and it would be a crime to demolish it," asserted Mr. Shortt.

"We feel it can serve the community another 70 years in some capacity," he added.

Prince Edward warden Clifford Walker observed the historical society is the first group to urge preservation of the old home in the four years plans have been underway for its replacement.

County solicitor Malcolm McFarland told council it has a binding contract with Konvey Construction and demolition of the old home has begun this week with the architect's approval.

"In effect the [illegible] belongs to the general contractor," he said.

Mr. McFarland added any bid at this point, to halt demolition would leave council liable for damage actions.

To stop demolition permission would be required in contract form by all parties involved.

Warden Walker suggested the provincial government would not be likely to support preservation of the old home as they paid for 50 per cent of the new building and will continue to pay 70 per cent of its upkeep costs.

Wellington reeve Robert Boyce, who moved that council take no action to stop demolition, said the old home is "a white elephant and a fire trap."

He said he feels the majority of county residents would not favor allowing it to remain in front of the new home as an eyesore.

"It would take three-quarters of a million to $1 million to renovate that white elephant," he stressed.

"If there were a plebescite in this county that building would be torn down the next day," he predicted.

In his presentation to council, Mr. Shortt suggested Picton, Bloomfield and five townships could utilize the old home as a recreation centre.

He referred to a ministry of culture and recreation now being organized and suggested that grants through it might be available.

Mr. Shortt said renovation costs have been estimated at approximately $200,000 for the old building.

This estimate was later termed "conservative" by Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson.

He said there are other recreation needs that are "very hot on the calendar" and added council is not a "bottomless pit" where finances are concerned.

Village Gets Curbs

PICTON — Prince Edward County council has passed a bylaw including reconstruction of County Road Five, a connecting link from the intersection of Main and Johnson Streets in Picton to rural Prince Edward.

The work will not be started, however, until 1976.

When Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson questioned lack of plans for improvements this year, county engineer Donald Clark said he was "torn on it." He said that since the road is rough hot rodders no longer are using it.

"We'll prime it this year just to hold it," he told council.

Improvement to Johnson and Talbot streets, connecting links with the town of Picton were among the issues mentioned by several candidates in Picton's recent elections.

Other projects that will be started in 1975 include Allisonville Bridge, curbs and gutters in Demorestville, and work at Stinson Block Road. County Road Four in Hallowell, and a stretch of road running between Fingerboard Hill and the hamlet of Ameliasburgh.

CFB Trenton Laborers Back on Jobs Today

TRENTON — The pickets at the main gates of CFB Trenton are gone today as the 200 federal blue-collar workers at the base returned to their jobs after a 36-hour walkout.

The general labor and trades groups of the Public Service Alliance of Canada were called out Monday at 12 noon in support of union wage talks with the federal Treasury Board.

The action coincided with walkouts by 15,000 PSAC workers across the country. Today about 11,000 federal workers are still off the job and postal service in several large cities is crippled.

Noble Young, president of 675-member Local 637 of the Union of National Defence Employees said today all the blue-collar workers were back on the job as of 8 a.m.

The walkout was "quiet" he said. In Quinte a few drivers with major truck lines refused to cross the union picket lines at the base.

At present, he said he is awaiting further instructions from union headquarters in Ottawa.

Base information officer Capt. Robert Burke said today the walkout presented "no problems at all."

"Everyone is back to work here, but there's no guarantee that they'll stay," he said.

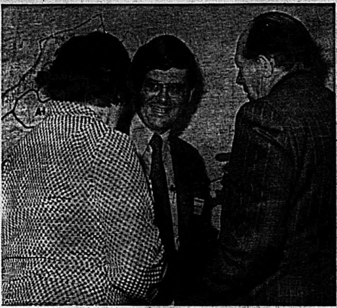
At the Trenton post office, unlike those in Toronto, Edmonton and Ottawa, postal service is normal, a spokesman in the Belleville district office said today.

Plow Lands In Ditch

MADOC — What does a department of transportation snowplow operator do when he gets stuck in the ditch on Highway 62 south of Madoc? He calls Napanee for help — and waits. Napanee is where the department's tow truck operates from in this area.

During Tuesday night's snowstorm, Cecil Boyle, RR1, Eldorado and Eli Allair, RR2, Madoc, were clearing Highway 62 at White Lake Church when the wing of their plow struck a frozen snowbank and their truck spun into the ditch.

When Madoc detachment OPP officers arrived a call was put through to Napanee for help, but it was a long night for the plow operators.



Planner Faces Public

Planner and director of the Northumberland Task Force Consulting Group Peter Walker faces the public during one in a series of meeting to gauge public feeling to growth in the county. In Brighton Tuesday, Paul and Maria Heisaler, vegetable and beef farmers from Stockdale, wanted assurance from the study team that good agricultural land will not be traded off to spreading urbanization. About 30 people attended the meeting.

Province Approves 88-Unit Senior Citizens Centre

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT — Village Reeve Russell Hawley announced Tuesday, provincial approval has been received for the start of construction on a new 88-unit senior citizen development.

The $1.5 million senior housing centre will be located on the old arena site on Station St. Bancroft.

The approval from the province covers only the foundation and first stage of the project.

The housing project was originally announced in March, 1974. A million dollar contract was awarded to Taro Properties Ltd. of St. Catherines in October, 1974.

Final approval for the project and the start of construction has been delayed because of a need to clarify land titles for all the portions of property included in the site.

The land to be used was sold to Ontario Housing Corp. by the village for $18,000 and includes the present location of the village swimming pool in the York River.

Hastings MPP Clarke T. Rollins said construction will start on the units as soon as possible.

The housing units are a cooperative effort of the nine North Hastings municipalities and the provincial government.

Window Smashed

PICTON — A plate glass window at John's Barber Shop was smashed at 2:15 a.m. today when a truck spun out of control on Main St.

The front window of the shop owned by John Sibthorpe was broken when a pickup truck driven by James Johnston, 19, of RR 2 Picton skidded on ice near a Main St. stop light. There were no injuries.

Ministers Will Study Bancroft Gem Sites

BANCROFT — One of the world's prime natural gem areas — needs its image freshened, Russell Hawley the village's reeve told Ontario's resource cabinet ministers in Belleville Tuesday.

For years the area, unique in its deposits of natural minerals, has been a rendezvous for rockhounds from around the world.

But to get to some of the deposits in the rugged Canadian Shield landscape around the village access roads are needed.

Last year, said Mr. Hawley, the village understood the provincial government was considering the problem. To date there's been no action.

Since Bancroft's minerals are a prime tourist attraction, the roads are needed, he said.

Resources Minister Bernier said a regional geologist already has been assigned to prepare a preliminary report on the sites.

"It certainly has a tremendous amount of tourist potential," he said.

Problems are created because some sites are on private properties, said Industry and Tourism Minister Claude Bennett. Meantime, a study on marking the area with historical plaques already has been submitted for review.

Brighton Residents Want Limit on Population Growth

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

BRIGHTON — The village of Brighton should only double its present 3,000 people over 25 years and retain much of its "small town" feeling while still providing jobs for the children of its residents.

Expansion of the village should not eat into good agricultural land, especially that containing the apple orchards on its western border.

With slight variations, this was the consensus of a 31-member assembly Tuesday at one in a series of public meetings currently being held by the Northumberland Task Force Consulting group.

The study team is engaged in the groundwork that will eventually provide the county with a strategy to control and guide its economic and population growth over the next 25 to 30 years.

At present, the team has defined issues of importance to the county, compiled various information, and now is asking for suggestions that will further define the wishes, in terms of growth, of county residents.

In Brighton Tuesday, the village was seen as needing light industry to broaden its tax base and keep children at home at full-time, not seasonal, employment.

A large population increase, to 30,000 people as Brighton developer Ken Surman suggested, would be undesirable.

Most people, said village councillor Dick Julian, don't want to see Brighton change a lot. People are saying that Belleville (population 34,500) is as bad as Toronto.

Trenton teacher Bud Guertin said most people seem to overlook the fact that people come to small towns because they don't like the big cities. Rapid growth in Brighton would destroy its attractions, he said.

But the village, said Mr. Surman, is "as close to stagnation as you can possibly get." A population of 30,000 is "miniscule".

In the county as a whole, population estimates range from the present 60,000 to 77,000 or as high as 200,000 by the year 2,000.

The former figure would result through a normal growth rate and the latter by artificial stimulation, likely done by the provincial government.

Several policies can be adopted for dispersal of the increased population, one of which would be the even-handed spread of people to all parts of the county, including Brighton and its two township neighbors.

Study team director Peter Walker said this area, because of lack of suitable land, would not likely face a large influx of people.

Cautioning that no decisions have yet been made, Mr. Walker said the task force is not really looking at major growth in this area, one in which is envisioned 10-50,000 people will settle.

Brighton village can only go west in expanding, but this would destroy apple orchards and endanger dependant agribusinesses in Northumberland, he said.

Women in the 70s

The Women's Movement "Why Not?" symbol evidently still continues to excite controversy.

Vancouver's Simma Holt takes a dim view of it. She says it is an attempt to "consciousness-raise a country when the consciousness is already there."

Others disagree, saying it is not preaching to the converted but to the many whose awareness of women's rights in the modern world is slight or non-existent.

In the midst of it all there is word that the official "Why Not?" campaign is being phased out. Be that as it may, and acknowledging there are varying "consciousness" levels in this matter, it is surprising how far back in recent history the rights of women have been in the public eye.

Back in May 1969, Hilda Cryderman, then a federal government representative to the public service staff relations board, was saying that the problems of Canada and of the world cannot be solved without the help of women, whom she described as "half of the brilliant, competent people available."

Women, she said, should speak up for women whenever the opportunity arose, she told a Kingston audience. She suggested this be done through he medium of women's organizations but indicated also that women should broaden their knowledge of world affairs. She decried the image painted of women by men in the advertising world and in some of the "supposedly women's magazines." Noting that she had cancelled her subscription to most of the latter, Miss Cryderman recommended her women's audience to read in addition to Hansard (the parliamentary record which she described as "very entertaining and sometimes for adults only") the New York Times International news section and The Christian Science Monitor.

That was 1969, but much of Miss Cryderman's advice holds good today. Since then too, the women's movement has gained a lot of ground; there are more women in top jobs, the old and discriminatory stereotype images are slowly giving way to a more enlightened picture of men-women relations and job opportunities. Even the advertisers and the women's magazines are getting the message, as society continues its passage through the seventies.

Big Band Sound

The distinctive beat and continuing presence of The Commodores dance band in the Quinte area is one of the links between past and present which has a significant place in local history and local entertainment.

A lot has happened in the past 50 years, yet The Commodores — with new faces to be sure — will reach their half-century during Belleville's centennial in 1978, just as the Y's Men's club has reached that mark this year.

The inimitable Lawrence Welk noted recently that there had been talk of a return to the big band sound, but he added: "Folks, it never really went away."

Thus we have The Commodores and the determination and hard work and musicianship they have put into the big band and orchestral tradition down the years. It was noted in our news pages recently that the group was active during the depression years. And we recall that even the famous among the musical fraternity, such as Lawrence Welk, had their hard times.

Many big name bands and orchestras remain today, spanning the years and a variety of changing musical styles. Crosby, Sinatra, Elvis, the Beatles, The Stones and countless others have come and gone, or perform only infrequently today, but the bands play on.

They are still heard over the air: Andre Kostelanetz, Mantovani, Guy Lombardo, Stan Kenton, Ted Heath, Edmundo Ros (a UK-based Venezuelan who once pursued a military career, and Canadians Robert Farnon and Percy Faith. An international fraternity who, like old soldiers, never die.

The Commodores are not, and do not pretend to be big time; nevertheless they are part of that musical fabric and the suggestion that they be named official dance orchestra for Centennial year has merit. Whatever transpires, they deserve our appreciation and admiration.

Communism Neglects Basic Humanity

Russia's 'Nyet' to U.S. Admiral's Plea to See Daughter

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

If a medal were ever awarded for man's inhumanity to man, there would be plenty of contenders, none so persistent in purpose nor so deserving, as the Soviet Union.

The Communist system in the U.S.S.R. has been pushing people around by the millions for nearly 60 years, shoving them into slave camps, Siberian hell holes, mysterious detention centres, outdoing the equally cruel czars, both in the way they control hapless humans and in the numbers of the incarcerated and tortured.

The entire tragic and dehumanized Soviet system is in the bright glare of publicity thanks to a poignant incident involving a retired and dying rear admiral of the United States Navy and his Russian daughter he has never seen.

Victoria Fyodorova is now 29, the issue of a love affair between Rear Admiral Jackson Tate and former Soviet film actress Zoya Fyodorova in Moscow in the spring of 1945.

He was then a captain, U.S.N., 47, and a naval attache at the wartime American Embassy in Stalin's Russia. She was a well-known Russian actress (now 63) as his her daughter.

Admiral Tate and Mme. Fyodorova, almost anticipating they would be separated soon and forever, last shared each other on V-E Day, 1945 May 8 hoping for a child from their affair.

The pretty and successful Soviet stage star Victoria Fyodorova was born just before her mother was sent off to a slave labor camp in 1946.

The charge against her mother was espionage and the period of her labor was to be 25 years. Fortunately she was released long before her prescribed time because she ended up in a well-known, hard labor camp in central Asia which also housed several released "political criminals" now living in the U.S. who remember Zoya and her growing despair over her brutal imprisonment

The whole tragic story has come out because her dying father would like to see her in Florida for perhaps two to three months. The Soviet government has refused to grant her the necessary visa to leave.

Admiral Tate didn't know he had a Russian daughter until 1963 when one of the many letters he sent to her, and which had been stopped by Soviet authorities, reached her by hand.

In 1959 an American guide at an early U.S. trade exhibit in Moscow, had met Zoya and heard her story. But letters to her from the admiral for nearly four years appeared to be going to a "non-person," because there were no replies.

Admiral Tate now is 77, lives in Orange Park, Florida, a heart case, and may not survive. In the terse style of the naval officer he has said, "my life is far behind me and the road ahead is short."

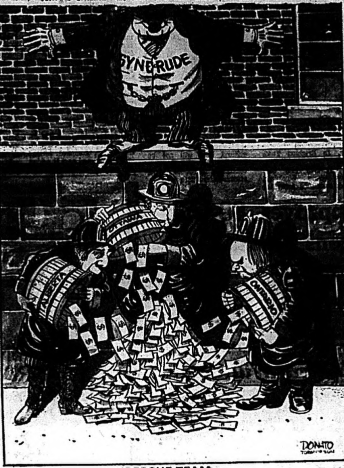
The Soviet reply to his plea is "nyet," (the Russian word for "no" always has sounded more nasty than the English one), and the young Victoria may now run the risk of the same treatment her mother received, if she persists in wanting to see her failing father.

This story of brutalizing the basic relationship between a man and a woman in love long ago with all the "finesse" the Soviet government is capable of mustering, is made sadder by another element.

Victoria does not intend to defect. After all, her mother will remain in Russia and the daughter's career is still there. So why should the Russians prevent a daughter-and-father meeting?

In this country there is a Soviet Embassy in Ottawa bloated with attaches, doing goodness knows what day and night. But one of their chores is to produce the classic glossy Russian picture propaganda magazine of happy, smiling farm workers, factory managers, housewives, everyone extolling the system

Admiral Tate by contrast was asked if he would like to help his daughter out of the Soviet Union. The gallant admiral's reply was, "of course I would, and anyone else who wants to leave." Amen to that.



RESCUE TEAM

Interest Rates Show a Decline

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Not many of the things you use are becoming any cheaper these days.

But the use of borrowed money is one notable exception, in the onward rush of inflation.

From the record high levels that they reached in late 1974, interest rates in Canada—particularly on short-term funds—have dropped sharply this year.

Yields on commercial and financial-company paper — which represent, for instance, the debt obligations of companies that lend money to new-car purchasers—have fallen below seven per cent in some cases, from more than 10 per cent near the end of 1974.

Other inerest rates have taken a similar nose-dive. A typical Government of Canada bond, the 9.25-per-cent issue that will mature April 1, 1978, is currently trading on a 5.54-per-cent yield, vs. 7.91 per cent on the final day of last year.

The major reason is the obvious one: The banks, finance companies and other lenders are experiencing a reduced demand for loans, because of the slowdown in the pace of business throughout Canada and most other countries.

In addition, the federal government's monetary and fiscal policies are currently aiming for economic stimulation—which means making it easier for corporations and individuals to borrow and start money circulating again.

At the moment, however, it is by no means clear whether the big reduction in interest rates will prove to be temporary or more or less permanent.

March and April are almost always a time of heavy corporate borrowings, as businesses launch new projects—and thus could help to push interest rates higher once again.

This seasonal pattern seems all the more likely to be repeated this year, since corporations will have to pay their final income-tax instalments on 1974's swollen earnings by the end of February, and will thus find themselves short of cash in March.

Consumer attitudes, on the other hand, do not point to any upsurge in loan demand.

"The consumer remains cautious," says Robert de Cotret, vice-president of the Conference Board in Canada.

"The consumer finds himself in a difficult cash position. At the very least, the real income of consumers was no higher in the last three months of 1974 than it had been in the first quarter.

"He is also generally over-extended in his use of consumer credit."

The Conference Board, an economic-research organization, expects Canadian consumers this year to spend eight per cent less on furniture and furnishings, and slightly less on cars and auto parts.

Mortgage rates have been responding—although sluggishly—to the general downtrend in borrowing costs.

Lenders predict that the interest on new mortgage loans will not fall below 10 per cent during first-quarter 1975, and that the rate will creep up again later in the year.

For the present, however, anyone who must borrow for an extended period of time is much luckier than the person who borrowed as recently as two months ago.

'Ceiling' Query on Spending Law

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Pretty well everyone agrees that the new political spending law is a good idea in principle. But there is quite a bit of disagreement about the details.

Although the law is effective now it still has to be debated at the next session starting in March.

And it appears that the debate could be quite heated.

One point that is objected to by opposition members is that the legislation doesn't put a ceiling on election spending as such.

It does propose a limit on media advertising during campaigns. But otherwise the sky is the limit.

The Camp commission on whose study the legislation is mainly based dismissed a ceiling as impractical: for one reason that it would be impossible to keep a check on it.

And the government accepted this.

The opposition, however, doesn't agree and there is some suspicion they feel the point may favor the Conservatives as provincially they have had access to more funds than the other two parties.

The legislation does propose a ceiling on contributions, of course, of $4,000 a year for corporations, trade unions and individuals, with double that amount in an election year.

One almost certain result of this is that fund-raising will become more of a full-time affair for all parties.

The tendency has been to concentrate on financing mainly in a pre-election period.

But with a contribution limit and with this applying on an annual basis there will be year-round campaigns, every year.

The PCs, in fact, have been following this policy since the Davis election in 1971 with their fund-raisers calling on at least major contributors every year.

It is too early yet to say what the public reaction to this new funding approach will be.

Large corporations probably will like it. For it at least puts a ceiling on what they can be dunned for. And even though their contributions will be open to public inspection under the disclosure provisions, the stigma of favor-seeking will be removed as they will be only one of many donors.

Smaller industries, however, may not be in favor. For the fund-raisers will be trying to get the limit out of them and they may find the pressure hard to resist.

B.C. Members Blast Government's Scrooge-like Stand on Pensions

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA— Nobody listens to the debate in the Commons, grumbles former Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker from a parliamentary perspective of 35 years, "not even the Honorable Members."

And he's correct.

For any day of the week, after the Question Period's done, and the speeches start, except when something special is scheduled like Finance Minister Turner on the Budget, or Prime Minister Trudeau on some set piece or other, the MPs stampede out of the House, leaving an unlucky 20 or so required for the quorum necessary for the conduct of the day's business.

And nobody, Dief laments, reads the speeches after they have been made.

Nobody, perhaps, except the MPs who deliver them, and some of the 7,831 Canadians out across the land who subscribe to Hansard, the word-by-word record of what is said in the Commons.

But fewer than 8,000 Canadians out of more than 22 million is, when you think of it, pretty close to nobody.

Which is too bad.

For often something of importance is said.

And as a result, something of importance later may happen.

Like the other day when Victoria's "one-two team" of MPs, Allan McKinnon and Donald Munro, did a very nice, hard-hitting, to-the-point tandem job on what they termed "The Scrooge Attitude" of Prime Minister Trudeau's government to pensioners.

They started from the generally accepted premise in this youth-dominated society and the government that runs it, that if the elderly are so smart, how come they aren't young?

They took off, too, from the basis that the supposedly underprivileged Third World to which Canadians are contributing an annual $750 million, treats its elderly with more care and concern than Canada and the other advanced industrial states.

This is so because, says the World Health Organization, of what it calls "the traditional support given the elderly in the underdeveloped countries by the family and the community."

The debate was on Finance Minister Turner's Budget income tax changes.

Donald Munro spoke for 30 minutes and used almost all that time to plead the special case of the pensioner, ripped off, he contended, like no other Canadian age group, by a tax system that utterly ignores the uniquely savage skewering the inflation-bloated economy gives him.

What pensioners have saved, Munro told Turner, "of little value any more — is being taxed out of existence — with what bit left being burned up by inflation fuelled by reckless federal spending."

His proposition:

"Taxes for all over 65 be waived; taxes on income, capital gains, superannuation, annuities, bonds, stocks and other revenue sources."

His objective:

"To restore purchasing power to those over 65 who struggled to save when saving was a virtue."

He saw the federal government deliberately eroding "and often even scorning" this old-time virtue of prudence in a manner callously calculated to force dependency on pensioners.

To further defend the workable elderly in retirement from the tax-imposed force of federal paternalism, he urged the lifting of the ceiling on pensioners' extra earnings.

Allan McKinnon, too, demanded tax exemption for pensioners and the quick equalizing of the basic old age pension with the income supplement given the more needy.

"Many who worked hard and saved for the old age," he told Turner, "and now hold annuities and small bits of income are being cruelly taxed.

"In addition they are being denied the income supplement to the pension.

"Any person on old age pension who has saved and invested in order to have a separate income up to $150 monthly might as well never have saved or invested a penny.

"It might better have been to spend it on beer.

"Such a person now would draw an equivalent income through the supplement."

The left-wing Trudeau Liberals, charged Allan McKinnon, had penalized thrift through shabby treatment of the prudent pensioner whose basic pension in the last five years has been increased by only 50 percent, while the increase in the supplement had been more than 200 percent.

Malagasy President's Slaying Sparks Civil War in the Island

By KEVIN DOYLE
The Canadian Press

In the island republic of Malagasy, once known as the Pearl of the Indian Ocean, the slaying of head of state Richard Ratsimandrava has brought the country to civil war.

The crisis in Malagasy, until 1960 a French colony, began with Ratsimandrava's assassination earlier this week.

The assassination was the work of an organized rebel group.

An all-out anti-terrorist campaign by government forces managed to isolate insurgents in a camp on the outskirts of the capital, Tananarive, and after a bombing siege of 30 hours, the camp was captured.

However, pockets of resistance still were reported. A 19-man Military Council under Gen. Gilles Andriamahazo has taken charge of the island, 250 miles off Africa's east coast and just south of the Equator.

Martial law has been imposed and France has despatched a naval squadron led by the aircraft carrier Clemenceau to safeguard the 40,000 or so Frenchmen in the republic.

Malagasy, with a greater land area than France and Belgium combined, has been seething with civil unrest since its early years of independence.

Its population of roughly six million, most of them of Malay and Polynesian ancestry, is divided between the numerically-stronger coastal people and the Merinas who live in the interior and fill most government and civil service positions.

Malagasy's first ruler, President Philibert Tsiranana, took over a largely illiterate population from the French and was able to hold the country together with considerable success in its early years of independence largely by exploiting the island's resources of uranium, rice and timber to achieve prosperity.

Exports of high-quality beef also added to Malagasy's earnings. But at the same time, foreign aid—mainly from Britain—was being devoted to improving the country's schools and colleges.

Students from coastal areas became increasingly disenchanted with the dominance of the Merinas in the political affairs of the country and by 1970 the first stirrings of organized protest were seen on campuses.

The immediate cause of this was the students' dislike for the essentially-French system of education which had been retained and their belief that this was nothing more than a hidden continuation of imperial rule from Paris.

By 1971, there were rumors of a coup being organized among the fiercely anti-Communist coastal population and some student groups by the United States Central Intelligence Agency.

In May, 1972, the protests by the students erupted into fierce rioting which eventually was quelled by the army after scores had been killed.

Tsiranana voluntarily gave up the presidency and handed the job to the armed forces under Maj.-Gen. Gabriel Ramanantsoa. A year later, the new president charged the French with planning a coup against him because he had been experimenting with Chinese methods of collective farming.

Earlier this year, he came under severe pressure from students and others for his strong-armed methods of governing and he was forced to hand over to another Merina, Ratsimandrava.

The government had been dissolved two weeks earlier because of growing rumors that a coup by the coastal population was imminent .

Most observers say they believe Ratsimandrava's assassination was just the beginning of a concentrated drive against the Merinas, and the rebels will be satisfied with nothing less than a majority share in government for the coastal tribes,

Based on average employment figures for the 11 year period 1921 to 1931 inclusive, the actuarial structure of Canada's unemployment scheme is believed strong enough to stand the test of another depression. Prime Minister R.B. Bennett told the House of Commons he believed the government had hit up on a safe medium between undue pessimism and undue optimism. The bill received its 2nd reading yesterday.

Protest of a recommendation passed by the City Council at their last regular meeting "That butchers would only be allowed to cut meat by the quarter and that a bylaw be prepared to this effect" was voiced by a large deputation of butchers doing business on the market each week.

A Versatile Chicken Collection

We begin with a classic of ethnic quisine, Chicken Cacciatore, and move through a collection of versatile and tasty chicken recipes designed to intrigue the family.

Chicken Cacciatore

one chicken, cut into 8 pieces all purpose flour salt
pepper
two tbsps. plus 1 tsp. oil
one onion, coarsely chopped two garlic cloves, smashed and finely chopped four tomatoes, coarsely chopped ½ tsp. oregano
eight mushrooms, cut in 4

Preheat oven to 350.

Wash the chicken pieces thoroughly under cold running water. Pat dry with paper towels.

Coat the chicken pieces with flour. Season with salt and pepper.

Heat two tbsps. oil in a heavy, ovenproof casserole. When the oil is hot, add the chicken pieces, a few at a time and cook eight minutes on each side. Set the chicken pieces aside.

Add the onion and the garlic to the casserole and cook for three to four minutes. Add the tomatoes and oregano to the onions. Cook for one to two minutes. Add the chicken pieces to the contents of the casserole. Season with salt and pepper. Cover and place in the oven for 35 minutes.

In a saute pan, heat the remaining teaspoon of peanut oil. When the oil is hot, add the mushrooms. Saute the mushrooms over high heat for four to five minutes, stirring frequently. Add the mushrooms to the chicken cacciatore. Cover the casserole and place in the oven for an additional 10 minutes.

Garnish with parsley. Serve with buttered noodles.

Chicken Fricassee

A tasty way to use economical fowl! Fowl or stewing chickens can be purchased whole or in piece fresh or frozen. Remember — because they are mature less tender birds, they require long slow simmering.

three-four pound fowl, cut in serving pieces
½ cup all-purpose flour
1½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
two tsps. paprika
¼ cup shortening, lard or vegetable oil
1½ cups water
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
½ cup chopped celery leaves

Combine in a paper or plastic bag, flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Add chicken pieces, one at a time, and shake to cover completely.

Heat fat in frying pan. Add chicken pieces and brown. Drain off any remaining fat. Then add water, onion and celery leaves. Cover pan and simmer 3 — 3½ hours or until chicken is tender. Add water as necessary during cooking.

Skim fat from gravy and season to taste. Thicken if desired with 1 tablespoon flour combined with 2 tablespoons cold water. Serves four.

Devilled Chicken Wings

18 chicken wings (about 3 pounds)
Seasoned flour (see below)
three tablespoons oil or drippings ¾ cup chili sauce
one-third cup tomato juice
2 or 3 teaspoons prepared horseradish
1 tbsp. mild prepared mustard
one tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash chicken wings, pat dry, and remove wing tips if necessary. In a paper bag, mix ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon (each) salt and paprika, and a dish of pepper. Drop chicken wings, a few at a time, into the bag and shake to coat all over. Brown well in the hot fat in a frying pan. Cover and cook gently for 10 minutes, then drain excess fat. Mix and pour on remaining ingredients. Cover and continue cooking until wings are tender, about 30 minutes longer Serves 6.

Chicken Legs Supreme four chicken legs

Seasoned flour
1½ tablespoons butter or dripping one can (10-oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup one can (5-oz.) sliced mushrooms few gratings nutmeg
Dash of sherry (optional)

Coat chicken legs all over with flour, seasoned with salt, pepper and paprika. Brown on all sides in hot fat in frying pan. Drain off excess fat and add mushroom soup mushrooms, their liquid and the nutmeg.

Transfer to baking dish and cover. Bake 350 degrees about 35 to 40 minutes, until tender. Toward end of baking add sherry, and uncover if necessary to thicken sauce suitably.

Chicken 'N' Eggs Gourmet

one stewing chicken (4 to 6 pounds), cut up giblets and neck four cups water four cups chopped onion
¼ cup chicken fat
two cups hot chicken broth three tsps. salt
two tsps. chili powder
½ tsp. pepper
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup red wine
one tsp. crushed tarragon
½ tsp. ground ginger
6 hard-cooked eggs, shelled and left whole

Simmer chicken, giblets and neck in the water until thickest pieces are fork-tender about 2½ hours. Remove chicken.

Spoon off fat from broth. Measure ¼ cup fat and 2 cups broth. (Reserve remaining fat and broth for future cooking.) Cook onion in the ¼ cup chicken fat in skillet until tender, but not brown Add one cup of the chicken broth, salt, chili powder and pepper. Simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, wine, tarragon and ginger and the second cup of broth. Place chicken and eggs in sauce. Cover and simmer about 30 minutes or until chicken and eggs have absorbed some of the color from the sauce. Serve with fluffy rice, if desired. Serves 6.

Oriental Chicken And Vegetables

two cups cooked chicken one tbsp. corn starch
½ cup water
3 tbsps. soy sauce
1 tsp. sherry
½ tsp. sugar
¼ tsp. ginger
½ green pepper, cut in strips two scallions or ½ onion, chopped
one-third cup canned pineapple chunks

Cut chicken in bite-size strips. Combine cornstarch, water soy sauce, sherry, sugar and ginger; mix with chicken.

Place ¼ of chicken mixture on 4 pieces of foil-edged cooking wrap, each 15 inches long. Top each with strips of green pepper, chopped scallions and pineapple chunks. Double-fold film edges and twist foil edges to seal. Freeze.

To serve, place packets in pan of boiling water, cover and steam 20 minutes.

To bake, pierce top of wrap with a fork six times and place in pan, bake in preheated 400 F. oven 20 minutes. Serve with rice, Serves 4.

Chicken Chop Suey With Mushrooms

two tbsps. fat
one cup sliced onion
one cup shredded carrot three cups diced celery
one green pepper, shredded salt to taste
one scant cup chicken stock or water
¼ to ½ pound mushrooms
one cup sour cream
Cooked meat from four-pound fowl four tablespoons flour four tablespoons water or stock
two tablespoon soy sauce
three cups boiled rice or fried noodles

Cook onion in fat until light and yellow. Add carrot, celery green pepper, salt and the one cup water or stock. Cook until vegetables are barely tender and liquid is fairly well absorbed, about 15 minutes. Add mushrooms (sliced or whole) sour cream and chicken pieces; bring to a boil. Blend flour and 4 tablespoons water and stir into mixture. Cook until thickened, Stirring constantly. Season to taste. Add soy sauce or serve it at table

A Look at Old Ways

Beth Mason points out the features of Guiding's 1910 uniform to Guide Sherry Licence.

Guides Mark Birthday

Area guides and brownies marked Scout and Guide Week Tuesday with their annual tea and bake sale at Christ Church.

The theme was Guiding on the Move, marking 65 years of Guiding in Canada.

The tea, which included visual displays and a slide show in the evening, was convened by Jean Thompson.

Greetings from the city were extended by Ald. Ben Cork, who opened the tea with division commissioner Beth Mason.

Pouring tea were Doris Bannon, Doris Stewart, Betty Colden, Capt. Slous and Mrs. Canon Wright.

Georgie Coxon and Yvonne Gallivan greeted the more than 500 visitors at the door.

A birthday cake was decorated with candles by former guide leaders including Helen Diamentides, Diane Settle, Doris Stewart, Eva Baker and Ada Steenburg.

Beth Mason, division commissioner, lit the first candle and her daughter, Pam, of Company 12, lit the last candle and addressed the group on the future of guiding.

QUINTE W I

Helen McLaren, president of the Quinte Women's Institute, held the February meeting in her home.

During the business meeting the members heard about the officers' conference to be held in Waterloo in April. Eileen Darling was chosen as delegate.

A workshop titled "News and Ideas for Kitchens" will take place February 20 at 8 p.m. in Emmanuel United Church Hall, which the members plan to attend.

Consumer affairs convener Blanche Reid presented a program about the importance of housework, and the ways in which mothers and homemakers must guide their families.

Speaker for the meeting, Bert Gerling of the Citizens' Bureau, suggested a number of wise consumer habits for the members. He advised them to read all contracts thoroughly before signing, to pay cash for all but large items, and to pay as large a down payment as possible so that later payments are manageable.

There is a 48 hour "cooling period" after a purchase, so that if the buyer feels she has been cheated, she may change her mind, Mr. Gerling said. He warned the group about telephone sales, about door-to-door salesmen without identification, and about never signing a blank contract.

UPCOMING DIRECTORY

Forms have been already sent to women's organizations in the Belleville area in preparation for the second annual Quinte Women's Directory

However, a change has occured since the forms were mailed. Because many groups, Women's Institute groups in particular, do not hold their elections until April, a March directory would not be indicative of 1975 executives.

Consequently, the date for the directory's publication has been moved to June, so that the information it contains will be more relevant. Groups are not required to send in their completed forms to the Women's Department until April.

Each group will also be contacted by phone during the spring. If any women's club or auxiliary has not yet received a form, write the Women's Department of The Intelligencer, 45 Bridge Street E., Belleville.

Ann Landers

Trashy Novel Romance Can Lead to Smash-up

Dear Ann Landers: This may sound like a trashy novel to you but it's new to me. I have fallen deeply in love with the husband of a close friend. We've been meeting secretly at a motel 10 miles out of town. We both live for the few hours we can share together. Marriage is out of the question—too many children and sensitive spouses involved.

Last night after my lover checked into the motel we drove around to our room in the rear. Just as we were unlocking the door we bumped right into his eldest son who was coming out of the adjoining room with his girl friend. It was a terrific shock to all of us. Nobody spoke, but his son's gasp could have been heard a half block away.

That boy never liked me and I'm sure he'd love to tell his mother, except of course, he'd have to explain what he was doing there. Shall I take the chance and keep my mouth shut? Or should I tell her myself and promise never to go out with her husband again, although I doubt that I am strong enough to keep the promise?—Trapped

Dear T: Say nothing. But do make the promise—to yourself—and try your darnedest to keep it. You are on a collision course, my friend, and sooner or later there's going to be a smash-up unless you take a quick detour.

Dear Ann Landers: How can a female employee tactfully refuse to have lunch with her boss? I am not a prude but I have no interest in getting involved with him. The last thing in the world I want to do is offend the man, damage his ego or jeopardize my job. Can you suggest a smooth but firm negative response that meets all the requirements? Thanks, Ann. Tongue-Tied in Toledo

Dear Toledo: Untie your tongue and tell your boss that for a long time you've had a standing lunch date with the girls and you don't want to hurt their feelings. It's a logical reason and disposes of the problem neatly.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law and father-in-law recently separated. Mamie is 44 years old and lives 30 miles away. Last week when my wife told her the house next door to ours went on the market, she said, "Wonderful, I think I'll buy it!"

My wife and I are in our mid-twenties. I have always been very fond of Mamie but I really don't want her living next door to us. She is not overbearing or nosy, but my wife and I both feel that there are bound to be problems—such as too much "togetherness" and including her in our social activities. Is there any tactful way to tell a mother-in-law that you love her dearly but you wish she wouldn't buy the house next door?—Confused

Dear Con: You are going to have problems no matter which way you go. My advice is—level with her. If Mamie buys the house anyway, you and your wife should sit down with her and outline the ground rules. Then make sure everybody sticks to them.

Doris Clark

New Fund Raising Idea

Does your church or service group need a new idea for raising extra funds? Here's one you can incorporate with a tea, a card party, a rummage or bake sale, or a bazaar.

It's a Parcel Post Sale. Have members of your group ask friends and relatives to send a small gift through the mail. If you can obtain parcels from far-away places, so much the better.

Have a Parcel Post table, and sell the parcels just as they arrive in the mail — unopened.

Dear Doris: Meant to send in sooner but in case you still have some, could you send a copy of "The Persian Kitten," which M.C. sent you from a book of songs entitled "Songs For Pickin' and Singin'"?

Not liking to put coins in the mail, am enclosing one dollar. Please use the balance (or all if poem not available) for some one who sounds nice but forgot their enclosure.

J.M., Winnipeg.

Dear J.M.: Most thoughtful of you to include the dollar. You may be sure it will be put to good use. So many people forget to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope; or ask for a leaflet without enclosing the necessary quarter. Yet I hate to disappoint anyone, and sometimes send along replies and leaflets whether I get the money or not.

No way to run a business, I know. I also know that my readers understand and appreciate the service we give here.

Dear Doris: I want to buy a caftan but I don't know where to wear it.

Can I wear it out? Can I wear it visiting or on the street? Or as formal?

Kay

Dear Kay: A caftan can go almost anywhere. They are extremely comfortable and I hope you will get a pretty one.

Hostesses wear the caftan when they are entertaining at home. But this does not keep them from donning the same comfortable costume for a cocktail party or other semi-formal gathering; particularly anything held in a private home.

I don't think I would recommend it for street wear or a very formal affair — although this is not entirely ruled out.

Confidential to J.H.: Your letter reached me two weeks after your wedding — far too late to be of any help in relieving your apprehension about that First Night.

Please realize that when you first write your letter it goes to the newspaper you are now reading. The editor there sends several letters to me together in the same envelope, and this takes a few more days to reach me in Hamilton, Ontario, where I live.

I always ask my readers to allow three or four weeks for a reply which will be sent in its turn, and carefully taken care of if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Farmer Can't Find Canadian Laborers

Bruce McArthur has an employment problem.

As president of West Lake Farms Ltd. in the Picton area, he wants to hire only Canadian workers.

However, Mr. McArthur says he can't find any unemployed Canadians willing to do farm labor.

He took his case this week to the provincial ministers resources hearing here at the Four Seasons.

Mr. McArthur emphasized, "we don't feel we should bring in the Caribbeans or the Mexicans," but pointed out he is unable to entice Canadian labor away from unemployment benefits.

He explained Prince Edward County has one of the highest levels of unemployment and welfare in the province. He said he has been trying local manpower centres for help but has been unsuccessful.

"Last year, we were bit by frost because we couldn't get our potatoes out because of lack of labor," related Mr. McArthur.

take two farmer

He announced he hopes to expand his three-year business, "but how can we expand if we can't get the help."

"We could use the women to drive the trucks and the men to do the labor ... but all they want to do is sit at home, watch TV and drink beer '' commented Mr. McArthur.

Agriculture and food minister William Stewart promised aid through the federal-provincial manpower committee. "You're one of the largest potato growers in the province and we'll do everything we can to help you," he said.

Council Stresses Safety of Mine

The Quinte District Labor Council wants the provincial government to ensure workers at the Faraday Uranium Mine near Bancroft are protected from uranium and thorium radiation.

In a brief to the provincial ministers' mini-cabinet hearing here this week, the council said area administrators seem concerned only with the employment created by this industry.

It said the government should "maximize, to the greatest extent possible, ways of protecting workers at Faraday from uranium and thorium radiation. ."

The council also wants to receive "copies of all mine inspections relative to Faraday done by the government."

Tax Break Sought For BAS Operation

The Belleville Agricultural Society (BAS) could do with more refunds of its provincial taxes if it is to survive.

A submission presented the conference of Ontario resources cabinet ministers this week, said the society — now 134 years old — makes a significant contribution to community life through its programs centred on the Quinte Exhibition Grounds.

These range from commercial - agricultural exhibitions to harness racing.

But a "considerable amount" of money from such activities goes into provincial tax coffers, noted society vice-president Robert Burns.

Last year, harness racing alone generated $58,238 in such funds.

Since it's a non-profit organization, the society wonders why more of the money could not be left with or returned to the society — "so that we can meet our obligations, if we are to survive," said Mr. Burns.

"We believe there is a definite need to maintain small tracks in Ontario," said Mr. Burns.

Agriculture and Food Minister William Stewart commented there was "no question" that the BAS was one of the leading agriculture societies in the province.

County Cemeteries To Get Facelift

SOPHIASBURG — A Local Initiatives Program is expected to get under away in March to clean up some of the old cemeteries in Sophiasburg Township, says Eleanor Lindsay, chairman of the Sophiasburg Cemetery committee.

"We don't expect to have everything mowed as closely as our own township cemetery which we now are using, but we would like to have it so visitors could walk about with ease,' commented Mrs. Lindsay.

In addition, the Opportunities for Youth program is being solicited to make signs for the cemeteries and maps depicting their locations.

Formerly comprising one acre, an additional three acres owned by Carman Ingallinera was purchased in the summer for future development of the Sophiasburg Cemetery grounds. The cemetery, located east of Sophiasburg Central School between the communities of Northport and Demorestville, contains graves dating back to the mid-1800s. To date, 22 new plots have been sold in the Sophiasburg Cemetery.

A representative of the New Zealand High Commission in Ottawa will be present.

Batteries Stolen

Police report the theft of 14 batteries and two fire extinguishers taken from Elliott Motors on N. Front St. early this week. Police said the theft was reported to them about 9 a.m. Monday and that the items missing were taken from buses, trucks and cars parked on the premises. Damage was also done to battery cables which were cut. Total damage police said was about $635.

Officials to Toronto

Three Sidney Township elected officials will attend the Ontario Good Roads Convention in Toronto's Royal York Hotel next week. They are Reeve Gord Wilman, Deputy Reeve Glen Meyers and Councillor Hadley Richardson The convention lasts for three days.

Blow Against Women

International Women's Year took a blow here Monday during the provincial ministers' hearing. Following the Belleville Winemakers Guild brief, transportation and communications minister John Rhodes commented, "it used to be you couldn't give your wife a drink of the beer or liquor you had bought." Provincial secretary Allan Grossman added "that wasn't such a bad idea."

Reilly Busy

Ian Reilly had the provincial ministers doing double-takes during the mini-cabinet hearing Monday at the Four Seasons. Wearing three hats, he represented the Belleville Winemakers Guild, the Piston Pushers Motorcycle Club and the Quinte District Labor Council. "You're sort of an interlocking director," noted provincial secretary Allan Grossman. "I told you I was active," said Mr Reilly.

The Ice Test

Jean Sprague, RR 5, Belleville, checks with Derek Sprague, president Quinte Auto Sports Club, before taking driving test on ice on Bay of Quinte this weekend. The event drew 30 motorists to try skills of driving under heaviest of ice conditions. Mr. Sprague said the fastest, safest time made was 58 seconds, the second 53 seconds.

Bring Back Wolf Bounty Ministers Told

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Ontario government is stepping up control programs against predators raiding livestock, Natural Resources Minister Bernier promised this week.

Such programs are being increased "immensely," he said at a meeting of resources ministers here.

The government will spend more on such control than on the old wolf bounty abolished in 1972, he reassured a Hastings County councillor worried about the loss of food production to predators like wolves, coyotes, dogs and wild hybrid livestock raiders.

Reeve Frank Graham of Wollaston Township, warned that a 1958 removal of the wolf bounty in Algonquin Park has caused a migration of wolves into southern farmlands as deer herds — the predators natural prey — became depleted.

"Sheep raising has been discontinued almost entirely because it is impossible (for farmers) to protect their flocks from the increased population of wild predators due to no adequate control," said the reeve in his submission.

The government has recently introduced legislation — Bill 143 — to compensate farmers for losses to domestic dogs and predators. Municipalities will pay for wolf damages, later recovering funds from the province.

take two bring mulhall

A meeting at Coe Hill Feb. 8 to discuss the situation passed several resolutions. One petitions the government to apply an adequate bounty for killing wolves, coyotes and hybrids to prevent further livestock losses and return sheep-farming to its full potential.

Mr. Bernier noted a two-year study in the Napanee resource district showed coyotes and dogs responsible for 40 per cent each of livestock raids with hybrid predators accounting for another 20 per cent.

His ministry now is training trappers and now has about 40 who could move around the province, he said.

In an "extreme" predator situation they could combine to act "posse" style.

The problem of coyotes and wolves is a cyclical one through North America and the wolf bounty now has been removed across Canada, he said.

Not All Elderly Want Retirement in Country

Does every elderly citizen dream of the placid pace of a retirement home in the country?

Not necessarily, cautions Provincial Resources Secretary Allan Grossman.

In fact, some retired folk don't even want to venture as far as the suburbs, he told this week's session of eastern Ontario local representatives meeting with provincial resources cabinet ministers.

Many rural communities have low-cost residential land that would make ideal retirement homes, said Lesley Emory, member of the Northumberland Federation of Agriculture.

Such folk would bring fixed incomes to communities where they would enjoy a slower life pace. They would not be competitive in commerce — although some might augment income with seasonal farm work, said the federation's brief.

But Mr. Grossman recalled studies when he was once minister of housing that showed most retired city folk wanted to remain in urban areas.

They didn't dislike highrises either, and even resented going to a suburb. Some wanted "to be where the action is" — and stay in downtown areas, he said.

Garlic-loving Man Finds Life Harsh

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Brian Inglis is a man whose distant aquaintances outnumber his close friends.

A devout vegetarian, the 30-year-old Niagara Falls resident recently lost his job as delivery man at an appliance store when he was the object of complaints from customers and fellow-workers.

He went on welfare but was abruptly cut off after receiving $64 in beneifts.

Now he drives a cab but his boss has told him he won't be driving it much longer unless he reforms.

Mr. Inglis is partial to garlic.

"It's a very important factor in my health," he said. "I may even have to go to jail if they insist that I have to give it up."

It would have to be a well-ventilated jail.

Before the trouble started, Mr. Inglis used to chew up to 18 cloves of garlic a day. He discovered its therapeutic qualities a year ago after developing a pre-ulcer condition.

"For years I ate all that garbage and I became a nervous, uptight, twitching, neurotic individual," he said. Now he sticks to raw vegetables, fruit, nuts, dry soya beans, honey and fruit juice.

And, of course, garlic, which he described as one of nature's best antiseptics, combatting intestinal worms, body mucus and blood toxins.

Since his difficulties with the appliance store and the welfare office, which found that his diet made him virtually unemployable, Mr. Inglis has cut down his garlic intake to four cloves a day.

He does his best for passengers in his cab by spraying it with air fresheners and cologne and keeping a window open when weather permits. Most of his fares are sympathetic, he said, but there has been the odd complaint.

Mr. Inglis said his diet has cured his acid indigestion, heartburn, arthritis, constipation, bad hearing and blurry vision.

But cutting down on garlic has produced withdrawal symptoms. He said he suffers from dizziness and faintness when he does without it for too long.

In any case, he added, he refuses to give it up entirely as a matter of principle.

"It's slavery to be told to go to a job where I'm deprived of my health."

Amodeo's $UPER $AVE MARKETS

Choose chicken for a change.

Joan Fielden tells how:

Joan Fielden,
Dominion Home Economist Consultant
John Love, Meat Manager

Chicken is an excellent source of high quality protein, very good for niacin and a fair source of iron. When purchasing chicken, choose one that has short legs, a plump body and unbruised skin. A good fat covering is an indication of tender meat. There are several types of ready-to-cook chickens. Broiler Fryers, weighing two to three pounds; Roasters, generally weighing over four pounds; Capons, up to eight pounds; and Cornish Hens, up to a pound.

For my low cost recipe, I've selected a two pound chicken.

Chicken Charlotte

One two lb. chicken with giblets
2 carrots
2 onions
salt pepper
tarragon
½ lb. mushrooms, cut in slices
1 tsp. cornstarch

1. Prepare a bouillon with carrots, onions, giblets, salt, pepper, and water.
2. Cook the chicken in bouillon for 1 hour.
3. Pour bouillon into a saucepan; remove fat and cook to reduce to 1 cup.
4. Add mushrooms, cornstarch and tarragon.
5. Pour sauce over chicken before serving.

The following chart will serve as a guide to how much chicken to buy and how many servings you can prepare. I've also included information on storing chicken after you've bought it.

MY GUIDE ON HOW MUCH CHICKEN TO BUY

Chicken	No. of pounds	No. of servings
Roasting Chicken	4 lbs. and up	2 servings per lb. (1 serving per lb. if leftovers are desired)
Whole Chicken (divided into parts)	3½ to 4 lbs.	5 to 8 servings per bird
Quartered Chicken	3½ to 4 lbs.	4 servings
Breasts and Legs	½ to ¾ lb.	1 serving
Chicken Wings	1 lb.	2 to 3 servings

MY GUIDE ON HOW TO STORE CHICKEN

Fresh Unfrozen Chicken	Remove store wrapping, rinse, dry and rewrap in foil, waxed paper or plastic wrap. Place in coldest part of refrigerator. Raw chicken will keep 2 to 3 days.
Frozen Chicken	Wash first, pat dry and wrap tightly in moisture proof wrap. Label the package and date. Chicken will keep this way in the refrigerator frozen food compartment 1 week; in the freezer 6 to 7 months. Once chicken is thawed, do not freeze. Frozen chicken should be used within 2 days after thawing.

Food Gain Small

For the first time in several months, food prices showed only a moderate gain. The food price index was up to 202.3 in January from 201.6 in December. Most of the increase that did occur was attributable to higher prices for food eaten outside the home. (CP Newsmap)

Group for Retired Gets Old Involved

EDMONTON (CP) — This city's Society for the Retired and Semi-Retired has a four-pronged plan to get old people involved and involvement is what the organizers consider the key to a successful retirement.

For Mary Davis and Fred Hannochko, two board members of the society who retired a few years ago and now consider themselves busier than they have ever been, the society is a drawing together of services and an effort to make life better for old people.

"A hobby isn't the answer to retirement," said Mr. Hannochvo, who spent his working life in education and tried painting after he retired but found it too messy and lonely. He joined the society shortly after it was formed in 1969 and now is president.

"It's involvement that has a variety of activities, we emphasize that."

Mrs. Davis made it clear the society wasn't simply a recreational or activity centre but rather a door old people can open to all kinds of services and a way of overcoming some of the social stigma they face.

"In the older group we have a large mass of people who are alive and alert," she said. "But it is not a homogeneous group. They're individuals with different capacities, different educational backgrounds, different interests.

"There is a negative attitude on the part of society, a put-down; if you are going to retire you're on a shelf.

"Some people choose recreational outlets, others go for a more mixed activity. This society was not designed to be an activity centre, it was not designed to be a recreational place, it was designed to be a service centre where there would be information and supportive help.

"It's a one-stop place to cut down on the fragmentation that you have in welfare services."

Mrs. Davis was a social worker for the veterans affairs department where she developed the specialized techniques needed for working with older people. She was one of the group of community workers who formed the society, which is funded by the city's preventive social services. The city, the province and the federal government supply it with its $40,000-a-year budget.

Mr. Hannochko said the society divides itself into four approaches to senior citizens: Direct services, education, co-ordination and social action.

Direct services involve information and counselling. They include a list of available subsidized housing and help to get into it, financial advice to people having trouble making their pensions stretch or who are not getting all of the pension they deserve, help in filling out income tax forms and referrals to other agencies designed to meet specific needs.

He said the society tries to emphasize to people that they are not taking charity when they seek full pension benefits but that they worked and were taxed to provide for these programs and now have a legal right to take advantage of them.

Big Owl Made Pet

OTTAWA (CP) — When neighbors told Hazel Munro an injured great horned owl had been spotted in the woods near her Ottawa home, it was like a dream come true.

A wildlife enthusiast, she has a special fondness for owls. There are owl posters on her walls, owl sculptures on her mantel and even owls adorning her cookie jar.

With the help of her husband and five friends, Mrs. Munro found and captured the bird and took it to the Alta Vista Animal Hospital, where the veterinarians patched up a gashed leg and an infected wing.

Then Sweetie, as the female owl was affectionately named, was moved to a cage in the Munro garage for after-care. For the first five days, she was force-fed chunks of raw beef.

Now Sweetie, pronounced by a local ornithologist as one of the finest great horned owls he has ever seen, will take food off a stick and even allows Mrs. Munro to fondle her feathers.

But she permits no liberties from strangers, puffing herself up to twice her size and hissing. With a 55-inch wing span and inch-long talons, she commands instant respect.

Mrs. Munro said she hopes the owl will be able to return to the wild in time for the mating season. If not, the owl will be taken to a sanctuary north of Toronto.

Mrs. Munro has been presented with the Humane Achievement Award by the Rotary Club of South Ottawa for her work with the wounded bird.

Naran home recipe plan takes off ugly fat.

The Naran Plan can help you lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. This home recipe weight-control plan is easy to follow and costs little. Go to your drug store and ask for the Naran Reducing Plan. The whole plan is included in every package. The directions are right on the label. Pour the liquid into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed. Take the vitamin supplement included and follow the low calorie weekly food menu.
Your first purchase should show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; reducible pounds and inches of excess fat should disappear from neck, chin, arms, hips, abdomen, calves and ankles. If you are not completely satisfied with your first purchase just return the empty carton for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan to help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears, how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Braising Beef

Have you ever purchased a thin, less tender cut of beef on sale and then once you brought it home, wondered how to prepare it? Well, these cuts are best suited for the moist heat cooking method called braising. For directons on "Braising Beef" see his week's leaflet at Food City's Consumer Awareness Centre and add it to your collection of Food City's beef cooking tips.

Mrs. Albany will be talking with shoppers Friday, February 21st at Lawrence Food City, 2650 Lawrence Ave., Scarborough from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Please feel free to come in and ask questions relating to food shopping.

Mrs. Albany is available to speak to groups. Write her at 300 The East Mall, Islington, Ontario, M9B 6B8 or call (416) 259-6633.

Record-keepers Ignore Pardons

OTTAWA (CP) — Senators learned with some surprise Tuesday that pardons granted to erase criminal records do not have much effect.

Officials of the National Parole Board told the Senate legal and constitutional affairs committee that credit agencies and local police forces are not bound to seal off their records of criminal convictions despite a pardon.

Pardons were established in 1970 under the Criminal Records Act. After a period of time varying from two to five years, persons with criminal convictions can apply to have their records expunged.

If an investigation shows they have been rehabilitated, the parole board may grant pardons and their records are sealed. However, prospective employers and others can find out about the convictions from credit agencies and local police forces not bound by the act.

The committee was continuing hearings on a bill to transfer control of cannabis drugs—marijuana hashish and liquid hashish—to the Food and Drug Act from the Narcotic Control Act.

The bill would reduce fines for simple possession of cannabis drugs to $500 maximum for a first offence and $1000 maximum for subsequent offences and would provide for jail terms of up to three months only if the fines were not paid.

Norman Panzica Toronto-based youth consultant to the Council on Drug Abuse (CODA), a voluntary organization of citizens, said he objected to the bill's provision for softer penalties for cannabis than for LSD. He said the two drugs were equally dangerous over a long term.

Servicemen Pushed To Invest

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is pushing armed forces personnel to invest in a registered retirement savings plan offered by Canada Trust Ltd. Allan MacKinnon (PC—Victoria) said Tuesday.

The charge was denied in the Commons by Defence Minister James Richardson. All personnel are free to invest with any company they choose he said.

He told reporters later that Canada Trust was recommended by the defence department after a study of savings plans offered by various companies. But there was no obligation to join and no complaints from enlisted men.

More Provinci al Input Suggested for Tourist Industry

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The glitter of the tourist dollar has only evoked a lacklustre gleam in the eyes of major private enterprise in eastern Ontario.

Failure of tourist operators to part with the investments needed to put sparkle in the business was a source of comment at the provincial cabinet ministers session in Belleville Tuesday.

The puzzlement was prompted as the final day of the two-day conference saw a dominance of submissions involving tourist enterprises and related undertakings.

Among the most outspoken critics was the man who answers for the trade in government — Industry and Tourism Minister Claude Bennett.

"I'm somewhat disturbed that our private operators have not been aggressive enough in trying to bring new operations into being," he said.

Vera McMurray, Highlands of Hastings Tourist president and veteran tourism venture promoter, agreed private tourist investment was hard to attract to the region.

Eastern Ontario has not succeeded in drawing venture capital for major tourist undertakings like Northern Ontario, he said.

Mr. Bennett's ministry now is looking at areas of prime tourist potential in the region.

"We're now trying to bring some rhyme and reason to what's going on," he said.

Both private and government sectors can be involved in creating a "realistic situation" for tourists.

"It is time for eastern Ontario people to make use of (government) agencies to bring into operation the things they have been telling us about," said the minister.

Some subsequent submissions confirmed his criticisms, although with so many briefs on the one topic there were bound to be conflicting opinions.

"The condition of the tourist industry in eastern Ontario now is good," submitted Long Sault motel operator John Hill.

"The long-term prospects for tourism in eastern Ontario look good. At least from a demand standpoint," predicted Victor Lemieux of the Rideau Lakes and 1000 Islands Travel Council.

The economic health of the St. Lawrence Seaway Valley is more dependant on tourism revenue than most Ontario regions, said the Seaway Valley Regional Travel Council.

But a common problem in the area — an arrival point for U.S. tourists — is that travellers don't stay long enough, if at all.

"We feel it's the product," complained the Rideau group. "The tourism plant" — everyhing from marinas to resorts and restaurants.

"They're not internationally competitive, or interprovincially for that matter. And there's not much hope of making them that way. The image is poor," said the travel council.

The province has loaned about $2 million to tourism in the region in the past two years. But its benefits have been fragmented.

"In the past two years there has been no growth in the resort industry in Eastern Ontario." The region's resort, for instance, is over 50 years old with accommodation for 150.

The province has tried to create an attractive environment, with low-interest loans, parks, advertising management help.

But this has not been enough to draw private enterprise interest.

What's needed, said the council, is a major recreational resort complex.

While development should be by private enterprise, some government initiative and goal-establishment is needed to invigorate eastern Ontario tourism, said the council.

Among other briefs was a proposal from Mount Madawaska Co-operative Ltd., near Barry's Bay for a $1,724,000 development including skiing, swimming, tennis and trails.

Scott: Make Board Blueprint

Austin Scott, chairman of the Hastings Prince Edward Separate School Board, says he wants his board to become a "blueprint" for other provincial boards to fashion themselves after.

The comment came Tuesday night when Mr. Scott mentioned that many Ontario convention speakers are being imported from the United States.

"I feel that we have the talent on this board to set examples in innovative programming and to provide resource information to other provincial boards," he said.

Officials Role Stressed

The image of the resources conservation official as a law enforcement officer could do with some alteration, Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier said Tuesday.

"They are managers of resources. There should be more emphasis placed on that," he told the conference of provincial resources cabinet ministers discussing Eastern Ontario problems at the Four Seasons Hotel.

He was replying to a submission from the Lanark and Leeds Fish and Wildlife Association which noted an "apparent scarcity" of conservation officers.

There can never be enough conservation officers involved in law enforcement in the province, he said.

Everyone Hates 401 ?

Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes says he has been surprised how many people "have a hatred" of Highway 401.

He made the remark tongue-in-cheek Tuesday after sitting through a two-day session with cabinet colleagues on eastern Ontario that saw submissions — many from tourist operators — blame problems on the province's expressway.

The highway was conceived to move people and goods between provincial centres, he told the session.

Mishaps on multi-lane routes are "far less" than on narrower "scenic highways because these are the highways where two vehicles run around looking for each other to have an accident," he said.

Rhodes Says All Bridge Ideas Being Considered

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The proposed new Bay of Quinte bridge crossing has developed from a simple decision on building a new bridge into a complex issue involving Quinte residents from all walks of life.

John Rhodes, provincial minister of transporation and communications, told ministry has been "deluged with letters, telephone calls and personal visits at the regional level from individual residents who were intent on letting us know their feelings on the issue".

He listed official correspondence from Belleville, Trenton, Prince Edward County, Ameliasburg Township, Sidney Township and several other organizatons and interested groups.

Mr. Rhodes noted those who favor a new bridge and those advocating a tunnel, and within the bridge faction are those who want it built at the present site and those who would like it to connect with the Wallbridge-Loyalist Road at its junction with Highway 2.

People have advised the ministry leaving the bridge at its present location is the only viable answer since anything else "would have a serious and adverse environmental impact," he said.

The opposing view says funnelling the resulting traffic through the city's downtown area "would cause serious noise and air pollution problems and create intolerable traffic congestion".

For a proper study, the ministry must investigate certain aspects of all proposed locations such as "origin-destination traffic counts" at the two crossings at Trenton, the present location, the high-level bridge at Deseronto and the Glenora Ferry,he said.

Ministry officials must also check into Belleville's westward growth pattern towards Trenton, purchase of a 340-acre park site west of Wallbridge-Loyalist Road by Moira River Conservation Authority, expense and possible environmental damage from blasting the rockbed in the bay should a tunnel be decided upon, he outlined

Olson To Address Chamber

The president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, E.R. Olson will speak at a luncheon meeting at the Four Seasons Hotel Thursday.

Mr. Olson from Lanigan, Sask., is past president of the Saskatchewan Chamber of Commerce. In business life, he is president of Alwinsal Potash of Canada, Ltd. in Lanigan, Sask.

Tickets at $4.80 each are available for the function. They may be bought at the chamber offices 162 Front St. he reception is at noon and the luncheon starts at 12:30 p.m.

Rhodes Blasts Critics

John Rhodes, provincial minister of transportation and communications, feeling the pressure of criticism over the proposed new Bay of Quinte bridge crossing, lashed out at his critics Tuesday.

During an address to Belleville Kiwanians, Mr. Rhodes singled out newspaper editors who "sit in their ivory towers" without the appropriate information and offer criticism without fact.

Referring to a recent Intelligencer editorial on the new bridge, he commented, "I don't understand where all this expertise comes in the newspaper."

Taking exception to a charge his ministry will shove the final decision down Quinte residents' throats, Mr. Rhodes said that decision will be derived from "the best possible information and will be the best possible location for the majority of people concerned."

He pointed out the ministry is aware area residents will have to live with the decision "and we do not take this responsibility lightly ... it will be in the best interests of the people of this area."

Ski Trail Ready

A new nine-mile cross-country skiing trail will be opened Sunday by the Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail Association.

Skiers are invited to Campkin's Camp Inn on Quin-mo-lac Road, east of of Highway 62, just south of Madoc, where parking a snack bar and heated facilities will be available at no charge.

Snow-bound Walrus

In spite of Tuesday's drizzle, the snow sculpture contest at Harry J. Clarke Public School went on as planned. Using shovels to gather together enough ice and snow to work with, senior students created a series of fanciful statues, including this one of Wally the Walrus, which won second prize for Grade 8D. Also built out of the best playground slush were Winnie the Pooh, Snoopy and Woodstock, a turtle, a racing car, a snowmobile and the school's own mascot, Harry.

Province Stands Firm On New Papineau Park

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Suddenly, there are more — and puzzling ripples — on the Papineau Lake controversy.

A tinge of enigma has been etched onto the long-contentious issue involving a new provincial park development on the north Hastings County waterway.

It came Tuesday in Belleville in the closing hours of the eastern Ontario conference of provincial cabinet resources ministers.

The source: Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier.

But centre of the puzzlement was a key personality who wasn't even at the Four Seasons Hotel conference: Mrs. Myrtle Davis, whose nearly-500-acre lakeside farm is a key acquisition needed for development of the proposed camping park.

Mr. Bernier whose ministry has been steering the disputed development, listened as a spokesman for Papineau cottagers criticized the park plan — for costly appropriation of Davis property among other issues.

The cottagers' submission followed release last week to The Intelligencer by Garry Davis — a Trenton police officer and one of Mrs. Davis' sons — of a letter from his mother to Mr. Bernier.

The letter, dated Jan. 20, informed the Bernier Ministry Mrs. Davis had no intention of selling her land.

But, countered the minister, as he answered cottager's criticisms at the conference, Mrs. Davis originally had approached provincial authorities about a land sale when the project was being considered.

"I think it's fair to say that Mrs. Davis made it very clearly known to us she was anxious for the government to show an interest and take possession of the land."

Then the minister delivered his coup statement: "As late as a month ago we had a call from Mrs. Davis asking us to move in that direction."

The assertion obviously took the cottagers' spokesmen by surprise.

D. K. Rivers, of Galt, vice-president of the Papineau Lake Cottagers Association, who spoke to the ministers against the project, said later he knew Mrs. Davis had written the minister "unequivocably" refusing ministry land purchases.

He said he could not understand the minister's statement about the phone call when "we know the letter says the reverse".

"I'm aware of that letter," admitted Mr. Bernier in an interview. "I might say it's getting a little confusing."

However, at the conference, Mr. Bernier re-affirmed intentions to go ahead with the project which he formally announced last August.

There would be no expansion of the 600-acre site which was originally announced, he said.

Papineau's criteria — water quality, human density — has been checked and "we think it has tremendous potential".

"There is no change in our decision," the minister told Mr. River's after the cottager's submission to the ministers. "There may well be. But I can't give you any assurance at this particular point in time. I think all the points (of criticism) have been answered very clearly (in his August announcement), said Mr. Bernier.

The ottagers have been attempting to prompt interest in creating the park across the county line in Bark Lake.

Speed Limit Not Major Energy-Saving Priority

For every speeder police catch in Ontario 6,999 a year now are going free, Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell said Tuesday.

He got the 1-7,000 ratio from police statistics he told the eastern Ontario conference of resources cabinet colleagues.

Mr. Timbrell made the comment while exchanging views on energy-saving with Dr. Ruth Titcombe, Belleville native and now Peterborough physician who head the Thurlow township committee opposing Ontario Hydro's Lennox-Oshawa power route through farmland north of the city.

In the United States, where speed limits were lowered to save energy last year, some police officials report speeds are creeping up and they are unable to catch the offenders.

Mr. Timbrell — whose parents until some time ago lived on a Thurlow farm— said he feels there have to be other "inducements" to encourage motorists to save fuel: More frequent car tune-ups, better braking and starting practices.

He also said youth deserved praise for making society more conscious of energy conservation.

"It is the young people who led us into our concern for the environment," said Mr. Timbrell.

School Board Plans World Poverty Course

The Hastings and Prince Edward County Separate School Board has approved a program designed to enhance student awareness of world poverty and food shortage.

The program is designed by board religious education director Ron DeLeskie to: "educate ourselves (students) in the situation, prayer, personal witness through lifestyle, donations to the appropriate relief agencies and encouraging our political leaders to truly have Canada share its abundant daily bread."

"This program is to help the students recognize that we are our brothers' keepers and there are positive responses we can make to this call of help," said Mr. DeLeskie.

The curriculum which was circulated to separate school board members Tuesday night, outlines course material for all grades in the system up to Grade 10.

Ed Neville, separate school board superintendent, said students will be encouraged to make regular donations to the world help campaign.

The course will include discussion topics and teaching aids such as media presentations of film strips and slides.

Oddfellows Hall Site of Break-in

A break-in at the Oddfellows Hall on Bay Dr. left a thief or thieves with $15 in cash. A total of $130 damage was done to the hall during the entry.

Police said the break-in occurred sometime between 3.30 p.m. Monday and 9 a.m. Tuesday. Entry was made through a roof. Damage to the premises was confined to the air conditioner and the door.

On the Set

Belleville movie makers Jan Zuchlinski and Tom New, founders of Genue Films Inc., already have 11 productions behind them, including the feature film Moods of the Moira and ranging to commercials for local businesses. The young film makers are both graduates of the Loyalist College Communication Studio Techniques program.

Film-makers Form Production Company

By MARK BRETT
Staff Reporter

If not the latest company to come into being in the Quinte area, Genue Films Inc. is without a doubt the first of it's kind outside of the provinces' larger cities.

The company is owned and operated by two third year graduates of the Communication Studio Techniques program at Loyalist College, Jan Zuchlinski and Tom New.

The company has been in existence since early November and to date the pair have produced 11 shows ranging from a documentary for the Moira River Conservation Authority to a commercial for a local drug store.

"There's a need for such a company in the area due to the increased size of the community," explained Jan.

"It also means," added Tom "that now when people want something shot, they're not going to have to go to Toronto and pay up to a third more for the same or poorer quality films."

The formation of the film company was described as an "accident" by Tom. While inquiring about a summer job at the office of Ray Cunnington, Loyalist cinematography teacher, he was advised of the Conservation Authority's plan for a show of the Moira River.

After deciding to take on the challenge, Tom enlisted the services of Jan, a roommate at the time.

Six months and 2,400 feet of film later they emerged from the darkrooms of Loyalist with the 15-minute showing, Moods of the Moira.

Jan describes the effort as "The best representation of our work so far." The film has drawn praise from viewers and professionals alike for the artistic style displayed.

Moods of the Moira has recently had two showings over the Ottawa-based CJOH channel 6 station and will be featured on an upcoming CKWS documentary on the authority.

Bernier Rejects More Campsites for Presqu'iel

No changes to boast occupancy at campsites are planned at present for Presqu'ile provincial park.

The Brighton-district park at present has 518 campsites.

But Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier said Tuesday the facilitiy is actually classified as a natural environment park and its development must be planned accordingly.

The minister was replaying at the eastern Ontario conference of provincial resources cabinet ministers to a requests for expanded facilities from the Brighton Industrial and Tourism Commission.

George Coling, commission chairman, said Brighton businessmen would like to see some changes to encourage people to stay longer at what is a family park. Camper occupancy now is running about 35 per cent and the park is only full on summer weekends.

Assignment: Florida

Psssst!

Yes, you, boss.

You get to read this before anyone else, except the talented key punch operator who gets first whack at it.

Do you know what tomorrow is?

February 20, you say.

Seems to me that's kind of noncommital on your part, isn't it boss?

Gonna make me spell it out, aren't you?

Don't you think I should pack my bags and head for Florida?

I know you hate to impose on my time but really, I can squeeze this assignment in.

Think nothing of it.

You know, loyalty, conscientiousness, and all that.

If you really want me to go, say the word.

But I'll have to leave right away.

I could put it off a week but it's whatever you say.

Somehow I'll manage to put up with the "change in the weather".

But it'll be tough.

I know The Intelligencer should be on deck when National Baseball League teams (four of them) open spring training tomorrow. But full squads don't report until six or seven days later. I can wait, if you'd like.

Let's see, Montreal Expos at Daytona Beach. Atlanta Braves at West Palm Beach. New York Mets, St. Petersburg. Philadelphia Phillies, Clearwater.

Stick with the Expos?

Right, boss.

How about the clubs which train in Arizona?

The San Francisco Giants, San Diege Padres and Chicago Cubs train in Arizona.

Florida will do Yes, sir.

And stick around for the Grapefruit League?

Well, if you say so.

Returning to reality, it's great to reach the time of year when the ball clubs begin training.

Thanks to the National League's information department, we've got a 12-part series by the managers of the ball clubs in which each discusses his team and its chances in 1975.

As space permits we'll give you the series, covering the teams in alphabetical order.

Today, Clyde King of the Atlanta Braves leads off. You'll find his views on the upcoming season on the sports pages.

SLICES — Belleville Minor Hockey Association's (BMHA) Evelyn Bryant passes along the following pertinent information concerning the March 3 meeting of the association:

Nominations for positions on the 1975-76 BMHA executive should be forwarded to Jake Berkhuizen, 71 North Park Gardens. Nomination forms are available from any 1974-75 executive member.

Election of officers for next season will be held at Centennial Secondary School in the Lecture Theatre, March 3.

Proposed amendments to the constitution must be presented, in writing, to the secretary, Mrs. T. Hounslow, 319 Charles St., at least seven days before the meeting.

Still no word on who's hosting this year's Bay of Quinte Men's Bonspiel. Oh, well, the event won't be held until this weekend.

And how about a complete list (first names and last, and home rink) of the entries?

Curling club members moan the loudest (those involved with golf clubs are a close second), when their events are overlooked by the press. But most of them (women members of the Quinte Curling Club not included) have only themselves to blame.

Since it's the year of the women, or something or other, perhaps the men have an excuse. At any rate, few of the men can hold a candle to the Quinte Club women when it comes to keeping this department informed.

The Quinte Hockey League has completed its regular schedule and plans to open playoff sets at Memorial Arena, Thursday night.

Cornerstone Builders and Reid's Dairy finished in a points-tie for first place but the Builders got the nod since they had a superior record in games with the Dairymen.

Cornerstone won three of the six games. One match ended in a tie.

So it's Cornerstone and third place Belvedere Hotel in one series and Reid's hooking up with Stinson Construction in the other.

Thursday's games have Cornerstone meeting Belvedere at 8.30 p.m while Reid's and Stinson's are scheduled for 10 p.m.

Now if we can just get the fellows on some of these teams to lay off the idiotic brawling that has marred the action at times this season, things will indeed be looking up.

Don't all of you work for a living?

Atlanta's King: 'We'll Be Ready'

By Clyde King
Manager, Atlanta Braves

I'm excited about the 1975 Braves. We're coming off a good season and it should be more of the same this year.

If there's one word that can describe what it will take to win the Western Division in 1975, it's consistency. To overtake the two teams that finished ahead of us last season, it's going to take an awfully strong effort, all year long. Excellent consistently.

That, though, isn't impossible. Our players began to think like that at the end of last season. For example, look how we handled Cincinnati in the final two games of the season with the Reds still in the middle of a penant race. It was just a matter of our players thinking they could perform that well.

There hasn't been that many changes, but I'm satisfied with our club. The moves that have brought Clarence Gaston and Dave May to Atlanta are good ones, though. I've hear nothing but good things about May from people in all of baseball, and Gaston can help us a great deal. Their bats, when added to the ones we had from last year, will give us a very potent line-up.

As far as out pitching is concerned, we could still use some lefthanded help. We're hoping that some youngsters in our organization can come along and give that to us. Lefties like Jamie Easterly and Mike Peard, who did such a fine job with us at the end of last season, could give us a big boost.

Over-all, though, the key is certainly to be a good team all year long. We can't go into any slumps of any length, and we've got to be ready every day. That's the only way we'll be able to take a part in the penant race in 1975.

But we intend to be ready — every day.

Kingston Leads 2-0

Kingston defeated Belleville Dixie Lee 7-4 here Tuesday Larry Wilson scored 15 for their opening round OMHA Peewee Minor playoff series.

Steve Molaski, David Aston, Brian Cronkwright and Steve Thompson each scored once for Belleville.

Mark Hegarty and Paul Hawson led the way for Kingston with two each. Tim O'Toole, Joe Lacry and Doug Gilmour added the others.

The third game in the series is scheduled for Thursday in Kingston.

Yardmen Move To Group Final

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — Belleville Yardmen closed their Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA minor midget playoff series with Peterborough the same way they opened it by shutting out the opposition, here, Tuesday night.

But this Belleville win will stand. And it gives the Floyd Crawford-coached Yardmen the series.

Final score was 4-0. When the series opened in Belleville, Yardmen scored a 6-0 win but used a player signed to a goalie's card at another position and a Peterborough protest was upheld.

The OMHA threw that game out and ordered the teams to decide things here Tuesday. Each club had a pair of wins going into the fifth game of the best of five set.

Yardmen now await word of dates on their group final series with Oshawa which got by Kingston.

It was the first playoff series win for a Belleville team since the city was classified AAA for play last season.

"The boys took it to them (Peterborough) right from the start, Tuesday," said Yardmen team manager Gordie Bell.

"Every player on our side was terrific," he said.

Bruce Hamilton handcuffed the Peterborough shooters to record the shutout.

After a scoreless first period, Yardmen scored twice in each of the second and third frames to win the series.

Andy Lupenette, Doug Shaw, Howie Coons and Curt Langstaff looked after the goal production.

Chatham Rink Senior Champ

Acton in Playoff for Second

OTTAWA — Anne Acton's Quinte Curling Club rink — consisting of Jessie Baber, vice, Helen Lewis, second, and Kay Pape, lead — finished the Ontario Women's Senior Curling Championship in a three-way tie for second place Tuesday.

Chatham's Shirley Pilson took the title with four wins and one loss in six-rink event. Pilson's was the rink that beat Acton out of the Southern Ontario Ladies Curling Association Championship in St. Catharines last month.

Tied with Acton for second place were Shirley Keely of Kingston and Penny Phillips of Thunder Bay. All three had a 3-2 won-lost record. The trio are involved in a playoff today, to establish an official second place winner. An official runner-up is necessary in case the Pilson rink is unable to attend the national championship in Swift Current, Saskatchewan, next month.

Acton and Pilson went into Tuesday's fifth round with identical 3-1 records. However, Pilson dumped Bea Lent of Brampton 11-4 and Acton came up flat against Keely's Kingston rink. The Keely rink upset Acton 8-4 to force the tie. In the other fifth round contest, Phillips, of Thunder Bay, defeated Marg Cook of New Liskeard 9-2 to make it a three-way tie.

The Chatham rink entered the final round of competition with only a fourth round loss to the Thunder Bay entry. Phillips rink had beaten Pilson 10-6. Belleville's only loss, after the first four rounds, was to Pilson. The Acton rink dropped a 9-8 decision to Pilson in the second round.

In other fourth round play, Belleville defeated New Liskeard 11-10 and Kingston downed Brampton 8-5.

New Liskeard finished with a 0-5 record and Brampton finished 2-3.

House League Hockey

Wm. Belch Atoms Unbeaten

Wm. Belch and Son kept its unbeaten streak alive in Belleville Minor Hockey Association Atom Minor house league play on the weekend, turning back Cherney's Furniture 7-2. The league leaders have 14 wins and two ties in 16 starts.

Brock Barager led the Belch team with three goals. Allen Bunnett counted a pair.

In other games, Quinte Rentals whipped A and D Esso 8-3 and Maher Shoes stopped Belleville Yardmen 5-1. Tim Casey fired three Quinte goals and Tim Kopalek had two. Top marksman for the Shoemen was Michael Allen with two goals.

Eastern Business Equipment continued unbeated (15 wins and a tie) in the Atom Major section, topping Belleville Firefighters 7-2 as Bob Kanary and Keven Rafferty each scored three times.

Scott Edwards had two goals as Hawkins Chips defeated Ellis Printing 6-2; Chris Foster potted four in Clayton's TVs 6-5 squeaker over Fry Ford as Angelo Lentini clicked for a pair in defeat.

Pat Sagriff had two goals for Red Barn in a 3-3 tie with Bowes and Cocks, and Dairy Queen shaded Quinte Home Builders 3-2.

Hoyt Botly and Keving Reed led Beaver Lumber to a 9-1 win over Manpower with two goals each as the Novice Division went at it. Todd Woodward had two goals to lead Local 1,000 past Uniroyal 4-1; Dixie Lee beat Credit Union 5-1 and Warren Whitley got by Stephen Licence 4-2.

In Peewee Minor play, first place King Penguins topped Canadian Legion 8-2 as Tim Marshall fired three goals and Al Derry and Al Maikawa each shot a pair.

Signs Unlimited turned back Dairy Queen 6-2; Bob's Body Shop outscored Cole's Jewellers 5-3; Police Association nipped Reid's Plumbing 4-3 and Y's Men's Club shaded Bellewood Lumber 6-5.

First place Circle TV was held to a 4-4 draw by Trumpour and Sons in Peewee Major action. John Ricketts had three goals for the TV squad.

Belleville Truck Centre earned a 3-3 tie with Ellis Printing; Elliott Motors sped past Belleville Conductors 8-1; Todd Boomhower connected for four goals in Kings' 5-2 defeat of Ideal Venders, and John Dent and Doug Hicke each scored twice for Motorland Chryslen in a 5-3 win over Duby's.

Avis Rent-A-Car came close to upsetting front running Belle Cleaners in Bantam Major play, giving the league leaders a battle before bowing 3-2. Dale Clarke and Nick Wilkinson each scored twice in Allied Chemicals' 8-3 win over Sidney Inn while Belleville Toyota tied J. F. Nelles Real Estate 5-5. Randy Donovan had a pair for Toyota. Fred Long and Tim Coates each scored twice for Nelles.

First place SACO had to work for a 5-4 win over Stirling Sheet Metal in Midget Division play. Tim McCutcheon and David Archer each scored twice for the winners.

Ron Ferguson had a pair as Yardmen topped Ross Royals 4-2; Fred Wessels recorded the shutout as Red Shark blanked ANAF Dukes 2-0; Tim Duvall had three goals and Brian Trent and Dale Vance two each in Tim Horton Donuts' 7-3 romp over Uptown Billiars who got a pair from Peter Coates.

Demark Construction and Canadian Legion played to a 3-3 tie, and Billy Gow sparked Sun Luck Gardens past Juby Electric 5-2, with two goals.

Puck Wasn't Bouncing for Islanders' Goalie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When its comes to winning hockey games, there's no room for sentiment or hometown loyalty.

Coach Floyd Smith of Buffalo Sabres and goalie Billy Smith of New York Islanders are unrelated but they both grew up in Perth, Ont.

Tuesday night Floyd felt badly for Billy because of a tactical error he made, but he was glad of the mistake's result—a 3-2 win for Buffalo in a National Hockey League game.

Billy came out of the New York net midway in the first period with Islanders on a power play, trying to clear away a loose puck during a goalmouth scramble.

The move backfired when he missed the puck. Craig Ramsay of the Sabres pounced on the loose puck and easily pushed it into the open net for what proved to be the winning goal.

"I hated to see Billy make that mistake of coming out of the goal then," Floyd said. "We're from the same hometown and you don't like to see a guy that you know and like make that kind of mistake."

"But I'll take it. That's the bounce of the puck. That's what wins games."

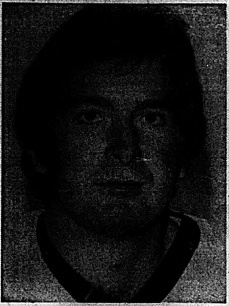
The Sabres needed the win to maintain their 10-point Adams Division lead over Boston Bruins, who downed Vancouver Canucks 3-1.

In Tuesday's other NHL games, Los Angeles Kings whipped Washington Capitals 6-1, Montreal Canadiens tied St. Louis Blues 4-4 and New York Rangers tied Kansas City Scouts 2-2.

Don Marcotte and Bobby Orr gave Boston the early lead and Wayne Cashman's goal in the third period put the game out of reach of the Canucks. Don Lever scored the only Vancouver goal.

Mike Murphy scored twice in the first period to give the Kings a 2-0 lead. Later they got goals from Bob Berry, Butch Goring, Bob Nevin and Dan Maloney to end Washington's three-game home winning streak.

The win left the Kings six points behind the first-place Canadiens in the Norris Division. Montreal has played one more game than Los Angeles.



Walt McKechnie

Wings and Bruins In Player Swap

VANCOUVER (CP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have traded Walt McKechnie to Detroit Red Wings for two rookie forwards, it was learned Tuesday.

Bruin coach Don Cherry said it was unfortunate that news of the trade got out just before a game. Official announcement was expected during Tuesday night's game between Vancouver Canucks and the visiting Bruins. Cherry had no further comment on the trade.

The two rookies are left-winger Hank Nowak and right-winger Earl Anderson, a minor league player.

McKechnie, a forward, has scored three goals and three assists for the Bruins this season. He came to the Boston club last year from California Seals of the NHL.

McKechnie, 27, a native of London, Ont., was announced in the lineup for Tuesday night's game and took part in the pregame warmup.

Lafleur Won't Rush Return

MONTREAL (CP) — It will be at least another three weeks before right winger Guy Lafleur returns to National Hockey League action with Montreal Canadiens.

"I had been planning to be back for the game against California here March 3," Lafleur said Tuesday. "But right now I have got to agree with the doctor. The finger is very swollen and very painful."

Lafleur was slashed across his left hand by Darryl Sittler of Toronto Maple Leafs last Wednesday in Toronto. He suffered a fracture on the base of the left index finger.

"Right now I have the feeling I don't want to come back too soon," added Lafleur, the Canadiens top scorer with 44 goals and 52 assists.

"I don't want to hurt it again and miss the playoffs. I'm skating every day and staying in shape. I'll be ready when I come back. I'm working hard.

"I hope when I get back they (the Canadiens) will help me get my 50 goals. I'm sure they will."

Lafleur is bidding to become the Canadiens first 50-goal man since Bernie Geoffrion accomplished the feat in 1960-61.

Lysiak Charged

ATLANTA (AP) — Tom Lysiak, the Atlanta Flames' second-year centre and leading scorer, has been arrested and charged with drunken driving, authorities said Tuesday.

Cobb County police said Lysiak, 22, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, without a licence, and on the wrong side of the road after his car struck another vehicle Monday night.

Lysiak, who was released on $500 bond, was not injured in the accident and practised with the National Hockey League club Tuesday. He was ordered to appear in court March 27.

Only 1,142 See Knights Post Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dennis Maruk scored five goals and added three assists to lead London Knights' 11-2 trouncing of Kitchener Rangers in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Tuesday.

A crowd of 1,142 spectators—lowest in London's 10-year history—watched the home team take period leads of 3-1 and 7-2.

In the only other game Tuesday, Hamilton Fincups and Oshawa Generals played to a 2-2 tie. Play resumes tonight with Kingston Canadians travelling to Sault Ste Marie to meet the Greyhounds.

At London, Maruk's eight points brought his season total—a career high—to 119 points, including 54 goals. For the first time in his three seasons with the Knights, Maruk has scored more than 50 goals.

Terry Martin and Jim Hamilton each added a pair for 10th place London, with Ron Zanussi and Rick Green getting the others.

Bobby Schnurr and Dwight Foster replied for last-place Kitchener.

In Hamilton, Paul Harrison faced 62 Fincup shots and Brian Drumm scored the tying goal for Oshawa early in the final period.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT
Because of the wide response to Radio Shack products in Canada our sales have increased 71% over the past year.
Despite rising material and labour costs Radio Shack DID NOT RAISE a single selling price in "Company" stores since issuing our 1975 catalogue in October. We have now decided NOT TO RAISE A PRICE at least through to June 1975 in these stores.
In addition we will continue our tradition of periodic PRICE REDUCTIONS to make Radio Shack products even more affordable.
By holding the line against increases we help not only our customers but also our suppliers and our employees. It is our way of saying THANKS to you and them. And it's our way of saying to the country as a whole: we can and must fight inflation.
This applies to all 231 company owned and operated stores in Canada.

Senior Men's Curling Title Up for Grabs

CALGARY (CP) — Eight of 13 rounds were completed in the Canadian Senior Men's Curling championship Tuesday and only Newfoundland's luckless Royal Cooper of Gander appeared out of the race.

Cooper had lost seven straight games heading into this morning's ninth round at 9:30 a.m. mst. The way everybody else has been going, anybody appears capable of winning.

They broke up a six-way traffic jam for first place in the eighth round Tuesday night as each of the Prairie rinks lost its second game of the day. Back on top with 5-2 records were 1971 champion Wendell MacDonald, the 66-year-old Charlottetown physician, and Jim Simpson of Thunder Bay, the president of the Northern Ontario Curling Association

Each of the leaders drew a bye Tuesday and won their other two starts. MacDonald whipped Cooper 9-4, then made it look just as easy against Alberta in the eighth round, dumping Edmonton's Del McIntyre 9-3. Simpson drubbed Ron McPhee of Kimberley, skipping the entry from defending champion B. C., 8-2 and then cracked a four-ender in the seventh end which paved the way for a 9-6 win over Lyle Henry of Manitoba.

A majority of the contenders tumbled into second place with 4-3 records. They included Saskatchewan—the victim of the eighth round's most stunning upset—Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Quebec.

Morrie Thompson of Saskatoon made an open takeout for three in the 10th end and a key 9-5 sixth-round victory over Manitoba. But Thompson was then beaten 8-7 by B. C which ended a four-game losing streak for McPhee, and by Herb Taylor's Whitehorse, Yukon, rink representing the Territories.

Taylor stole 10 points over the first seven ends against Saskatchewan after Thompson blanked the opener. Then the Saskatchewan skip engineered three points in the eighth and promptly conceded. Saskatchewan had made a move to surrender after six ends but were informed by umpires they had to complete eight according to championship rules.

Kem Melvin of Saint John, N. B. lost twice Tuesday but still remained in the crowd at 4-3. Glen Adams of Lachine, Que., pulled into contention by shading New Brunswick 6-5 in the eighth round

In the seventh round, Adams trailed Nova Scotia's Lawrence Carter by two points in the 10th end but scored four times for a 9-7 victory and missed a chance to score an eight-ender in the bargain.

Adams was as close as anybody to winning three straight Tuesday. In the sixth round, he rubbed a guard in the 11th end allowing Alberta to steal an 8-7 victory.

OHA Senior Loop May Add 4 Teams

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association senior A series announced plans today to continue operation in the 1975-76 season with possible expansion.

Wib Soules, president of Orillia Terriers, said the league has been satisfied with its performance this season.

He said the league would operate from the same centres next year.

The announcement came following speculation earlier this season that the Barrie franchise would move to Collingwood. The league confirmed the Flyers would remain in Barrie.

"It appears likely we could expand to 10 teams," Mr Soules said, adding that tentative applications have been received from four new groups for the 1975-76 season and each of the groups showed a strong financial backing.

The six franchises operating this year include Barrie, Brantford, Cambridge, Napanee, Whitby and Orillia.

Because of financial problems in the last two seasons, the league went to a share-the-wealth plan which allowed players to pick up a share of the money remaining at the end of a season.

Junior Officials Meet with CAHA

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA) and junior hockey league officials are to meet in Montreal this weekend for housekeeping discussions, a CAHA spokesman said today.

He said the association and officials of the three major junior leagues—Ontario Hockey Association major Junior A, the Quebec major Junior A and the Western Canada Hockey League—will be discussing problems common to the three leagues.

The discussions would also include preparations for the association's next negotiations with the World Hockey Association and the National Hockey League for support of the junior leagues.

The officials also will deal with the Western Canada Hockey League's decision to withdraw from Memorial Cup play after this year's final in Kitchener. The Memorial Cup is considered the top prize in junior hockey.

Actions Bring Fines

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Walton of Minnesota Fighting Saints was fined $250 "for disrespectful actions toward game officials Feb. 6 in San Diego," World Hockey Association executive vice-president Bud Poile said Tuesday.

In two other disciplinary actions, both involving the Feb. 8 Vancouver-New England game, Vancouver's Rick Jodzio was fined $100 for returning to the ice after receiving a game misconduct penalty and New England's Nick Fotiu was suspended for one game, effective Feb. 21, for an altercation with a linesman.

Sentes Fires Four for Mariners

Hull and Jets Take Edge Off Blades

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For 20 minutes Tuesday night, Baltimore Blades might have had Maryland hockey fans thinking they were going to see their World Hockey Association team win a game at last.

A Baltimore crowd of 3,324 saw the Blades emerge from the first period with a 2-0 lead against Winnipeg, but then Bobby Hull and his linemates took charge and the Jets walked away with a 5-3 win.

It was the seventh appearance at Baltimore's Civic Centre for the Blades since their transfer from Michigan and the home customers still haven't seen a win.

Things have gone from bad to worse for the Blades since the league approved their departure from Detroit's Cobo Arena. Representing Michigan, they had a 13-27-3 record, but they've won only one of 13 games since then.

In Tuesday's other WHA games, Edmonton Oilers topped New England Whalers 6-3, Vancouver Blazers trounced Indianapolis Racers 9-2 and San Diego Mariners bumbled Phoenix Roadrunners 7-0.

Hull and linemate Anders Hedberg each had a pair of goals for the Jets. Danny Gruen had the other Winnipeg goal. Hull, Hedberg and the third member of their line, Ulf Nilsson also drew an assist each.

Bill Evo and J. P. Leblanc gave the Blades a 2-0 lead in the first period and Gary Veneruzzo made it 3-1 for Baltimore in the second period after Hull scored his first goal.

Edmonton stayed in third place in the WHA's Canadian Division with the win, one point in front of the Blazers. The Oilers got off to a 5-0 lead in the first period.

Tim Sheehy was impressive in his first game as an Oiler against New England since being traded for Ron Climie late last week. Sheehy picked up three assists, all in the first period, and missed two breakaways

Larry Israelson scored two goals and added an assist for the Blazers, who jumped into a 5-0 lead in the first period. Israelson, Hugh Harris, Claude St. Sauveur, Ron Chipperfield and Don Burgess did the first-period scoring for Vancouver.

Rick Sentes scored four goals and Andre Lacroix extended his WHA record for scoring in the most consecutive games to pace San Diego. Lacroix extended his scoring streak to 19 games, three more than the old WHA record, with four assists.

Ernie Wakely recorded his second shutout of the season, stopping 28 Phoenix shots.

Hunter Captures Combined Title

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Jim Hunter of Calgary captured the combined title in the Shell Canadian Alpine ski championships at Marmot Basin on Tuesday with a victory in the slalom event.

He previously won the giant slalom and placed third in Saturday's downhill race at Todd Mountain, B.C.

Hunter flashed down the 63- and 61-gate men's courses in 51.34 and 53.63 seconds for a lead of almost 1½ seconds over his nearest rival, Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont.

Raymond Pratte of Rouyn, Que., and Gary Aiken of Trail, B.C., were tied for third place.

In men's combined results, Aiken was second, followed by Ken Reed of Calgary and Steve Podborski of Toronto.

Kathy Kreiner, 17, of Timmins, Ont., made a clean sweep of the women's combined title by winning the slalom Tuesday with a total time on the two runs of 98.65 seconds. She was victorious earlier in the downhill and was fourth in Monday's giant slalom.

She was followed closely in the slalom by Susan Clifford of Old Chelsea, Que., and her sister, Laurie Kreiner, in 98.72 and 99.59 seconds respectively.

Kreiner was followed in overall combined points by Laurie, and Clifford was third. Betsy Clifford, who won the giant slalom and was eighth in the downhill, missed Tuesday's slalom race to fly to Japan for a World Cup race.

O. J. SIMPSON

Simpson Is Star Of Stars

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — O.J. Simpson won the 100-yard dash in 9.69 seconds Tuesday and was crowned the new Superstars champion Tuesday.

Simpson finished with 47½ points—seven points ahead of 1973 champion Bob Seagren.

Defending champion Kyle Rote Jr., of the North American Soccer League's Dallas Tornado was third with 31 points. He was followed by Franco Harris 27 Lawrence McCutcheon 20, Ard Schenk 18, Steve Smith 14, Phil Villapiano 13½, Hugo Nindl 12, Marty Riessen 9, Lou Brock 4 John Havlicek 2 and Jack Ham and Mike Hargrove at a point each.

TEAM HONORED

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Members of the 1936 Windsor Ford V8s basketball team, who formed the major part of Canada's first Olympic basketball team that year in Berlin, will be honored March 8, it was announced Thursday. A presentation will be made during the Canadian intercollegiate basketball championship at the University of Waterloo.

Chris and Jimmy Put Tennis First

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert appeared together at the $30,000 Independent Players Association tennis tournament Tuesday and ended speculation that their romance was over.

"We still care about each other," said Miss Evert, 20. "Anybody who didn't think we still cared about each other after we broke off our engagement was kidding themselves."

Connors, the top-seeded player in the tournament, said he is staying with Chris and her parents at their Fort Lauderdale house this week and indicated that marriage still was on the couple's minds.

"Marriage is an impracticality at this stage, when both of us are playing so much tennis and tennis is the most important thing in our lives," said Connors, the world's top-ranked men's player.

"There will be a time when tennis will not be this important," he added.

The couple had announced on Oct. 2 that their engagement was off. The 1974 Wimbledon singles champions originally had planned to be married on Nov. 8 in Fort Lauderdale.

Connors, 23, was scheduled to play Tuesday but was given a postponement when he complained of feeling ill.

STEVE GARVEY

Dodgers Sign MVP

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First baseman Steve Garvey, named the most valuable player last season in baseball's National League, has signed a 1975 contract with Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers announced the signing Tuesday. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed, but his salary is believed to be in the $90,000 range.

Bears Nip Warriors

BROCKVILLE (CP) — A power play goal by Don Kells at 16:04 of the third period gave Smiths Falls Bears a 6-5 win over Brockville Warriors in a Central Junior Hockey League game here Tuesday night.

Chris Ray, Davie Dixie, Beaver Corkran, Dan Murphy and Terry Fournier also scored once each for the Bears.

Brian Macari led Brockville with two goals while teammates Bill Gray, Pat Dwyer and Bob Voorneveld added one apiece.

Smiths Falls outshot the Warriors 45 to 34 with Fraser Greenwood in goal. Tom O'Toole was in net for the Warriors.

The result padded the Bears second-place standing in the six-team league behind Pembroke Lumber Kings.

Next league action is Thursday when the Kings are in Rockland against the fourth-placed Nationals.

FERGIE JENKINS

Jenkins, Rangers Happy

MONTREAL (CP) — Fergu-on Jenkins, a 25-game winner or Texas Rangers in 1974, has greed to a contract with the American League baseball club, is lawyer said Tuesday night.

Larry Sazant of Montreal ould not divulge details of the act although he said it was a ackage close to $200,000.

Sazant said last week that enkins, a native of Chatham, nt., was seeking an escalating ive-year contract worth $205,-00 the first season. Rangers wner Brad Corbett had responded with an offer of $175,-000 a year plus use of a car and a rent-free townhouse.

The case was scheduled to go to arbitration Friday.

Sazant said the deal calls for tax arrangements and deferrals and other long-term benefits.

He added that he and his partner Dave Schatia had been involved in conference calls with the Rangers and Jenkins during the last three days and that agreement was reached Tuesday evening.

Gift Goal for Leeds

LONDON (Reuter) — England defender David Nish handed Leeds United a place in the English Football Association Cup quarter-finals Tuesday night.

Leeds won its fifth-round match against Derby County 1-0 and the only goal was a mistake by Nish, who put the ball in his own net eight minutes from time.

Nish attempted to clear a harmless cross from Eddie Gray but only managed to lob the ball over his own goalkeeper and Leeds was through to an away tie in the quarter-finals against Ipswich Town on Saturday, March 8.

In another FA Cup game, Middlesbrough beat Peterborough 2-0, both goals coming from Alan Foggon. Only team outside the First Division still in Cup play is Fulham.

Education First

Ontario Team Gives Lessons

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A group of Ontario youngsters more concerned about their education than about the prospect of careers in pro hockey combined Tuesday night to give the Yukon a lesson at the Canada Winter Games.

The score was deceiving, only 4-1, but Ontario's mastery was evident throughout. Several of the other games ended in scores more one-sided, but Ontario's players, all members of Oakville Blades, were not impressed.

"We're not playing well—at least not consistently," said Paul Hammond, 20, a left winger. "It's frustrating for some of us who haven't scored any points so far and that includes me."

However, he predicted Ontario would win, duplicating the province's 1971 Winter Games triumph at Saskatoon.

"We're the best team," he said. "We should win.

"About seven of our guys went to Junior A camps this fall but came back to B because they have a chance to win scholarships. Most of us are more interested in an education than in a pro career."

Players who compete in either of the two tiers of Junior A hockey are not eligible to accept hockey scholarships in the United States, under a ruling by the U.S. National Collegiate Athletic Association.

In other Division A hockey games, Nova Scotia remained tied with Ontario for first place by defeating the Northwest Territories 11-2 and Saskatchewan posted its first victory by defeating British Columbia 10-5.

In Division B, Alberta battered Prince Edward Island 13-3 on the strength of eight first-period goals to remain deadlocked with Quebec for first place.

Quebec thumped New Brunswick 7-3 and Manitoba whipped Newfoundland 7-1.

With seven sports to be completed between now and the end of the Winter Games Saturday, Quebec remains on top in the points race and stands a good chance of beating out Ontario, winner of the 1967 Games in Quebec City and the 1971 renewal in Saskatoon.

Quebec has gained 143 points from nine sports completed, Ontario is second with 134 and British Columbia third with 131.

Figure skating, weightlifting and judo begin today and end Friday. Table tennis also starts today and runs until Saturday, the same day the boxing and hockey competitions end.

Volleyball, which began Monday and runs to Saturday, is going as expected with the Manitoba men's and women's teams undefeated as they bid to repeat their 1971 victories. British Columbia also has a 3-0 record in the men's and is 2-0 in the women's B division while Alberta and Nova Scotia are 2-0 along with Manitoba in the women's A, division.

Nova Scotia, which has not yet won a gold medal here, got off on the right foot in boxing with five wins in seven bouts at Claresholm, one of the centres in southern Alberta where Games events are being staged.

Nova Scotia athletes have only two bronze medals to show for their efforts but with 89 team points they are in seventh place in the over-all standings and seem sure to win the Centennial Cup as the team that makes the greatest percentage increase in points over 1971. They had 107 at Saskatoon and finished eighth.

CFL Changes Coming

Scully Top Pick In College Draft

TORONTO (CP) — Steve Scully, a 22-year-old, 275-pound offensive tackle, is expected to receive the early attention during the opening round of the Canadian college draft at the Canadian Football League meetings Wednesday.

Scully, a six-foot-three Kitchener, Ont., native who has been a starting tackle with Syracuse University over the last two seasons, has been tabbed as the No. 1 draft choice by Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Bombers won the right at first pick by acquiring Calgary Stampeders' choice. The Stampeders earned first choice by finishing last in the Western Football Conference in 1974.

The WFC gets the first draft pick because it lost the 1974 Grey Cup game—Edmonton Eskimos lost 20-7 to Eastern champions Montreal Alouettes.

Winnipeg has three first-round choices—first, fourth and eighth, and Hamilton Tiger-Cats also have three first-round picks—third, fifth and sixth. Toronto Argonauts have second pick in the first round while Ottawa Rough Riders have seventh pick and Montreal has eighth.

The CFL also has issued a list of 12 possible rule changes to be either accepted or rejected without debate by the league's executive during the four-day meeting expected to end Friday.

They are:

1. Blocking above the waist be permitted outside the scrimmage zone on punt returns. The five-yard restraining zone shall be retained. The punter cannot be contacted until he has crossed the scrimmage line.

2. Converts will be retained but any team may pick up two points by either passing or rushing the ball into the end zone.

3. After a field goal, the kicking team may be required to kick off from its own 35-yard line.

4. After a single point, the team scored against shall take possession of the ball on its own 35-yard line rather than the 25-yard line.

5. First down to be awarded to offensive team, in addition to any yardage assessed the defensive team for rough play or unnecessary roughness.

6. Contacting the kicker rule to be amended to include that if the kicker makes any movement to pass the ball from the normal punting position he will be considered a ball carrier.

7. If defending team intercepts in its own end zone, and the passing team is assessed a penalty, it shall be applied from the intercepting team's 10-yard line.

8. When a ball carrier is grounded and in the judgment of the official has no intention of trying to advance, the play shall be declared dead.

9. When the ball changes hands in the last three minutes of either half, time shall not start until the snap of the ball on the next play.

10. Ball shall be declared dead, even if in bounds, if it touches a player who is out of bounds. Ball shall belong to the last team touching it before hitting the out-of-bound player.

11. Field goal is good regardless of whether it is touched by a player of either team before it crosses the scrimmage line, or is touched by a defending player after it crosses the scrimmage line, providing it goes between the goal posts.

12. Corner post marking goal-lines, sidelines and deadlines, shall be so placed that they be considered out of bounds.

Csonka, Kiick, Warfield in Toronto?

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Chris Hemmeter, president of the World Football League, indicated Tuesday there will be another attempt to place a franchise in Toronto with Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield as the nucleus.

The three former Miami Dolphin stars signed a personal services contract last year [illegible] Bassett of Toronto, [illegible] Memphis Southmen of the WFL.

[illegible] is a possibility that we will return to Toronto," Bassett said by telephone Tuesday from Las Vegas, Nev., where he was attending a World Hockey Association meeting. "But New York is a possibility and so is Memphis."

Hemmetter said earlier in the day at a news conference in Charlotte that the league "will build a new franchise around the three," meaning Csonka, Kiick and Warfield. He said the franchise would be in a city that wasn't in the league last season.

The major stumbling block to a Toronto WFL franchise is federal government pressure which forced Bassett to take his Toronto Northmen to Memphis as the Southmen in the WFL's inaugural season.

A bill was introduced in Parliament to forbid a Canadian franchise in the WFL, but Bassett moved the team before the bill was enacted.

Csonka, Kiick and Warfield met with Hammetter and Bassett in Toronto last weekend and were brought up to date on the WFL reorganization plans.

Bassett indicated last season that he didn't like spending so much time in Memphis away from his hometown and business interests.

"We'd love to go back to Toronto," Bassett said. "I just don't know whether the government will let us. I haven't talked with any government officials about the situation recently."

Lakers' Luck-Bad

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's one thing after another these days for Los Angeles Lakers

Coach Bill harman, accused of breach of contract by Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association, is off in Salt Lake City attending the trial.

Towering centre Elmore Smith, the latest of a long line of casualties, is out of action with what is described as an irritation of the colon.

And now guys like Tom Boerwinkle and Roland Garrett are picking on them.

Garrett, a reserve forward, scored 21 points and Boerwinkle, filling in for the injured Nate Thurmond, had 12 points and 20 rebounds as Chicago Bulls pounded the slumping Lakers 128-105 Tuesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Elsewhere in the NBA, New Orleans Jazz whipped Philadelphia 76ers 103-83, Buffalo Braves beat Phoenix Suns 124-109 at Toronto, New York Knicks edged Golden State Warriors 99-98, Houston Rockets trimmed Portland Trail Blazers 107-83 and Milwaukee Bucks downed Cleveland Cavaliers 104-93.

Kentucky topped Virginia 121-104 in the lone American Basketball Association game.

FRENCH LIFTER DIES

PARIS (CP) — Henri Ferrari, a French weightlifter, died during the weekend, Agence France-Presse reported. He was 63. Holder of nine former world records and 30 French records, he was elected to the executive committee of the French Weightlifting Federation in 1973.

If you ever needed a better reason to come on over to Loblaws, the February Frozen Food Sale is it.

It's a great chance for you to stock up on nutritional frozen juices, vegetables and fish, at prices that are very very low.

And if you ever needed some better reasons to stock up on frozen foods, we've got some information that will definitely be of interest to you.

When it comes right down to the nitty gritty things like nutrition, flavour, freshness and overall quality, frozen foods are the hands down choice.

FROZEN CONCENTRATED ORANGE JUICE

Frozen concentrated orange juice is made entirely from oranges—no food additives or extra sugar. Its cost per quart when reconstituted is approximately the same as orange flavoured drinks and crystals, but it has definite advantages flavour and nutrition-wise.

This chart illustrates just how great a bargain pure frozen orange juice really is.

CHECK THIS CHART AND COMPARE	Approx. Reg. Price Per Quart (40 oz.)	Calories per cup	Vit. C (mg) per cup	Vit. A (I.U.) per cup	Thiamine (mg) per cup	Riboflavin (mg) per cup	Niacin (mg) per cup
Frozen Orange Juice Reconstituted	44¢	120	120	550	0.22	0.02	1.0
Canned Orange Drink	42¢	135	40*	130	0.05	0.02	0.2
Orange-Flavoured Carbonated Beverages	50¢	115	—	—	—	—	—
Orange-Flavoured Crystals, reconstituted	45¢	135	40*	—	—	—	—

*Vitamin C added to beverage commercially.

FROZEN BREAD

Frozen bread is also a great way to save money.

Think about this: a freshly baked, one pound loaf of bread made from frozen dough costs from 20¢ to 29¢, depending on brand and package size. Now, when you compare this to the price of commercially made bread, 45¢ to 48¢ for a one pound loaf, the savings become very obvious. And when you consider that nothing smells nicer or tastes fresher than freshly baked bread, it's easy to see that saving money can actually be a very pleasant experience.

FROZEN VEGETABLES

When you cook frozen vegetables, they smell fresh, look like they were just picked, and taste as crisp and delicious as anything you please. When you buy frozen vegetables, you can also be sure that you're getting a lot of nutrition for your money too, because frozen vegetables surpass most canned vegetables in nutritional content. Being easy and quick to prepare just provides you with a pair of extra reasons to stock up on frozen vegetables. This month at Loblaws.

FROZEN FISH

Far and away, one of the best buys in the Frozen Food Department, frozen fish fillets are easy to prepare, economical, tasty and an excellent source of protein.

Nutritionally speaking, fish and meat are on the same approximate scale. The big difference is that fish generally costs less. And that makes it a great buy anytime.

CHECK THIS CHART AND COMPARE	REGULAR PRICE PER POUND	COST PER 20 GRAMS OF PROTEIN*
OCEAN PERCH FILLETS (5 LB. BOX)	$0.64	15.3¢
COD FILLETS	$1.19	29.8¢
BOSTON BLUE FILLETS	$0.89	19.2¢
HOT DOGS (LOBLAWS ALL MEAT)	$0.89	30.0¢
STEWING BEEF (BONELESS CHUCK)	$1.48	34.9¢

OUR NEW GROUND MEAT ANALYZER
will make sure you're getting your money's worth.

The Loblaws Ground Meat Analyzer is now in all Loblaws Meat Departments. What it does is simply provide you with an accurate reading of the fat content in our ground meat. Each time a fresh amount of hamburger or ground beef is made, a check is made to determine the proper content of fat.

Loblaws ground beef comes under three classifications. Hamburger, with a fat content of 27% or less. Ground beef, with a fat content of 20% or less. And Lean Ground Beef, with a fat content of 15% or less. Loblaws labels every package of ground beef with the percentage of fat content.

THE HAVERSHAM LEGACY — Daoma Winston.

Set in the city of Washington shortly after the Civil War and on the eve of President Lincoln's assassination, this is a powerful novel of a young and beautiful girl's determination to fulfill her destiny, and live in the mansion on Haversham Square, with the family to whom she was related through her dead mother. Miranda achieved her dream. Only later did she learn that destiny had betrayed her, for behind the wealth that seemed to grow in spite of itself, behind that place in society that mere wealth could never attain, lay a growing evil seeking to destroy the lives of those it touched.

THE CHATEAU — Stephen Coulter.

This family epic is reminiscent of R.F. Delderfield's novels. A young American girl marries into a wealthy Bordeaux family, whose estates produced some of the finest Bordeaux wines. Here, in this strange new world of sharp commerce, of the ancient traditions of wine making, of family unity and family jealousies, Susannah discovers her husband to be a romantic dreamer. He is ill-equipped to handle the running of the huge vineyards. Inevitably his creditors move to take over the estate. Susannah fights to save the family heritage, and restore La Guiche, a great and noble vineyard, so as to make the chateau the symbol of a great vintage, a name of world-wide fame.

THE MALLEN LITTER — Catherine Cookson.

This is the third book in the trilogy of novels, which began with the "Mallen Streak" and continued in the "Mallen Girl'. Set largely in Newcastle and rural Northumberland, it links the England of Victoria with the dark days of the First World War, vividly evoking a fast-changing social scene. Here is a novel that displays to the full, Catherine Cookson's skill as a storyteller, exploring some of the hidden recesses of the human mind and heart.

THE INCREDIBLE DUCHESS — Doris Leslie.

During the reigns of Kings George 11 and 111, no social scandal was more resounding than that which involved Elizabeth Chudleigh, one time maid of honor to Princess Frederick of Wales. In telling the amazing story of Elizabeth Chudleigh's life, Doris Leslie has matched the narrative skill of the novelist with the authenticity and sense of period of the historical biographer. The "Incredible Duchess" offers an authentic view of the rougher side of life, during the boisterous heyday of the House of Hanover.

THE BRIGHT DAY IS DONE — Judith Saxton.

Amy Robsart, wife to Robert Dudley, is mainly remembered for the mysterious circumstances of her death, but in this novel the author tells the story of her life, from her happy childhood spent in Norfolk to her tragic end at Cumnor Place. She met and married Robert Dudley at Richmond Palace in June 1550, before a distinguished company which included young King Edward VI and his half-sisters Mary and Elizabeth. When Mary came to the throne, the Dudley brothers were imprisoned in the Tower and Amy managed her husband's estates until he was finally released. On the death of Mary, Robert Dudley, who had grown up with Elizabeth, became her favorite and by doing so changed the course of many lives, Amy's more drastically than any.

Italian Reformer Mafia Foe

TORONTO (CP) — In 1952, Danilo Dolci gave up a career in architecture in northern Italy to crusade in western Sicily against hunger, disease, illiteracy, apathy—and the Mafia.

Mr. Dolci, 51, the reformer and humanitarian whose writings are said to have inspired the late president John F. Kennedy to create the Peace Corps, is still fighting today.

H has helped impoverished farmers increase harvests through irrigation and has organized co-operatives for peasants ranging from wine-making operations to collective farming.

"There is still a lot to be done," he said in an interview during a recent visit to Toronto.

"The government now is providing funds, but they rarely get to the right people. Somehow a lot of the money ends in the pockets of the Mafia."

Mr. Dolci points his finger at the Mafia when he sees dire poverty, malnutrition and other social ills.

"They want it that way," he said. "They thrive on poverty."

He said the Mafia controls many of the peasants in western Sicily. It influences elections by telling peasants whom to vote for and giving them gifts in return.

"In this way the people remain dependent on the Mafia for money and protection."

In 1962, construction on an irrigation dam stopped when the Mafia let it be known it considered this a bad thing.

Mr. Dolci said the dam would be a boon to farmers and help increase their standard of living.

When the Mafia threatened to blow up the foundation of the dam if work resumed, Mr. Dolci went on a hunger strike and, after nine days, the government ordered the work to continue.

It was completed in 1968 and its success led to other dam projects in western Sicily.

Mr. Dolci conceded, however, that his battle with the Mafia is far from won.

"It's just as powerful or more so than it was in the past. No inquiry into its activities has been totally successful because the Mafia has friends in government."

Dartmouth Policemen Get Crowded

DARTMOTTH. N.S. (CP) — Dartmouth is hiring 34 new policemen but there may not be room for them.

This city of 65,000, across the harbor from Halifax, has a seven-year-old police station. But it was designed for 50 officers and the force already numbers more than 100.

One of the main worries of Police Chief Roger Smith is that outlying areas such as Cole Harbor or Eastern Passage might soon be amalgamated.

He does not know where the additional 34 men will be put because the station has already reached the saturation point. If there is any amalgamation, there will have to be even more constables.

Chief Smith recommended the construction of an additional floor on the station a year ago but that suggestion has been shelved.

No one expected the city's police force to grow so quickly, Chief Smith said, but current population projections indicate a need for continuing expansion.

The chief said a number of programs are suffering [illegible] of the acute lack of [illegible] and jail facilities are inadequate with only nine male and two female cells.

Conversation Continues Through Barbed Wire

METULLA, Israel (Reuter) — A high barbed-wire fence from the Mediterranean Sea to the Golan Heights seals off the border between Israel and Lebanon.

The Israelis built it to keep out Arab guerrillas. As a barrier to terrorism it largely works, the Isaelis say. Yet it does not choke off human dialogue.

Israelis and Arabs living on different sides of the fence, often tilling fields right up to its prickly strands, hold daily conversations through the wire.

They talk of politics and problems of living and exchange packs of cigarettes.

"I have very good friends across the border," said Bialik Belsky owner of a 30-room hotel in Metulla, Israel's northernmost community.

"We played together as children during the British mandate. I went to school with them in Beirut."

"We talk each week when we go into the fields. We stand for an hour, an hour and a half at times. We talk about things as they were and we talk about what is now and what will be.

"You know, until four years ago only a line of stones marked the frontier and we exchanged visits freely. Now there is the fence, and we talk through the wire."

Israeli journalist Yoram Hamizarachi lives in the kibbutz of Misgav-Am which nudges the border near Metulla.

Carrying a pack of Lebanese cigarettes which he received in an exchange of gifts, he said he talks about "everything" with his Arab neighbors.

"They tell me about their families, about their problems."

He stopped his car briefly along the border road and talked with two Lebanese women picking plants within the shadow of the fence.

"I asked them if their olive harvest was over," he translated.

"They said it was.

"I asked them where their husbands were.

"They said they were not married."

He drove past the rubble of a ruined building on the other side of the line. It was a Lebanese police post, destroyed by Israeli forces three years ago in reprisal for the kidnapping of an Israeli watchman, he explained.

"The women said sallam aleikum—peace to you. I said shalom—peace.

"I said I hope that soon peace will come and we won't have to talk through the fence.

"They said: "If God loves us it will happen soon.""

BIRTHS

HAGGERTY — James and Diane are happy to announce the safe arrival of their daughter, Amy Kathleen, on Wednesday, February 12th, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. Weight 7 lbs., 1½ oz. A baby sister for Scott.

ZADOW — Larry and Mary (nee Gillespie) thank God for the safe arrival of their daughter Emily Louise, 6 lbs., 10 ozs., born Tuesday, Feb. 4, 1975 at Belleville General Hospital. A sister for Matthew and Heather.

CASSON — The Cassons (Richard, Marion and Garrick), R.R. 1, Carrying Place, announce the arrival of their new baby girl, Nell Kathryn, born at the Belleville General Hospital, February 17th, 1975. May her life be woven with threads of happiness.

IN MEMORIAM

BRANT — HOBBS

—In loving memory of a dear brother and nephew who passed away Feb. 19, 1974.

Only those who have lost can tell,
But we often speak and always remembered,
The sorrow of parting without farewell.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by sister, brother-in-law, also nephews and nieces.

BRANT — In loving memory of a dear brother Arthur Brant, who passed away on Feb. 19, 1974.

His life was earnest, his actions kind,
A generous hand and an active mind,
Anxious to please, loath to offend,
A loving brother and faithful friend.

—Ever remembered by brother Burton Brant, wife Audrey and family.

HOBBS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Milton Hobbs who passed away Feb. 19th, 1974.

Every hour we dearly miss him,
Sadly do we feel his loss,
Lonely is our home without him,
Help us, Lord, to bear the cross.

—Ever remembered by wife Elaine and children Anita and Burton.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Harold Reid wish to express their sincere appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbour for their many acts of kindness, floral tributes and donations to the Ontario Heart Fund in the recent loss of a dear husband, father, brother and grandfather. A special thanks to Rev. Heard, IOOF Lodge No. 179, Dr. Derry and Dr. Dosaj.

The family of the late Mrs. Pearl Frances Sloan would like to sincerely thank the doctors and nurses on the seventh level for their devoted care during her lengthy illness. A sincere thanks for all the expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement.

Robert Sprague.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION INVITES APPLICATIONS FOR THE POSITION OF:

CO-ORDINATING SECRETARY

in connection with the Board community education project: "The County as a Classroom". This project is being funded by the Ministry of Education to assist the Board in promoting community education. There will be a minimum period of employment of one year. Continuation of the project and the position of Co-Ordinating Secretary beyond one year is dependent upon further financial support from the Ministry of Education.

General terms of reference for the position involve:

1. Under Board direction making detailed arrangements for and administering a Board course on community education.
2. Secretarial assitance and co-ordinating for an Advisory Committee on Community Education.
3. Physical preparation and distribution of a community education manual.

Applicants should have ability to administer, co-ordinate, and to communicate succesfully with people and agencies. Typing skill would be an asset, as would be a good knowledge of Prince Edward County.

Applicants should apply in writing stating their qualifications and availability for interview.

Applications should be placed in a sealed envelope, clearly marked, "Staff Application" on the outside and addressed to:

Business Administrator,
The Prince Edward County
Board Of Education,
P.O. Box 220,
Bloomfield, Ontario, K0K 1G0

Closing time for applications 1:00 P.M., Monday, February 24, 1975.

Applications received after that time and date will not be considered. Persons with applications at present on file with the Board office should reapply.

CP News Roundup

Danger Ignored

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario government members knew that radiation levels at Elliot Lake were consistently above recommended levels but never intervened on behalf of miners, Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party of Ontario, said Tuesday.

Trial Continues

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court trial of a man and woman charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the death of their infant daughter will continue today with the jury absent.

Charged are Brian and Brenda Hluska, both 22, of Mount Elgin, Ont., 12 miles south of here.

Accident Rate High

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) said Tuesday there was a ratio of nearly two accidents per worker last year at the International Nickel Co. (Inco) plant in Port Colborne, Ont.

May Expand Visit

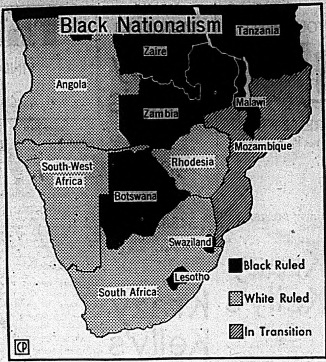
LONDON (AP) — Asian diplomats said Tuesday President Ford may visit at least three Eastern countries in connection with his visit to China this fall. They said Ford has accepted invitations to make state visits to India, Pakistan, Iran and perhaps Japan.

New Dealer Dies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Raymond Moley, 88, one of the architects of President Franklin Roosevelt's "New Deal," died Tuesday at St. Luke's Hospital. Moley suffered a heart attack last year and had been in ill health since. The New Deal was a public-works program aimed at putting people to work during the Depression in the United States.

For the Birds

LONDON (CP) — The theory that superhighways ruin the ecology of the countryside is disputed by Roger Tabor, 26, a biologist, no less. He says his studies show that vibrations caused by heavy trucks brings worms to the surface, thus attracting birds to the roadside where they can pick up a quick take-away meal.



Rhodesia's Black Belt

The tide of black nationalism now nearly surrounds the former colony of Rhodesia which declared independence from Britain in 1965. With the rush of events that changed government in Portugal, the independence move has engulfed Mozambique. If may just do the same for Angola. Observers predict that the white minority regime of Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith is nearing its end.

However, the turn of events in Portugal which spelled the demise of the nation's African empire, might prompt Ian Smith to seek some sort of settlement in his own land acceptable to both blacks and whites. But it might be too late.

With out the military and economic support of white South Africa, Smith's government would have little chance of surviving. South African newspapers have openly hinted that Smith has become an embarrassment to South African Prime Minister John Vorster. They reason that South African may no longer deem it worthwhile to support a string of white buffer states.

The gap between Smith and the black majority in Rhodesia is widening it anything. Smith incurred black ire by keeping the leaders of two main Rhodesian liberation groups in jail and his security forces made a recent roundup of leaders of the more moderate African National Council. In view of the domestic situation, black Rhodeian leaders may see less reason to reach any compromise with the Smith government. (P Newsmap)

Police Cannot Arrest Drunks in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Being drunk in public is no crime, Florida lawmakers have decided. It's a sickness.

No longer can the stumbling inebriate be hauled into jail, booked and told to sleep it off.

"Police can take an inebriate home, they can detain him for up to 12 hours or they can drive him directly to a treatment centre," said S. George Clarke, deputy chief of the state's Bureau of Alcoholic Rehabilitation. "The only thing the police cannot do is arrest him, something that is costly, unjust and ineffective."

A new Florida law which took effect last July assures treatment—not jail and a criminal record—for public drunks. Its enforcement is expected to cost the state $10 million this year, most of it to be used for operating 26 treatment or detoxification centres which opened their doors Jan. 1.

"We project a $6 million saving in incarceration costs for the $2,000 public intoxication arrests made last year," said rehabilitation bureau chief James Alford. "We may be spending more but we feel we're getting more for our money."

Similar legislation has been enacted in 17 other states but Florida officials feel their program goes further than most.

"The treatment centres (with a total of 572 beds) are designed to provide close observation of drunks in the first six to eight hours," said Ernest Haar, the bureau's community programs co-ordinator. "The period will involve physical evaluation to detect health problems. After eight hours, the patient is allowed some independent mobility such as walking around the room.

"We expect that about 40 per cent won't need medical care and can be referred for other services after sobering up."

British Spy Leaves Prison

LONDON (CP) — On a winter night in 1954, a young Englishman left the British Embassy in Moscow to meet a Russian friend outside the illustrious Bolshoi Theatre.

The meeting led to a party and the party to a sexual orgy which turned London-born John Vassall into a spy for the Soviet Union. His espionage trial eight years later was one of the most celebrated criminal cases in Britain during the early 1960s.

Vassall was a homosexual who had been appointed a military attache in the British Embassy in 1953. It was the height of the Cold War and the heyday of blackmail and East-West undercover work. Yet nobody in the British foreign service had bothered to check on the strength or nature of Vassall's sexual proclivities.

Now released from prison after serving 10 years of an 18-year sentence, he has written his autobiography, Vassall, the Autobiography of a Spy, published here by Sidgwick and Jackson.

In it, he blamed the foreign service for not making certain he was "sexually straight" before appointing him to the ultra-sensitive Moscow post.

After meeting his "skiing friend" at the Bolshoi, writes Vassall, he was taken to a subway station where he was introduced to another man.

Everything seemed aboveboard, he says, and the new acquaintance "looked at me in a mysterious way with a Mona Lisa smile and black penetrating eyes."

They then moved on to the Hotel Berlin and a private dining room, opulently set for 12 guests. Dinner, says Vassall, was friendly, relaxed and liberally spiced with vodka and wine.

"Not until 1963 was it suggested to me that the wine I was given must have been drugged."

Afterwards, only a handful of guests remained and one of the men suggested Vassall should take off his jacket since he looked warm. This done, it was suggested he take off all his clothes and again the fledgling, 30-year-old diplomat complied.

There then followed an extended sexual session on a couch with three of the Russian men, which ended when a fifth man took a series of pictures.

Vassall's exploits with Russian men continued with increasing frequency during the next several weeks with other photographs being taken. He says he had no idea of the net which was developing around him.

Within a month, however, he was approached by the Russian secret service and told he had been caught in criminal activities and that his private life would have to be revealed to the Western press and the British embassy.

The only way out, they told him, was to go to work for them. The word spying was never used. The Russians said they only wanted to have periodic meetings and talk about various personnel in the embassy.

From that moment, says Vassall, he was irretrievably trapped. His movements, until he was finally caught in 1962, were minutely monitored by the Russians and he was never allowed to break out of the vicious circle.

A year later, Vassall returned to London as a secretary in the naval intelligence division of the admiralty. He was told by his Russian contact to buy a camera and the photographing of secret documents began.

His next job was even more important, assistant private secretary to T. G. D. Galbraith, the new civil lord of the admiralty in the Conservative government.

But by 1962, Vassall was being closely watched because of his high style of living and because of his time in Moscow.

"In spite of my premonitions, it was a complete surprise when, as I left the northwest door of the Admiralty in The Mall, two men in mackintoshes came forward, flashed a warrant and asked me to accompany them."

Vassall's trial was swift. He pleaded guilty and he says the authorities were embarrassed more at his being homosexual than at his being a spy, "perhaps because of all the other homosexuals they knew were in the civil service."

Vassall, Roman Catholic son of a prominent Anglican vicar, now is 50 and has a job with a City bank.

Electrocution on a Steel Tower

Fireman on cherry picker approaches body of man found electrocuted atop 50-foot-high steel tower of Long Island Rail Road in New York's borough of Queens. Police said electrical charge from high-tension wire, which carries 22,000 volts, had cut off his right leg. seen at left between beams. Victim was tentatively identified as Christopher McCleave, 40, of West Milford, N.J. Railroad police theorized he might have climbed the tower looking for copper wire. (AP Photo)

Two Musicians Sentenced on Drug Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two members of the rock group, The Undisputed Truth, have been sentenced in federal court following convictions on heroin charges, which alleged the two participated in a ring sending the drug to Detroit.

Singers Joe Harris and Calvin Stephenson were sentenced Tuesday after they were convicted on charges of conspiracy and possession with intent to distribute heroin.

Harris was given two years in prison and Stephenson was placed on three years probation.

Both remained free on bail pending appeal.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, February 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A situation where you think you have an ace-in-the hole will be trumped when you play it. Don't lull yourself into a false security.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Again today you won't manage your resources as wisely as you could. Once you've set a budget, hold to it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're going to be caught off-guard if you rely too heavily on others to come through for you in the pinch. They won't.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your generosity will be abused but it's partially your fault. You'll make a commitment you have no right to make.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) There's an old adage, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." Keep it in mind today, particularly in business dealings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) Keep goals within reason. Be satisfied with progress a step at a time. If you move too hastily you'll lessen your chances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 3) You have a tendency today to think your ideas are far superior to those of co-workers. You'll turn a deaf ear to helpful suggestions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not a day to gamble on anything sight-unseen, although you're apt to do just that on a whim or impulse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) At least pay those interested in your welfare the courtesy of listening to their advice before making major decisions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you're very diligent where your duties are concerned, but today you'll palm things off on others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Problems that you get yourself into now are likely to stem from the extravagant manner by which you handle your resources.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're a shade too opinionated today for your own good. You'll think you're impressing others. You are—the wrong way.

Cystitis Doesn't Mean Operation

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 18, had severe pain in her abdomen, with burning and passing of blood in her urine. Her doctor said she had cystitis.

He gave her a prescription for penicillin tablets. My neighbor said sooner or later she will have to be operated on for it because it will keep coming back on her. Is this true?—Mrs. W.P.

No, it isn't true.

An acute urinary infection is often accompanied by blood in the urine. It's called hemorrhagic cystitis.

The only likely operative procedure is a cystoscopic examination. A viewing device called a cystoscope is inserted via the urethra into the bladder. A tiny light at the end of the instrument allows the doctor to view the lining of the bladder to detect inflammation, polyps or other abnormalities.

Two points about cystitis: the urine should be examined to detect the exact organism causing the inflammation. Many bladder infections are secondary, with the primary cause farther up the urinary tract, in the kidneys for instance.

Once discovered, the organism can be matched up with the most effective antibiotic. And this therapy should be continued until all traces of the infection are gone. Too early interruption of the antibiotic therepy usually results in recurrence of the infection.

How effective the penicillin your daughter is using will become obvious with time. Perhaps another drug will be needed.

Your neighbor is right in one respect. Cystitis, which is a common affliction in women, does tend to recur.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a check up and was found in excellent health except that he has a fast heart beat. He leads a quiet life—no anxieties.

He checkd his own hart beat. It was 88. What is normal?—A.C.R.

A normal beat can be anywhere from 60 to 90 beats per minute.

His self check may not be the best way to find out. It is better to have someone else do the counting. The 88 is getting close to the upper limit of normal, but often apprehension about taking one's own pulse can raise it a few beats or more. Anxiety about the examination in the doctor's office may quicken the pulse. (Blood pressure readings also can be a bit higher under such circumstances.)

Anxiety is not the only cause of fast heart rates. Overweight, excessive coffee or cola drinking, and smoking are causes. Subtle overactivity of the thyroid gland is another.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a health advantage in drinking distilled water?—T.Y.

None that I know of unless the regular drinking supply is odorous or contaminated. If so, it can be purified with chemicals you can buy in the store.

Treated drinking water is more tasty and supplies trace minerals the system can always use. Besides, it's a lot cheaper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me why my skin doctor won't prescribe a drug for my acne condition? He says it's not bad enough to start that. But it just stays the same no matter how much washing I do.

To him, I guess it doesn't look that bad.—J.P.

It is true that acne is usually more catastrophic to the patient than to the doctor. You can only trust that your doctor, who has undoubtedly treated hundreds of cases of acne, has good reason for not wanting to begin any radical treatment.

You did not give your age but I assume you are a teen-ager. Acne affects up to 80 per cent of all young people at about the time of puberty. Fortunately, the majority of those cases clear up after about a year with no lasting problems.

So statistically your doctor is expecting you to be among the many whose problems are best handled with conservative treatment such as good general hygiene and perhaps dietary restrictions.

Many cases of acne can be made worse by too much tempering. Even the normal habit of resting the chin on a free hand during study can be one of the many little habits that worsen acne.

Why don't you inquire of your doctor why he feels medication at this time is not best for your case?

By Oswald and James Jacoby

North was both philosophical and sarcastic.

He remarked, "Good rubber bridge players should play fast and get to play as many rubbers as possible. They win more that way. You should take more time. You may even find the correct play if you do stop to think."

South had paused for a full second before winning the first spade. He played the ace and queen of clubs from dummy with equal speed. East showed out and, all of a sudden, North's nine-eight of clubs were going to block South's fifth club. South struggled along for some time, but could not work out a way to get a ninth trick.

If South had stopped to think at the start of play, he might have seen the danger of a club-suit block. In that case he could have let East hold the first spade trick. East would probably have led a second spade and South would let him hold that trick, also.

After that South would be able to discard one of dummy's clubs on the ace of spades and score his five club tricks.

Of course, there is no law that would have compelled East to lead a second spade, but South should have been able to work out a way to get his ninth trick by playing and ducking a second spade himself.

CP News Roundup

Longest Pregnancy Expected

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP) — Jacqueline Haddock believes that some time in April she will set a world record for the longest pregnancy—14 months—but there are some doubters.

Her husband Brian said: "The doctors said the baby probably went dormant for a time and then started to grow again Jackie is sick to death of waiting."

But Prof. S. R. Huntingford of London University said he knows of no scientific evidence to support the supposition that a baby can lie dormant.

"The usual explanation of long pregnancies is that there was a menstrual irregularity or that another pregnancy came to grief and a new one was started," he said.

The Guinness book of Records says the longest pregnancy for a baby born alive was established by Christine Houghton of Wlaberton, Sussex, in May, 1971, when she gave birth to a seven-pound seven-ounce baby boy after 390 days. Normal pregnancy lasts about 280 days.

Mounties Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Tuesday that a Florida man who spied on Maoists in Canada for the FBI did so with RCMP approval.

The minister said in an interview that John Burton, 42, an FBI informer, came to Canada after the agency received permission from the RCMP.

Abortions Legal

ROME (AP) — Italy's highest court, crossing swords with the Vatican, ruled Tuesday that abortion is legal in this Roman Catholic country if pregnancy threatens a woman's health.

The Vatican reacted in a broadcast, saying: "The ruling is questionable and of extreme gravity because it backs killing of the one to be born."

Hospital Criticized

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury inquiring into the death last Sept. 8 of a solvent-sniffing youth criticized Tuesday the London Psychiatric Hospital in London, Ont., for not recommending continued treatment of the teen-ager it released less than three months earlier.

Killings Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Secretary Howard Callaway ordered destruction Tuesday of millions of starlings, grackles and other varieties of blackbirds at two U.S. Army posts in Kentucky and Tennessee to begin when weather conditions permit The order was issued after scientists said chemicals to be used should not pose health hazards to people or animals in the area of Fort Campbell, Ky., and the Milan, Tenn., army ammunition plant.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Four union members were arrested by police here Tuesday during an early morning demonstration in front of the government's printing bureau.

Uncertain About Boy

OTTAWA (CP) — City police are "still not certain" that a four-year-old boy was intentionally set on fire two weeks ago, a police spokesman said Tuesday.

"He may have had something on him that caused the fire," Inspector Les Thomson said. "We're waiting for the RCMP lab report later this week."

Fare Action Delayed

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) deferred action Tuesday on a fare increase until it finds out how large a subsidy it can get from Metropolitan Toronto and the provincial government.

Auto Body Shops Can Cheat

TORONTO (CP) — A director of the Insurance Bureau of Canada says auto body shops can usually get away with cheating customers.

"We've gone to the police, but they say proving fraud is very difficult," said John MacKenzie, regional president of State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Co.

Full Write-offs Restored For Oil Exploration Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner cleared one hurdle Tuesday night in his long battle for parliamentary approval of the government's omnibus income tax bill.

The 287-page bill, covering tax changes announced in the Nov. 18 federal budget, must be passed before rebate cheques for 1974 income tax returns can be mailed.

The gain Tuesday came when the Commons approved a controversial section restoring the former 100-per-cent tax write-off for exploration expenses incured by mining and oil companies.

It was cut to 30 per cent last year under pressure from the New Democratic Party, then holding the effective balance of power in a minority Parliament.

Mr. Turner announced in November, after the majority Liberal win in the July 8 election, that the 100-per-cent write-off would be restored.

Other clauses in the tax bill would implement personal income tax cuts for 1974 and 1975, make the first $1,000 of savings interest income tax-free, and allow individual taxpayers to write off up to $1,000 annually for savings toward their first home.

The proposed legislation also would give the government power to charge federal income tax on royalties paid by oil and natural gas companies to the provinces.

The two sections affecting resource companies have dominated the 14 full Commons days spent so far debating the bill.

Progress has been so slow that the government, in an effort to get other legislation moving, negotiated an agreement with opposition parties to sit overtime Tuesday night.

Davis Says Ontario Backs Job Equality

TORONTO (CP) —Premier William Davis issued a challenge Tuesday to leaders of industry, business and trade unions to follow the province's lead in actively promoting employment equality for women.

Addressing 380 representatives at a conference on equal employment opportunities, Premier Davis said Ontario is "serious" about improving employment opportunities for women.

"As the largest employer in the province, we feel a strong responsibility to show leadership and to encourage and urge every other employer to do likewise."

He said that government and employers alike "must change their attitudes toward women in employment so that prejudice and unconscious discrimination disappear," adding that employers could follow the government's program of affirmative action to improve the status of women employees in the public service.

Oil Export Cuts To Be Discussed

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal proposal to cut oil exports to the United States to 650000 barrels a day will be discussed at a federal-provincial meeting here April 9-10, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday.

Exports that averaged 900,000 barrels daily last year were cut to 800,000 barrels in January after Ottawa received a report showing a rapid decline in domestic oil reserves.

When he announced the export cuts last November, Mr. Macdonald said a further drop to 650,000 barrels would come July 1 if the producing provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan agree.

He said Tuesday the proposed reduction will be on the agenda for the meeting between Prime Minister Trudeau and the 10 provincial premiers. The cuts would be made if the provinces agree to reduce production leaving oil for the Montreal market in the ground until shipments begin late next year.

Ottawa agreed last year to set aside 250,000 barrels of domestic oil daily for Montreal and to extend an oil pipeline to that city from Sarnia, Ont.

Ottawa already has agreed to give financial guarantees to Interprovincial Pipeline Ltd. of Toronto, protecting the company from any losses on the line, expected to be completed in late 1976.

Any U.S. Threats Will Harm Gas Chances

OTTAWA (CP) — Threats of retaliation will diminish the United States' chances of getting favorable treatment on Canadian natural gas supplies, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday.

He made the comment in the Commons after hearing reports that an unnamed U.S. state department official warned that Canada faces drastic retaliation if it reduces gas exports to its neighbor.

He said outside the Commons later that the U.S. state department plans to repudiate the comments. In answer to a query on whether the statement might have been meant as an unofficial warning, he said: "If it was, it's not going to work.

"The Americans are concerned about natural gas supplies, but no threats have been made during any of my meetings with either the administration or Congress," Mr. Macdonald said.

Replying to questions from James Gillies (PC—Toronto Don Valley), Mr. Macdonald said long-term gas supply contracts and export permits from the National Energy Board provide for a reduction in shipments if they are not surplus to domestic needs.

Inflation Policy Nears Completion

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should be in a position in about a month to make a decision on what to do next with its elusive anti-inflation program.

Cabinet ministers will have had about 20 meetings with representatives of business, labor and professional groups by late March and a government official says there are no plans for further meetings in the exploratory stage of developing a program.

Senior cabinet members have steadfastly refused to give details of government intentions while they have quietly assembled a small staff known as the ministerial inflation consultation secretariat.

Finance Minister John Turner has said they are seeking a consensus on how to split up the national pie.

He says an anti-inflation program should be voluntary but has avoided, under questioning, saying whether this will involve government guides. He says the electorate rejected controls in the 1974 election by defeating the Progressive Conservatives under Robert Stanfield.

Meanwhile, the government is under pressure from business to set an example in wage settlements.

The government has not set a guide for civil service settlements but the estimates of spending for the year beginning April 1 contains a seven-per-cent allowance for wage and salary increases for employees with contracts expiring during the year. The spending estimates were to be tabled today by Treasury Board President Jean Chretien.

The seven-per-cent increase is a conservative estimate and there is a special fund in the treasury board budget—probably for more than $100 million—to cover higher civil service settlements.

Cline Is Charged With Extortion

LONDON Ont. (CP) — Donald Cline, 21, accused of kidnapping four children last month in their house near Thamesford, Ont., was charged Tuesday with extortion.

Cline, who had escaped from prison prior to the alleged offences, is accused of inducing provincial authorities to give him $10,000, a radio-equipped police car and free passage in exchange for the children's lives.

The suspect already has been charged with kidnapping the children — Robert, Donald, David and Kim Field—from their house in nearby North Dorchester Township.

The kidnapping and extortion offences are alleged to have occured on Jan. 21 shortly after a Thamesford supermarket was robbed of $789. Thamesford is 10 miles northeast of here.

Cline is jointly charged with the robbery with four other males. The five persons and a London woman are accused of conspiring to rob a Thamesford bank branch the same day.

Cline also is charged with robbing two policemen of their guns at the Field house attempting to murder them and possession of a stolen driver's licence and credit cards.

George Field, 33, father of the children, has been charged with five counts of possession, on JaJn. 26, of stolen goods. He has been summonsed to appear in provincial court Feb. 26.

Bill Bans Degrading Of Flag

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill which would make it illegal to degrade, mutilate, desecrate or insult the Canadian flag, raised officially for the first time 10 years ago this month, moved one step closer to parliamentary approval Tuesday.

Introduced by Leonard Hopkins (L—Renfrew North-Nipissing East), the bill was given approval in principle and referred to committee for detailed study. It still needs committee approval, third reading, Senate passage and royal assent to become law.

If approved, it would make insulting the flag an offence punishable on summary conviction. No penalty is specified but summary convictions usually mean sentences of less than two years in jail.

The bill, supported by all parties, also covers provincial flags and those flown by foreign embassies in Canada, but Mr. Hopkins said he will move an amendment in committee to limit its application to the Canadian flag.

Mr. Hopkins said the proposal is not intended to interfere with young people who wear Canadian flag T-shirts or sew flags to hip pockets or knapsacks, but is aimed at persons who commit acts intended to insult the flag.

"By insulting a flag you're insulting a nation and its people," he said Respecting a flag was more than worshipping a piece of cloth—it was an act of loyalty to country.

No Suggestion Immigration Should Be Cut

TORONTO (CP) — The government's green paper on immigration does not suggest that immigration be drastically limited, Immigration Minister Robert Andras said Tuesday.

He told a meeting of publishers and editors of ethnic language newspapers that the green paper suggests that problems related to population growth have to be sorted out.

"It's not a red light against immigration," he said. "It's a caution light."

Mr. Andras said the government is not scheming to bar entry to Canada on racial grounds. And although there is discrimination in the country, the government "is not going to be shoved around by extremists," he said.

"We do not want an immigration policy that discriminates on the basis of race, color or creed. . . . I, personally, could not live with a policy that discrinated on racial grounds, nor could my colleagues in government."

Hope for More Processing Of Minerals

OTTAWA (CP) — Any new national mineral policy should encourage more processing of minerals before they are exported ,says a report tabled in the Commons Tuesday by Energy Minister Donald Macdonald.

The 57-page report, based on talks with the 10 provincial mines ministers, says a new policy should include more mineral-based manufacturing in the country, and outlines options open in further talks between federal and provincial governments and industry on specific directives.

Refinancing May Be Done

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Jean Marchand hopes to make an announcement "shortly" on the possible refinancing of the Canadian section of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The U.S. government in 1971 wrote off the debt interest for the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation in that country. "We may have to do the same or find some other formula" Mr. Marchand said.

Strike Averted

City Hall Staff Okays Contract

By. HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

In an eleventh-hour vote before the right to strike, Belleville's city hall workers have accepted a new one-year contract offer.

The issue was resolved Wednesday night by members of Local 140, Canadian Union of Public Employees, who voted to accept management's latest contract offer, and average of over $1300 increase.

The workers had the right to strike after today.

Peter Ouderkirk, president of the local, said the contract, negotiated Tuesday with management, was voted into favor by a "small majority of city hall's 43 technical and clerical workers.

Maximum demands set for negotiations on the one-year contract were 25 per cent for clerical staff, 21 per cent for technical workers. The old contract had pay range maximums of $6,668 to about $11,500.

The new contract gives an 18 per cent raise to clerical workers and 14 per cent to technical staff. The new contract also includes the equivalent of 1.7 per cent in fringe benefits.

The workers, who first believed they had the right to strike this Friday, Feb. 21, but later discovered the legal deadline was today.

Future contracts will be sought for one year, said Mr. Ouderkirk.

"We are not going to get stuck with two years — not unless the inflation rate levels off three or four years from now," said the local union president.

City manager Wilbur Purcell estimated cost of the contract increases at about $60,000.

Mr. Purcell said he and personnel director Douglas Wright, who formed the management team, were to meet later with Local 140 spokesmen to officially hear the workers' decision. Up to this morning they had not formally been informed of the results.

Mr. Purcell said the contract package was similar to the one recently worked out with city firefighters.

Quebec Objects

NDP Governments Complain Aid to Working Poor Tardy

OTTAWA (CP) — The two-day federal-provincial welfare meeting broke up Wednesday with Ottawa and some of the provinces far apart on crucial issues.

The New Democratic Party provinces of British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba complained bitterly about federal delays in implementing a system of income supplements for the working poor and Liberal Claude Forget of Quebec stubbornly insisted that Ottawa should not horn in on the provincial jurisdiction of welfare administration.

The provincial ministers left the conference without committing themselves to federal proposals for major reforms of the welfare system.

However, a closing statement said it was agreed that the next two stages of reform in Canada's social security system should provide an unspecified guaranteed minimum income to single parents and the unemployable and a sliding scale of income supplements to aid the working poor.

A suggestion by federal Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde that a program of income supplements for the working poor could be administered by the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) drew heated criticism from several provinces.

Mr. Forget said "it is not up to Ottawa to become involved in direct payments for social welfare."

Norm Levi, B.C. human resources minister, also rejected any plans to funnel additional programs through the UIC, saying "I doubt the UIC's ability to administer anything."

At the final news conference, Mr. Lalonde reacted angrily to descriptions of the UIC as a walking disaster.

"I could say the same thing about most provincial welfare programs," he snapped.

Municipal Help Sought

Garbage Profits Seen for Future

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Martin Wood, representing the Ontario ministry of the environment, made a sales pitch Wednesday to Hastings County municipalities — including Belleville and Trenton — that could make collecting garbage a paying proposition.

Mr. Wood, in a presentation to municipal representatives coinciding with this week's meeting of county council, said the province had last week approved funds to subsidize municipalities that will co-operate in the ministry's resource recovery program.

What the ministry wants is the agreement of county municipalities — townships, villages, towns and cities — to work with the environment ministry on a long-range garbage collection and processing program that could, Mr. Wood said, produce a profit after about 12 years' operation.

"But it must be a volume operation," Mr. Wood emphasized.

The ministry plan calls for the organized collection of garbage, moving it to a central point by road or rail or both and processing it to recover reusable materials. In Mr. Wood's slide presentation, Belleville was indicated as a potential site for a processing plant.

Hastings, Mr. Wood said, was a logical place to introduce the resource recovery program. The county's waste management committee had already conducted a study through consultants Gore and Storrie, which made it possible for the ministry to make concrete plans for the area.

Province-wide, the program would initially include six processing plants. Three are definitely going into Toronto, London and Sudbury. The original plan called for a provincial plant in Kingston, but its uncertain status makes Belleville a potential site.

First phase of the program would be concerned with setting up collection and transportation of waste. Then a central plant would be set up where waste would be shredded and separated for materials that could be re-used in steelmaking or papermaking or used as fuel in such operations as cement-making and generating electricity. The balance would go into landfill disposal sites.

Eventually, Mr. Wood said, at least 80 per cent of garbage could be recovered and re-used by the time sophisticated equipment had been installed — by about 1985 or 1990.

County administrator Carl Bateman, at the conclusion of Mr. Wood's presentation, said a series of meetings would be set up in the county to explore the resource recovery proposal.

Tax Refunds Won't Come Till March

OTTAWA (CP) — Taxpayers awaiting delivery of 1974 income tax refunds probably will have to wait until at least early next month for their money.

The Commons continued to wade through the 287-page omnibus income tax bill Wednesday, but has covered only about one-half of its 142 clauses.

Revenue department officials have been prepared, but cannot say income tax forms are being processed and refund cheques be mailed until Parliament approves the tax bill.

About 85,000 refunds had piled up by late last week and revenue officials expected the number to double by the end of this week.

Wendesday was the 15th day of Commons debate on the bill.

With an opposition-requested debate on Canadian International Development Agency spending scheduled for today, and the short five-hour sitting on Friday, there appeared to be little chance of the bill passing this week.

The bill might clear the Commons next week, then go to the Senate, making final approval before March 1 doubtful.

Federal Estimates Highlights

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of government spending estimates for the fiscal year beginning April 1, as presented to the House of Commons yesterday:

Spending expected to increase a minimum of 11 per cent or a maximum of 13 per cent to $28.75 billion.

The increase in spending understated because the government has changed its bookkeeping system for payments to provinces.

Largest percentage increase among major categories 37 per cent for foreign affairs.

Largest dollar increase among major categories $831 million for health and welfare, or 11.8 per cent.

Increase for operation of House of Commons, 16.5 per cent and 21.2 per cent for the Senate.

Costs of civil service salary, wage and benefit bill expected to rise 12.1 per cent.

Civil service manpower requirements expected to increase by 3.3 per cent.

Government spending on buildings, land, machinery and equipment projected to increase by 37 per cent.

Post office spending to go up by 22.6 per cent.

Syria Fears Egypt Plans Separate Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syria is trying to drum up Arab pressure on President Anwar Sadat of Egypt to get him to make a new Egyptian-Israeli agreement dependent on an Israeli troop withdrawal on the Syrian front.

Arab diplomats in Beirut said Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam is visiting Algeria, Libya and Morocco to seek backing for his government's demand that any Israeli pullback in the Sinai desert be simultaneous with a withdrawal on the Golan Heights.

The diplomats said Khaddam headed across North Africa after returning Tuesday from Saudi Arabia.

Reporters who accompanied U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger on his visits to Cairo, Damascus and Jerusalem last week said he is worried that President Hafez Assad of Syria may thwart the Isreli-Egyptian agreement he thinks he can negotiate with he returns to the Middle East next month.

U.S. officials said Kissinger is exploring ways to link a Sinai agreement to the Syrian drive for another Israeli withdrawal on the Golan Heights. One suggestion is to couple the Israeli-Egyptian agreement with announcement of a date for resumption of the Geneva peace conference.

Reeves Oppose Change In Date for Elections

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Ontario doesn't need earlier local - government elections, Hastings County councillors decided Wednesday.

The issue has been sparking reacions from municipalities around the province since last December's election were hit by bad weather — specifically in the Windsor area.

As a result, the Association of Municipalities of Ontario is canvassing local governments for opinions on changing elections from wintry December.

But earlier election could mean defeated council members would lose interest for the rest of their terms, maybe not even show for meetings, warned Reeve Felix Browne, of Bangor-Wicklow-McClure.

Reeve Jack McKenzie of Faraday agreed. Other reeves said their councillors had decided against earlier elections. Some doubted that weather patterns had much influence on voter turnout anyway.

Reeve Leonard Walsh of Tyendinaga said years ago roads in his township had to be plowed to help farmers get to the polls and "there was no problem then".

Council agreed with Reeve Ritchie Wells, Marmora-Lake Township, that there should be no change in the present election date — the first Monday in December.

PUBLIC SERVICE ALLIANCE

Pickets at Government House

Members of the Public Service Alliance, who went out on strike across Canada Monday, set up picket lines at federal sites including Government House in Ottawa. Cross-Canada Mail Strangled

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Air Canada was moving toward normal service today after a one-day strike disruption, but cross-Canada mail remained choked by a complete Toronto tieup created by a walkout of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC).

"We are running at full schedule and have a few delays," an Air Canada spokesman said at Toronto. He said all airports used by the airline are operating.

However, flights out of Halifax were running three hours behind schedule because of icy runways.

Air Canada ran at about 60-per-cent capacity out of Toronto Wednesday as the PSAC strike and bad weather combined to force it to cancel short-and medium-haul flights. Montreal airport was closed most of Wednesday but reopened during the night.

While the weather helped keep airfields at least partially clear for use, there was no relief for the mail bottleneck in Toronto, where 48 per cent of letters posted in Canada pass through the huge central terminal of the post office at the rate of seven million a day.

Only about 220 PSAC members were on strike there, but refusal of other workers to cross their picket lines effectively brought the service to a standstill. About 7,000 other workers, including carriers, were put on leave without pay in Metropolitan Toronto Wednesday night.

The Toronto postal walkout was due to continue until midnight tonight.

Across the country, the rotating walkouts of the blue-collar union, involving about 11,500 persons, went through their fourth day, affecting a miscellany of government operin the west.

Meanwhile, the PSAC and the federal treasury board went into the second day of resumed negotiations at Ottawa with a news blackout imposed on the talks that started again Wednesday afternoon.

Ed Roworth, a Toronto postal spokesman, said the Ontario government has been asked to hold back delivery of 280,000 income-supplement cheques to the post office today. The Unemployment Insurance Commission said in a newspaper advertisement today that it will distribute cheques for the Toronto area at district offices until mail interruptions end.

In London, Ont., a post office spokesman said Wednesday that southwestern Ontario mail was put through a system bypassing Toronto. Mail in and out of London moved through post offices in Hamilton, Kitchener, Ont., and Barrie, Ont.

Kincaid Heads Hastings PCs

MADOC — Kel Kincaid, Wednesday night was reinstated as president of the Hastings Progressive Conservative Association.

Vice presidents — spread throughout the riding are Bennett Brant of Tyendinaga, Gerry Brennan and Rhoda Gray of Belleville, Audrey Donnally of Bancroft, Vera Neil of Marmora, Ken Thompson of Tweed, Ewart Wannamaker of Bancroft, and Alff Wickett of Thurlow.

Bill McBride was elected secretary and Stewart Cooke treasurer.

Representing Hastings Riding provincially is Clarke Rollins while Jack Ellis holds the federal post.

Both attended Wednesday's annual meeting and election of officers.

TV, Rings Stolen

A 17-inch black and white television set and two rings were taken during a break-in at th ehome of Clarence Jaarsna, of RR5, Trenton.

Provincial police said the theft was reported to them about 9:50 p.m. Wednesday. Entry, they said, was gained by breaking the glass in a door. The house was ransacked by the intruder or intruders but only the three items were reported missing.

Townships Told Not to Rely On Rangers for Fire Protection

Householders in rural areas without community firefighters, should not rely on provincial forestry services for domestic protection.

The warning was implied in a letter from the natural resources ministry's Bancroft region offices to Hastings County council Wednesday.

The reason: Provincial forest firefighting teams are neither trained nor equipped to fight building fires.

Of the 10 Hastings township areas in the ministry's Bancroft region, six have agreements on prevention and control of forest, grass, bush fires.

But, wrote ministry officials, their forest fire teams are often called to buildings' fires in these municipalities.

Take 2

Since the men are not trained, nor the equipment suitable, for such outbreaks, county government authorities should discuss the situation, suggested the ministry.

Residents in these areas should be advised they have no protection against such fires, although ministry teams are not "unwilling" to provide assistance when required.

The Ontario Fire Marshal's office can be consulted on helping solve the problem, said the ministry letter.

Council received and filed the letter.

Townships in north Hastings County with ministry agreements on forest and bush fires are Faraday, Herschel, Limerick, Monteagle, Tudor-Cashel, Wollaston. Those without are Carlow, Dungannon, Bangor-Wicklow-McClure and Mayo.

Tanker Damaged

TWEED — Damage bill on a large tanker truck that spun out of control and crashed Wednesday night on Highway 37 about three miles north of Tweed is estimated at $4,000.

The accident occurred at 6 p.m., but it was 1 a.m. before the Canox truck was righted and towed away. Driver Donald Stewart, 27, of Mississauga was taken by ambulance to Belleville General Hospital, treated and released.

A retired farmer, he was a member of Ebenezer Christian Reformed Church.

Two Homes for Aged Have Waiting Lists

Both homes for the aged in Hastings County are operating at near capacity and admission applications have had to be declined.

At Hastings Manor in Belleville — with accommodation for 256 — there is a waiting list of 38, Hastings County council was told Wednesday.

At Centennial Manor in Bancroft with 92 elderly people, there are nine awaiting admisison, council's homes for the aged committee reported.

The committee also said some fire protection problems were reported by Hastings Manor at Belleville.

During a fire drill auxiliary lighting failed to function in part of the second floor, leaving halls and rooms in darkness. It was also noted there were no fire-pull stations to sound an alarm.

The committee recommended "immediate action" to rectify the situation.

Tickets Still Available

Belleville residents hoping to attend the luncheon meeting in which the president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, E. R. (Bob) Olson is to speak have an extra day to buy tickets.

A story in Wednesday's Intelligencer said the meeting would be held today. It is, in fact, to take place Friday, Feb. 21. Tickets are available at the chamber office on Front St. at $4.80 each. The event starts at noon at the Four Seasons Hotel.

City Trade Show Planned for April

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

The upcoming Education Week, a display of local manufacturers' products and the city's Centennial were the main topics discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

It was decided that in the first week of April an exhibition or trade show be set up to display local manufactured products. A dinner and guest speaker were also mentioned as part of the activities.

Also discussed was Education Week, which takes place later in April. Mention was made by one of the chamber members that it should be important to point out the various kinds of education which take place outside the formal education system such as work done in educating the public by such groups as the St. John Ambulance, the hospital and industry.

Pertaining to the city's centennial celebrations in 1978, chamber president George Thompson said that while the search for a centennial commissioner continues, the work of steering committee set up by the chamber will carry on. City take 2 indent jh

An optimistic note on next year's winter carnival was touched upon when Mr. Thompson told the directors that two service clubs are seriously considering taking on the celebrations.

This year's winter carnival was cancelled after the Jaycees decided not to sponsor them and other service clubs felt they didn't have enough time to carry them on. The Chamber of Commerce had also helped sponsor the winter carnival last year.

Ping Pong Tops List Of Drop-in Centre Games

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Youth Activities, a recreation program primarily for secondary school students, is in operation at the County Centre under a Local Initiatives Project grant through the Community Centres Board.

The program, opened about three weeks ago, will continue until mid-June under recreation supervisor Michele Perron-Bull.

Among the after-school activities offered are table games such as chess, cards, checkers and ping pong.

Mrs. Perron-Bull notes ping pong rapidly has become a favorite sport and she hopes to organize a spring tournament.

The youth activities program is open from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and from 3 to 10 p.m. each Friday and Saturday.

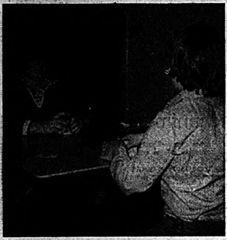
Each weekend about 50 teens attend the recreation program on Friday and Saturday nights.

On Wednesday mornings a mother and toddlers skating period is scheduled and each Saturday afternoon movies for elementary school students are shown.

The LIP grant issued for the program also provides for maintenance of two outdoor skating rinks, one at the rear of the County Centre and another at Benson Park.

Mrs. Perron-Bull observes the youth activities program is relatively new and so far, not many students are participating.

She predicts that as its activities are advertised many more young persons will drop in at the County Centre to enjoy after school recreation.



Your Deal

Teen-agers in Prince Edward County this winter are participating in a youth activities program at the County Centre. Sponsored by a LIP grant the program offers table games such as cards and chess. Here a card game is enjoyed by Paul McConnell, 15, (L) and Brad Rosseau, 15, both of Picton.

Major New Industry Hinted for County

PICTON — Prince Edward economic development director William Duggan has hinted at a mystery industry for the county in his February report to county council.

He noted he had attended a meeting in Toronto with ministry of industry and tourism officials "to discuss the location of a new large industry requiring seaway transportation facilities".

"I also travelled to Toronto for discussions with our local MPP and an industrialist possibly requiring a site in the county," he told councillors.

This project requires a particularly large electricity supply and discussion with Ontario Hydro revealed the capacity is probably not available until 1976 — after the building of the new line from Lennox," he reported.

Stringing Along

These country bowmen got together this week to fiddle up a little publicity for the Ontario open fiddlers contest to be held in Stirling on Saturday, March 1. It is in conjunction with Homecoming Weekend. Many events will take place during the four-day long festivity to raise money for a new Stirling district arena. Front row, left to right are Manley Ford, College St., Belleville, Percy Palmateer, Baker St., Stirling, and Stan Kleinsteuber, Henry St., Stirling. Rear row, left to right: John DeNure, Hoard Station, John Ward, Foxboro, Jerry Clement, Albert St., Belleville, and Louis Woodcox, North St., Stirling.

Pool Site A Problem

PICTON — Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson says a community swimming pool is a facility many Prince Edward residents support but working out details to locate it at the fairgrounds is "a complicated mess".

He told county councillors this week it has been proposed the pool's operation be assumed by the town.

It is difficult to consider the location of a town - operated facility on county-owned property that is leased to the fairboard, he observed.

Deputy - reeve Richardson, who is chairman of Picton's recreation committee, says a meeting will be held today between the swimming pool committee, the recreation committee and James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox.

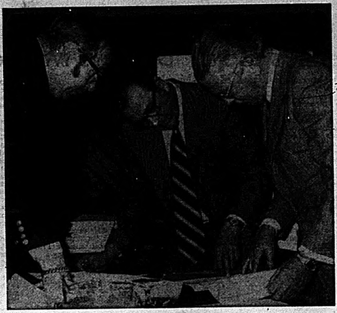
"I hope something can be worked out," he added.

Plant's Future Questioned

PICTON — Prince Edward economic development director William Duggan this week told county council he remains in constant touch with existing industries here but can make no "useful" comment on the future of Proctor-Lewyt Division of SCM (Canada) Ltd.

A number of employees returned to work last month following a one month lay-off forced by surplus inventory.

Mr. Duggan said he feels the plant is experiencing just a "slow" period. He added, however, that the company would not necessarily confide in him should other circumstances exist.



Fine Points Shelved

At an arbitration board hearing in Belleville Wednesday, representatives for Trenton's 10 firemen William Goldson (from left) and John Jessop and town spokesman Donald Pyle agree to shelve the fine points of the 1974 contract to concentrate on discussion over wages. The town offers firemen a 12½ per cent increase while the firemen's association wants a 24 per cent pay boost. Both parties have agreed over benefits.

Wages Only Issue Left In Trenton-Firemen Talks

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

The 12½-per-cent wage increase offered Trenton firemen is "very generous" and a request for a larger pay cheque should not be made on the basis of what the firemen's association claims is a "seriously underpaid and undermanned" department, town representative Donald Pyle told an arbitration board hearing in Belleville Wednesday.

Firemen in Trenton are asking for a 24-per-cent, across-the-board increase in a one-year contract. The 10-member Local 1328 of the International Association of Fire Fighters (IAFF) is without a 1974 contract and have been working on the basis of 1973 wage scales.

Negotiations over the 1974 contract failed last year and prompted the firemen to call for arbitration.

Both Mr. Pyle and IAFF representative John Jessop told the arbitration board Wednesday only the issue of wages remains to be settled. The town and firemen have agreed on benefits.

The association wants the salary of a first-class fireman to rise from $10,485 in 1973 to $13,001 in 1974. All other classifications would also be increased by 24 per cent.

To back the demand, the association's 53-page brief argues that town firemen should receive more money than those in other area municipalities because they assume "far greater responsibility."

Firemen in Belleville, Peterborough and Kingston are not faced with serious "undermanning", states the brief. A single town fireman must handle all preliminary duties once he wheels his apparatus to a fire site. Several studies, the brief claims, have shown such a system is inadequate.

The 24-per-cent increase is reasonable and one that will not place a burden on town taxpayers. The brief states that the town has likely provided for money it will spend in anticipation of settlement of the 1974 contract.

On the other hand, Mr. Pyle argued the town's offer is reasonable in light of other benefits already agreed to by the town.

Provision has been made for improvement in vacations, sick leave, service allowance and various other benefits.

The increase allowed firemen, argued Mr. Pyle, must be kept in line with pay boosts given other town employees. It is fair in terms of the 12.4 increase in the cost of living.

Mr. Pyle said a large increase in salary would not resolve the problem of inadequate manpower. That is a matter for another jurisdiction.

Both the town and the IAFF briefs will be studied by chairman E. L. Gladu of Ottawa and the two other members of the arbitration board.

More Signs Needed

PICTON — Prince Edward County roads need 50 new signs according to a recent inventory.

Prince Edward County councillors this week were told in a roads report that the signs should be replaced because of age or vandalism.

Old County Home Under the Hammer

PICTON — Prince Edward County council has refused to take any action to halt demolition of the old county home for the aged, but Roy Shortt, a member of the Prince Edward Historical Society disagrees with its decision.

"I just feel it's a crime that we could not do a study," he said Wednesday.

Mr. Shortt addressed council Tuesday night representing the historical society and requested postponement of demolition until potential uses of the building could be examined.

He suggested Wednesday that the construction firm holding the contract for demolition of the old building probably would have offered no objection had council changed its orders.

The demoliton job has been sublet by Konvey Construction to Harold Demolition but Mr. Shortt noted for $10,000 or less council could have arranged for preservation of the building.

Mr. Shortt Wednesday challenged a statement in council by Wellington Reeve Robert Boyce who predicted a plebescite would show the majority of county residents in favor of demolition of the old home.

He added that in an informal street poll conducted by members of his family last week only 10 persons refused comment. Of those who did stop to discuss the question of demolition, the majority favored a study of potential uses for the building.

Lake Erie "Alive"

The contemporary wisdom, when it comes to discussion of the Great Lakes, is that Lake Erie in particular "is dead." In terms of pollution that is.

There were glimmers of hope however in answers by Environment Minister William Newman to questions put to him by Rotarians this week.

One of the cabinet ministers visiting Belleville, Mr. Newman said despite such talk there were "more fish coming out of Erie than all the other lakes put together." Even the mercury levels in the fish are going down.

Seems a bit of a contradiction, but then Ontario is not standing still in tackling major problems of pollution. According to Mr. Newman, the International Joint Commission "has been more and more optimistic in its reports on water quality in the Great Lakes in general, and been very complimentary about Ontario's contribution to the improvement of he lakes."

The minister refers to the contacts the federal government has had on the subject with the United States government and says he has been assured the Americans "are going to move ahead with their program and will have all projects under way by the end of 1975."

Mr. Newman had some other interesting items of information that would lend themselves to elaboration by the government information services when he and his colleagues get back to Toronto. Sport fishing was not his department, and he recommended a questioner to write to Resources Minister Leo Bernier, but Mr. Newman did volunteer that there had been some successful plantings of cohoe salmon in the Toronto area.

This and a comment about experimental work on two or three lakes in connection with control of algae and "underground weedcutting and using it for livestock feed." And not to mention establishment of decibel levels to determine what levels of noise should be tolerated.

Thre is a lot going on which the Ministry could be telling us more about and which do not come out in their entirety in the course of bread-and-butter speeches to service organizations. With the prospect of an election before too long we should be hearing more of what is happening at all levels of government.

Fire's Toll

The fire which covered six floors of the World Trade Centre in New York in recent days focuses attention once again on the threat of fire in high-rise buildings.

It has prompted an article in The Ottawa Journal in which John Gibbs points out that while safety devices in the capital fall short of what fire officials would like, regulations do require a variety of equipment that must be functional when a building opens.

After that, however, he says it is "strictly hit-and-miss."

He quotes Fire Chief Roy Duncan as saying: "The law just says that the equipment must be installed. That's the end of it. It doesn't have to be supervised or inspected."

And there is always the nightmare possibility that safety equipment and back-up systems might all fail at the same time. Unlikely perhaps, but not impossible.

Sprinkler systems — there were none in the World Trade Centre — are regarded as the best means to save lives in tall building fires taking their toll of older homes and some states, and they are also being installed in some new buildings even where regulations do not require them.

If there is concern over high-rise buildings, there is also the continuing tragedy of fres taking their toll of older homes and lives. In Cornwall in recent days a 13-year-old girl and her eight-year-old sister died in a fire which razed their two-storey frame tenement home. Two older girls are in hospital.

It's an old story and unfortunately it is not the last time such a tragedy will be enacted amid the deadly combination of winter and aging, often sub-standard housing in Canada. Even modern buildings are not immune — electric wiring is blamed for the World Trade Centre blaze in New York.

Quebec's 'Kojak' Displays Muscle That the Country Lacks

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Nobody in Solicitor General Warren Allmand's department is publicly making a hero out of Quebec Provincial Police Holdup Squad Sergeant Albert Lisachek.

But then, nobody is clucking in condemnation, either.

Which is something — like maybe progress and a little clear thinking for a change — because under the Solicitor General's jurisdiction come not only the RCMP but the Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Board.

And you know all about penal "reform", those quick and easy penitentiary "leaves" even for convicted killers, and paroles almost for the asking.

Which makes something of Sergeant Albert Lisachek, hero of all police departments, if not openly a pin-up cop of the federal bureacrats.

They call him "Kojak," and he's Canada's toughest policeman.

He has to be tough to survive in Quebec and especially Montreal where, when he goes out for an evening stroll, his wife, packing a heavy calibre gun, follows him as rearguard against a shot in the back.

"Kojak" caught the national eye when he notched his gun with the death of a mass murder suspect, Richard Blass, criminal careerist, wanted for questioning in the fire-death of 13 in Montreal's Gargantua nightclub.

Sergeant Lisachek, working from a police wire-tap, kicked in the door of the Laurentian ski resort cabin and blasted Blass as he groped for one of an arsenal of guns.

But he was famous, especially in Quebec and particularly in its sleazier circles — long before this.

Lisachek was there when the Quebec Provincials, the RCMP terrorist squad and the Montreal police ran Jacques Rose to ground at the end of a tunnel burrowed in from a basement of an abandoned house south of Montreal.

Rose and his companions were wanted for the kidnap-killing of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte in the Quebec Liberation Front reign of terror.

Wanted, too, were the kidnappers — now on the loose and last heard of in France — of British diplomat James Cross.

They traded Cross for freedom in Cuba, since converted into what could be freedom anywhere in the world except Canada where charges still await them.

Rose was not so lucky.

But he bargained his surrender for bail for all the other FLQ suspects swept up by police and the thousands of troops Prime Minister Trudeau ordered into Montreal — and for the calling off his capture of Lisachek.

"Kojak" had urged a non-violent taking of Rose, not by going into the tunnel for a shoot-out, nor even a siege to starve the terrorist into submission, but by bringing in a firehose and flushing him out of the tunnel like a drowning rat.

Rose promised to give up without a fight — or even the "swim" that "Kojak" had suggested, if Lisachek was ordered out of the house and off the case.

And the shaken Quebec government agreed.

There were two other occasions when Lisachek put the fear of "Kojak" into the underworld.

A gang of Montreal punks was holding up South Shore banks, and Lisachek, with a tip that they planned knocking over a surburban branch, called in press and TV, and waited in ambush.

He would "teach these crazies a lesson," he told the press and television crews, and maybe it would cure the epidemic of bank jobs.

In came the punks, the usual routine — a shot into the ceiling, everybody hit the floor, a leap over the counter, and sweep the dough into mail sacks and out the door running — and there in a line in front of them were "Kojak" and his men.

"Arret! Po-leece!" he bellowed and levelled his .45.

They fired and missed.

He and his men fired and didn't miss.

But it was only a partial cure. A few other punks still figured it was easier to live by the gun than by work.

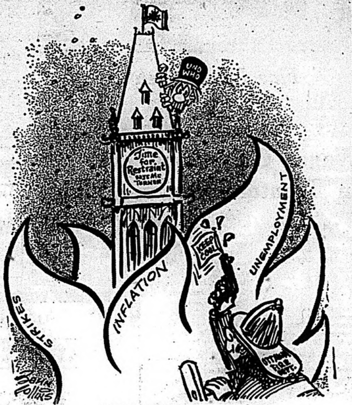
Another tip to Lisachek. Another ambush. Another real "live" shoot-out on TV.

A television reporter who did both "live shows" says it isn't as nice and neat as on TV — "a bit messy."

But with three punks dead and a fourth gunned in a vital but not mortal spot, the world of young Montreal crime learned its lesson from Lisachek.

"He's some tough," they say in Warren Allmand's crime command, but they don't condemn him.

And wouldn't Moncton, Toronto, North Bay, Calgary, and other cities where police have died — and their killers live and laugh at the law — love to have a guy like Lisachek



THE TOWERING INFERNO

Latest Wage Demands Unrealistic Against Background of Recession

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

While the Trudeau government is seeking a consensus on economic goals among various groups in society, the government's own blue-collar workers are taking much more direct action.

Illegal walk-outs are being staged—again—by West Coast grain handlers, letter carriers, airport-runway maintenance men and others.

The workers and their representatives, obviously, are not much impressed by the government's latest approach to the impossible task of increasing the size of every slice of the economic pie.

That approach consists of a series of informal meetings between several cabinet ministers, on the one hand, and leaders of small groups representing labor, business, the professions, etc., on the other hand.

But the fact that the Canadian economy has stopped growing and become mired in a serious recession doesn't matter to the strikers. They want more and they want it now.

How much more? Only 64 per cent in the case of the Letter Carriers Union—an extra $2.50 an hour over the present rate of $4.44 for a carrier with more than three years service.

The Public Service Alliance of Canada thinks that a 42.5 per cent raise in one year would be just right for its members.

Let it be granted that these high demands are negotiable and that most workers would be ready to accept less generous increases.

The demands are nevertheless unrealistic in economic terms. If the justification for them is assumed to be inflation (nobody gives reasons for such demands any more, they bear little relation to the current inflation rate of about 12 per cent.

And the strikers' position is clearly unrealistic in broader terms. The public has a right to expect workers to honor their commitments and not to break the law whenever a group of militants decides upon such an irresponsible course.

But the strikers are being realistic in a practical sense. The experience of the past few years has demonstrated to them that, where the general public is the victim, nobody will interfere when they shut down the services that everyone depends upon—postal delivery, transportation, fire-fighting or whatever.

That means that the public can look forward to more and more illegal interruptions in the essential services that it pays for.

Once an individual or group has found that a law can be broken with impunity, that law will be broken with increasingly frequency.

Thus, the government's current campaign to establish an economic consensus seems to be an exercise in futility in the prevailing mood.

Even in the unlikely event that a consensus could be reached between such bitter adversaries as labor and management, it would remain meaningless if one or both sides were determined to ignore their commitment and their obligation to society.

Committee Junkets Overseas Are Likely to be Curbed

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Once a week while the session is on one of the key committees of the house meets regularly.

The standing committee on public accounts quite often doesn't make much news.

Over the years from time to time it has produced its sensations, but for the most part its activity is detailed examination of the spending of the various ministries.

Despite this its annual report is always awaited with interest

For though it too may not be of headline stuff it usually has some thought-provoking and creative material.

This year's report was typical in that there was no sensationalism in it.

But as usual among its various comments and suggestions were a number that could eventually lead to better government.

A particularly appealing proposal was that there should be more control over the spending of committees, commissions and task forces.

This may not please some people (particularly members of select committees with an urge to travel).

But it certainly is something that is needed.

Committee's boards etc. operate practically uncontrolled.

If a member happens to think that something is a good idea—particularly if it means a trip overseas—the first thing you know the committee is up in the wild blue yonder.

The public accounts group say this open-ended spending is not in the public interest.

It recommends that no member of a board or commission should travel outside the province without the prior approval of the management board of cabinet.

And further it wants some specific guidelines drawn up by the management board.

It found few, if any, such guidelines now.

The committee doesn't say so but actually the question of spending, and particularly of travelling, is pretty well a matter handled by the leader of the government.

If he says it's OK, then it's OK.

And Premier Davis has been quite liberal. Under his predecessors, for example, no committees were allowed to go overseas. Now they do.

Republicans Divided

Political Disenchantment in U.S.

By BRUCE LEVETT

WASHINGTON (CP) — Partly as a backlash of disgust following the Watergate political espionage scandals, but more directly as a reaction to inaction in curbing a skidding economy and climbing unemployment, political disenchantment appears to be growing across the United States.

The latest manifestation, at least on an organized level, is the call to arms by conservative Republicans who—if they stopped short of formally deserting their party—made it clear that they are not ruling out the possibility.

Part of the problem revolves around the fact that the policies of President Ford, a Republican, are almost automatically in for a rough ride when they reach the Democrat-dominated Senate and House of Representatives.

Ford is criticizing the Congress for dragging its feet on his economic proposals while struggling ineffectively to draw up programs of its own.

Democratic leaders in Congress say the president's programs are inadequate and inequitable.

But even right-wing elements within the president's own party are unhappy with his proposals, a disenchantment which has led to strident calls for the formation of a third party based on solid conservative principles.

That this concern cuts across party lines is seen in a statement issued following a conference of conservative Republicans in Washington, which stated:

"Conservatives have been forced into a political position which leaves us without a serious leadership role in either major party and the question of our allegiance to these parties is a matter of increasing doubt to conservatives."

In the meantime, there are growing indications that—especially in the high-unemployment areas of the country—the voters are becoming increasingly restive with the bickering between president and Congress.

National polls show public disenchantment has never been higher with politicians. A recent survey for the Republican national committee showed 40 per cent of adults consider themselves independents, compared with 42 per cent Democrats and 18 per cent Republicans.

Political observers are wary of predicting wholesale flight from the two traditional parties by the voters at the next presidential election, which occurs in 1976—the country's bicentennial year.

Nobody other than a Republican or Democrat has occupied the White House in more than 125 years, when Millard Fillmore, a Whig, succeeded to it on the death of Zachary Taylor in 1850.

Andrew Johnson, who succeeded the assassinated Abraham Lincoln in 1865, was a Democrat. History books list him as a National Unionist, but the National Union was a coalition of Republicans and Democrats.

Should dissident republicans judge the time ripe, observers feel, there might be another attempt at coalition—this time between conservative Republicans and their ideological equivalents in the Democratic party.

VIP Jets Disposal

Economy Move or Snow Job?

Winnipeg Tribune

In what Defence Minister Richardson described as an economy measure the armed services will get rid of seven Falcon jets used to fly senior officers and VIPs across the country.

In future, the generals and other brass will have to travel in propeller aircraft, or on commercial flights. The saving is expected to be $3 million a year.

Mr. Richardson says, "If our decision to eliminate our VIP transport aircraft does not demonstrate our determination to cut costs, nothing will."

Sounds great, but there is no real cause for taxpayers to go into transports of joy. Reports from Ottawa hint that there is a strong possibility that the Falcons will be taken over by the ministry of transport to augment or replace its fleet of JetStar executive jets that are now used to fly cabinet ministers and VIPs across the country.

It's a safe bet that if that happens, the operating costs of the Falcons will be more than $3 million a year. So much for Ottawa's concept of economy.

Scout Movement's Fine Record

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

City and district Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, along with Cubs, Brownies and leaders will be marking Lord Baden-Powell Week between now and Feb. 23 through a variety of special events. If your child is involved, or if you know some child who is, encourage him in good citizenship by getting out to some of these events.

Lord Baden-Powell was born in London, Eng. in 1857, entered the army at 19 and saw service in India, Afghanistan and later in the Boer War. He rose through the ranks, becoming a lieutenant general in 1908, the year he organized the Boy Scout movement. Two years later, with the aid of his sister, the Girl Guides were formed.

The rest is history. The Scout and Guide movement is now a force for good citizenship in many countries and of course, Scouts and Guides number in the millions. The movement is neither military or non-military and it is non-sectarian. Troops are organized through churches, schools, clubs and so on.

The Scout Law states in part that a member must be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient to his parents, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. Surely these are high ideals which should be encouraged.

In addition, each Scout is expected to do a good turn daily. In this age of materialism, wouldn't it be nice if there were even more Scouts in the world?

The Handling of Problem Children

Letter in
The Montreal Gazette

I am writing with reference to the letter from Ernest Hirschbach, Executive Director of Summerhill Homes, (Jan.13) concerning the publicity and public reaction arising from The Gazette articles on conditions at Maison Notre Dame de Laval.

I have known Mr. Hirschbach in the past in connection with my work as a social worker in Montreal and I know his concern for children and the good work he has done in our city. I gather that Mr. Hirschbach feels the public is blaming social workers for what has been happening to some children in this province. I do not think this is the case. It is, however, up to social workers to present the causes and solutions to this very terrible problem and not to pass this responsibility on to the public.

As Mr. Hirschbach said in his letter, the medical profession cannot cure cancer. This does not mean that research to this end is diminishing or that a cure will not be found, and there is continual pressure on the government to spend more of our tax dollar on such research. Cancer patients are not refused treatment or placed in isolation cells simply because they cannot be cured. Are we social workers, who know what restraint in isolation cells can do to already damaged children expected to condone these methods? To be fair to the social workers in the protection field, they have continually protested the use of detention homes for psychiatric cases and have condemned isolation cells.

It is up to our government to use the wealth that exists in Quebec to ensure that our homeless children have adequate care in adequate surroundings, staffed by trained personnel.

It is in this area that social workers can be most effective. We know what damaged children need and we should be pressing the government to build more psychiatric centres for children so that they do not need to be shunted off into detention centres that are not equipped to handle them. We, as social workers, also know what programs should be instituted in our detention homes for delinquent children. Homeless children should not be herded together with delinquent or psychiatric cases. Detention homes should be built in urban or accessible areas so that parents from broken homes may visit and plan with their children for their future care. All this requires time and money and the government is the only source of this help.

The archaic system of juvenile justice in this province should be corrected and, there again, the government must play the main role.

(Mrs.) ETHEL LEIGH-BETTS
Professional Social Worker
Montreal.

'Lavender' Author Had Links Here

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

While cleaning some rather unused book shelves I came across Myrtle Reeds "Lavender and Old Lace" and am re-reading it. Published in 1902 I find it still interesting reading.

Myrtle Reed was either a native of Belleville or lived part of her life here and I thought some note, for centennial year, should be made of this as she was a very popular and widely known author. Does anyone around Belleville have any facts regarding her Belleville stay?

Rochdale Sale Ordered

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court has ordered judicial sale of Rochdale College a downtown residence, for $8.6 million, an amount equal to that owed on five mortgages on the building.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. (CMHC), the federal housing agency, is the principal mortgage holder, owed about $8 million

Operation of the 18-storey building, opened in 1968 as a student residence, has been in the hands of the Clarkson Co. Ltd., receiver since September, 1972, following default on the mortgages.

Gasoline Cheaper

OTTAWA (CP) — The national average of gasoline prices dropped slightly during the last six months, with price increases recorded in only four areas, the Canadian Automobile Association said Wednesday.

Smoking Banned

ALBANY (AP) — A measure banning smoking in such public places as theatres, museums and libraries was approved Wednesday by the New York Senate. The Bill provides for a fine of $10 to $100 for persons convicted of smoking in such restricted areas.

Principals Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — Six hundred delegates from thoughout Ontario gathered Wednesday to attend the annual conference of the Ontario Secondary School Headmasters Council, meeting in Montreal for the first time.

Fight 2-man Cars

TORONTO (CP) — A decision by the Ontario Appeal Court to uphold an arbitrator's order for two-man police cruisers in Metropolitan Toronto will be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada C. O. Bick, chairman of the Metro Toronto Board of Police Commissioners, said Wednesday.

He said he had not been officially informed of the decision, announced Wednesday, but said it disappointed him.

Purchase Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Foreign Investment Review Board has approved the purchase of Homco International Ltd., an Edmonton oil-well servicing company, by W. R. Grace and Co. of New York.

Sentenced for Fraud

TORONTO (CP) — Mary Anne O'Connell, 39, was sentenced Wednesday to an indefinite term of one year in reformatory after pleading guilty to defrauding the Metropolitan Toronto social services department of $3,993.90 between 1970 and 1973. Court was told that Mrs. O'Connell failed to report $10,000 she received from two employers.

Suits Dropped

TORONTO (CP) — A group of law students helped stop legal proceedings against area residents who were asked by a finance company to pay for frozen food and freezers they said they did not receive, a group of law students said.

Student lawyers of the Campus Legal Assistance Centre of the University of Toronto said in a news release that The Clarkson Co. Ltd. says it will not continue proceedings against consumers who said they contracted for the products but did not receive them or who paid for the amount they received.

Cut Passed On

OTTAWA (CP) — Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson says the indication so far is that the sales tax reduction on building materials is being passed on to home buyers.

Payments Will Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will mail out family allowance cheques totalling $2 billion this year, an increase of $171 million over last year.

Old-age pensions will increase to $4 billion in 1975-76 from the $3.4 billion in the current fiscal year, say the health and welfare spending estimates tabled Wednesday in the Commons.

Family allowances this year will go to 3.4 million families covering 7.3 million children. Average monthly payments for each child will be $22.08 compared with $20 monthly in 1974.

Little Action Taken On Brutality Charge

TORONTO (CP) — An investigator from the Metropolitan Toronto police complaints bureau told a royal commission hearing Wednesday that he took little action on allegations of police brutality made by a Toronto man.

Sgt. George Goff, a 28-year veteran of the force, said he felt he had "touched all bases" by interviewing Delroy Tomlinson, telephoning his lawyer and obtaining police records on the arrest.

He said he also sought, but did not obtain, medical records from the hospital where Mr. Tomlinson spent five days after the July 7, 1974, incident.

Witnesses testified earlier in the hearing that Mr. Tomlinson was beaten by police officers after being stopped following a high-speed car chase.

Roy McMurtry, police department lawyer, accused Earl Cherniak, counsel for the royal commission on Metro Toronto police practices, of submitting Sgt. Goff to a prolonged and "unbricled attack."

He received little sympathy from Mr. Justice Donald Morand of the Ontario Supreme Court, the royal commissioner, who agreed that the attitude of the police department and its complaints bureau toward civilian complaints is a factor in the investigation.

$36 Million Provided For Pickering Airport

OTTAWA (CP) — The Trudeau cabinet has yet to make a final decision on whether to go ahead with a second international airport in the Toronto area but the transport department has put aside $36,948,000 for spending on the project for the fiscal year beginning April 1

The proposed airport at Pickering has generated debate in the Toronto area, where it was an issue in last year's federal general election.

The transport department's proposed spending for the new year, tabled Wednesday in the Commons, also shows a sum of $32,760,000 for improvements at Toronto International Airport at Malton.

The transport budget of $1.1 billion, an increase of $282 million over last year's main estimates, also include $34,036,000 for the Montreal-area airport scheduled to open this fall at Mirabel.

Also included are funds for other major programs—among them, expansion of airports at Calgary, Vancouver, Dorval, Que., a $3.5-million airport at Strathcona Sound in the Arctic, a traffic control tower at Goose Bay, Nfld., and navigational aids at Fredericton.

Rehabilitating Criminals To Cost 30 Per Cent More

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal costs for finding, arresting, imprisoning and rehabilitating criminals are expected to jump 30 per cent and more in the next fiscal year.

Estimates tabled in the Commons Wednesday showed that the cost of corrections to the federal taxpayer will increase 35 per cent while RCMP costs are expected to jump 30 per cent.

The reason for the latter largely reflects increases in manpower and thus wages. In the former case there are increases in wages plus large jumps in commodities such as food and clothing.

There also is money set aside for two new medium security prisons. Their locations have not yet been determined. One will be in Ontario.

Long-term Contracts Sought for Oil Exports

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Energy Board is studying a request from East Coast refiners to allow long-term exports of refined oil products, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald says.

Four refineries which depend on the export market for some sales have complained to Ottawa that they are being squeezed out of the U.S. market by lower-priced oil from places such as the Caribbean.

Mr. Macdonald said refined exports now are allowed on only a 30-day contract, the same as exports of crude oil.

Exports of such refined products would have no affect on domestic oil supplies as the crude oil used is imported from Venezuela and the Middle East, the minister said.

Not all R.R.S.P.'s are alike.

Consider the Toronto Dominion Retirement Savings Deposit.

The TD RSD is a bank deposit. That's the big difference. Its attractive interest rate is adjusted twice yearly to match that of the TD five-year Certificate of Deposit. And you never have to worry about fluctuations in the market value of stocks and bonds as you would with some other R.R.S.P.'s. Finally, there's no interest penalty for deregistering your TD RSD at any time.

As with all R.R.S.P.'s, eligible annual contributions are deductible from your current taxable income – up to $4,000 in some cases. So depending on your circumstances, the 1974 income tax you defer can be substantial.

For example, if you're an Ontario resident earning $15,000 per year, have a spouse without an earned income, two children under 16, and no company pension plan, you're allowed to contribute $3,000 to a TD RSD. A $3,000 reduction in your taxable income will result in a current year tax deferral of $1,024!

That same person contributing 5% of their earned income to a company pension plan can contribute up to $1,750 and make a 1974 tax savings of $600.

Province Wants Control Of Private Dams

The Moira River Conservation Authority was told this week the provincial government is moving to control privately-owned dams.

Leo Bernier, natural resources minister, made the assurance following an authority presentation to the cabinet committee hearing on resources development at the Four Seasons here.

The authority called for "a unified policy on building maintaining and operating water control structures."

It pointed out there is no control at present and described a local issue in the Moira watershed where five of six privately — owned dams "are not being operated or maintained by the owners. They are deteriorating rapidly."

Loans Promised Towns Seeking New Industry

"Small Town Ontario" was assured this week of provincial assistance for industrial parks but got nowhere in a bid to have the government lower freight rates in the province.

The town of Perth, located about 45 miles southwest of Ottawa, stood up for "Small Town Ontario" at the cabinet committee hearing on resources development at the Four Seasons here.

Perth Mayor 'Art' Daines said small provincial communities "have capacity for growth within its present boundaries at what could be considered minimal cost versus the cost involved in creating new cities."

He called for a government "selling job" to "divert people and industry away from the cities."

Mr. Daines noted a serious situation in small towns. "We have more houses, more apartments and more industry but we have fewer people," he said.

Claude Bennett, industry and tourism minister, repeated government intentions to provide a new loan program for small municipalities to help fund industrial parks. "It's the first time the provincial government — has gotten into bed with municipalities," he commented.

Citing the new major industrial park the province will develop in Edwardsburgh Township near Prescott, Mr. Bennett explained 'secondary support industry will want to locate in surrounding towns such as Perth, Smiths Falls or Renfrew.

Mr. Daines also decried the freight rates pointing out a 500-pound shipment from Toronto to Perth costs $5.77 CWT and the same shipment goes to Ottawa for an additional $3.32 CWT.

He suggested the province issue more frieght licenses to other firms to increase competition and bring down rates. He charged high freight rates might keep industry out of eastern Ontario.

Mr. Bennett denied high rates would be a factor. "While it might relate to some industries, I don't think it is a significant component in the overall pcture of the cost of locating."

Murray Wants to Stem Trenton Growth West

BRIGHTON — The village of Brighton and its two township neighbors should amalgamate to gain political strength and as a method of stemming the spreading influence of Trenton westwards, Murray reeve Harry Lafferty said here Tuesday.

His suggestion came during discussion centering on the future growth of Brighton village at a public meeting of the Northumberland Task Force consulting group.

Brighton reeve and county warden Dorothy Brintnell said such a move has been under discussion for some three years and she saw no reason the plan would not be feasible.
MORE

Murray Take 2

Mr. Lafferty said that the day his township goes with Trenton the whole county is dead. Murray township is the largest rural municipality in Northumberland.

Affiliation with Trenton would see Cobourg go "their own way," he warned.

He said his township should look towards Brighton. "Brighton has got to get some land to grow."

Annexation is frowned up on by the provincial government, he said, but amalgamation by mutual consent, as would be the case here, has received no opposition.

Joint action by the three municipalities has already been taken. They have split ranks with the five other municipalities of the Quinte Planning Board, whose offices now are based in Trenton.

JOHN RHODES

Four-lane Highway Appeals to Rhodes

John Rhodes would not mind another four-lane highway running north of Highway 401 but is apprehensive about considering it due to possible adverse public opinion.

The provincial minister of transportation and communications heard a suggestion this week from a Belleville Kiwanis Club member advocating a second four-lane highway in the Highway 7 area to alleviate traffic on northerly-running highways between Highway 401 and northern destinations.

"I'm with you. I'd like to see one," commented Mr. Rhodes. "But I don't know what will happen if I propose one."

He pointed out certain aspects would have to be studied first including the impact on agriculture and environment.

Ald. Corke Offers Aid

Alderman Ben Corke found a sympathetic ear in the provincial government this week regarding municipal advisory groups.

While attending a Belleville Kiwanis Club meeting, he offered assistance to guest speaker John Phodes, minister of transportation and communications.

"We have two or three advisors at city hall we can lend you," Mr. Corke told the former Sault Ste. Marie mayor and alderman.

"I served on city council for nine years and don't need that kind of advice," said Mr. Rhodes.

Mr. Rhodes became an alderman in 1959 mayor in 1968 before being elected to the legislature in 1971. He is a former radio sports director and morning announcer and seven-year veteran of the Sault Ste. Marie police department.

Studded Tires Still Banned

Although under constant pressure from manufacturers of studs, the provincial ministry of transportation and communications has no intention of reinstating the use of studded tires.

Minister John Rhodes told Belleville Kiwanians no further study or consideration has been contemplated even though he has been deluged with letters in a campaign started by a major stud company he did not name.

"I always felt they didn't do any good," he commented. "They do a tremendous amount of damage to pavement."

Grossman Defends Regional Meetings

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Many points raised in public presentations to the Ontario resources development cabinet committee, such as those outlined during the two-day policy hearings at the Four Seasons here this week, eventually wind up in provincial legislation.

Allan Grossman, provincial secretary, said in an interview following the final day of hearings Tuesday, "if you seize on something that's not too complex" it might become law on its own.

Other detailed proposals require longer study and stand a good chance of working their way into proposed government legislation, he said.

Mr. Grossman pointed out the Eastern Ontario Development Corp. was formed from a public hearing in Smiths Falls.

He said the visit has been "a very useful seminar for us. We've learned a lot."

Mr. Grossman refuted a suggestion the resources ministers might accomplish more by holding one-day hearings for different locations in one swing through eastern Ontario, rather than the present setup where people are invited from a large area.

He explained these hearings are too complex in the mechanics of setting up equipment; hotel accommodations and paperwork. "Remember, you're taking a piece of seven ministries with you," he noted.

Following the hearings, the secretariat staff funnels the briefs to the proper ministries for considerattion and ensures those who have presented briefs are answered, he outlined.

"My staff makes sure everything is followed up," said Mr. Grossman. The government is over 75 percent successful in its followups he added.

Mr. Grossman said over the years of hearings, "we've become somewhat more sophisticated."

U.S. Banks Are Pressing To Drop Cheques, Cash

NEW YORK (AP) — Faced with a volume of cheques that doubles every 10 years, United States commercial banks have been pressing for the start of a chequeless, cashless society.

The dream revolves around the Electronic Funds Transfer System (EFTS) through which:

—Employers can deposit a worker's pay directly into the employee's bank account (Direct Pay Deposit).

—Gas, electric, telephone and other monthly bills can be paid out automatically by the bank.

—A purchase at a retail store can be accomplished simply by giving the salesman a plastic card that sends a message to the customer's bank via a "point of sale terminal," which instantly adds to the store's account, and subtracts from the customer's.

Despite the fact that four cities—Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston and Atlanta—now have Automated Clearing Houses which constitute the nucleus of the EFTS, the idea still has a futuristic ring to it for many people.

At least three recent studies, including two done for the American Bankers Association (ABA), a leading backer of EFTS, show many businessmen are unclear on the advantages of the system. And consumers are fearful EFTS might spell a threat to privacy and control over personal finances.

"So far, the operating assumption is that what's good for the banks is good for the country," said Tom Waage, senior vice-president of the New York Federal Reserve, which plans to install an Automated Clearing House facility in the first quarter of 1975.

Commercial banks estimate that the volume of cheques, given a growth rate of six per cent yearly, will hit 40 billion by 1980. If nothing is done, they say, financial institutions will be faced with the same sort of paper havoc that almost submerged Wall Street in the '60s.

They also favor EFTS because cheque processing requires a great deal of manpower and cost banks an estimated $1.2 billion last year.

In a paper prepared by the ABA, the point was made that paperless transfers would benefit consumers by eliminating the need to write many cheques. That would mean a saving on postage, too.

The paper also said bankers would be able to devote more time to the customer's "specialized needs, because less time will be needed to handle routin banking services."

The government apparently supports commercial banks' efforts to move the EFTS idea forward quickly. Starting in November, the Social Securitye Administration, the treasury department and the Federal Reserve began a pilot program in Georgia in which social security recipients may opt to have their monthly cheques sent directly to the bank of their choice.

The Georgia experiment is the first of a five-stage project which, if successful, will lead to country-wide electronic transfers of virtually all government benefits by 1976.

But the Georgia program was off to a shaky start. An Atlanta Federal Reserve spokesman said only 5,000 of 500,000 social security recipients have chosen to participate.

The four Automated Clearing Houses now in existence have experienced similar start-up problems. Waage said: "Automated Clearing Houses are designed to benefit banks but there are no benefits yet for the customer. So far, they've been a bust. A lot of people derive psychic pleasure from having their paycheque in hand."

One supposed benefit Automated Clearing House officials point. to is the convenience of having banks pay utility bills automatically

"But if you think I'm going to pay those bills without checking them first, you're nuts," Waage said

He suggested that banks and employers who want to see EFTS get off the ground should offer concrete monetary and convenience incentives.

Equitable Life Insurance Co., for instance, has arrangements with policy-holders permitting it to draw premiums directly from the holder's bank account. Equitable sweetened the offer by granting participants a discount on their premiums.

Surveys revealed other issues that apparently trouble consumers.

In a recent paper, Peter H. Schuck, Washington director of Consumers Union, enumerated several:

—Control over personal finances. Under an EFTS arrangement, the consumer would no longer be able "to manipulate one's finances within broad limits, to determine which bills to pay when, and to exploit the benefits of float during the cheque-clearing process."

—Proof of payment. "The cancelled cheque is a convenient and universally recognized proof of payment. Indeed, so essential to consumer remedies is the cancelled cheque as proof of paymnt that any EFTS that hoeps to gain consumer acceptance will have to invent some substitute for it."

—Stopping payment. "The right of consumers to direct a stop-payment order to a bank constitutes enormous leverage in their dealings with merchants, landlords and others with whom they do business. Any acceptable EFTS will have to accommodate this well-established safeguard for consumers."

Introducing the Sony with the small behind.
Trimmer. Slimmer. And 4" less in depth.

Simulated picture
SONY MODEL KV-1722

As you can see, our new Model KV-1722 has a much slimmer front. It's also much trimmer behind — 4 inches less depth than conventional sets of this screen size.

The KV-1722 has our new, 114° deflection, wide-angle picture tube. It delivers the brightest, sharpest colour picture ever seen on a Sony — and virtually eliminates distortion for people viewing the set from the side seats. But you don't have to take our word for it. An independent consumers research study rates our KV-1722 as follows:

Sharpness — excellent
Brightness — very good
Colour accuracy — superior
Operation of controls — superior
Weak signal performance — superior

As in all Sony TV's, it's 100% solid state. So reliable that it's totally guaranteed for two years — picture tube, all parts, all labour.

Visit your nearest Sony dealer, see this new 18" portable with the slimmer, trimmer back and sharper, brighter front. The suggested retail price is $729.95.

How Does It Hurt? Let Me Tell You

Pain.

Even the word can make us wince.

For some of us are more sensitive to pain than others (I prefer this description to the more unkind "sissies" or "cry-babies"). It's true, as anybody who has read or watched aspirin commercials knows, that some people have lower pain thresholds than others.

We who suffer more easily have well-developed vocabularies to describe pain.

Ask some stoical clod what kind of headache he has and he'll likely reply, "Oh, just a headache."

But ask those to whom pain is a dreadful and fearful thing, and you'll get more vivid and precise answers.

"It feels as if little men are using jackhammers to break apart cement in my head, banging with picks and shovels against my ears."

OR "It's one of those headaches where a metal band, about two inches wide, is being tightened all around my head, and the screw is right in the middle of my forehead."

OR "There's a blazing, searing pain over my left eye, as if a red-hot poker was plunged in my brain."

Far more easily than pleasure, painful sensations can be divided into categories, and can be described in terms of quantify and quality.

Think of all the kinds of pain you've encountered. Sharp, dull, jabbing, throbbing, pinching, burning, aching, piercing ... not to mention shooting and gnawing pains.

To us sensitive types, a twinge is a spasm, a crick is a cramp, and what just hurts a dauntless hero will be for us stabbing or stinging or grinding or grating pain.
take two all in the fam.

There's a world of difference between something that's sore — a bruise, for example — and something that's excruciating — this is big-time pain, usually involving blood, with accompanying screams.

If you're cursed with low pain tolerance, a smarting little finger that's been caught in a door is enough to cause nausea and sleepless agony. Yet it may not produce more than a few minutes inconvenience to someone else.

Unfortunately, though we who are on intimate terms with pain can describe it, we cannot get rid of it by talking about it. Whether our anguish is physical, mental or emotional, there is no way pain can be shared unless the listener is also wounded.

As the (painful) cliche has it, "Smile and the world smiles with you, cry and you cry alone."

Nobody really wants to know how much it hurts. People you tell about pain will either interrupt with a story about their favorite gall bladder operation, or drift off into daydreaming as you talk.

Even doctors and dentists, once the cause of the pain is diagnosed, can get bored and annoyed by excessive complaining.

A stiff upper lip is still considered more admirable than clever or colorful griping. And that's a really painful truth to face.

NEXT WEEK: Some of the ways people deal with pain.

Books By And About Women

ONE WOMAN'S ARCTIC
by Sheila Burnford

Sheila Burnford went to live among the Eskimos of Baffin Island and this book is the record of her life among the villagers. A woman's view of places is often more human than a man's. She writes of little things as well as big: cooking, clothes, children. One feels at home with them even when they are "more than a little further" to quote the words of James Elroy Flecker's pilgrims: "We shall go always a little further.. For lust of knowing what should not be known, We take the Golden Road to Samarkand."

Mrs. Burnford tells of hunting expeditions, the cold beauty of the scenery, and of the whales, seals, and touchingly, the dogs who will run with bleeding feet and wagging tails and whose place in the hard Arctic world she had to come to terms with.

This book is available at the Corby Library.

Quinte Women

Evangeline Blaind, Boutique Owner

Some couples seem to fade into inactive old age after retirement. Not so Ken and Eve Blaind. They are growing more active and outgoing with every passing year, because of Mrs. Blaind's interests in handicrafts.

The Blainds have been owners of a boutique since 1969, when they bought an old school house on Highway 14 near Mountain View.

"I've always liked to paint and sew, and it seemed like a good idea to start a little shop," says Mrs. Blaind.

"We decided to use my full name, Evangeline, for the boutique. And then I painted a mural across the wooden front of the school of a scene I've always liked in Banff, Alberta. It makes people take notice. But I think there are still some people that think the place is run by hippies!"

Mrs. Blaind opens the shop in May, and spends much of the summer there.

"We really enjoy meeting people, and they come from all over," she says. "There's even a fellow from Australia who signed our guestbook."

During these months Mrs. Blaind does some oil painting while she stays at the schoolhouse. It's in the winter, however, that she does much of her work in preparation for the tourist season.

"I just like to keep busy," she explains. She makes quilts, doll blankets, pillows and candles, and fashions little novelty items such as furry mice that are especially popular with children. Entirely self-taught, she paints on canvas and glass, and also does pen and ink drawings.

"I fill my house with plants in the winter to get them started for the summer," she says, pointed to windows overflowing with ferns, spider-plants, philodendron and flowering impatiens. "I macrame these holders for hanging pots, and sell them with plants already growing nicely."

Although Mr. Blaind is not involved in the making of items for sale, he helps his wife at the schoolhouse, and putters with woodworking at the back of the shop.

"We aren't in it for the money," Mrs. Blaind says. "But it's a good way to keep on enjoying life, to meet people, and make new friends."

Quinte Women Needed

The series of profiles called "Quinte Women" is dependent upon reader response in order to accurately reflect the lives of women in this area.

Each profile deals with a woman whose life is particularly interesting because of her career, hobby, outlook, or family life.

If you know a woman — friend, mother, wife, sister or co-worker — who is happy doing what she does, and who does it well, send her name by mail or phone to the Women's Department, The Intelligencer.

Any age, any job, any kind of community involvement is suitable for the "Quinte Women" series. The profiles are not particularly concerned with women who are "breaking new ground in male territory". Although there have been articles about taxi-drivers, police officers and baseball players, there have also been volunteer workers, secretaries, cosmeticians and store clerks whose lives have been described Help out by looking around you for a suitable "Quinte Woman". It may even be you!

That Big If

I try to stick to a rule in my life about not wishing that circumstances had been different with different results, just because I think that kind of mental exercise is futile. But, if we could have changed outcomes through innitiative and foresight, then I believe the discussion can be fruitful. A case in point: If you want to sell or buy a house by the end of the school year, then you have to get working on it now. It's not difficult. Simply call Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St. or call 968-6475 and get on it. They'll get on it too. And there'll be no "If onlys" at your house — or at your new one.

Getting Away From It All

We working families have pretty tightly structured schedules for doing this and that it seems. But perhaps we should review when we're doing what, just as we should do periodic reviews of everything we do. For example, the weekend may not be the right time for that long-overdue husband and wife dinner at the Inn On the Bay in Picton; during the week might be just as well and perhaps, even better.. There will be the pleasant break aspect to the middle of the week; there are usually fewer people dining during the week so you can have the service and atmosphere of dining in a mansion a lot more to yourself. Think about it; do it. And I'm certain you'll enjoy it.

The Royal Purple of Amethyst

February's birthstone is the amethyst, a purple, semi-precious stone found in Brazil, India and the Ural Mountains of Russia. The ancient Egyptians believed that wearing amethysts protected them from the effects of strong drink. During the 18th century, amethysts were very popular at the French and English courts and traditionally have been used in episcopal rings. Settings in amethyst are available for both men and women. And where are you going to find appealing settings of such a lovely stone? At W. Wonnacott and Son Jewellers, 247 Front St. of course.

How To Do It Right

Mel Sherwood of the Tropical Garden Pet Shop, 301½ Front St. is going to spend the new few weeks of this column passing on some hints about starting and maintaining aquariums. The first hint he gives for the would-be aquarium enthusiasts, is to start with "live bearers". Live bearers are fish which give birth to their young. Fish such as Black Mollies, Red Velvet Swords, Sunset Variatus and Guppies are all live bearers and are amongst the hardiest breeds of tropical fish. Although a Black Molly theoreticaly can give birth every 21 days, it is usually every two months, says Mr. Sherwood (Whew!) Of course, your local tropical fish centre is the Tropical Garden Pet Shop, isn't it?

Another Big One

Superior T.V., 103 Cannifton Rd. is opening up so many new outlets in the area, one can hardly keep up. Next week (Feb. 27, a Thursday) Superior's new store in Napanee, at 266 Centre will be opening. This store will be serving the T.V. sales and servicing needs of southern Lennox and Addington and the Picton areas. And of course, there are "Opening Specials" including 12" Fleetwood black and white AC-DC T.V. at only $119.95. There will also be free coffee and donuts next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. So come on Napanee. Go down to Superior T.V. and get in on all the celebrations.

They've Moved

Well the staff of Vader's Car Sales, really did work hard last weekend, as I mentioned they would. And their parts department is now functioning from the new building on College St. The new phone number hadn't been connected at this writing so for that same great Vader service, dial the old number and one of Bell's Prides and Joys will help you out, I'm sure. Vader's also have all their new cars in one convenient inspection spot too. And there are more 74's at 74 prices too — Vader's are really pleased to offer you a great 74 Datsun at that great 74 Datsun price. You'll be pleased too when you buy one.

Last Chance

Wray's Home Furnishers' Carpet Bonanza is in its last week. And you had better get down there fast. Here's some of what you've been missing: heavy, nylon shag carpeting with its own foam backing, regularly priced at $9.95 a quare yard, now selling at $7.95 a square yd. It comes in seven colors too. Then there are the odd rolls of hard twist carpet. These rolls are discontinued colors but are top quality lines by such leading manufacturers as Kraus, Harding and Celanese. Regularly priced to $13.50 a square yard, these quality carpet rolls are now clearing at $7.88 a square yard. Now, need I say more?

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. John Lavigne

Lavigne — Loshaw

Westminster United Church was the setting for the February 1 wedding of Judith Roseanne Loshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Loshaw of RR 2, Frankford, and John Claude Joseph Lavigne, son of Yves and Lucie Lavigne of Quebec.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Mitchell.

The ceremony was perfather, the bride wore a gown of tiered imported Swiss chantilly lace over peau de soie, with a fitted bodice appliqued with sequins and seed pearls and long lily-point sleeves. The four-tiered veil of tulle was attached to a headpiece of lace and seed pearls, and her bouquet was red roses, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Maid of honor, Susan Evans, wore a red velvet gown with white lace trim. She carried a bouquet of white shasta daisies.

The bride's cousin Cathy Loshaw was attired in a gown of red velvet the same style as the maid of honor's. Her bouquet was also similar.

Bob Le Brun served as best man and Bernard Lavigne, the groom's brother, acted as usher.

A dinner in the church parlor followed the service.

The newly-married couple now live at 44 Alexander Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Michael Ray

Ray — Morrin

Rev. Laurie Sutherland performed the wedding of Nancy Elizabeth Morrin and Gary Michael Ray in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church February 1.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrin and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ray of RR4, Belleville.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a gown of imported German white velvet with an empire waist, princess waist and a scoop neck with a fanned-up wing collar. The long sleeves were puffed at the shoulder and tapered to a narrow wrist edged with lace. A full-length train of chantilly lace fell from a velvet bow at the waist. Her headpiece was fashioned of tiny handmade flowers, and held a waist-length lace-edged veil. She carried a white Bible, the same one her mother had carried at her wedding, covered with white velvet and red roses

Shelley Joynson was maid of honor in a jade green velvet gown with an empire waist, scoop neck with an insert of white lace, a stand-up mandarin collar, and long sleeves.

Suzanne Ray and Margaret Ray, the groom's sisters, were bridesmaids in gowns the same as the maid of honor's.

Allana Moore was junior bridesmaid in a similar gown but with short puffed sleeves and a lace-trimmed cummerbund. She carried a white fur muff.

The groom's brother, Allan Ray, was his best man. His ushers were the bride's brother David Morrin, and Steven Deaveau, and Andy Vanden Boogerd.

A dinner at the Four Seasons Hotel followed the wedding.

After a honeymoon in St. Petersburg, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Ray have settled in Belleville.

Kitchen Tip

MAKE BUTTERMILK

If a recipe calls for a cup of buttermilk, a substitute is a tablespoon of strained lemon juice or cider vinegar added to milk.

People and Events

STIRLING CWL

On Feb. 13, the monthly meeting of St. James the Minor Parish, Catholic Women's League in Stirling was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Doran. The meeting was preceded by Mass, celebrated by Rev. J. Manning.

Secretary Pat Meeks read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer, Mary Doran, read her report and several thank-you notes.

Plans were made for the catering of the barn sale at Hoard's Station on Feb. 24. The CWL will have their annual St. Patrick's Day Euchre on March 17 at the rectory hall in Frankford.

As this is centennial year for the Catholic Church, different ways of making money for repairs on the church were discussed. Alice O'Donnell reminded the ladies of the "World Day of Prayer", to be held March 7 at St. John's Anglican Church at 2 p.m.

Protect Your Children: Teach Them These Rules

Dear Readers: In spite of the best efforts of the local police and federal agents, national crime rose 16 per cent in 1974 over the previous year's record. This was the largest increase in six years.

It seems to me the worst tragedies are the crimes against children. Is there something parents can do to protect their youngsters from being the victims? I believe the best protection is to teach your children what to do and what not to do.

Today, I am printing "THE COMMANDMENTS FOR THE PROTECTION OF CHILDREN" by Samuel Roen, the author of "Murder of a Little Girl." I hope all parents who read this column will discuss it with their children tonight at dinner. It would be helpful, too, if teachers would clip this column and discuss it in the classroom.

My thanks to Samuel Roen of Orlando, Fla., for sending it on (and notice what the first letter of each rule spells out).

Practice the buddy system: There is safety in numbers. Children should be in the company of other children or adults at all times.

Rapport: Intimate rapport should be developed between parents and children of all ages. Also between parents and other parents.

Observant: Every child should be taught to be observant of everything—the unusual, the suspicious, the strange man at the schoolyard, or playground. The strange vehicle. Children should be taught to note descriptions of parents, vehicles, licence plates, and even to carry a pad and pencil so they can make accurate notes.

Teach home security: Make sure doors are kept locked at all times. No callers should be admitted when parents are absent. (The Boston Strangler gained admittance to 13 homes without force and murdered 13 women.) No information such as "My parents aren't home" should be given over the phone to unknowns. An excuse such as, "My father or mother cannot come to the phone" should end the conversation.

Effective physical actions: Every parent should instruct every child of the physical actions that can be taken in emergency situations.

Co-operate with the police: Police should be consulted immediately when any suspicious events occurs. No neighbor, relative or friend should be shielded. Obscene phone calls, and "offers" should be reported.

Travel precautions: Use well-lighted traffic areas. Keep car doors locked and windows closed. In case of emergency, try to reach a police station, or a busy or populated area. If this is not possible, remain in your locked car and hold down the horn until you attract attention and help.

Instruct about strangers: Warn your children never to accept a gift or a ride from strangers. And tell them never to allow a stranger to get close enough so they can be snatchd.

Order Schedule: Know where your children are going and ask them to phone you when they get there. If they decide to go on to another place make sure they phone you so you'll know where they are at all times.

No hitch-hiking: Too often tragedy rides with the child who hitches a ride. Make it a firm, unbreakable rule—No hitch-hiking.

Red Letter Days

There are red-letter days in our lives when we meet people who thrill us like a fine poem, people whose handshake is brimful of unspoken sympathy, and whose sweet, rich natures impart to our eager, impatient spirits a wonderful restfulness which in its essence, is divine.

Perhaps we never saw them before, and they may never cross our life's path again; but the influence of their calm, mellow natures is a libation poured upon our discontent, and we feel its healing touch, as the sea feels the mountain stream freshening its brine.

Helen Keller

Dear Doris: I am beginning to think my lawyer is swindling me. Three months ago the man who bought my farm gave the lawyer $40,000. The agreement was for a straight cash deal, no encumbrances, and my titles were perfectly clear. Four weeks later the lawyer called me to sign papers and release my titles to him. This I did. He would not give me the money but promised that everything would be surely arranged in two or three days.

I phoned him on the fourth day and he promised it in another week. Now he is still stalling, collecting the interest on the $40,000. My Credit Union would have paid about 10 percent on short term for three months.

I also lost out on the opportunity to buy a revenue house which would have permitted me to sell my own house in the small town where I now live. I had a lawyer but he said he couldn't wait so he went elsewhere. Buyers of houses in small towns who would pay cash are few and far between.

Worse yet, my income is now nil, my bank account almost dry and if I do not get my money soon, I shall be penniless. The town would certainly not give me welfare (as the mayor said). I will be forced to borrow at 13 percent for operating expenses. I was advised to hire another lawyer to sue the first. First of all I can't deposit the required fee and secondly how can I trust the new one when I can't trust the first? Both can get together against me and use up my $40,000.

What can I do about all this?

Injustice.

Dear Injustice: Immediately call your lawyer with the information that you must have the full amount of cash within 24 hours or you will report him to the law society of your province. If he still does not come through, contact the law society — and I am sending you the correct address for your area. Tell them the whole story.

If you need further legal help which you cannot afford, apply to your local legal aid office, where you can get help without charge.

Dear Doris: Thank you for the list of skits and games. I am enclosing the Ford Car skit and hope you can make use of it.

We found it hilarious — and I must say some of our senior citizens laughed until they cried. We have been asked to repeat it several times.

Mrs. M.O.

Dear Mrs. M.O: Thank you. The skit is delightful and we will be glad to have it prepared for circulation.

It calls for plenty of imagination and ought to be a challengt to the players. (Readers: ask for Ford Card Skit, enclosing 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

An orientation period of two or three days on campus will pre-

Pill Raises Stroke Risk

CHICAGO (Reuter) — Women who use oral contraceptives face a higher risk of a stroke than those who do not take the pill, says a report published Sunday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The report was prepared by an organization called the Collaborative Group for the Study of Stroke in Young Women and was based on interviews with several hundred women aged between 15 and 44.

The study found that women using oral contraceptives who also smoke, have high blood pressure or migraine headaches, face a significantly increased risk of a stroke.

But oral contraceptives alone, regardless of other risk factors, increased the risk of a stroke, the report said.

Among women the report said who should not use oral contraceptives were those with high blood pressure, those who have migraine headaches associated with visual disturbances or whose headaches are aggravated by use of the pill.

Alliance Wants More Day Care

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Daycare Reform Action Alliance said Monday that the Ontario government has rejected 50 per cent of the requests for financing day-care centres in the province.

Julie Mathien said at a news conference that the group wants a public statement acknowledging rejections and giving the reasons.

"What we need is increased subsidization of day care," Mrs. Mathien said.

The group criticized a report of the social service's minister advisory council on day care which said increases in child-staff ratios at centres would save the province money.

The government's concern should be day care, at any cost, for all children who need it, said Mrs. Mathien.

This Immigrant Child Lives in Two Worlds

TORONTO (CP) — It isn't easy being a recently-arrived child in Canada and trying to adjust to a new life both in and outside the home.

A 12-year-old boy in suburban Etobicoke says it's like living in two worlds

The boy, a Grade 6 student, recently wrote a letter outlining some of his feelings, fears and frustrations. The letter, printed below, was first read on the CBC radio show, Fresh Air.

The identity of the boy has been withheld.

I live in an Italian world at home and in a Canadian world at school. I even have two names. My mother and father call me Giuseppe, my teacher and school friends call me Joe.

Before my family came to Canada, we lived in a small village in Italy. The school there was very small—one teacher and one classroom We went to school from 8:30 till 12:30 and learned mostly reading, writing and arithmetic. The teacher was strict. Every day she gave us homework . . .. If we didn't do the homework, the teacher would go to our house and let our parents know—then we were punished.

The school I go to in Canada is different. There are many classrooms and many teachers and hundreds of boys and girls. We still learn reading, writing and arithmetic but we have many books, games we can play, paints, scissors, all kinds of colored paper and so on. . . .

My teacher is not as strict as my teacher in Italy was. We hardly ever get homework and sometimes we can even talk to each other and the teacher doesn't get angry. We have movies and television in our classroom and we do much more painting and many other things which I never did in Italy. School is more interesting but it sure causes problems.

My parents think school should be the same as it was in Italy. They don't seem to understand some of the things we do at school in Canada. They keep asking me about homework and when I tell them that the teacher didn't give me any, they just shake their heads. . . .

My mother still takes me to and from school. I told her I can go by myself, but it didn't do any good. Some of the boys are teasing me and calling me "sissy."

My parents are not my only problem. I wish my teacher was more understanding. Last year, when I arrived in Canada, I was sent twice a day to the Canadian classroom to learn English. Now I can speak and understand English fairly well but sometimes I don't understand my teacher and she thinks I should. English is very difficult. The same word in English can have many different meaning My teacher uses words I know but sometimes she uses them in a way I do not understand.

I wish my parents knew more about Canadian ferent meanings. My teacher knew more about how hard it is to learn English. In fact I wish they all knew more about me and my problems of two worlds.

Female Air Cadets Still 'Second Class'

WINNIPEG (CP) — The officers of 220 Red River Air Cadet Squadron are bucking the odds to accommodate girls into a male-oriented organization.

But the 32 girls in the 80-member squadron still find themselves getting the short end of the stick along with about 2,600 other female cadets across the country.

The department of national defence has yet to recognize the girls officially and until they receive such recognition, they can only be half cadets, says Lieut. Allison Slade, in charge of girls in the squadron.

"Girls aren't allowed to take flying, gliding instruction, be eligible for flying scholarships or travel in any department of national defence vehicle because they aren't insured."

What is even more distressing to the girls is that no provisions are made to supply them with uniforms.

However, the local unit overcame the problem by supplying each girl with material and they made their own uniforms.

The girls have shown their versatility by marching, drilling, shooting and even camping out in sub-zero temperatures.

"Last year, a first-year girl won the shooting trophy from the boys, which was quite a boost to the girls," said Lieut. Slade.

Traffic Research Finds That Dead Hold Key

OTTAWA (CP) — Keith Godfrey's seven-member team labors under a slight handicap in investigating traffic accidents.

"We have not yet had any success in contacting people who are dead," he told a recent national conference of RCMP traffic supervisors.

The Godfrey team works for British Columbia Research, a non-profit independent institute, analysing accidents and recommending appropriate safety measures to the federal transport ministry.

But it is difficult to come up with satisfactory results in investigating fatal car crashes, he said, because much of the key evidence dies with the victims.

However, Mr. Godfrey said, valuable information is frequently obtained from non-fatal accidents.

"When a guy runs head-on into a concrete wall and walks away without a scratch, we should find out why."

Although there were nearly 7,000 highway fatalities in Canada last year, he said, many Canadians do not regard it as a serious problem.

Rhodesians Are Great Gamblers

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — When it comes to gambling the Rhodesians—black and white—are hard to beat.

Millions change hands every year on everything from the turn of the dice at a local bar to the roulette wheels of the posh casinos in the northern tourist areas.

Typical of this free-wheeling approach to life is the project of the Rotary Club in Fort Victoria, where Lake Kyle, a giant irrigation project, is slowly being filled. It is expected to spill over the dam during the coming rainy season.

The Rotarians are holding a sweep on guesses as to the time and date the water will spill. It is reminiscent of the betting on the breakup of the ice in northern Canada

But this is just small change compared with some of the gambling. Each month the state lottery with a first prize of $80,000 is drawn, recently a ticket bearing the pseudonym Oh Canada won the big prize but officials said it wasn't won by a Canadian.

At the two casinos at Victoria Falls and Kariba the turnover is tremendous. "American" blackjack (unlike anything seen at Las Vegas), roulette, poker, chemin de fer and slot machines are always busy. The two casinos regularly hit the road to visit Salisbury and small towns for agricultural shows and charities.

Racing—both thoroughbred and trotting—is staged almost every Saturday and Sunday on the calendar.

Here the betting on totalizator or through legal bookmakers is almost endlessly varied. It ranges from straight win and place bets—down as far as fourth place—to predicting the winners of a series of races. Doubles and quinellas are just as popular.

At the trotting the betting is even more varied. Races see the field divided into four or five groups and the punters have to predict, in order, from which groups first and second will come.

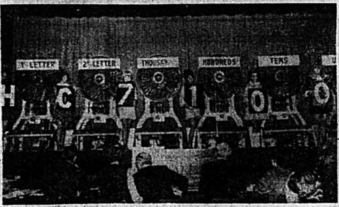
At race meetings there are often delays on the day's card while major races from South Africa are rebroadcast. On these races both the club totalisator and the bookmakers will accept bets up until race time.

Football pools are run during the winter on local soccer games and this form of betting is probably the most popular with Africans.

Newspapers regularly carry pictures of winners of four-figure sums for bets of as little as 10 cents.

Local sports clubs cash in on the gambling fever with regular party evenings where at least two or three crown-and-anchor boards are in operation. Most of the clubs restrict bets to a maximum of 50 cents but others allow bigger bets.

No bar is complete without its set of dice. Games range from the straight throwing to the exotic "Enkeldoorn poker" where each player has a set of dice and the bets double, starting at 25 cents. In just eight bets the stakes become $32 from every player still in the game.



Rhodesiasn Lottery

Girls hold up winning numbers for the Rhodesian state lottery. First prize in the monthly lottery is $80,000. When it comes to gambling, Rhodesians are hard to beat. They gamble in the local bar with dice, on the roulette wheel in the post casinos and lotteries. (CP Photo)

3,000-year-old Trench On Vancouver Island

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP) — Although it might once have been the foundation for a primitive palisade, the origins of a 3,000-year-old trench near this west Vancouver Island community remain a mystery.

The trench—boulder-filled, man-made, 15 yards long and with the ends turned at right angles—was unearthed during two summers of work by archeological diggers.

The site of the discovery is Shoemaker Bay, across Alberni Inlet from the city Excavation co-leader Denis St. Claire of Victoria said nothing like it has ever been found before and that it cannot be explained by the known history of the province.

"I've explained the find to lots of other archeologists and they cannot tell me what it is.

"My own hunch is that the trench may have served as the foundation for a long palisade but the find may continue to be an enigma unless someone else finds a similar construction."

Dates for the trench have been established by radioactive carbon dating and by the fact that Shoemaker Bay had been used as a temporary settlement for as much as 1,000 years prior to its construction.

The dig has also brought to light about 3,000 artifacts, which Mr. St. Claire said are similar to others found on the east coast of the island.

Mr. St. Claire, his partner Al McMillan of Douglas College near Vancouver, four college students and four members of the local Indian band undertook the dig, which represents the discovery of a major village.

"We can't say how big it really was because the site had been abandoned about 1,300 years ago," said Mr. St. Claire.

"We've got three house postholes exposed, each of them a metre across, indicating a dwelling of substantial proportions. They were plank construction. We believe we were excavating in one of the longhouses."

The site has also yielded bones of 24 different types of birds, remains of deer, whales, sea lions, seals and several types of fish skeletons.

Alberta Slaughters 30,000 Invading Rats

EDMONTON (CP) — Almost 30,000 invading Norway rats were wiped out along 380 miles of the boundary with Saskatchewan last year, allowing Alberta to remain rat-free for the 24th consecutive year.

The agriculture department's pest control branch, in a report, said 2,830 farms, grain elevators and other premises in an 18-mile-wide corridor between the Montana boundary and Cold Lake were checked for rat infestations during 1974.

"Confirmed rat infestations increased to 69 in 1974 from 36 in 1973 and these were more difficult to eliminate than had been the case in previous years," the report said.

Commercial bait proved the most effective control with about 8.3 tons of ready-mixed Warfarin bait and 1,300 packages of water bait used to destroy thousands of rats before they had a chance to become established in Alberta.

Federal Estimates Rise 28 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) Preliminary Federal spending plans totalling $28.242 billion were issued Wednesday for the new fiscal year beginning April 1.

That represents an increase of 28 per cent on the year-earlier figures of $22.023 million but Jean Chretien, treasury board president, said he hopes to maintain the rise to around 13 per cent including loans, investments and advances.

Federal spending rose about 24 per cent in the expiring fiscal year but Mr. Chretien said "our determination" is to stay within the spending level of $28.75 billion set by Finance Minister John Turner in his November budget despite the "inflation that has attacked the world."

The figures issued Wednesday are, as usual, preliminary ones supplemented by additions later in the year. The Commons Dec. 10, for example, approved the largest single supplementary estimates since the Second World War—$1.769 billion representing oil profits payments to Alberta and Saskatchewan, further beef and milk subsidies, Local Initiatives Program grants and other expenditures.

On that basis, spending in 1975-76 is forecast by finance department officials to be only 13 per cent higher than the $25.45 billion spent so far this fiscal year. That would still exceed the current annual rate of inflation of more than 12 per cent.

That calculation includes the fact that there has been a change in federal book-keeping for the payments to provinces. Because of that change, spending originally planned for the coming fiscal year has been done now—making the year-to-year increase look larger than it really will be. Officials said some provinces wanted their shared payments now, paring the spending rise to 13 per cent from 14½.

Mr. Chretien said the biggest single factor in the new spending program is $1.3 billion to continue to subsidize oil users east of the Ottawa Valley against the higher-priced imported fuel they must use.

Reaction by Commons opposition critics differed.

Walter Baker, acting Progressive Conservative House leader, said the year-to-year increase of 28 per cent mocks Finance Minister Turner's pledge of restraint.

But New Democratic spokesman Stanley Knowles suggested more spending might be necessary in view of current economic conditions.

The largest increase in spending is $831 million for health and welfare, up 12 per cent at $7.85 billion.

The largest percentage increase is 37 per cent for foreign affairs, up to $701 million.

The smallest increase is $29.3 million for education assistance. The total is up five per cent to $673 million.

The lowest percentage rise was only three-tenths of one per cent for payments to provinces. This change is lower because of the change in timing of federal payments. These payments are to provinces with lower-than-average income from various tax sources.

Spending on what is called internal overhead expenses is up 30 per cent to $1.15 billion. This category includes rent on various government offices and maintenance of Parliament buildings.

Spending on general government services, which includes such things as the House and Senate, RCMP and courts, is up 18 per cent to $1.44 billion.

The total for the House of Commons is $48.1 million, up 17 per cent, and for the Senate $8 million, up 21 per cent.

Spending increases and totals for the other major areas are:

—Defence, up 11.6 per cent to $2.8 billion.

—Transportation and communications, which includes marine operations, railway subsidies and the post office, up eight per cent to $2.08 billion.

—Economic development programs, which includes agriculture supports programs, natural resource development programs and a variety of industry aids such as export development, up seven per cent to $4.66 billion.

—Culture and recreation, which includes the CBC and parks, up 19 per cent to $690 million.

—Public debt, up 13 per cent, $3.58 billion.

Spending on postal services is up 23 per cent and for the CBC up 17 per cent.

The government's salary and wage bill is up 12.1 per cent to $5.11 billion. There is another $120 million set aside to cover pay rises in new contracts.

Manpower authorized by the estimates is up 3.3 per cent. Government workers, not including the forces, are projected to put in a total of 347,357 man-years in 1975-76. The total for the forces is 78,033.

There is an increase of 37 per cent for capital projects—building construction, land acquisition and purchases of machinery and equipment. The planned total is $1.42 billion.

The bill for a variety of professional services is up 18 per cent to $1.08 billion.

McClelland Demands Ouellet Quit

OTTAWA (CP) — Toronto book publisher Jack McClelland has renewed his demands on the federal government for Copyright Act amendments to give more protection to Canadian publishers.

Calling for the resignation of Andre Ouellet, minister of corporate affairs, Mr. McClelland said he will "launch a personal vendetta . . . to make sure another Liberal government doesn't get elected" if action is not taken soon.

In an interview, he said that present copyright laws allow United States and British publishers to flood the Canadian market with cheap editions of books written and originally published by Canadians.

A government source said Mr. Ouellet wants to hear from all sides on the issue before changing the law.

One example cited by Mr. McClelland involved The Barn, published by McClelland and Stewart Ltd. in hard cover at about $25.

He said a U.S. paperback edition could enter Canada under present law and sell here for $9.95.

Meighen Silent on New Conservative Leader

Progressive Conservative Party national president Michael Meighen refused to speculate Wednesday night who would become the party's national leader when Robert Stanfield steps down.

Rather, he confined himself to launching salvoes at the Liberal party — a sure fire speech for the Hastings Progressive Conservative Association annual meeting in Madoc.

Prior to the meeting, Mr. Meighen said he knew of a few party hopefuls and that he had some preferences but would not elaborate. He would only say a nomination convention would be held in either Ottawa or Winnipeg in November or February.

Mr. Meighen charged Prime Minister Trudeau is developing "a similar political perspective to that of former president Richard Nixon".

"Nixon tried to stonewall the entire American nation over the Watergate issue . . . Trudeau is trying to stonewall Canadians on a solution to inflation and recession."

"A man who can see nothing but enemies and scapegoats is a man who has abdicated his responsibility to provide strong executive government," Mr. Meighen said of the prime minister.

As important as the choice of a new leader, Mr. Meighen said a leadership convention will "make the public take a new look at a political party".

"Our next convention offers a golden opportunity . . . to present our party's leading personalities."

"It's a perfect chance to expose personalities and policies to a wide audience," he said.

With a federal election still four years away, the predicted early election in Ontario was a focal point of Mr. Meighen's speech.

He made strong and repeated bids to the crowd to support provincial candidates "as vigorously" as those provincial workers supported the federal candidate last summer.

Mr. Meighen, grandson of Arthur Meighen twice prime minister of Canada in the early 1920s, pledged moral and financial support to the provincial campaign.

Rollins Denies Foreign Labor To Be Used at Faraday Mine

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The world is on the verge of another uranium boom, predicts a mining official whose current assignment includes readying a Bancroft-area mine for participation in the demand.

Uranium is heading into a "seller's market," said Del Wilson, of Faraday mine.

Those were among messages heard Wednesday by Hastings County councillors as a sequel to the upcoming economic resurgence in their northern communities because of uranium.

Another — and blunter — message was delivered by Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings.

He publicly refuted that a large force of immigrant workers would be brought into the Bancroft-area community when uranium mining reopens in the district.

The mine, closed since 1962, was given a new lease on production, with federal government approval of an agreement by Faraday's owners to supply Italy with uranium.

Since the announcement, Mr. Rollins told county council, there had been local rumors that work operations would involve "150 to 200 personnel from another country."

"This is absolutely incorrent," Mr. Rollins said.

He said the mine expected to begin work with an initial 40 employees this spring when it receives the necessary provincial government operating licencing.

The workforce will be stepped up to 75 by the end of the year and will reach a maximum of up to 300 by the end of 1976.

Later, at a reception organized by Mr. Rollins, councillors had a chance to talk firsthand with a Mr. Wilson about the mine's resurrection as a major booster of the county's northern economy.

Mr. Wilson said "it is very hard to say" what the life of the mine will be.

"We have, we think six years ore reserves now — and we hope to find some more," he said.

The contract announced in Ottawa was between Federal Resources Corp., Canadian Consolidated Faraday and Italy's state energy agency, AGIP.

Mr. Wilson said the deal was for six years with a possible extension for another four years. For Faraday, he estimated, it will become an $8 million operation annually.

He told county councillors the company would take one to two years to become operative and was aiming for production start at the end of 1976. Already, the company had about 300 job applications.

He said he believes other ore bodies would be found in the area and said Imperial Oil and Kerr-Addison already have been exploring while other enterprises have been probing the district.

"We're on the verge of another uranium boom. No doubt about that," he told questioning councillors. "...It's a seller's market now. We can sell all we can produce."

Queried about pollution hazards to miners, Mr. Wilson said the conditions which had been blamed for causing silicosis in other uranium ventures, was estimated at 90 per cent less in the Faraday operation.

Cubs, Scouts, Beavers

This week is Scout Week and on Wednesday night a banquet was held at St. Thomas' Parish Hall for those in the scouting movement and their fathers. Representatives were there from all three scout groups. Starting with the newest group, the Beavers, Robert Elliston, bottom, looks up at the hat he'll get when he's invested. Holding the hat is Scout Larry Fort, in an older style Scout uniform. Looking on is Cub Deron Tett.

VON Asks County For $3,800 Grant

The Victorian Order of Nurses (VON) in the Quinte district has asked Hastings County to help with rising costs by a bigger grant to the community nursing group this year.

Facing a projected deficit of $16,300 on its 1975 operations, the VON is hoping for $3,800 from the county — up from the $2,000 received in the past, said VON president John Wilgett.

The request was among funding submissions to council Wednesday which indicate inflation has hit local-government community grants.

The aid is needed despite the fact the VON's projected loss is lower than the $19,000 deficit last year, when Hastings was asked for $4,000, said Valérie Truax, district director of the nursing service, today. The reduction is partly due a billing transfer of patients who are only able to pay part of the VON's fee of $9.60 per visit to other social agencies, she said. No request is being made to Belleville, since funds already are granted through the city's United Community Services, she said.

Other funding boosts (with 1974 grants in brackets) proposed in the report read by Reeve James Pollock, of Rawdon, chairman of the county's finance committee, included: Canadian National Institute for the Blind — $1,500, ($1,200); Tweed Salvation Army $500 ($400); Belleville Salvation Army $700 ($600); Highlands Tourist Association $2,000 ($1,800).

At the same time grants to rural-centre libraries remained unchanged, ranging from $250 to $160.

Council also heard written appeals for financial aid from the Victorian Order of Nurses, Trenton Memorial Hospital — which, although its day-to-day operations are funded by the provincial health ministry — depend on local support for equipment purchases and maintenance; the Land O'Lakes Tourist Council and the Bancroft Gemboree.

Hastings County Bypasses Home Improvement Grants

With little time to organize administrative details, Hastings County council will not apply for 1974 funds available under the Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP).

And because of the business burden it places on lightly-populated rural municipalities, the county government has been suggested as the over-all administrative processor of future OHRP applications and funds in its jurisdiction.

The program provides funds to municipalities to help owners refurbish their properties.

Hastings is entitled to $876,000 from OHRP but must have all its applications in before March 31, the end of the provincial fiscal year — just six weeks away.

The administrative work involved makes this an impossibility, said county administrator Carl Bateman. But, if work started now, submissions could be made for 1975 funds.

Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed said the prospects are "very exciting", but getting OHRP assistance also requires each municipality to pass a minimum standards bylaw for property upkeep. This would be the "biggest stumbling block" to be overcome she noted.

In fact, such an ordinance drafted in Belleville to meet the current OHRP deadline, already has triggered controversy, she said.

Local Mail Still Getting Through

Mail delivery in the Belleville area is being affected only slightly by the Toronto strike by post office mechanical members of the general and labor trades group of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC).

Postmaster Roy Wainwright said today the only mail being delayed is that which is incoming or outgoing from the city of Toronto where picket lines have stopped truck mail deliveries.

Mr. Wainwright said a bypass system has been started around Toronto. For example, trucks running from Belleville stop at Oshawa and the mail is transferred to other vehicles for delivery to London and distribution in southwestern Ontario.

Mail on the eastern routes is running as usual, he said.

The strike should not affect the Belleville post office, said Mr. Wainwright. There are no PSAC post office mechanics here, he added.

Councillors Approve $10 Per Diem Boost

Hastings County councillors are to receive more pay for their civic service.

Councillors will get a $10 raise on their present $30 daily remuneration scale. However, the increase is on a per diem rate — which means they are paid a flat $40 no matter how many meetings of council, boards or committees of which they are members they attend throughout a day.

Honorarium for the county warden will be raised to $8,000 from $6,000 although the appointee to the post—at present Reeve William McCrea, of Hungerford Township — will not be entitled to several remunerations now received for attending meetings of some special boards. The county warden also attends all meetings of council committees.

Stolen Vehicle Recovered

A stolen car was recovered less than an hour after being taken when a city police officer noticed a car being driven erratically on Dundas St. E. Wednesday night.

The car then hit a cement abutment in front of the No. 1. Firehall on Dundas St. E., the driver got out and ran between the firehall and Black's Wholesale. He was stopped by firefighter Jay Ross and held for Constable Merle Foster.

Investigation revealed that the car had been stolen from Front St. sometime between 7 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Charged with auto theft is Gary Wodiany, 19 of RR 3 Frankford.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance in the 24-hour period ending 8 a.m. today.

Wednesday, Feb. 19, 3:54 p.m. . . . . Belleville General Hospital, garbage incinerator set off sprinkler head, no damage.

Wednesday, Feb. 19, 10:08 p.m. . . . 231 William St., pot left on electric range, little damage.

Life-savers Honored by Red Cross

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT — The Bancroft branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society presented citations Tuesday night to five local residents who have shown great service to the north Hastings community.

Constable Stuart Begg, Bancroft provincial police detachment and water safety chairman for the local Red Cross branch, presented an award to Ted Wallis, of Spurr Beach Campgrounds, for prompt action in saving a young camper from drowning.

On July 13, 1974, Mr. Wallis retrieved the youngser from Spurr Lake, three miles south of here, applied artificial resuscitation and saved the girl's life.

A 15-year-old Bancroft boy, Marcel Davis, was also recognized by the local Red Cross for "his quick-thinking in offering a reaching aid to a near-drowning victim in the Yorke River" here.

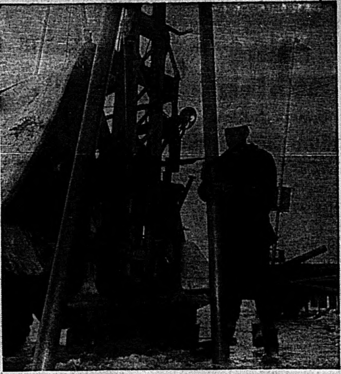
Marcel was swimming in the local pool portion of the river when he saw Marcel Paquette of Quebec, going under the water as he was trying to swim the river.

The Davis boy took an inner tube to Mr. Paquette and assisted him back to shore.

Also honored by the local Red Cross during its annual meeting Tuesday night, were three members who have given more than 25 years of service to the organization.

Mrs. Whitney Martin, involved with the blood donor service, Mrs. Cecil White, who operates the Red Cross loan cupboard, and Mrs. Jack Brown, organizer of women's work at the local Red Cross Hospital, received distinctive service certificates and pins for their volunteer work.

In presenting the wards to the women, past president of the branch Allan Bronson said if "it were not for the efforts of these women, there probably would not be a hospital in Bancroft now".



Winter Work -- for Summer

The setting is winter — but the objective is summer. On Belleville's ice-covered waterfront Floyd Taylor Wednesday was busy at work. These days he's drilling frozen surface for support piles which eventually will hold up docks — part of a landowner's private waterfront improvement project.

Judge: Troubled Teens Best Treated in Own Area

Troubled teen-agers if at all possible should remain in their own community for treatment when required, says Judge Robert J.K. Walmsley.

In discussing the needs of teen-agers coming before his local family and children's court, Judge Walmsley emphasized that these children should remain close to family and beneficial community contacts made in the past.

As much as possible, Judge Walmsley said, he likes to avoid placing an adolescent with problems in one of the provincial training centres which often results in the teenager losing many positive community contacts he might have. These positive contacts are imperative for any real rehabilitation, he stressed.

"The teen will ultimately come back to the community anyway, so perhaps we should be doing all we can to deal with him or her here," said Judge Walmsley.

In fact, he added, the presiding family court judge is bound under the legislation dealing with the juvenile offender to exhaust all local resources before referring the individual to a training school.

To keep the teen-ager in his community environment it is often necessary to refer the child to the Children's Aid society, Judge Walmsley said. They in turn can then place the child in one of their foster or group facilities and work with the juvenile, his parents, the school, and the community.

The problem, however, is that the CAS is currently having a great deal of difficulty in recruiting foster parents to care for these teens. As a result, extra pressure is being placed on the group homes operated by the society to cope with the influx of these teens.

The CAS now operates three teen-aged group homes, with a capacity for 15 teen-agers. At present, there are no vacancies in these three homes.

In fact says Larry MacDonald, head of the CAS child care department, the situation has reached a crisis point. One of the homes may have to close for a period of time because the current parents are leaving. This will mean that five beds urgently needed will no longer be available.

Those teenagers, living there now will have to be placed in a less satisfactory setting explained Mr. MacDonald. The CAS currently has only one private foster home available for teenagers.

The answer to this problem, Judge Walmsley noted, has to lie with the community. If we're going to meet the needs of our own teen-agers, he said, concerned individuals must come forward and get involved.

People interested in getting involved in any group home program should contact. Ian MacLean, the supervisor of residence programs for the Children's Aid Society at 962-9291.

County to Pay Tab For Juvenile Care

Costs of maintaining juveniles sent to private or group homes not aided by senior government subsidies, will be paid by Hastings County instead of its smaller, member local governments.

This was decided Wednesday when councillors adopted a suggestion of its finance committee dealing with new placement attitudes being taken by juvenile courts.

The dilemma has arisen from the fact the courts increasingly are turning away from government help institutions in dealing with problem youngsters. More personal settings for such cases are often preferred by the judges. But in such cases the cost of keep — when not ordered against parents — are billed against the juveniles municipality or the local Children's Aid Society.

This creates problems for local social program budgets. Since social services are county-operated the committee suggested the county be considered the designated municipality — if the court agrees, said the committee.

The issue was pursued by county administrator Carl Bateman after January's meeting of council. At that time, Bruce Kerr, director of the county's Family and Children's Services agency drew council's attention to the problem.

Blaze Guts Ompah Store

OMPAH — Fire gutted the Dunham family store in this hamlet five miles east of Ardoch Wednesday evening.

Three volunteer fire departments responded to the fire but could not bring the blaze under control. Arnold Harnden, owner of the store, had been living in a house built onto the rear of the building.

There were no injuries.

It is not known what the financial loss of the blaze will amount to or if insurance will cover any portion of the loss.

Top Men Meet

The annual meeting of the Hasting's Progressive Conservative Association (federal) in Madoc Wednesday brought together national president Michael Meighen, (centre). Hastings president Kel Kincaid and Hastings MP Jack Ellis. Mr. Meighen blasted the Liberal government and pledged federal support to the upcoming provincial campaign.

Sure Cure for the Blahs

If anything could shake a guy out of the blahs which seem to accompany February, it's an effort like the one turned in by Belleville Yardmen in Peterborough, Tuesday night.

Yardmen faced a tough chore in that series-deciding Ontario Minor Hockey Association midget - minor contest. And to their credit, they came through with the type of display which puts a team in any sport in a special category.

Perhaps I shouldn't admit it. But it has been a long time since I was so interested in the outcome of a game.

Man!

We win 4-0 on their ice.

Talk about rising to a challenge.

It's enough to make a fellow believe he can finally shrug off the 'flu or cold-bug or whatever has been gnawing away at him for the past three months or so.

So we have a win thrown out.

So we are ordered to play the deciding game on the other guy's ice.

So what!

Gordie Bell, Floyd Crawford, Bruce Hamilton, and the rest of you Yardmen . . . Do you mind a Johnny-come-lately climbing on the bandwagon?

Thank you men.

We appreciate your achievements.

If March does finally arrive and with it the promise of April and (gasp) May, I want you to know I am indebted to you.

What about the trip to Florida and the spring training camps?

Who needs it?

What am I saying?

SLICES — What's new with the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League?

I'm glad you asked and so is league secretary Donna Lucas who had the info to us before this but will forgive me for being tardy.

It looks to me if pitchers in the league have as much on the ball as the members of their executive, it should be quite a season for the BDLSL.

Ambitious plans this time around call for the league to engage in an interlocking schedule with clubs from Lakefield and Cobourg. Each BDLSL team will play a home and home series with the out-of-town squads.

And the Red Barn will be part of the action this year.

Red Barn's Shirley Werner attended the league's February 12 meeting and trophies, food vouchers and so on, compliments of her business establishment, will serve as added incentive for the players in 1975.

Well done, Mrs. Werner.

League openers are scheduled for May 19.

Chalk up two more wins for Oshawa Tony's.

Perking up on their New Zealand tour, Tony's blanked Whangarei 7-0 and routed a team called Counties 12-3, Wednesday.

Counties conceded after five innings.

Cubs Will Stress Solid Team Play

By JIM MARSHALL
Manager, Chicago Cubs

1975 . . . What factors will dictate where the Cubs will finish in the National League East race? What is going to influence this young team for better or worse? How can I, with the help of my coaches, the talent available and the 100 per cent support of the Chicago Cubs organization offer the Chicago fans the very best brand of baseball? These are questions that demand answers.

The Cubs want a winner! I want each player to need to win more than anything else. I want this need to be a motivating force. Each young man involved must use his talent; 100 percent effort and nothing short of that will help our team to improve as a unit. Individuals must pool their talent every minute for the strength and success of the team. The 1975 Cubs are going to be a team! Individuals are important to its good health but the team as a whole demands top priority.

The good thoughts I hold for the future are backed up with one of the [illegible] fields in the National League. The Cubs with Rick Monday, Jose Cardenal and Jerry Morales have good speed to go along with their experience. Young men such as Jimmy Tyrone, Vic Harris, Chris Ward, Peter LaCock and Gene Hiser are fortunate to have men of this calibre from which to learn.

An infield with a year's additional experience should provide a better defense . . . a defense that includes Don Kessinger, Bill Madlock, Andy Thornton and Manny Trillo, obtained in a winter trade. This infield will be strengthened by young men: Rod Sperring, Ron Dunn, Billy Grabarkewitz and Dave Roselle.

Catching will be exciting with a full year for Steve Swisher backed up by Dick Stelmaszek, George Mitterwald and recently drafted Tim Hosley.

Pitching is going to show a marked improvement with Marv Grissom helping our young staff. There are 18 major league pitchers coming to spring training camp, headed by veterans Rick Reuschel, Bill Bonham, Steve Stone and Burt Hooton. Joining these men will be Jim Todd, Ken Frailing, Tom Dettore and Ray Burris.

Donald Knowles, Bob Locker, Oscar Zamora and Dave LaRoche will form the nucleus for a more experienced bullpen with a look at Paul Reuschel who had 15 saves and a successful season at Wichita. We will also be evaluating the talent of Bruce Sutter, Buddy Schultz, Willie Prall, Herb Hutson and Jim Kremmel.

Yes, it is a long season and with all of my optimism it is going to take concentrated effort on the part of everyone to improve and maintain a good calibre of baseball. To a man, we want to improve our 66-69 record of last year. I have always been told that hard work never hurt anyone, only lack of it kills you. Therefore, attitudes and hardwork will determine many positions and the men who compose the team that breaks spring camp . . . the 1975 Chicago Cubs.

Ethier and Goodfellow Sign with McDonald's

General Manager of the Belleville McDonald's, Doug Adams, has announced the signing of his first two players. Bob Ethier and Paul Goodfellow are now officially members of the local Ontario Fastball League entry.

"I'm happy they decided to sign with us," said Adams, "they give us a basis from which to build a team."

Ethier, a Belleville product, has been pitching in the Quinte Fastball League for several years. Last season was about his best. Though his team, Howard and Robert Printing, didn't fare so well in league playoffs, he helped them to a fine showing in Ontario Amateur Softball Association playoffs.

In many of his team's playoff games the 28-year-old Ethier recorded over 20 strikeouts.

"Pitching will be the number one thing," said Goodfellow, "and Ethier is as good as any of them in this league."

A six-foot, 225 pounder, Ethier pitches left handed.

"That will give him an extra advantage over most of the players in this league," said Goodfellow, "there are very few good left-handed pitchers around."

The past few seasons Burlington, another team in the Ontario Fastball League, has been trying to secure the services of Ethier. The stalky hurler is also touted as one of the better hitting pitchers in the area.

Goodfellow doesn't exactly come unrated either. The 6-foot-2, 195 pound Belleville resident, has been playing in the Quinte Fastball League for eight years.

Most of those years he spent with Rollins Construction. The 25-year-old played mainly at shortstop and is considered one of the better defensive players at his position in the province.

"I'm not a real good hitter," said Goodfellow, "I think defence is my greatest asset."

Last season in the Quinte Fastball League he batted .301.

"I usually carry a .290-.300 average," he said.

Nevertheless Goodfellow's defensive prowess earned him the 1968 and the 1973 Quinte Fastball League's Most Valuable Player award.

With a player roster that begins with Ethier and Goodfellow, the Belleville McDonald's should be headed for big things.

OTTAWA (CP) — Shirley Keely's Kingston rink won a playoff for second place in the Ontario senior women's curling championship here Wednesday. Shirley Pilson of Chatham took the championship Tuesday with a 4-1 record.

Kingston defeated Ann Acton's Belleville team 8-2 in the first playoff game Wednesday and went on to down Penny Phillips of Thunder Bay 6-5 in an extra end.

Belleville, Kingston and Thunder Bay were tied for second spot at the end of regular play Tuesday with identical 3-2 win-loss records.

The playoff was to designate a replacement for Chatham in the event that the champion Pilson rink is unable to travel to Swift Current, Sask., for the national championship bonspiel next month.

Weightlifters Up in Air

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Weightlifters are playing a waiting game at the Canada Winter Games.

Nine muscular young men from Newfoundland, British Columbia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario won medals in the weightlifting competition Wednesday but may not get to keep them.

It all hinges on the outcome of backroom meetings of officials trying to decide whether terms of qualification for the 1975 Games will be changed or not.

The original rules said each province or territory would be limited to one contestant in each of nine weight classes, or if a team put more than one lifter into a class it would have to drop one from another bracket.

In addition, if two lifters from a province or territory competed in the same class, both could earn medals but the performance of only one would be counted in team points.

When the weightlifters went to Bow Island in southeastern Alberta, where the competition was to be held, they decided they didn't like the rules. Their federation argued with Games officials until midnight Tuesday without resolving their differences. And they were back at it Wednesday night.

The weightlifters, after talking about withdrawing from the Games, decided to go ahead with their competition. Champions were declared in three classes and medals were formally presented.

But as far as Games officials were concerned, the results remained unofficial as long as the deadlock continued. The possibility remained that, if the weightlifting were washed out, they might ask that the medals be returned.

Mario Lapointe of Green River, N.B., won the flyweight gold medal with Guy Greavette of New Westminster, B.C., second and Zygmunt Grzelewski of Thunder Bay, Ont., third.

In the bantamweight division, Raymond Lapierre of Ste. Helene, Que., was the winner with Earl Farrel of Vancouver and Robert Hussey of St. John's, Nfld., third.

And in the featherweight class, held Wednesday although not scheduled until today, Michel Mercier of Quebec City was the winner with Robert Rudek of Vancouver second and Raymond Derouin of Joliette, Que., third.

Meanwhile, official gold medals were being awarded in judo and figure skating as those sports went on without any hassle.

Pierre Hebert of Candiac, Ont., won the 147-pound judo competition with Darryl Dong of Vancouver second and David Carter of Halifax third.

Bernard Cyr of Montreal took the 165-pound title, Gary Sova of Winnipeg winning the silver and Andy Nadolny of Brampton, Ont., the bronze.

In volleyball, Manitoba men finished first in Division A and British Columbia wound up on top in Division B, both with 5-0 records. In semi-finals Manitoba meets Ontario and B.C. plays Quebec, with the survivors playing in the final Friday night.

Alberta and Manitoba are undefeated with 3-0 records in the women's volleyball Division A and B.C. has a 3-0 record in Division B.

Table tennis, played in a single division, has four teams undefeated with 3-0 records—Alberta, B.C., Quebec and Ontario.

The figure skating, in which Ontario and B.C., the two hotbeds of the sport, are expected to dominate, went as expected.

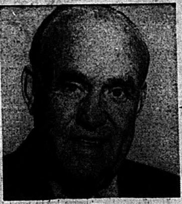
Brian Orser, a slender 13-year-old from Penetanguishene, Ont., who skates out of the Midland Skating Club, turned in an acrobatic 2½-minute free-skating performance to win the gold medal in the men's division.

Second was Neil Giroday of Powell River, B.C., and third Ghyslain Briand, 12, of Ville St. Laurent, Que.

Favored Martine Vigouret, 14, and her 12-years-old partner Kerry Spong, both of Vancouver, won the B dance gold. Second were Tammy Josephson, 9, of Brandon, Man., and Steven Villard, 13, of Shilo, Man., and third Monique Leblanc, 14, and Normand Godin, also 14, of Laprairie, Que.

Unlike major figure skating competitions elsewhere, athletes at the Winter Games have no compulsory figures to contend with. The men's competition, which attracted 27 skaters, was a brief one-shot free-skating exhibition.

The skaters are in the prenovice class and, with only one chance to show what they can do, many were understandably nervous. Tumbles were common. But what some lacked in style they made up in enthusiasm, notably Andre Bourgeois of Moncton, N.B., who fairly oozed personality.



King Clancy

Eyes Will Be Smiling, It'll Be Some Night

TORONTO (CP) — They're having a King Clancy Night at Maple Leaf Gardens on March 17—exactly 41 years after they held the first King Clancy Night at the Gardens—March 17, 1934.

And it could only happen on St. Patrick's Day for the 71-Francis Michael Clancy in Ottawa where he was born Feb. 25, 1903.

Guests of honor at the dinner will be surviving members of the 1931-32 Leaf team that won the Stanley Cup the year the Gardens opened during the heighth of the Depression.

Conn Smythe, who built the Gardens and was president and manager of the National Hockey League team and former executive Frank Selke, who later went on to head the Montreal Canadiens' dynasty, will be among the honored guests.

So will the entire defensive corps of that championship team-Hap Day, Alex Levinsky, Red Horner, Fred Robertson and the King himself, and Joe Primeau, the lone survivor of the Kid Line that included Charlie Conacher and Harvey (Busher) Jackson.

Other members of the team attending will be Ace Bailey, Harold Cotton, Frank Finnigan and Harold Darragh.

"The only one we haven't been able to contact is Andy (Blair)," said Spiff Evans, who is handling the dinner arrangements. "I understand he's either working or retired now in Vancouver. But we're hoping to get in touch with him shortly."

ROYALS SIGN FIVE

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Five more players, including first-baseman John Mayberry, have signed their 1975 American League baseball contracts with Kansas City Royals. Also signed were outfielder Al Cowens, infielder Jamie Quirk and pitchers Al Autry and Norm Angelini, leaving six on the 35-player roster unsigned.

MacDonald Holds Key

CALGARY (CP) — Three rounds remain in the Canadian senior men's curling championship and the key to victory rests in the hands of 1971 champion Wendell MacDonald of Charlottetown.

The 66-year-old Prince Edward Island skip and his 64-year-old vice-skip, John Squarebriggs, have more national curling championship experience between them than the other 46 players in the 1975 championship.

And that experience has paid off to give P.E.I. a 6-2 record Wednesday after 10 rounds. Saskatchewan and New Brunswick share 6-3 records.

MacDonald has appeared in 10 national seniors championships and three Briers while Squarebriggs has played in nine senior and five Brier competitions.

Al Charuk, a wide receiver, defensive back and kicker who was named the outstanding Canadian college player last year when he played with Acadia University, was the second pick, by Toronto Argonauts.

Drapeau: 'No Crisis'

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Jean Drapeau, the bouncy mayor of Montreal, went into action today to pump confidence back into the shaky 1976 Olympic Games.

"There is no crisis over the Games," he told reporters as he prepared to face the executive committee of the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

"The games will pay for themselves. We would not accept financial help from the federal government even if it were offered. We don't need it."

Nevertheless, the stage appeared set for a stormy question-and-answer session behind the closed doors of the Chateau de Vidy, IOC headquarters. The IOC executive committee, headed by president Lord Killanin, was certain to ask: "Who got their arithmetic wrong?"

Bombers Draft 10

TORONTO (CP) — Some, such as Winnipeg Blue Bombers, took all they could get, while others, such as Montreal Alouettes, found slim pickings at the Canadian Football League's draft of college players Wednesday.

The Bombers picked first and didn't stop until they had chosen 10 players in the eight-round draft while Montreal drafted only two players.

Winnipeg, as expected, made offensive tackle Steve Scully from Kitchener, Ont., via the University of Syracuse the first pick in the draft which saw a total of 66 players named by the nine CFL clubs.

DAVE SCHULTZ

Schultz Wows 'Em In the U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Schultz, chief bully boy of Philadelphia Flyers, has been warned by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell that future misconduct penalties will cost him suspensions in arithmetical progression—two games for the next one, three games for the one after that, and so on.

The Flyers probably could survive without Schultz, who has scored just five goals this season. The question is, could the league's United States television contract?

The NHL hasn't exactly been a hit on televison in the U.S. and rumors keep surfacing that hockey on the NBC network will be dropped after this season and replaced by the American Basketball Association.

One of TV's axioms is that hockey ratings in the U.S. go up when the players' gloves go down—and no NHL team fights more than Schultz's Flyers. Hence, Philadelphia is scheduled for four of the 10 weeks that the NBC-TV pairings have been set.

By its very nature, hockey is a violent sport; no one in the game would deny that. But the violence of the past has always developed spontaneously. Now, it often does not seem to do that.

Schultz' most recent ice battle came, as have many of his others, with U.S. television following every move.

Schultz absorbed a stiff check from Boston's Terry O'Reilly which earned the Bruin forward a two-minute charging penalty.

O'Reilly went to the penalty box and was hardly settled down when he found himself looking at the business end of Schultz's stick, which was being waved uncomfortably close to his nose.

O'Reilly responded by falling backwards, skates and blades shooting up. Schultz threw his gloves at O'Reilly and had to be restrained from following him into the Bruin penalty box.

New Red Wing Produces

McKechnie's Goal Sinks Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Walt McKechnie was out of shape, had joined the Red Wings less than three hours before game time and had to borrow a pair of skates. But he still made an auspicious Detroit debut Wednesday night.

McKechnie, joining the Red Wings after a trade from Boston Bruins, scored the winning goal in Detroit's 4-3 upset over Philadelphia Flyers, defending Stanley Cup champions.

It was only the fourth goal of the National Hockey League season for the Wings' new centre but he picked the right time for it, beating Flyers goalie Bernie Parent on a power play midway in the final period to break a 3-3 tie.

In other games, Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers tied 2-2, Atlanta Flames beat Minnesota North Stars 4-2, Toronto Maple Leafs tied California Seals 3-3 and Los Angeles Kings and Pittsburgh Penguins tied 2-2.

McKechnie, a 27-year-old London, Ont., native, played the last three seasons with California and went to Boston last summer in a three-way deal involving the Rangers. New York claimed him in the intra-league draft and then traded him to the Bruins for Derek Sanderson.

Arriving at Detroit after the trade that sent rookies Hank Nowak and Earl Anderson to the Bruins, he promptly bailed the Red Wings out of a three-game losing streak.

After the game, in which McKechnie also earned an assist, he passed out cigars in the Detroit dressing room and recalled how he had seen little action in Boston, earning only three goals and three assists.

"It's hard to just step in when you're not in shape because you haven't been playing," said McKechnie who last year finished his best NHL season with 23 goals and 29 assists.

Flyers captain Bobby Clarke set up the Detroit victory when he was called for high sticking, thus wiping out a goal by teammate Reggie Leach and providing the Wings with a power play.

Dennis Hull's unassisted goal early in the third period gave Chicago the tie at New York.

RALLY TOO LATE

Minnesota outshot Atlanta 17-3 in the final period and got goals by Lou Nanne and Bill Goldsworthy but it was too late to overcome the 4-0 lead the Flames had built on goals by Bob Murray, Tom Lysiak, Rey Comeau and Larry Romanchych.

Dan Maloney's powerplay goal with only a minute and five seconds remaining gave Los Angeles the tie against Pittsburgh after Kings goalie Rogie Vachon made 31 saves while Los Angeles had only 21 shots in the game.

Inge Hammarstrom scored early in the third period to complete Toronto's three-goal comeback against the Seals.

Toronto lost starting goaltender Doug Favell at 1:19 of the third period when he was smashed against his goal crossbar in a collision with California's Butch Williams. Favell was carried off on a stretcher and taken to hospital for x-rays and observation while Gord McRae took over in goal.

Quebec's Luck Runs Out

Houston Turns the Tables

By THE CANADIAN PRESS.

Quebec Nordiques' luck appears to have run out against Houston Aeros.

Two weeks ago, the Nordiques posted a 4-3 win over the Aeros, their third win in as many World Hockey Association games against Houston this season.

After that victory, Aeros coach Bill Dineen said the Nordiques were often winning by scoring lucky goals. "They seem to get those kind," said Dineen.

But Houston turned the tables at Quebec on Monday, winning 5-3, and then again whipped the Nordiques 10-4 Wednesday night in Houston.

In other WHA games Wednesday, Minnesota Fighting Saints beat Cleveland Crusaders 5-3 and Winnipeg Jets defeated Edmonton Oilers 4-1.

Mark Tardif scored three goals for Quebec but the effort was wasted against the Aeros who got two goals each from Mark Howe, Terry Ruskowski, Ted Taylor and Larry Lund.

The Aeros scored four of their goals on power plays as they extended their West Division lead to 12 points over second-place Phoenix.

Nordiques goalie Richard Brodeur was injured in the second period and taken to hospital for treatment. Doctors said his condition was good. Serge Aubry took over in the Quebec nets.

Russ Walker started the scoring for the Crusaders just five seconds into the game at Cleveland to set a league record for the fastest goal from the start of a game.

After the first period's fast action, the Crusaders slowed down and Minnesota took over. Six goals were scored in the first period, which was marred by a fight and took 50 minutes to play.

After George Morrison scored for Minnesota, Tom Edur and Jim Harrison scored to give Cleveland a two-goal margin. The Fighting Saints came back with goals by John Arbour, Mike Walton, Danny O'Shea and Wayne Connelly.

Minnesota's Jack Carlson and Cleveland's Russ Walker mixed it up in the first period, and in the second period a fight erupted in the stands after a fan poured beer on the head of Minnesota coach Harry Neale.

Minnesota players charged into the stands, but the fan escaped.

There were a total of 21 penalties in the wild affair, with the officials handing out 86 minutes in penalty time.

Among those hit by penalty calls was Cleveland goalie Gerry Cheevers, who left his nets during the first-period brawl to try to pull Carlson off Walker.

Winnipeg further revived its playoff hopes with its fifth win in a row to pull within two points of fourth-place Vancouver in the Canadian Division and within three points of third-place Edmonton.

Danny Spring, Thommie Bergman, Howie Young and Anders Hedberg scored for the Jets after Eddie Joyal had opened the scoring for Edmonton.

IN MEMORIAM

TAYLOR — In loving memory of a dear husband Walter Taylor who passed away very suddenly one year ago Feb. 20, 1974.

It is sad to walk the road alone,
Instead of side by side,
But to all there comes a moment,
When the ways of life divide.
Sometimes it's hard to understand,
Why somethings have to be.
In His wisdom God has planned,
Beyond our power o see.

—Sadly missed, ever loved by wife Audrey.

TAYLOR — In loving memory of a dear father, Walter Taylor who passed away very suddenly one year ago Feb. 20, 1974.

Dad is such a special word,
A word that brings to mind,
A big warm smile, a helping hand,
A way of being kind.
Devotion to his family,
A word of patience too,
Dad is such a special word,
Because it stands for you.

—Sadly missed, forever loved by son Roger, daughter Louise, son-in-law Allan.

BARTLETT — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Floyd Bartlett who passed away Feb. 20th, 1971.

Every hour we dearly miss him,
Sadly do we feel his loss,
Lonely is our home without him,
Help us Lord to bear the cross.

—Lovingly remembered by wife Helena, Marie and Gordon, Phyllis and Doug and families.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Charlotte DeGenova would like to express their sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness, floral tributes and Mass cards received from their kind friends, neighbors and relatives. Thanks also to the priests, Monsignors Sullivan and Carley, Father Gazeley, Father George and Fransiscan missionary, Father Julian for their comforting words. Thanks to the sisters from Nicholson's College and Georges Vanier School, also thanks to the hospital staff on the 7th floor for heir kindness. To Dr. John Stock our appreciation for his special care. To the staff of O'Brien - Steele Funeral Home for their thoughtfulness and kindness.

TAKE THE RISK OUT OF BUYING A COLOR TV
RENT FROM CIRCLE TV

With option to buy and full rental rebate. Are you worried about getting a "lemon" in a TV? Well relax! Circle TV will rent you a brand new 1975 Electrohome TV for a reasonable period. If at the end of that time you are happy with the set, as we know you will be, then the rental charge will be applied against the purchase price. Or, if you wish, you can continue to rent the set. If you are not satisfied though, we will take the TV back with no further obligation on your part. Do you know a better way to take the risk out of buying a TV?

Your Horoscope

Friday, February 21

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions are generally to your liking most of the day. Outside interests will go smoothly, but things get a trifle bumpy at home this p.m.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Roadblocks will be suddenly lifted. It should brighten your spirits, but the glow will dim because of another worry.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Influences having an effect upon your resources and earnings are especially promising today. Be alert for unusual opportunities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something you're very interested in personally will get a boost in a manner that never occured to you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're very effective now if you remain the power behind the throne Pull the strings. Let others front for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) Good news will revive your hopes and inspire you to move upward with renewed vigor. Quick action is called for.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The next couple days can be times of real achievement where goals are concerned. Things will move swiftly. Hang in there SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll gain from the same situation where others have come up losers. Trust yourself. Do things your way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You tend to gain now from a situation not entirely of your own making. However, you'll share in benefits that pop up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It will be easy for you to get co-operation from others today so don't wait. Tomorrow will be another story.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Work or service you render efficiently now will result in several unexpected bonuses. Put out the best that's in you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will be making a fascinating new contact. This person will play a big role in your future as a most helpful ally.

To Your Good Health

Take No Medicine Without Reason

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I suspect that my young daughter has pinworms. I am not certain. How can I confirm this? If I can't, can I give her the medicine anyway?—Mrs. M.D.K.

No. Don't use medicine—any medicine—without good reason. Medication for pinworms can be a bit harsh, and you wouldn't want to subject your little girl to it unless it is necessary.

There are three ways to detect pinworms. You can do one of them yourself. The other two require a doctor's help.

Inspect the anal area at night after your daughter has been sleeping a while. This is when the mature pinworm emerges to lay eggs. Use a flashlight, and you may see the tiny white thread-like worm around the anus.

Another method is to blot the anal area with the sticky side of transparent tape. This should be taken to the doctor for microscopic examination, which would show any eggs.

A third method is to take a stool sample which also would reveal presence of eggs.

If your daughter has pinworms the chances are better than even that other members of the family, particularly the children, also have it, and you will be in for a period of medication and boiling of clothes before the problem is under control.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've been told I have a sliding hiatal hernia. That word "sliding" has me stumped. What is it, and what is the danger? Is this condition operable?—Mrs. L. J.D.

The diaphragm has a snug opening large enough to allow the gullet to pass through to its connection with the stomach. When this opening becomes enlarged a portion of the stomach may protrude up into the chest cavity—a hiatral hernia. The opening is called a hiatus, hence the name.

A sliding hiatal hernia means that the bit of protruding stomach sups in and out of the opening, often depending upon whether the person is standing or lying down.

These hernias may cause distress at night but produce no symptoms during the day when we are up and about. The night-time distress can be remedied by raising the head of the bed slightly to provide gravity.

The sliding hernia can be lived with, much as any hiatal hernia. The thing to watch for is persistent pain over long periods or any bleeding. The latter would be a symptom that the hernia has ulcerated.

Generally speaking, hiatal hernia can be treated conservatively and surgery is seldom required.

Radioactive Wastes Converted into Glass

WINDSCALE, England (CP) — A large development program for the storage of radioactive waste in the form of glass now is under way at the Windscale plant of British Nuclear Fuels Ltd. The Windscale factory is the company's main unit for manufacturing nuclear fuel and for reprocessing it after irradiation in reactors to recover useable fuel.

At present radioactive wastes from reprocessing are stored as concentrated liquids in concrete tanks lined with stainless steel on the Windscale site. Wastes from 2,900 tons of magnox fuel, the equivalent of 28 million tons of coal, are concentrated into the volume of one tank of more than 130 cubic yards.

Wastes from reactors now working and planned would require about 10 such tanks by 1985, covering a wide area. And some of the radio-activity from wastes will take 600 to 800 years to die.

The point of storing fission wastes as glass is to convert them into an insoluble form. They would be easier to handle and their storage would be even more fool-proof. The glass will be contained in stainless steel cylinders submerged in ponds.

The student put his ace of hearts on dummy's queen and led back a heart. South won in dummy and led the jack of trumps. The student covered with his kind and West had to waste his ace ace on his partner's trick. After that it was a simple matter for South to pick up the 10 of trumps and make his impossible contract.

"How will I ever learn when to cover an honor with an honor and when not to?" asked the student.

"Probably never," replied the Professor. "I still go wrong on occasion. However, this is one time when you should have played low. Let's look at the possibilities. If South held six trumps to the ace-queen the cover was correct. But with trump, not the jack, from dummy. He would want to play you for a singleton king or king-small.

"Thus, in this one situation the jack play would indicate either the exact holding or five to the ace in the South hand and a singleton queen in the West hand. Your cover could only cost you a trick. Never save you one."

Monkey Shines

YUGAWARA, Japan (AP) — A score of monkeys took up panhandling along an expressway after they were let go after a private zoo was forced to close because of inflation and higher feed prices, a city official said. "Drivers stop when they see the well-mannered monkeys out begging and give them candy," Minoru Ozawa said.
